HANDS CRACKED AND BLED

St. Clair, Mo.—"My trouble began about fifteen years ago. It was what some claimed eczema. The form the disease worked under was a breaking out with watery blisters on my hands which would then dry and scale, and then would follow the trouble of cracking and bleeding, also itching and hurting. My hands were disfigured at the time, and sore. The trouble was very annoying, and disturbed my sleep. This last February it was ever so much worse than before. I did not do all my work on account of the condition of my hands. I could not put them in water without making them worse. I tried a lot of home remedies, also salves and liniments that claimed to be a cure for the trouble, but I did not obtain a cure.

"At last I saw the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a sample. I thought they would cure, so I sent for a fifty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and some Cuticura Soap. A doctor advised me to keep ahead with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they cured me completely. No trace of the trouble remains." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Taylor, Mar. 29, 1912.

Up-to-Date Finance.

Thomas W. Lawson said the other day of a scandalous financial deal.

"These people traded on popular ignorance. They were like Calhoun Clay, who opened a bank in Nola Chucky.

"All the colored people around Nola Chucky deposited their savings in Calhoun's bank, and Cal soon began to wear, instead of cowhide boots and jeans, patent leathers and broadcloth.

"Then, one day, Wash White called at the bank and said:

"'I'd like for to draw out my money, sah.'

"'Your money?' said the banker, lighting a ten-cent cigar.

"'Yes, sah; my $10.'

"'Your $10.'

"'Yes, my $10 what I 'posited last summer.'

"'Why, man alive!' shouted Banker Calhound Clay angrily, 'don't you know the interest done et that up three morths ago?'"

There was a miner's picnic at Butte on Sunday. One of the features was a tug-of-war between a team of Irish miners and a team of Slovaks.

The Slovaks were winning and the Irishmen dropped the rope and began to fight. It was a good fight. One brawny Irishman had an opponent down and was pounding him at his leisure, when a friend come along.

"Gimme a belt at him," said the friend.

"Gwan," replied the other; "go and get one for yourself."

When the Sun Will Die.

It may be said unqualifiedly that the sun, like every other thing connected with the present order, will finally cease to be what it is today. The time will most surely come when the sun will have ceased to throw off light and heat. Long before that happens, however, the earth and other planets will have become "dead worlds" like the moon—no life of any sort upon them. It has been calculated that the sun will cease to throw out its heat somewhere about seven million of years from now.

GOOD NATURED AGAIN

Good Humor Returns With Change to Proper Food.

"For many years I was a constant sufferer from indigestion and nervousness, amounting almost to prostration," writes a Montana man.

"My blood was impoverished, the vision was blurred and weak, with moving spots before my eyes. This was a steady daily condition. I grew ill-tempered, and eventually got so nervous I could not keep my books posted, nor handle accounts satisfactorily. I can't describe my sufferings.

"Nothing I ate agreed with me, till one day I happened to notice Grape-Nuts in a grocery store, and bought a package out of curiosity to know what it was.

"I liked the food from the very first, eating it with cream, and now I buy it by the case and use it daily. I soon found that Grape-Nuts food was supplying brain and nerve force as nothing in the drug line ever had done or could do.

"It wasn't long before I was restored to health, comfort and happiness.

"Through the use of Grape-Nuts food my digestion has been restored, my nerves are steady once more, my eyesight is good again, my mental faculties are clear and acute, and I have become so good-natured that my friends are truly astonished at the change. I feel younger and better than I have for 20 years. No amount of money would induce me to surrender what I have gained through the use of Grape-Nuts food." EX-PRES. MADERO AND JOSE SUAREZ ARE ASSASSINATED

MYSTERY SURROUNDS SHOOTING OF FORMER HEADS OF MEXICAN REPUBLIC AT MIDNIGHT.

HURETA SAYS ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO ESCAPE

Official Inquiry Ordered and Guilty Persons Will Be Punished—Diplomats Are Shocked by Fearful Tragedy.

PRESIDENT MADERO

Mexico City, Feb. 25.—Francisco I. Madero and Jose Pino Suarez are dead. In a midnight ride under guard from the national palace to the penitentiary they were killed.

Accounts Do Not Conform.

The circumstances surrounding the death of the deposed president and vice president of the republic are unknown, except as given in official accounts which do not conform in all cases. The only witnesses were those actually concerned in the killing.

The provisional president, General Victoriano Huerta, says the killing of the two men was incidental to a fight between their guard and a party attempting to liberate them. The minister of foreign relations, Francisco de la Barra, adds that the prisoners attempted to escape. Neither makes a definite statement as to which side fired the fatal shots. It is not impossible that neither knows.

An official investigation has been ordered to determine the responsibility, and solemn promises have been made that the guilty will be punished.

"Ley Fuga," Possibly.

Not unnaturally a great part of the public regards the official versions with doubt, having in mind the use for centuries of the notorious "Ley fuga," the unwritten law which is invoked when the death of a prisoner is desired. After its application there is written on the records, "Prisoner shot trying to escape."

Senora Madero, widow of the ex-president, received the first definite information of his death from the Spanish minister, Senor Cologany Cologan. She already had heard reports that something serious had happened, but friends had endeavored up to that time to prevent her from learning the truth.

Soon afterward, accompanied by her brother, Jose Perez, and Mercedes Madero, a sister of Francisco, Senora Madero drove, to the penitentiary, but was refused permission to see the body of her husband. Senora Suarez also was denied admittance to the mortuary with physicians who, in accordance with the law, were performing an autopsy.

Hurls Accusations at Officers.

In contrast to the widow, whose grief was of pitiable silent character, expressed in sobs, Mercedes Madero, a beautiful young woman, educated in Paris, who has been a brilliant leader of society since the revolution of 1910, was dry-eyed and tigerish in her emotions. By the side of the two women whose husbands had been killed the girl hurled accusations at the officers who barred the entrance.

Wilson Telegraphs Washington.

Washington. — Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson telegraphed to the state department last night that Francisco de la Barra, minister for foreign affairs, had invited all foreign diplomats in Mexico City to take lunch with him.

The ambassador stated that none of the diplomats would attend the luncheon unless the tragic death of former President Madero and former Vice President Suarez is cleared of mystery.

Indicates Gravity of Situation.

This decision on the part of the diplomatic corps in the Mexican capital indicates the gravity of the situation which will confront the Hureta government should it fail to clear the mystery in which the killing of Madero and Suarez still is enveloped.

Creates Painful Impression.

The killing of the deposed president and vice president of Mexico, after Provisional President General Huerta had assured American Ambassador Wilson of the safety of his prisoners from just such attacks, created a painful impression in administration circles here.

When the first feeling of surprise had passed it was realized by officials that this last tragic event had added greatly to the gravity of the situation and undoubtedly had placed an additional strain upon the already tense relations between this government and that in the Mexican capital.

No Change of Policy.

Still, as President Taft himself declared, the event in itself was not sufficient to demand any departure from the policy of strict non-intervention which so far has governed his administration.

Probably the immediate result will be to hasten the military and naval preparations in order to have the soldiers and sailors and marines ready to answer a call for instant embarkation if further developments in Mexico should demand their employment.

The one danger to be apprehended, which almost certainly would result in the launching of an army of invasion, would be the commission of some act or acts in Mexico that would endanger the lives of foreign citizens and Americans, for, having assured the diplomatic representatives in Washington of the disposition and ability of this government to protect their nationals in Mexico in the same degree as the Americans, the government has assumed an obligation that cannot be ignored.

Huerta's Statement.

Mexico City.—The following official statement of President Huerta was given out at the palace:

"I called together the cabinet to report that Madero and Pino Suarez, who had been detained at the palace at the disposition of the war department, were taken to the penitentiary in accordance with a previous decision, as the result of which that establishment was placed under the charge of an army officer for its better security.

"When the automobiles had traversed about two-thirds of the way to the penitentiary, however, they were attacked by an armed group, and the escort descended from the machines to offer resistance. Suddenly the group grew larger and the prisoners tried to escape.

Prisoners Were Shot.

"An exchange of shots then took place in which two of the attacking party were killed and two were wounded. Both prisoners were killed. The automobiles were badly damaged.

"The president and his cabinet have resolved that the affairs shall be consigned to the military judicial authorities, so they may make a strict investigation with the direct intervention of the military prosecutor general."

De La Barra Explains.

Francisco De La Barra, the foreign minister, sent an official statement to the foreign diplomatic representatives in which he said:

"The department of foreign relations desires to make known, as already announced to the ambassador of the United States, the British minister and other members of the diplomatic corps on various occasions, that the government decided at a council of the ministers that all acts relating to Madero and Pino Saurez should be adjudicated strictly according to law as was due, and that in consequence the accusation process, if such had taken place, would not have departed one iota from the legal measures applicable to the case.

Sought Safety for Prisoners.

"That after making this decision, the government agreed to remove Madero and Saurez to the penitentiary, where they would have the necessary security, consideration and comforts.

"That the minister of foreign relations so informed Ambassador Wilson, saying that the Mexican government would proceed always in accord with the law and that the removal of the ex-president and the ex-vice president to the penitentiary would be for the reason indicated.

"I desire to give all the facts of which I am cognizant connected with the affair, which is deeply deplored both for sentiments of humanity and because of the gravity of the affair, which has surprised the government and the importance of which is not underestimated by the government."

Two of Auto Party Killed.

St. Louis, Feb. 25.—George M. Trumbo and Miss Hazel Flinn and two others of the four members of an auto party were seriously injured when the machine turned turtle on a lonely road in St. Louis county. Trumbo, who was driving, was responsible for the accident. He clapped both hands to his head to catch his hat which a gust of wind had blown off, releasing the steering wheel. The car veered into a ditch and turned over. All occupants were pinned under the tonneau.

Much Border Excitement.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 25.—The killing of Francisco Madero and Pino Suarez has caused as much excitement along the border as did the Mexico City revolt. The federal volunteer troops, already stirred by the downfall of their former leader, threaten immediately to quit service, but to retain their arms. Their junction with the rebels has been feared since the revolution at the national capital. Even the rebels appear aroused by the death of the man they fought so long to destroy.

Trio Ties N. Y. Clerk; Takes $300.

New York, Feb. 25.—In broad daylight three men entered the branch store of a big retail cigar corporation on a busy corner in the theatrical district, covered the lone clerk with a revolver, bound and gagged him and rifled the safe of its contents, about $300. They fled, undisturbed. Albert Jacobson, the clerk, though tied hand and foot, rolled to the door and attracted the attention of pedestrians by tapping on the glass with his manacled hands.

MORE ATLANTIC LINERS REQUIRED

CONGESTION ON EXISTING STEAMSHIPS ON ACCOUNT OF CANADIAN IMMIGRATION.

It is reported that eight new Trans-Atlantic liners are under construction for the exclusive use of the Canadian Trade. These are being built by the White Star, Canadian Pacific and Cunard Companies.

The liners to be built for the White Star are to be of the same type as the Laurentic and Majestic, and will replace the Canada and Teutonic. The Cunard Line's new steamer, Ascania, has already completed successfully her maiden voyage from England to Montreal, and her sister ship will be launched early next year.

It is predicted that the Canadian Northern will not be slow in following the example of the other big concerns, as it is a matter of common belief that Canada, more than any other in the world, will be the country of the future, and the best field for investment by shipping interests.

An official of one of the companies already building steamers for this trade told the American yesterday that the ideal steamer for this service is the two-cabin boat, having accommodation for second-class and steerage passengers only.

"We do not expect that the $5,000 cabin de luxe class will travel between Canada and England very extensively," he said, "but the business that is to be obtained there will be immensely lucrative, and for the next ten years the eyes of the shipping world will be riveted on Canada. The Panama Canal, undoubtedly will receive a lot of attention, but the business in that route will be nothing compared with the Canadian trade for the immediate future. Panama will develop and become bigger in the years to come, but at the present we are most concerned with the tremendous tide of immigration that is being diverted from the United States to the Dominion.

"The farm land of the vast North West is the attraction, and while this flood of immigration is at its height, the Canadian Government exercises a strict censorship over the class of immigrants admitted. In this way they are drawing their future citizens from the Northern countries and have shown an unwelcome face to the people of Southern Europe."—Advertisement.

HUSBAND TIRED OF SEEING HER SUFFER

Procured Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which made His Wife a Well Woman.

Middletown, Pa.—"I had headache, backache and such awful bearing down pains that I could not be on my feet at times and I had organic inflammation so badly that I was not able to do my work. I could not get a good meal for my husband and one child. My neighbors said they thought my suffering was terrible.

"My husband got tired of seeing me suffer and one night went to the drug store and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me I must take it. I can't tell you all I suffered and I can't tell you all that your medicine has done for me. I was greatly benefited from the first and it has made me a well woman. I can do all my housework and even helped some of my friends as well. I think it is a wonderful help to all suffering women. I have got several to take it after seeing what it has done for me."—Mrs. EMMA ESPENSHADE, 219 East Main St., Middletown, Pa.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Week's History in Gopher State Told in Paragraphs.

Roseau.—The fire hall with all its contents burned. Loss $3,500.

Mapleton.—Superintendent Holmes has been re-elected to head the local schools.

Little Falls.—The application of E. E. Collins, representing eastern capitalists for a gas franchise in this city will probably be granted.

Little Falls.—Farmers of Morrison county are using the parcel post to send wolf pelts to the county auditor's office to collect bounties.

Tower.—Christ Talle and John Preus, trappers from the Trout Lake district, brought in about $600 worth of furs, which were only a part of the winter's catch.

Luverne.—Several large flocks of wild geese passed over this city last week, north bound. Robins have also made their appearance and the prophets look for an early spring.

Albert Lea.—The Southern Minnesota Buttermakers' association met in this city Friday. The speeches and discussions embraced many vital subjects of interest to dairymen and creamery men.

Pipestone. — Rasmus Christensen, one of the oldest settlers in this part of the state, dropped dead at his farm across the line in Lyon county. He was driving cattle and was stricken within a short distance of his home.

Cass Lake.—The domestic science classes of the Cass Lake schools served a dinner to the members of the board of education and Superintendent E. T. Fitch and D. B. Jewell, teacher of agriculture of the consolidated and high school of Deer River. Both the service and the meal, which was wholly prepared by the class, were first class in every respect.

Brainerd.—Sunday was a gala day in Knights of Columbus lodge circles, as the local council initiated a class of fifty candidates. Rev. Father J. J. Mahoney delivered an appropriate sermon. At the banquet Mayor H. P. Dunn officiated as toastmaster. The Eagles lodge will initiate a class of sixty-five on Feb. 25 and on March 25 will have another class.

Winona.—A provisional promise has been secured from Bishop William A. Quayle that he will come to Winona in November or December to dedicate the new $20,000 church which the Olive Branch Methodists will erect here this year. At the same time James W. Powell will come here from New York City to raise whatever may be lacking to make full payment for the church.

Fergus Falls.—Hunt Bros.' cigar factory, which was destroyed by fire a few days ago, is to be rebuilt at once. The factory employs twenty-four. The stock of the Fergus Co-operative company, which occupied the lower floor of the Elks' building, which adjoined the cigar factory, was at first supposed to have suffered but little, but an examination shows it has been damaged to the extent of fully $10,000 by heat and smoke.

Detroit.—The city of Detroit held its annual election last week with the following results: Mayor, Caspar Wackman; aldermen, first ward, Theodore Koschnick, Iver Grimsgard and Neri Mikkelson; second, B. S. Rice, John Harding and A. C. Knudson; third, Henry Reinhart, Peter Randolph and Mark Walz; city clerk, E. J. Bestick; treasurer, S. D. Ensign; judge of municipal court, Eric Winji; constable, Bert Clement; assessor, William C. Trimlett.

Duluth.—The proposition to bring the Perry centennial celebration to Duluth has been abandoned. The commercial interests of the city have not taken kindly to the idea on account of the cost, which is estimated at $15,000. A meeting will be held today to adopt resolutions to this effect. It is said the men whom it was hoped to interest in the affair, have recommended that the Duluth water carnival be enlarged and featured more strongly in lieu of the Perry centennial.

St. Cloud.—Youths under the age of 21 who hanker after liquors are having a hard time. Within two weeks three saloonkeepers have been arrested and fined heavily for selling to minors, one minor has been arrested for carrying liquor to a posted man and now an ordinance has been drawn prohibiting any minor from entering a saloon for any purpose. The ordinance is to be passed at the request of the saloon men who say it is difficult for them to enforce the law when minors are allowed to enter their place of business.

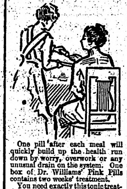
Rochester.—The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Minnesota Young Men's Christian association came to a close Sunday night at the Metropolitan theater. It was one of the association's most successful gatherings. At the farewell service delegates and representatives of the different branches of the work, local clergymen and members of the local association were called upon for two minute addresses, which were testimonials to the great work of the association and the achievements of the present convention.

Fergus Falls.—The will of Mathias Larson left an estate valued at $2,400 to the Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors lodges at Underwood, this county. The will directs that each lodge shall receive half of the estate. Mr. Larson was divorced a short time ago, and leaves no relatives as far as known here.

Barnesville.—The newly organized Commercial club is becoming the most aggressive in this part of the northwest. A. L. Felde heads the organization; Orris Oliver is vice president; John C. West, secretary, and Syver Solum, treasurer.

Madelia.—The Masons gave a banquet and St. James lodge attended in a body. Senator J. E. Haycraft was toastmaster and the following responded to toasts: Dr. W. H. Rowe, Professor Davies, W. Wrye, W. V. Decker, J. E. McStein, all of St. James; Dr. O. Batcheller of Brainerd, and Doctors McCarthy and Hoxie of Madelia.

Pipestone.—The executive committee of the second district group of the State Bankers' association has announced that the annual meeting will be held at Luverne on June 12. It is expected that a hundred and fifty bankers will attend.



One pill after each meal will quickly build up the health run down by worry, overwork or any unusual drain on the system. One box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contains two weeks' treatment.

You need exactly this tonic treatment when you are debilitated, easily tired, have weak back, lack appetite and are unable to sleep.

Take one pill after each meal and soon a better appetite, new energy and refreshing sleep will show that your system is being toned up, that you are being restored to health.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

in the Province of Saskatchewan, Western Canada

Do you desire to get a Free Homestead of 160 ACRES of that well known Wheat Land? The area is becoming more limited but no less valuable. NEW DISTRICTS have recently been opened up for settlement, and into these railroads are now being built. The day will soon come when there will be no Free Homesteading land left.

A Swift Current, Saskatchewan, farmer writes: "I came on my homestead, March 1906, with about $1,000 worth of horses and machinery, and just $35 in cash. Today I have 900 acres of wheat, 300 acres of oats, and 50 acres of flax." Not bad for six years, but only an instance of what may be done in Western Canada in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

ROCKY ROAD FOR BOY

Country Lad Has Easier Time Than City Youth.

Where There Is Chance for Education and Good Home Is Provided, Youngster From Rural Districts Has Big Advantage.

Do not ever believe, you boys of the country, that the city boy has all of the good times going. In many ways he has a rocky road to travel.

One of the big men of the Chicago university, who makes a study of the condition of boys in the cities, says the country boy, if he has the chance of an education and lives in a good home, has a deal better time than the flat-bred, steam-heated city boy.

The city boy has no opportunity to bring in the wood, milk the cows, gather nuts or go out into the woods, and so has no part in the home work.

The city is mean to him. He seldom puts his foot on the ground because it is all covered up with stones and cement.

He has no neighbors, for people move every year, and sometimes oftener, so what's the use of getting acquainted. There are no real homes in flats—not like the homes of the country, where people live in one place for years and grow up with their relatives and neighbors around them and where the ties of friendship are strong and satisfying.

Pals at Feeding Time.

If the city boy lets out a yell or plays ball in the streets or swipes an apple, the police are down on him in a moment.

The country boy can whoop, whistle and sing as much as he pleases and if occasionally he strays into a neighbor's orchard and comes out in a fit of absentmindedness with a melon under his arm, or a dozen apples inside his shirt, he is not arrested! Generally he is invited to help himself and come again if the neighbor sees him.

In the city everybody is against the boy. The people upstairs complain to the janitor that he makes too much noise; he is not allowed to sit on the doorstep, and so he drifts into the crowds of bad boys around the corner, who are bad because they are not allowed to do things that every healthy, well-ordered boy wants to do.

MILKING COWS IN PASTURE

Work Is Performed by Aid of Electricity on Hobrechtsfelde Dairy Farm, Near Berlin.

The latest step towards securing a maximum yield of milk from high grade cows has been taken on the Hobrechtsfelde dairy farm near Berlin, where the owners first objected to the use of milking machines on the ground that they would require the cows to be driven to the barn for the milking. Such a tramp invariably decreased the flow of the milk from each cow, so the old method of hand milking was retained until electric circuits had been strung around the farm for operating other machinery.

Now the milking is done by electricity, while the cows are out in the open pasture, thus securing the maximum output of milk from the herd, and enabling one man to milk five or six cows at a time. The milking machines in this case are of the type embodying an individual motor and pulsating pump for each machine.

Ducks Profitable.

It will pay to add ducks to the poultry department of every farm, says the Poultry Journal. Nothing was ever known to grow so fast and cause so little worry and work as ducks. Everything is "grist" that comes their way. They consume vast quantities of coarse foods, and convert it rapidly into flesh and money. The growth they make is wonderful. They are independent of the caretaker, except so far as food is concerned. When they have grown to be two or three weeks old they even provide the greater part of their own food by hunting for it. They are the happiest, brightest and most independent things on the farm. They require a house or houses of their own, plenty of water to drink and puddle their bills in, and grit in some form.

Necessity for Testing Seed.

Good seed corn is the key to getting good stands of corn. A good stand of corn is necessary to secure good yields. Owing to the wet fall of 1911 there is now much doubtful seed corn in the country.

One cannot afford to plant corn any year, much less this year, without testing. The single-ear method of testing seed corn is the only practical method.

Apology.

"You called me a dog, sir."

"Oh, no! Some dogs are very fine creatures. I called you a cur."

Delicate Point.

They are a happy couple. They haven't been married very long. In fact, the honeymoon has barely waned, says the Pittsburgh Post. An elderly friend met the bridegroom downtown yesterday and slapped him on the back.

"Well, happy as a lark, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes."

"How's the cooking?"

"I have one trouble. It's just this—my wife has been preparing angel food every day for dinner."

"You must be getting tired of it."

"I am. Yet I feel a hesitancy about saying anything. How soon after the honeymoon would it be proper to ask for beefstead and onions?"

Figuratively speaking, a man and his wife are one, but the figures on the grocery bill are apt to disprove it.

"I Feel Like a New Woman"

MRS. BENJ. BLAKE, of Port Dover, Ont., Box 86, writes: "I have been a great sufferer for years from throat trouble, catarrh, indigestion, female troubles, bloating, constipation and nervousness—at times I would be in bed, then able to be up again. Was under many different doctors' care, and would get better for a little while, then I would go down with chronic inflammation all through me. For nineteen years I had this poison in my blood. After trying nearly everything I got worse. I read in The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have taken the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and have used five bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I am now able to do my work and walk with pleasure. I feel like a new woman. I enjoy everything around me and thank God for letting me live long enough to find something that made me well again."

Hall's Catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. WILSON INDUCTED INTO HIGH OFFICE

Inauguration of Twenty-Seventh President Is Witnessed by Great Crowds.

MARSHALL SWORN IN FIRST

Simple Ceremony in Senate Chamber Followed by More Impressive Affair on East Portico of the Capitol.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington, March 4.—In the presence of a vast throng of his fellow citizens, Woodrow Wilson today stood in front of the east portico of the capitol and took the oath of president of the United States. Thomas R. Marshall already had been sworn in as vice-president, and with the completion of the ceremony the ship of state was manned by the Democratic party, which had been ashore for sixteen years.

As the new chief executive of the nation stood with bared head, Edward Douglass White, chief justice of the Supreme court, held before him the Bible always used in the ceremony. Mr. Wilson placed his hands upon the book and in a voice strong, though somewhat affected by emotion, swore to support the Constitution and the laws of the country and to perform the duties of his high office to the best of his ability.

Thomas Riley Marshall swore fealty to the Constitution and to the people in the senate chamber, where for four years it will be his duty to preside over the deliberations of the members of the upper house of congress.

Severely Simple Ceremonies.

Both of the ceremonies proper were conducted in a severely simple but most impressive manner. The surroundings of the scene of the president's induction into office, however, were not so simple, for it was an out-of-door event and the great gathering of military, naval and uniformed civil organizations gave much more than a touch of splendor to the scene.

In the senate chamber, where the the oath was taken by the man now vice-president of the United States, there were gathered about 2,000 people, all that the upper house will contain without the risk of danger because of the rush and press of the multitudes. It is probable that nowhere else in the United States at any time are there gathered an equal number of men and women whose names are so widely known. The gathering in the senate chamber and later on the east portico of the capitol was composed largely of those prominent for their services in America, and in part of foreigners who have secured places for their names in the current history of the world's doings.

The arrangements of the ceremonies for the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Riley Marshall were made by the joint committee on arrangements of congress. The senate section of this committee was ruled by a majority of Republicans, but there is Democratic testimony to the fact that the Republican senators were willing to outdo their Democratic brethren in the work of making orderly and impressive the inaugural ceremonies in honor of two chieftains of the opposition.

President Woodrow Wilson.

Ride to the Capitol.

President Taft and President-elect Wilson rode together from the White House to the capitol, accompanied by two members of the congressional committee of arrangements. The vice-president-elect also rode from the White House to the capitol and in the carriage with him were the senate's president pro tempore, Senator Bacon of Georgia, and three members of the congressional committee of arrangements.

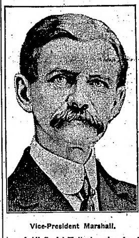
The vice-president-elect took the oath just before noon in accordance with custom and prior to its taking by the president-elect. Every arrangement for the senate chamber proceedings had been made so that they moved forward easily and with a certain ponderous grace.

Marshall Sworn In.

The admission to the senate chamber to witness the oath-taking of the vice-president was by ticket, and it is needless to say every seat was occupied. On the floor of the chamber were many former members of the senate who, because of the fact that they once held membership in that body, were given the privileges of the floor. After the hall was filled and all the minor officials of government and those privileged to witness the ceremonies were seated, William H. Taft and Woodrow Wilson, preceded by the sergeant-at-arms and the committee of arrangements, entered the senate chamber. They were followed immediately by Vice-President-elect Thomas R. Marshall, leaning upon the arm of the president pro tempore of the senate who, after the seating of the incoming vice-president, took his place as presiding officer of the senate and of the day's proceedings.

The president and the president-elect sat in the first row of seats directly in front and almost under the desk of the presiding officer. In the same row, but to their left, were the vice-president-elect and two former vice-presidents of the United States, Levi P. Morton of New York and Adlai A. Stevenson of Illinois.

When the distinguished company entered the chamber the senate was still under its old organization. The oath of office was immediately administered to Vice-President-elect Marshall, who thereupon became Vice President Marshall. The prayer of the day was given by the chaplain of the senate, Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church, of which President Taft has been a member. After the prayer the vice-president administered the oath of office to all the newly chosen senators, and therewith the senate of the United States passed for the first time in years into the control of the Democratic party.



Vice-President Marshall.

Procession to the Platform.

Immediately after the senate ceremonies a procession was formed to march to the platform of the east portico of the capitol, where Woodrow Wilson was to take the oath. The procession included the president and the president-elect, members of the Supreme court, both houses of congress, all of the foreign ambassadors, all of the heads of the executive departments, many governors of states and territories, Admiral Dewey of the navy and several high officers of the sea service, the chief of staff of the army and many distinguished persons from civil life. They were followed by the members of the press and by those persons who had succeeded in securing seats in the senate galleries to witness the day's proceedings.

When President Taft and the president-elect emerged from the capitol on to the portico they saw in front of them, reaching far back into the park to the east, an immense concourse of citizens. In the narrow line between the onlookers and the platform on which Mr. Wilson was to take the oath, were drawn up the cadets of the two greatest government schools, West Point and Annapolis, and flanking them were bodies of regulars and of national guardsmen. The whole scene was charged with color and with life.

On reaching the platform the president and president-elect took the seats reserved for them, seats which were flanked by many rows of benches rising tier on tier for the accommodation of the friends and families of the officers of the government and of the press.

Oath Administered to Wilson.

The instant that Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson came within sight of the crowd there was a great outburst of applause, and the military bands struck quickly into "The Star Spangled Banner." Only a few bars of the music were played and then soldiers and civilians became silent to witness respectfully the oath taking and to listen to the address which followed.

The chief justice of the Supreme court delivered the oath to the president-elect, who, uttering the words, "I will," became president of the United States. As soon as this ceremony was completed Woodrow Wilson delivered his inaugural address, his first speech to his fellow countrymen in the capacity of their chief executive.

At the conclusion of the speech the bands played once more, and William Howard Taft, now ex-president of the United States, entered a carriage with the new president and, reversing the order of an hour before, sat on the left hand side of the carriage, while Mr. Wilson took "the seat of honor" on the right. The crowds cheered as they drove away to the White House, which Woodrow Wilson entered as the occupant and which William H. Taft immediately left as one whose lease had expired.

Wisdom.

"Do you notice that your son has really learned anything in college?"

"Yes, he has learned that my ideas are those of an old fogy, and that he would be false to his trust if he did not do his best to bring me to a realization of my pitiable condition."

Why Not Be Allowed to Sleep?

A patent has been granted a New Yorker for a burglar alarm that awakens a person by spraying him with water as he lies asleep in bed.

No Change.

"You know you thought you wouldn't like living in a flat; have you changed your mind since moving into this one?"

"No, there isn't room to change anything."

Greatest Problem.

The greatest problem in a woman's life is not the soul problem, or the sex problem, or the suffrage problem, but how to look made to order on a ready-to-wear income.—Tatler.

Spring Clipping of Horses.

The modern practice among the best posted and most progressive horse owners and farmers is to clip all horses in the spring. It is done on the theory that in their natural state horses were not obliged to work, so could shed the winter coat in comfort over a period of several weeks. Since we oblige them to do hard work on warm spring days, the winter coat should be removed for the same reason that we lay off our heavy winter garments. Clipped horses dry off rapidly, hence they do not take cold as easily nor are they as prone to be affected with other ailments as unclipped animals whose longer hair holds the perspiration for hours. Because clipped horses dry off rapidly they rest better, get more good from their food and come out in the morning refreshed and fit for work.

Since the advent of the ball bearing enclosed gear clipping machine, the work of taking off the winter coat is easy. With the machine a horse can be clipped all over in half an hour, whereas with the old, two-hand clipper it required several hours to do it.

Dairymen also now clip the cows all over two or three times a year. The flanks and udders are clipped every three or four weeks, so it is easy to clean the parts before milking. This means less opportunity for dirt and other impurities to get into the milk.

Politeness Ignored.

A Virginia farmer was driving a refractory cow down the road one morning. The cow and the driver came to a crossroad. The man wanted the cow to go straight ahead, but the cow picked out the crossroad.

A negro was coming along the crossroad.

"Haid her off! Haid her off!" yelled the driver.

The negro jumped about the road and waved his arms. The cow proceeded calmly on her way.

"Haid her off! Haid her off, nigger!" yelled the driver.

"Ise a-tryin, ter!" replied the negro.

"Speak to her! Speak to her and she'll stop!"

"Good mawnin', cow—good mawnin'!" said the negro politely.

Calumet Guarantees Baking Economy.

Have you ever stopped to think just what "economy" in baking really means? Some folks seem to have the idea that saving a little on the cost of the materials—the flour, eggs, etc.—is economy. Others are of the opinion that they have been economical when they buy the low-priced baking powder, and save 10c to 25c. But both are wrong. For the real economy—the economy that counts—consists in doing away with the failures that so often waste far more than is saved in buying low-priced materials.

And that beyond a doubt is the reason that Calumet Baking Powder is the favorite of millions of cooks. It absolutely prevents failures—and guarantees success—which in the end is the same thing as economy.

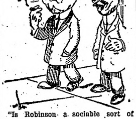
Calumet is unfailing—it makes every baking good—more tasty, more delicious, more evenly raised—simply because it is not only pure and wholesome itself—but so uniform in quality that you can always depend upon it. Two World's Pure Food Expositions—one at Chicago in 1907, and the other at Paris, France, in 1912—have officially pronounced Calumet the best baking powder made.

Why, the Mean Thing!

"There's a sad case," said Mrs Jones, as she laid the paper on her knees and wiped her spectacles. "A bride struck dumb after leaving the altar, and by last accounts she hadn't recovered her speech."

"It's the way of the world, my dear," said old Mr. Jones, with a sigh. "It's the way of the world. Some men have all the luck."—P. I. P.

MISANTHROPE.



"Is Robinson a sociable sort of chap?"

"Well, you can judge. I heard a small boy ask him to help tie a tin can to a dog's tail, yesterday, and he didn't even stop to listen."

CLEAR HEADED

Head Bookkeeper Must Be Reliable.

The chief bookkeeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the harm coffee did for him. (Tea is just as injurious because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum a little over two years ago and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and coffee. It happened in this way:

"About three and a half years ago I had an attack of pneumonia, which left a memento in the shape of dyspepsia, or rather, to speak more correctly, neuralgia of the stomach. My cup of cheer had always been coffee or tea, but I became convinced, after a time, that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my grocer one day and he suggested that I give Postum a trial.

"Next day it came, but the cook made the mistake of not boiling it sufficiently, and we did not like it much. This was, however, soon remedied, and now we like it so much that we will never change back. Postum, being a food beverage instead of a drug, has been the means of banishing my stomach trouble, I verily believe, for I am a well man today and have used no medicine.

"My work as chief bookkeeper in our Co.'s branch house here is of a very confining nature. During my coffee-drinking days I was subject to nervousness and 'the blues'. These have left me since I began using Postum, and I can conscientiously recommend it to those whose work confines them to long hours of severe mental exertion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

PARADE IS A SUCCESS

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN AND SOME MEN MARCH FOR "CAUSE" IN WASHINGTON.

FLOATS ADD TO THE SCENE

Handsome Tableaux Are Presented by Madame Nordica and Others On Steps of Treasury Building.

Washington, March 3.—Women today made on Pennsylvania avenue in the capital of the country for spectacular parade appeal for suffrage. In the marching ranks were many of the most prominent women of the United States, women who have given the greater part of their lives to the suffrage work, and women also who only recently have given their fealty to the cause. The wives of senators and representatives and of other men in high position in the government service had places in the line. It was a parade of devotees and it was in size and in effect that the women had promised it should be.

There were thousands of women and hundreds of men in the procession which made its way up Pennsylvania avenue from the capitol to a point beyond the White House. There was a succession of "floats" in the column representing the progress of the cause of woman's suffrage; labor conditions which it is sought to better; what woman has done in war; the woman in peace, and the woman in all the varied activities of life.

Planned by Prominent Women.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the speaker of the house, was one of the hard laborers to make the event live up to its promise. Working with her were Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of the government's former chief chemist; Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., a sister-in-law of Secretary of War Stimson; Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, wife of the Wisconsin senator, and scores of other women prominent on their own account and doubly prominent perhaps because of the official positions occupied by their husbands or other men members of their families.

"General" Rosalie Jones and her small army of "hikers" who marched all the way from New York City to the capital in behalf of the suffrage cause, were given a chief place of honor in the marching throng. The procession was led by Miss Inez Milholland of New York, to whom her sister suffragists gracefully accorded the meed of greatest beauty. Miss Milholland certainly is handsome and, as a herald, she shone.

The women who had no parts to sustain in the tableaux on the floats wore pilgrims' cloaks and on their heads were small campaign hats jauntily turned back and caught with "Votes for Women" pins. The grand marshal of the parade was Mrs. Richard Cope Burleson, wife of a Fort Myer army officer. She is a fine rider, and with her were several army women accustomed to the saddle and to the word of command. It is estimated that at least 1,000 of the women were on horseback.

Tableaux on Treasury Steps.

At the moment the procession started from the Peace monument in front of the capital a tableaux was staged in front of the great south doorway of the treasury building. Madame Nordica, taking the part of Columbia, was the central figure. Dressed in classic costume, she came from between the white pillars guarding the doorway and sang, "The Star Spangled Banner." When she had taken her station half way down the steps she was followed by five women representing Liberty, Justice, Peace, Hope and Mercy. Florence Fleming Noyes, a classical dancer, impersonated Liberty, and Miss Flora Wilson, daughter of the secretary of agriculture, took the part of Justice. The spectacle, in a succession of movements and in a dozen scenes as varied as the manifestations of Liberty, Justice, Peace, Hope and Mercy would admit, continued for over an hour and was witnessed by an enormous crowd of people.

The suffrage parade was all that the women promised that it would be. Some members of congress say that the demonstration was unnecessary because it has become certain within the last two years that eventually woman will exercise the suffrage in every state of the Union.

Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open With a Mild Laxative Tonic

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do but temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

A much better plan, and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative-tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again, when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mr. O. P. Miller, Baroda, Mich., who writes: "I am 80 years old and have been constipated for many years. Since receiving your sample bottle I have procured two 50c bottles and find that it is the best remedy I ever used and does just what you claim for it to the very letter. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mr. O. P. Miller.

A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merits they buy the dollar size, which is more economical. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

ECZEMA IN RED BLOTCHES

205 Kanter Ave., Detroit, Mich.—"Some time last summer I was taken with eczema. It began in my hair first with red blotches, then scaly, spreading to my face. The blotches were red on my face, dry and scaly, not large; on my scalp they were larger, some scabby. They came on my hands. The inside of my hands were all little lumps as though full of shot about one-sixteenth of an inch under the skin. Then they went to the outside and between and all over my fingers. It also began on the bottoms of my feet and the calves of my legs, and itch, oh, my! I never had anything like it and hope I never will again. The itching was terrible. My hands got so I could scarcely work.

"I tried different eczema ointments but without results. I also took medicine for it but it did no good. I saw the advertisement for a sample of Cuticura Ointment and Soap and sent for one. They did me so much good I bought some more, using them as per directions, and in about three weeks I was well again. Cuticura Soap and Ointment entirely cured me." (Signed) Benj. Passage, Apr. 8, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

A certain man found himself in the possession of $11,000,000. But he did not lose his head. On the contrary.

"I will pay only so much for a car," he firmly declared, "as will leave of the $11,000,000 a sum sufficient, if prudently invested in the funds, to defray the cost of having the thing around."

And though in that resolution he paid so little for a car that his wife would scarcely speak to him, his sense of financial solvency was his ample reward.—Puck.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Caledonia.—The members of the Norwegian Lutheran church here have presented their pastor with a $5,000 rectory.

Ada.—F. H. Leonard, who has been superintendent of the light plant many years, has resigned his position and accepted another at Ortonville.

Mankato.—Lans Johnson, aged 62, well known Belgrade farmer, is dead as the result of a fall several weeks ago on the hill leading to his home.

Cannon Falls.—T. A. Agnew, for nine years manager of the Cannon Falls canning factory, has gone to Blenheim, Ontario, Canada, to superintend the erection of a $50,000 factory.

Renville.—A three days' farmers' institute was held in Renville. W. F. Schilling of Northfield was in charge. Cash prizes amounting to $150 were given for the best samples of grain and farm produce.

St. James.—The Watonwan County Anti-Horse Thief association chose E. A. Gibbs president, J. H. Grogan vice-president, J. W. Somers secretary, Even Nelson treasurer, and A. E. Lindquist captain of riders.

Cannon Falls.—Farmers are rejoicing over the snowfall of twelve inches last week. Fields of rye and winter wheat were bare and in danger of being ruined by freezing and thawing. A good crop seems now assured.

Albert Lea.—H. E. Skinner, H. G. Koontz and Alfred Christopherson have organized the Clover Hill Lot and Acreage company. The new company and the Albert Lea Development company will help to find cheaper homes for new residents.

Cannon Falls.—A ministerial association has been organized to suggest civic improvements and to develop good citizenship. The officers are: Rev. H. S. Wiley; treasurer, Rev. A. M. Quist; chairman of special committee, Rev. P. A. Mattson.

Winona.—Word has been received from Edward F. Trefz, field secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that he will accept an invitation to come to Winona early in April and address the local association. The date will be fixed in a few days.

Hallock.—The county commissioners met on March 25 to select an architect to prepare plans for a new jail and sheriff's residence for Kittson county. The board selected a Fargo firm which was instructed to prepare plans for a $25,000 building, the jail to be fireproof and thoroughly up-to-date.

Alexandria.—The campaign in Minnesota agianst the house fly is already on. Civic organizations in Fergus Falls, Crookston, Alexandria, Sauk Center, Duluth, Waseca, Lake City and other towns have called upon State Entomologist F. L. Washburn to show the evils of this disease-bearing insect. Mr. Washburn lectured here and at Sauk Center. An interested audience listened to "swat the fly" talks at Fergus Falls and Crookston.

Bemidji.—William McCuaig assumed the duties of mayor on Monday and succeeded the only Socialist administration that Bemidji has ever had. Mayor Malzahn, the incumbent, a Socialist, lost many supporters who backed him last year. Mr. McCuaig has promised a clean sweep in the city police force. The present chief, C. F. Hoyt, is a Socialist. R. H. Murphy will succeed L. F. Johnson as president of the council.

Cannon Falls.—Goodhue county rural mail carriers held their semi-annual convention here. Officers were elected as follows: President, Harry Hines, Cannon Falls; vice-president, Herman Kallas, Zumbrota; secretary and treasurer, Frank Schinnach, Red Wing; delegates to the state convention, Charles Lindberg, Red Wing; Charles Ohs, Kenyon; William McHugh, Goodhue; C. L. Morrell, Randolph. The next meeting will be held in June at Lake City.

Mankato.—The program for the second winter meeting of the Southern Minnesota Better Development league, which is to be held in this city March 11 and 12, is being worked out. Thus far acceptances to invitations to appear on the program have been received from Governor Eberhart, H. J. Maxfield; commissioner of immigration, John Monroe of Faribault, Professor Solberg of the state college at Brookings, S. D., and J. J. Furlong, president of the state society.

Minneapolis.—The body of a woman, which Deputy Coroner Quist and the police believe to be that of Mrs. Clara Oplo, 2012 Twenty-eighth avenue south, who disappeared from her home Friday afternoon before the storm, was found in the snow at St. Louis park, Wednesday. The clothes worn by the woman are like those described as worn by Mrs. Oplo when she was last seen. The body was found by a dairyman, George Johnson, at the north end of the Great Northern viaduct, near Minnetonka boulevard. The deputy coroner believes the woman had been dead for several days, as there was no snow under her body.

Pipestone. — The death of Kris Hagenhakken brings to a close a long dispute between him and the Pipestone county dispute between him and the Pipestone county commissioners. The county authorities contended that Hagenhakken was a Rock county resident and could not lawfully reside in his county and receive county aid. When a demand was made that Hagenhakken return to Rock county to live he refused to go, and the county board had just authorized Sheriff Shepherd to take him by force and return him to Rock county, when the man was taken ill and died.

Pipestone.—F. L. Janes of Pipestone is dying in a hospital at Portland, Ore., according to advices received here, and the members of his family are at his bedside. Mr. Janes was taken ill while on a business trip in the west. He is one of the most prominent lawyers in southwestern Minnesota and is vice president of the Pipestone State bank. He is the father of Alex Janes, assistant state's attorney general.

Fergus Falls.—A part of the plant of the Stevens Cooperage company at Dent, this county, was burned. The loss is placed at $7,000, with $4,000 insurance.

WESTERN CANADA'S PHENOMENAL DEVELOPMENT

ITS PERMANENCY VERY LITTLE QUESTIONED.

There have been booms in almost every civilized country and they were looked upon as such, and in the course of time the bubble was pricked and they burst. But in no country has the development been as great nor as rapid, whether in city or in country, as in Western Canada. There may sometimes be found one who will say "Can it last?" Winnipeg, today, stands where Chicago stands as far as being the base of the great commercial and agricultural country lying a thousand miles back of it. It has an advantage that Chicago did not have, for no country in the world's history has attracted to its borders a larger number of settlers in so short a time, or has attracted so much wealth in a period of equal length, as have the Canadian prairies. Never before has pioneering been accomplished under conditions so favorable as those that exist in Western Canada today.

The provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta have the largest area of desirable lands on the North American Continent, and their cultivation has just begun.

Even with a two hundred million bushel wheat crop less than eight per cent. of the land is under the plough, four per cent. being in wheat. Less than five years ago the wheat crop was only seventy-one million bushels. It is a simple calculation to estimate that if four per cent. of the available cultivable area produces something over two hundred million bushels, what will forty-four per cent. produce? And then look at the immigration that is coming into the country. In 1901 it was 49,149; 17,000 being from the United States. In 1906 it was 189,064, of which 57,000 were Americans, and in 1912 it was about 400,000, of which about 200,000 are Americans. In the three years prior to 1912, there were 358,859 persons who declared themselves for Canada, who brought into Canada in cash, bank drafts, stock, implements and effects over $350,000,000. Why have they gone to Canada? The American farmer is a man of shrewd business instincts, and when he finds that he can sell his own farm at from $100 to $200 per acre and move into Canada and homestead 160 acres for himself, and similarly for all his sons who are adult and of age, upon lands as rich and fertile as those he had left, and producing, indeed, several bushels to the acre in excess of anything he has ever known, it will take more than an ordinary effort to prevent him from making the change. He can also purchase good lands at from $12 to $25 per acre.

And, then, too, there is the American capital following the capital of brawn, muscle and sinew, following it so as to keep in touch with the industrious farmer with which he has had dealings for years back. This capital and the capital of farming experience is no small matter in the building up of a country.

Will Western Canada's development continue? Why not? The total area of land reported as available for cultivation is estimated as 218,000,000 acres; only fifteen per cent. of this is under cultivation. Nothing is said of the great mineral and forest wealth, of which but little has yet been touched.—Advertisement.

The Count at Home.

"Yes," remarked the returned tourist, with a reminiscent smile, "I was continually bumping into old friends and acquaintances while abroad. Went into a fashionable barber shop in the Rue de Saint Gerard, in Paris, and whom do you suppose I met there?"

"Oh, I'm no good at guessing," said his friend. "Who was it?"

"The Count de Pompadour, who cut such a swell at Atlantic City last year."

"Let's see—you and the count didn't mix very well. Did he condescend to speak to you?"

"He certainly did. The moment I entered the tonsorial parlors, he caught my eye and bowed and smiled and said, 'Monsieur is next.'"

Bright Work.

"I have here a handy article that sells for 10 cents," began the caller.

"Don't want it," snapped thhe woman.

"I didn't think you would buy it," said the caller as he turned to go. "The lady across the street told me your husband never gave you any money."

"She did eh?" exploded the woman, "Give me five of those things you are selling. My husband gives me more money in a day than that old cat gets in a month."—Exchange.

WINTER EGG PROFITS

Hens Should Have Been in Good Condition in Fall.

Fowls Should Not Be Allowed to Eat Grain as Fast as They Can Consume It, But Rather Made to Scratch for It.

(By M. M. CHANDLER.)

As much depends upon the condition of the hens themselves as anything else, if you are expecting the winter eggs. You should have seen to it that your hens were not running wild during the late fall, getting too much corn about the fields or hog pens, or that they are not starving when you think they are picking up a good living for themselves after the grain has all been put away for the winter.

For many years I kept only a small flock of hens and paid little attention to them except during the winter. I got, of course, very few eggs and found that if I wished this much sought winter supply I must look closer to business.

I tried shutting my hens in a large park during the month of November and feeding them cooked vegetables, milk, a little of everything in the shape of grain, instead of letting them run to the corn houses; that is, all but those I wished to market, and those I confined in a large coop with a floor in it, so they could not do too much scratching, and fed them more grain and less milk, plenty of clean water and usually two weeks would find them in good condition for the market.

This, I find, pays better than allowing the hens you wish to keep over remain with those who are going to sell, since the feeding methods differ.

A hen should not be fat when the cold weather sets in any more than she should be starved. She should be fed according to the egg-producing method, and with me that method is regular meals, plenty of variety in food and a good chance to scratch for her living.

I never allow a hen to eat grain as fast as she can pick it up, but make her hunt for it in a good pile of litter. Soft food for breakfast, fed at six o'clock, milk and a little wheat or rye for dinner, and supper at four o'clock of corn, two quarts to forty hens. This may seem a small ration, but where three meals are given you will find that it is enough and if more is allowed them there will be fewer eggs.

Some think it better to feed all small grain and no corn, but in the cool weather I find that corn satisfies the fowls much better and it should be fed as hot as they can stand it.

Never expect real success with winter egg-raising without a good bone mill. A bone mill can be had for $5 and will pay for itself in six months. Bone meal should be a part of every breakfast in the hen roost and the oyster shells and skimmilk are quite as essential.

Meat is good, but never throw the carcass of a dead animal into the chicken house unless you want to create disease germs and impure eggs. Keep the carcass frozen out of doors and cut from it a small ration of meat at a time, and see that it is all eaten fresh.

Never expect winter eggs in a dark, damp, chilly coop. Have plenty of windows and fresh air. There is nothing better than fresh air and sunshine. Keep the house clean. Every morning while the flock are at their breakfast take a shovel and scrape up the droppings under the perches. Take care that they do not use the nests as roosting places, and always change the straw in the nests and get fresh straw or, better still, clover hay scatterings for litter at least as often as once a week.

EXCELLENT FEED-PEN GATE

Swinging Device Keeps Older Hogs From Entering While Little Fellows Are Being Fed.

In feeding the little pigs with older hogs, it is necessary to have some sort of a separate feding pen for the pigs. The older ones can be kept out and the pigs prevented from entering the pen while the troughs are being filled by means of a swinging gate.

This gate swings outward only. It is held up while the little pigs enter the feeding pen, and being light, they can push it forward and go out at will.

Useful Gate.

It may be used to advantage in fattening hogs that run with the stock hogs. After putting out the feed the feeder raises the gate and lets in those to fatten, then lets it fall; all others are kept out, yet those in the pen may go out when through eating.

This style of gate is also convenient for the lamb lot where one uses a creep. The gate should be just large enough to admit a good-sized lamb.

Test for Oleo.

A convenient test for oleo compared with butter is to heat with a lighted match a teaspoon containing a small piece of butter, says the Wisconsin Dairyman. If butter, it will froth freely, but without sputtering. A piece of oleo under the same conditions does not froth, but melts down like grease and sputters. Renovated butter acts much like oleo, because the fats which produce the frothing have been mostly melted out during the process of renovation.

Locate the Fault.

"If your hens are not doing to suit you look over the situation carefully and find out where the trouble is. You may be sure the fault is yours, not theirs.

"Every Picture Tells a Story."

Straighten That Lame Back!

Backache is one of Nature's warnings of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year. Safety is only certain if the early warnings are heeded while help is possible. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped many thousands to get rid of backache, strengthen weak kidneys and regulate bladder and urinary disorders.

Don't neglect a bad back. If your back is lame in the morning, if it hurts to stoop or lift, if the dull aching keeps up all day, making work a burden and rest impossible—suspect the kidneys. If the urine is off color and shows a sediment; if passages are irregular, too frequent, too scanty, or scalding, this is further proof. There may be dizzy spells, headaches, nervousness, dropsy swellings, rheumatic attacks, and a general tired-out, run-down condition.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that is publicly recommended by 100,000 persons in many different lands. Doan's act quickly, contain no harmful nor habit-forming drugs and are wholly harmless, though remarkably effective.

Cured After Doctors Gave Up Hope

H. R. Hatch, 2516 Cedar St., Everett, Wash., says: "I doubt if any one ever suffered more than I did with kidney complaint. My back was so bad I could hardly walk. The least jar or mis-step, caused twinges that fairly made me groan. I dreaded to stoop, for I knew what I had to suffer when I had to straighten up again. There was generally a frequent desire to urinate, but at other times the secretions were retarded, dark in color, almost like blood and pained terrible in passing. The doctors said I had but a short time to live. As a last resort I began to use Doan's Kidney Pills and rapidly grew better, and at last was completely cured. I have remained in good health ever since."

When your back hurts, when your kidneys trouble you, when you feel tired, worn-out or depressed, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that cured Mr. Hatch, and make sure the name DOAN'S is on the box.

She Married Him.

In a well-known colored school in the south the lesson in general history one day was on the life of Queen Elizabeth.

"Thomas, did Queen Elizabeth ever marry?" asked the teacher.

"Yes, ma'am, I think she did," replied Thomas.

"Are you quite sure?"

"Yes, ma'am, the book says she did."

"It does? Will you please find it?"

Whereupon Thomas opened to the lesson and to the great amusement of the teacher read the statement that "Queen Elizabeth was married to her realm."

"There," said he, triumphantly, "doesn't it say she was married? I don't exactly know who the gentleman was, but it certainly says she married him."

Too Well Known.

"Have you a speaking acquaintance with the woman who lives next door to you?" we asked an east end lady, just to make a little conversation.

"A speaking acquaintance?" echoed the lady, opening her eyes wide. "Why, I know her so well that I don't speak to her at all!"

Nervousness Explained.

The young man entered the president's office and stood first on one foot and then on the other. He dropped his hat, handkerchief and umbrella. Altogether he was a highly developed case of nervousness.

"Well, well," said the employer. "Out with it!"

"I have come sir," said the young man, and then began to stammer.

"Well, speak up. Have you come to ask for the hand of my daughter or a raise in salary?"

"If you please, sir," stammered the young man, "it's both."—Exchange.

The chronics are now eagerly watching for the first signs of that panic.

Some of the Crookston physicians refuse to run their professional cards in the Times because that paper accepts advertising from out-side doctors. We persume they refuse to treat patients from other towns also for the same reason.

After about a decade in obscurity the Democratic party was ushered into power again last Tuesday, when Woodrow Wilson was officially dedicated chief executive following an impressive inaugurial ceremony, witnessed by a multitude of people.

The new nickle of the Indian head and buffalo design was put into general use last Saturday. Already the treasury department has received applications from banks for over 2,000,000 of the new coins.

According to the Duluth News-Tribune the rapid distruction of Minnesota forests and the practical confiscation of the state's three-growing crop may be attributed largely to the results of the present system of taxation, according to the second annual report of the state forestry department, which will be ready for distribution within a few days. Because of the present tax on standing timber many owners have been compelled to convert their property into marketable lumber to meet the state assessment, it is declared.

If such is the case then certainly the remedy should be applied to encourage rather than to discourage the conservation of natural forests. The rapid decrease of our forests is alarming and while the fire hazard is the biggest factor in the case the devastation from carelessness in cutting down trees is almost equally as large. The extension of the forestry service insures the elimination of the fire fiend in the future, but this question alone is not sufficient to solve the conservation problem. Laws regulating cutting of trees, and abuses of young trees, patterned after the Canadian conservation act is essential to insure for us permanent forests.

A Big Day For The Editor.

The editor of a Kansas paper says that he picked up a Winchester rifle recently and started up the street to deliver the weapon to its owner. The delinquent subscribers got it into their heads that he was on the warpath and everyone he met insisted on paying all they owed. One man wiped out a debt of ten years standing. On returning to the office he found a load of hay, 15 bushels of corn, 10 bushels of potatoes, a load of wood and a barrel of turnips.—Ex.

Learn Composition From Love Letters

Dr. Arthur Holmes, who advocates the exchange of love letters between students as a means of acquiring the art of composition, might point to Samuel Richardson as a proof of the efficacy of his method. Richardson began by acting as scribe for a number of young women, for whose correspondence with their sweethearts he frequently supplied not only the words, but the sentiments. His reputation for this kind of composition led a firm of printers to propose that he should prepare a "complete letter writer" for the use of "those country readers who cannot indite for themselves." Two or three of the epistles written for this purpose suggested a separate story, "and thence," in Richardson's own phrase, "sprang 'Pamela.'"

Friendship In Business.

The salesman who was formerly intent on getting orders by means of the "happy days" system of cigars and drinks now courts the friendship of his customer on utilitarian lines. He tries to make suggestions that will be of use. He essays an idea or drops a piece of news, intended to do the customer some good. Not infrequently an expert salesman will study the methods of a customer, and even the methods in use in his establishment, before approaching him so as to be in a position to talk intelligently on his needs, and perhaps spring a new idea that will attract attention. Then the customer is liable to be indebted to him in a friendly way, which is the better way of securing a man's business and holding it.

The Cause of Rheumatism

Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Allen, a school principal of Sylvania, Ga., who suffered indiscribable torture from rheumatism liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys, writes: "All remedies failed until I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy completely curdd me." Maybe your rheumatic pains come from stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1 Recommended by all druggists.

Once in a while a subscriber is offended because we notify him when his subscription expires. We do this so he will know how his account stands and not because we are afraid of getting our pay. We do not want to send the paper to anyone who does not want it and by getting notice they can decide whether or not to renew. A dissatisfied subscribed is a poor asset to any paper.—Eleven Towns.

Briefly Told Happenings of the Past Week

Washington

President Wilson has reappointed Charles P. Neill as commissioner of labor.

John C. Roper of South Carolina was nominated by the president to be first assistant postmaster general.

The last act of James Wilson as secretary of agriculture was to reinstate C. G. Elliott as chief engineer of drainage investigation in the department of agriculture. Mr. Elliott was dismissed by Secretary Wilson for his attitude in the department of agriculture's connection with the Florida everglades investigation. A congressional committee vindicated him.

Joseph P. Tumulty, President Wilson's secretary, started a small precedent-shattering campaign of his own in Washington. Mr. Tumulty got to work at eight o'clock. Most government officials get to work between nine and ten with the odds on ten. Mr. Tumulty found few clerks in his office when he arrived.

Speaker Clark was renominated, Representative Underwood of Alabama again chosen chairman of the ways and means committee, the entire Democratic personnel of the tariff making body named and all the house officers renominated at a caucus of the Democrats of the Sixty-third congress.

The senate confirmed the nominations of President Wilson's cabinet, as well as that of Edgar E. Clark to be interstate commerce commissioner. The nomination of John H. Marble to be member of the commission was referred to the interstate commerce commission.

Alfonso Enjoys Reminders of Danger.

A knife that he knocked out of the hands of an assassin is hung up in his den. The hides of two horses killed in bomb explosions have been made into rugs for his cozy corner. Genius Made by Hard Work.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, seated in the smoke-room of the Victoria Luise, was enthusiastically hailed by a brother physician.

"What a genius you are!" Thus the brother physician ended a long eulogy.

But Doctor Carrel smiled and said: "A genius, eh? Well, at his villa in Biarritz, Sarasate was once called a genius by a famous critic. But Sarasate frowned and shook his head.

"'A genius!' he said. 'For thirty-seven years I've practiced fourteen hours a day, and now they call me a genius!'"

Tonsillotomy Overdone.

The tonsil is useful in human throats, also animal throats. When a tonsil is so large as to almost fill the throat, it will be well to remove a portion of it. An adenoid, unless it is large enough to fill the breathing space at the back of the nostrils, will do no harm to let it stay and no good to remove it. Neither will colds be prevented or their cure hastened by any tonsil or adenoid operation.—Exchange.

Deserved Tribute to America.

Dr. George Kerschensteiner, the German vocational expert, is impressed by the success of the American public schools in the task of assimilating immigrants. "What the great cities have been doing in transforming immigrants from all parts of the world into thinking citizens," he declares, "seems to me, from my personal observations in the country itself, to be unexampled in the history of education of civilized nation."

Wisdom.

"Do you notice that your son has really learned anything in college?"

"Yes, he has learned that my ideas are those of an old fogy, and that he would be false to his trust if he did not do his best to bring me to a realization of my pitiable condition."

Why Not Be Allowed to Sleep?

A patent has been granted a New Yorker for a burglar alarm that awakens a person by spraying him with water as he lies asleep in bed.

No Change.

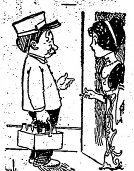
"You know you thought you wouldn't like living in a flat; have you changed your mind since moving into this one?"

"No, there isn't room to change anything."

Greatest Problem.

The greatest problem in a woman's life is not the soul problem, or the sex problem, or the suffrage problem, but how to look made to order on a ready-to-wear income.—Tatler.

GAVE HIMSELF AWAY.



Lady of the House—Is your milk richer than Skinnem's?

Milkman—Well, it's purer.

Lady of the House—How do you know?

Milkman (absently)—I have a filter on my pump.

The Reign of Woman.

Women will serve as public porters and dining car waiters on the special train which is to carry the Illinois suffragists to the Washington parade, and except for the train crew and solitary man to shine shoes it will be an example of feminized railway transportation. The male shoeblack prompts masculine reflections on the division of menial labor under the new dispensation. But mere man may take heart. The time is still remote when there will be women at locomotive throttles or in the more responsible posts in railroad operation.—New York World.

A young man should learn to paddle his own canoe, even if his father does own a motor boat.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILD, Beatrice, Neb.

The Other Case.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

Italy's Fight Against Malaria.

Reports from American consular officers in Genoa and Leghorn, prepared in response to inquiries from the United Sates as to the market in Italy for a remedy for malaria, show that the prevalence of malaria in that kingdom has steadily declined in recent years, mainly due, it is stated, to the energetic measures of the Italian government. Quinine prepared at the State Military Pharmacy at Turin is said by Consul General James A. Smith to be on sale at all government tobacco shops at four cents a gram and is distributed gratis to poor patients. Consul Frank Deedmeyer writes that in 1911 the number of deaths in Italy caused by malaria was estimated at 3,500 in a total population of over 33,000,000.—Daily Consular and Trade Reports.

TO PROBE DISASTER

TERRIBLE STORY TOLD BY SURVIVORS OF DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

DEATH RAIN OF HOT METAL

After Blowing Up of Cargo in Lower Harbor of Baltimore—Many Lives Lost in Attempt to Save the Crew of Ill-Fated British Vessel.

Baltimore, March 11.—Investigation have been begun to ascertain the cause and fix the blame for the disastrous explosion of dynamite in the hold of the British tramp steamer Alum Chine, lying at anchor in the lower harbor, which brought death to more than forty persons and serious injury to three score more and caused property loss of more than $250,000. One investigation already has been completed by the city authorities but no definite conclusion reached because the accident occurred outside the city limits.

Federal Authorities Apprised.

Immediately after the accident the federal authorities at Washingtonn were apprised of the serious damage to the new collier Jason, which was near the anchorage of the ill-fated Alum Chine and was about to be accepted by the navy department. Word was received that the department would inquire into the disaster. At the same time it is probable an investigation will be undertaken by the interstate commerce commission which has jurisdiction over the shipment of explosives in American waters.

Because most of the crew of the destroyed steamer were subjects of Great Britain, the British consul at Baltimore, Gilbert Fraser, also will inquire into the explosion with the view of protecting the interests of the families of the killed and wounded Welshmen, and to make a report to the British admiralty. The coroner of Anne Arundel county will at once impanel a jury and this probably will complete the number of inquiries to attempt the fixing of blame for the disaster.

Authorities who have made a partial examination express the opinion, however, that the real cause of the explosion will never be definitely learned, chiefly because those who might give information either are among the dead or are so seriously maimed and injured they will never be in a position to make a statement regarding the accident. The general theory, which seems to be borne out by the statement of eye witnesses to the tragedy, is that the coal in the vessel's bunkers was set afire by spontaneous combustion and the flames were communicated to the dynamite.

Early reports of the extent of the loss of life aboard the destroyed steamer and the other vessels lying in her immediate vicinity materially differed and even yet no accurate list of those who lost their lives has been compiled. It is accepted, however, that the list will total between forty and fifty dead and almost as many more were injured. Several of the former died at the hospitals here.

It is regarded as almost certain that all the bodies have not yet been recovered from the waters of the harbor, while others may never be recovered.

Those who escaped death in the explosion brought vivid but disconnected accounts of the explosion when they reached the city with the dead and wounded.

Captain J. R. Thompson, captain of the new collier Jason, which was to have taken its trial trip, had a narrow escape, when hurled boxes of dynamite crashed onto the Jason's decks and exploded with death-dealing fury. He had seen the smoke issuing from the Alum Chine's hold.

Immediately after the first shock of the accident, Capt. Thompson ordered his men to make a close inspection of the entire ship. They found many holes in its side. Pieces of iron went straight through the plate, which in spots was three-fourths to seven-eighths of an inch thick.

One hole was big enough for a man to put his head through. This hole is eight feet above the water line. Other holes are near the water line.

William E. Van Dyke of Baltimore, captain of the wrecked tug Atlantic, lost his life in heroically rushing to the aid of the imperiled British seamen in the doomed Alum Chine, and his vain effort carried with him to death many members of his crew.

ERUPTION LIKE PIMPLES

Wathena, Kan.—"My child's scalp trouble became so bad that I was ashamed to have anyone see him. His head had a solid scab on it. He also had a terrible breaking out on his face which was gradually growing worse. The eruption was like pimples which developed into sores when he scratched, which he did almost constantly. Baby would almost scratch himself raw.

"I had used several different kinds of salve, none of them helping in the least bit, when I saw the Cuticura advertisement in the paper and it made me think of the good results my sister had when she used it for her children. I had only used Cuticura Soap and Ointment about two weeks before I noticed that the sores were almost entirely gone, and it must have been a month or six weeks he was troubled before I began the treatment. He would get easy when I would put the Cuticura Ointment on him. Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured him and he has a clear complexion now." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Hughes, Dec. 31, 1911.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Pipestone.—E. E. Cooper sold his quarter section farm in Nobles county to B. P. Weise for $175 an acre.

Hibbing.—The skip of the Morton mine, a state property, broke loose killing John Touri and Frank Norrlund, and probably fatally injuring John Manista.

St. Cloud.—The robbery of the Frank Lahr residence has been solved and Augusta King, aged 17, has confessed to the theft of a quantity of household goods.

Fergus Falls.—Herman Meyer, a young man of the town of Effington, fell from a load of wood and died from the effects of his injuries. He was married only a few weeks ago.

St. Cloud.—The March graduates of the St. Cloud normal school and those who completed their work in January were given their diplomas. Dr. W. A. Shoemaker, president of the school, delivered an address.

Cambridge.—The Lewis dry goods store was broken into and the cash register carried off. It contained only about $10. Entrance was gained by breaking the windows in the rear. No clue has been found.

Hibbing.—The skip of the Morton mine, a state property, broke loose killing John Touri and Frank Norrlund and probably mortally injuring John Maninsta. The skip was used in hoisting ore in the mine. When it broke it dashed down the shaft.

Owatonna.—The Owatonna Commercial club held a banquet and reception at the Owatonna hotel in honor of Senator Thomas E. Cashman, at which about one hundred and fifty business and professional men joined in congratulating him on the passage of the Cashman distance tariff bill in the Senate. Many well-known farmers joined in the affair.

St. Cloud.—Five attorneys are arrayed in a minor justice court case brought by Hubert Hanson, guardian for Cresentia Skelly, incompetent, to oust Karl Kortt from a farm in St. Augusta town. The question of a renewal of a lease is all that enters into the case. Three attorneys appear for the guardian and two for the defendant.

Crookston.—A fire, the origin of which is not known, broke out in the rear of the Royal Blue store and ruined the $3,000 stock and damaged the W. W. Reyleck drygoods stock adjoining by water and smoke. The two stores are in the Fontaine block, one of the landmarks of Main street. Little damage was done to the building.

Pipestone.—The Cashman distance tariff bill was threshed out at a public mass meeting held here Monday evening. Senator Cashman spoke in defense of his measure, and J. H. Beek, secretary of the St. Paul Association of Commerce, spoke against the bill. The Pipestone Commercial club, has gone on record as favoring the measure.

St. Paul.—Clem Bofferding, tried in Minneapolis on the charge of manslaughter for running down and causing the death of Hanic Sigel, October 7, was found not guilty by the jury. Bofferding has still to face two suits growing out of the accident. One in behalf of the estate of the victim demands $7,500 damages. The other, brought by Mrs. Sigal through her children, asks $12,500.

Rochester. — Rochester's annual charter election, which falls on March 11, promises to be the tamest ever known here, all candidates seeking reelection practically having no opposition. Efforts to stir up party strife by placing two tickets in the field met with failure, and candidates nominated at caucuses failed to file within the legal time, leaving the field clear for those seeking re-election.

Minneapolis.—The recovery of John Ihle, the agricultural student whose neck was broken in a wrestling match at an amateur athletic entertainment in Minneapolis Thursday night, was not expected at St. Barnabas hospital where he lay in a delirious condition. The young man was operated on for the purpose of removing the pressure of the fractured vertebra against the spinal cord and freeing him of the paralysis which had affected him from his neck down, but the operation disclosed that the cord had been lacerated and failed to remove the paralysis. It was then thought that his death would be only a matter of hours.

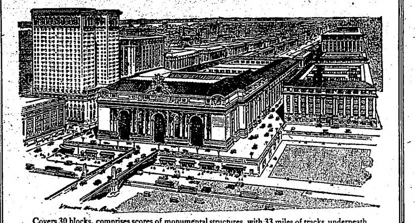
Duluth.—Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Bjorge of this city feel assured of the safety of their son, Guy N. Bjorge, who was reported to have been captured with William Leslie Taylor by Indians in the jungles of Venezuela. A cablegram reached here reading: "We received cablegram from your son stating that they (Bjorge and Taylor) were attacked by Indians last Friday. Narrow escape, but are now well at El Guaybo. Haye cabled for information. We have every reason to believe that press messages in error, after talking with officials here." The message is signed by the New York company which employed Bjorge and Taylor.

Badger.—The farm home of M. W. Simmons was destroyed by fire Sunday noon. The family was away and the origin of the fire is not known. Nothing was saved. Simmons lost all his property two years ago in the forest fires near Roosevelt.

Pipestone.—Fire at Fairview, a small town southwest, caused a heavy loss in the business district. The flames originated in the barber shop of G. N. Lewis and spread to the hardware store of A. P. Overseth. Both of these business places were destroyed, together with the exchange of the telephone company.

Rochester.—Butler Brothers of St. Paul, who have charge of the construction of a large addition to St. Mary's hospital in this city, are to be named defendants in an action in which damages amounting to $25,000 will be sought by Eugene Welch, a boy, who it is alleged was seriously injured while at work on the structure.

Glydon.—Miss Ina Skein, who was a teacher in a school near here, was shot and seriously wounded by Bernie Tinjun, a jealous lover. Tinjun then ended his own life.



Covers 30 blocks, comprises scores of monumental structures, with 33 miles of tracks underneath.

New Grand Central Terminal

A wonderful city, within a city, built for the comfort and convenience of the traveling public.

The main Grand Central Terminal Building in New York is now open to the public. This vast improvement is more than a great railway Terminal—it is a Terminal City, complete in itself, providing every detail essential to comfort and convenience.

It will embrace convention, amusement and exhibition halls, hotels, clubs and restaurants; post office, express offices, modern apartment and office buildings, and numerous stores and specialty shops.

Grand Central Terminal is the Heart of New York. At Forty-second St. and Park Ave. (Fourth Ave.), one block from Fifth Ave. and convenient to Broadway.

It is the only Terminal on all lines of local traffic—subway, surface and elevated. More than 7,000 cars pass its doors every day, affording easy transit facilities to any part of Greater New York. Around it, and within a radius of a few blocks, are forty-nine hotels, fifty-eight clubs and thirty-five theatres.

Three new lines of underground transportation are now building to Grand Central Terminal, and soon there will be six levels for human traffic in Forty-second Street.

Underneath the Terminal City and its streets are 33 miles of railway tracks on two separate levels, the upper for Through Service, the lower for Suburban Service.

Each level forms a complete terminal in itself, separate entrances and exits, with equal facilities for the comfort of passengers.

Both levels are reached by gently inclined walks. No stair climbing, and no confusion, since incoming and outgoing traffic is separated.

Ticket, Pullman, Baggage and other facilities are progressively arranged from waiting room to train, no step need be retraced.

Plan your trip East over the New York Central Lines; enjoy restful sleep on the "Water Level Route," three hours of picturesque grandeur along the historic Hudson and enter

Cheap Way to Mount Pictures.

To mount pictures inexpensively for the nursery or children's bedrooms, cut all the white margin off the picture, then get some thin, smooth boards 1½ inch larger all around than the picture; stain the boards with dark oak stain about two inches round the edge; varnish them, then paste the picture on the board, leaving an even edge of the stained wood all round; hang on the walls in the usual way.

STRENGTH

Without Overloading The Stomach.

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach, but give mental vigor for the day.

Much depends on the start a man gets each day, as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand.

He can't be alert, with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast requiring a lot of vital energy in digesting it.

A Calif. business man tried to find some food combination that would not overload the stomach in the morning, but that would produce energy.

He writes:

"For years I was unable to find a breakfast food that had nutrition enough to sustain a business man without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments.

"Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape-Nuts.

"Since that morning I have been a new man; can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and quiet.

"I find four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with one of sugar and a small quantity of cold milk, is delicious as the cereal part of the morning meal, and invigorates me for the day's business." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest. Adv.

"Whom God hath joined together, let no man put assunder." How little the courts value this admonition is seen in the report that in the United States during 1912 over 100,000 divorces were granted, and in the last forty years 3,700,000 adults were legally separated.

Quite frequently we are advised to "rip someone up the back" or "bawl 'em out". Say he deserves it and they don't see why we don't do it. Friends, we are NOT in the roasting business. Apply at a creamatory, or go to the d—l. If you have it in for someone go to him and fight it out like a man. Don't try to mix the printer up in your troubles. He has troubles of his own. None of we poor mortals here below perfect, not by a long shot, and other people may think that you yourself deserve special attention.

Editor Hansen, of the Gully Reporter, and Mr. Melbo, also of that place, were here last Friday evening en route to Erskine.

Best Known Cough Remedy

For 43 years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known thruout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? HAVE SEA-SERPENT AT LAST Hideous-Looking Monster of the Deep Reported Captured Alive by Fishermen of Messina.

According to the Messina correspondent of the Courriere di Milan, the inevitable sea serpent has at last been captured alive by fishermen while it was heading along the shore in the wake of an English yacht.

The correspondent, however, has not personally seen the monster, although he states that he is on his way up the coast to do so. Meanwhile, he makes the facetious remark that from the detailed descriptions which he has received English tourists in Italy may favor the view that it may possibly be Sir Rider Haggard's East Anglian sea serpent taking a holiday in a warmer clime.

These details proclaim that the terrified fisherfolk at Tremestieri found the monster caught in their nets one morning, and after infinite trouble succeeded in landing him. "This enormous and horrible denizen of the deep weighs, it is estimated, about 600 pounds, has a prominent back, measures nine feet eight inches across the body, which is taller than a man, and terminates in a tail of even greater length, which is long and curled up like that of a pig."

Its average thickness is about twenty inches, its head seems to be formed of two huge earlike fins set some four inches aptrt, in the midst of which are its eyes. It has a rectangular mouth four inches wide, while along under its body are half a dozen apertures evidently used for breathing purposes. The skin is said to be fine and soft, and the color of that of human beings, "although marked here and there by mole-like spots."

The Messina correspondent seriously adds that a number of scientific experts have hurried to the spot and are absolutely dumbfounded and quite unable to classify the creature, which is kept alive in a small inlet on the beach of Tremestieri by the entrance being staked off.

Trousseaux.

In ancient Greece the trousseau were made by all the women of the bride's house. Later the Merovingian chiefs exacted that their brides should come to the marriage bringing all their possessions. When the daughter of the seigneur of Covey married, her trousseaux, or "trousses," included "nine servitors, thirty liegemen, a chaplain, and an astrologist." The customs of the seigneurs evolved popular "fashions," and, high and low, the women multiplied their garments and the fashions of them.

Under the empire, the trousseau was composed of jewels, lace, fine underwear, bonnets, and veils.—Harper's Weekly.

NOTABLE VICTORY FOR THE PEOPLE

Upsetting of Western Classification 51 Means Much.

RAILROADS LOSE BIG CASE

Chairman Thorne of Iowa Commission Tells How the Shippers and Consumers of the West Benefit by the Decision.

Des Moines, Ia., March 13.—The people of the United States have had Iowa to thank for a number of excellent things, and to the list must be now added an achievement that means a great deal to the shippers of the entire west from the Mississippi to the Pacific. Especially are those shippers under obligations to the Iowa state board of railroad commissioners and its chairman, Clifford Thorne.

This achievement is the suspension and revision, by the interstate commerce commission, of an entire freight classification, known as Western classification No. 51, and on March 31 the several hundred changes made to conform to the commission's order will go into effect. Shippers and consumers alike will benefit by the revision.

Iowa Leads the Fight.

Iowa's commission was by no means alone in the good work, but it took the initiative in the case and assumed the chief part of the burden of preparing and trying it. Sixteen western state railroad commissions united in the fight, and Mr. Thorne was the chairman of the committee representing them. He gives much credit to Benjamin L. Jacobson, who had general charge of gathering the evidence and preparing the specific cases for trial, and to A. D. Beals, Iowa's rate expert.

Mr. Thorne today had this to say of the big case and its outcome:

"One day during the summer of 1911 I was seated in a hotel parlor in Milwaukee. In one end of the room there were sixteen men in their shirtsleeves, talking and listening occasionally to a person standing in the center of the room; two or three minutes were allowed to the gentleman talking; he took his seat and another person told a short story; and so on, during the course of the whole day.

Powerful Group of Men.

"This small group of men exercised more power than any other similar group, perhaps, in the United States. Some nine hundred railroads, large and small, interested in traffic between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast, have organized what they call a western classification committee of about eighty-five members. These eighty-five men have selected a sub-committee of sixteen men. This sub-committee, which is dominated by one or two individuals, determines the freight ratings on over 7,000 articles, on which 35,000,000 people have to pay traffic between about 20,000 towns, located between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. This is one of the three important classification committees in America, the other two being the official, covering the northeastern portion of the United States, and the Southern.

"For the first time in the history of American railroads an entire classification of one of these three great freight classification committees has been suspended by the federal government. And the committee I have described has been making a revision of its former work, in accordance with the decision which was rendered by the interstate commerce commission recently, known as the decision in the case of Western classification No. 51. The railroads have just submitted to the commission a list of several hundred changes in this classification to conform to the commission's order, and these will go into effect March 31. The opinion in this case, next to the one rendered in the express case, is perhaps the longest ever written by the interstate commerce commission. The case is of national importance. Many of its features are unique, and of profound concern to the consumers of the country.

Sixteen States United.

"Many shippers and shippers' organizations were parties to this case. But perhaps the most interesting feature was the fact that on behalf of the consumers the railroad commissions of sixteen great states appeared. These states were Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Colorado, Nevada, Washington and Oregon. On the one hand we had the representatives of some nine hundred railroads, and opposed to them the representatives of sixteen state governments, with the interstate commerce commission as the deciding tribunal. The hearing in the case lasted about a year.

"Western Classification No. 51 involves more changes than any other tariff publication ever issued by American railroads. The work done in preparation for this issue is said to have cost the railroads approximately $500,000.

Most Important Phases.

"Of the many phases of the decision the first in importance are the rules and regulations. The carriers proposed many changes. These are applicable to every city, town and hamlet west of the Mississippi river. The state commissions made objections to fourteen of these rules, and changes were made or ordered in twelve of them.

"A concrete illustration of these concerns the dunnage allowance. Prior to the issuance of No. 51, the carriers permitted the shippers to use lumber and boards to prop up machinery in a car, the railroads hauling 500 pounds of such lumber free of charge. No. 51 abolished the dunnage privilege, and the commission ordered it reinstated. When one considers the thousands of shipments that are made annually, the importance of such a ruling can be appreciated.

"Another change of importance to the western half of the United States concerns green hides. The carriers put in a rule permitting them to refuse to take green hides for shipment. We pointed out that they could be stored or handled in live stock cars, and not contaminate other commodities, and claimed that the carriers should be compelled to accept the same for transportation. Our position was sustained by the commission.

Minimum Rate Ruling.

"Several hundred advances were proposed by the railroads in minimum weights. They announced their policy to be the establishment of minimums upon the physical capacity of the cars, refusing to take into consideration the commercial conditions surrounding the transportation.

Carload Mixtures.

"One of the most important parts of this case concerns carload mixtures. The carriers proposed the elimination of carload mixtures on 234 articles, and proposed changes restricting carload mixtures on more than three hundred other articles. One of the most important changes affecting carload mixtures, which serves as an illustration of the effect of such changes, concerns binding twine. Prior to the issuance of No. 51, the carriers permitted binding twine to be shipped mixed with agricultural implements, all of which took carload rates. In No. 51, they proposed to apply less than carload rates on all shipments of binding twine made in this manner. This would have caused an advance of about one hundred per cent in the freight rates on binding twine, and more than ninety per cent of all binding twine shipments, we were told by the largest shippers in the country, would be affected by this hundred per cent advance.

"As indicating the policy of the carriers, thirty-two articles had carload mixtures granted to them, while over five hundred articles were totally eliminated from carload mixtures, or the mixtures were changed or restricted. The interstate commerce commission has ordered the carriers to pursue diametrically the opposite course. Instead of restricting mixtures, they are instructed to make them more liberal.

"In addition to these changes in rules, the commission made specific orders disapproving advances on a long list of articles. The decision in this case is the most epoch-making on clasification matters ever rendered by the interstate commerce commission."

MUST LOVE THE LITTLE FOLK

Otherwise the Girl Who Adopts Profession of Children's Nurse Will Not Succeed.

The great essention for any girl adopting the profession of children's nurse is that she must have a great love for the wee folk, to be able to enter into their feelings, to sympathize with their sorrows and joys. A child's nurse must not be a cynic. She must know the importance of little things to children, must know that the molehills of grown-ups are the mountains of boys and girls. Nowadays the children's nurse must be a comrade and companion as well as mentor to her young charges, but the latter role must never be over-emphasized.

It is well, too, for any girl desiring to become a nurse of this kind to go somewhere and obtain the proper training for the position. It is a big advantage when seeking employment.

Briefly, the nurse of children must be able to superintend the children's health, their good, their clothes and their lessons—not at all onerous duties to the girl who is fond of children.—Exchange.

Not Long to Wait.

Bumble—Why didn't you get on the water wagon?

Books Speak.

Books carry with them a charm of their own. They speak of cosy indrawings about the evening lamp. Few things add so much of warmth and liveableness to a room as shelves of "used" books.

Saving Time.

"Roosevelt Named for 1916." But why stop there? Why not for 1920, 1924 and 1928? It would save both time and the cost of holding conventions.—New York Evening Post.

Envious and Unable.

Tarrytown naturalists report a hen which attempted suicide because she was unable to lay eggs. Some one must have shown the poor fowl what eggs are fetching.—New York Evening Sun.

Modest Man.

Tailor—You have inherited a lot of money; why don't you settle my bill? Owens—My dear sir, I won't have it said for anything that my newly acquired wealth caused any departure from my simple habits."

Removing Grease From Paint.

A paste made from ordinary whiting applied wet and permitted to dry before it is rubbed off, will remove grease from paint without injuring the latter.

His Position.

He was a minister of the old school and was catechizing the children on their biblical knowledge. "Who was Isaac?" at length he asked. "Please, sir," replied a small girl eagerly. "Please, sir, he was Rebekah's man."

Those Bills.

"Yes, indeed, it's astonishing how many people call to see me when I'm not at home," remarked Mrs. Trifle. "It's always that way on the first of the month," replied the lady from next door with a very knowing smile.

Cleaning Ivory.

In cleaning ivory knife handles, rub them well with half a lemon dipped in hot salt. This will make them beautifully white. After this treatment they should be well washed in cold water and thoroughly dried.

$250,000 BURGLARY

ROBBERS SUCCESSFULLY LOOT A PAWNSHOP BY TUNNEL METHOD.

SIX CRACKSMEN INVOLVED

Saw Hole in Floor to Avoid Burglar Alarm—Hack Safe to Pieces and Escape with Rich Haul.

New York, March 18.—An East Side burglary, perpetrated by clever cracksmen, netted the thieves the largest haul obtained in New York city in many years.

Pawn Broker's Victims.

Martin Simons & Sons, pawn brokers in Hester street were the victims. They declare the property stolen will amount to more than $250,000. Fifty thousand dollars in securities was taken.

Later, $40,000 in securities was found scattered on the floor of the vault, the robbers evidently having been afraid to take them owing to the risk of detection in their disposal. The thieves entered the pawn brokers' richly stored vault by means of a tunnel from a building abutting on a neighboring street.

The police are of the opinion that six cracksmen were employed on the job and that the tunnelling required all of last night and the greater part of Sunday morning. It is their belief that the robbery took place while hundreds of persons were passing along the street in front of the pawnshop.

A janitress, peering through the window of the shop late yesterday, noticed the litter near the vault and gave the alarm.

Police Find Tunnel.

The police found that the tunel was begun in the cellar of a house in Eldridge street, directly adjoining Simons' place. It was driven through the wall of the Eldridge street house and into the wood bin in the cellar of the Simons store. There, leading up into the pawnbrokers' shop, is a flight of stairs. They were wired for a burglar alarm, however, and the thieves avoided them and sawed away the overhead flooring at a spot in front of the vault.

The vault, which stands 12 feet high and is built into the wall, was entered by chopping away the masonry. Simons & Sons have been in business in Hester street for a number of years. It was liberally patronized because the interest charged was below the legal rate.

Another thing that seemed to point to the up-to-date business acumen of the looters was that they left behind them three pairs of gloves. The police are of the opinion that the cracksmen wore gloves in robbing the vault, realizing the extent to which the finger print bureau of the police department is capable of going in detecting crooks who leave impressions of their fingers at the scenes of their crimes.

BURNED AND ITCHED BADLY

539 Lincoln Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill. —"A year ago I received a very severe burn on my left arm. I caught cold in it and it was all sore and ulcerated. The sore was as large as a silver dollar. It was all red and inflamed and had pus running out of it. I suffered terribly from burning pain; could not sleep for two weeks it burned and itched so badly. I applied —— Salve, —— Salve and a salve my druggist recommended as his own, but got no relief. I then commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed the burned parts with Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment on a linen bandage. I got relief from the first, and my arm healed nicely. I was soon able to be at work again. Had I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment at first I would have avoided lots of suffering." (Signed) Harry Junke, Mar. 9, 1912.

Universal Hero.

For America, at least, there is the one universal hero. No one questions his greatness. None names him but to praise.

Who is this universal hero?

Is it Napolean? Many condemn him, as Ingersoll did, as the "imperial personification of force and murder." No, it is not Napoleon.

Washington, then? Wendell Phillips said: "But the great Virginian held slaves." So, even Washington had his detractors.

Lincoln? Perhaps later on; but not yet.

Well, who is this universal hero of America?

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Week's History in Gopher State Told in Paragraphs.

Winona.—The village of Utica has voted bonds of $7,500 for the erection of a new school building.

Lakefield.—Business men held a meeting and perfected plans looking to an organization of a commercial club.

Winona.—Rev. H. J. Rasmusson for fifteen years pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church, left for Blooming Prairie to accept a call.

Anoka.—A new factory to manufacture bobsleds and harrows will be built here. The incorporators are D. S. Gow, Dr. H. L. Russell and D. E. Russell.

Winona.—Christian Brosig, 80 years old, an early and wealthy settler in Winona county, died at the homestead near Altura village. He had been ill for a year but his death was unexpected.

Winona, Minn., March 12.—William Caine, said to be the last surviving member of the original John Brown's raiders, died here suddently, aged 76. He attended the semicentennial celebration held recently at Pottawatomie, Kan.

St. Paul.—Judge Homer B. Dibell of Duluth, and M. D. Taylor, of St. Cloud, who were named Supreme Court commissioners under the law passed by the Legislature this week, will assume their duties at the April term of the Supreme Court, which opens April 1.

Owatonna.—Soon after Jacob H. Huber, 22 years old, left his home in this city and walked toward the river workmen reported that a corpse had been seen floating near the bridge. Huber is believed to have been drowned, and the river is being dragged for his body.

St. Paul.—The fifty-fifth anniversary of the admission of Minnesota to the Union will be celebrated by the Minnesota Territorial Pioneers' association at its annual meeting May 11, the anniversary date. The Pioneer Women's club will hold a meeting the same day. Both will be at the old Capitol.

Lakefield.—An enthusiastic meeting of farmers and business men was held to protest against further seining of Heron lake. It appears that all the game fish in the lake are being destroyed. A monster petition was sent to Representative Crawford asking that a bill be enacted to preserve the fish in the lake and prevent further seining.

Duluth.—The most severe storm of wind, sleet and snow this winter is raging throughout the Northwest to the Canadian boundary. Train service to Duluth is delayed from five to six hours. Street car traffic almost is stalled. Power house wires got mixed with telegraph wires near Carlton, Minn., early in the day. All electric power was cut off from the city for an hour or more.

Minneapolis.—That teachers and pupils have their work crowded in a school day much too short was decided at a meeting of the educational committee of the Minneapolis board of education. It was recommended that the school day be lengthened to comprise the hours between 9 a. m. and noon and between 1:15 p. m. and 3:45 p. m. Study at school instead of work at home also was recommended.

St. Paul.—James Hoover awoke this morning to find that he had been sleeping with a corpse. He found his roommate, George O'Neil, 26 years old, dead beside him. The man had apparently been dead for several hours. His lips were burned and swollen, giving evidence of suicide. Hoover notified the proprietor of the Transfer hotel, where O'Neil boarded. They notified the police of the Prior avenue station.

Bemidji.—More than 300 acres adjoining Bemidji on the west have been reclaimed from useless swamp land to a condition that makes the tract fit for sale as city lots. The plat was accepted by the city council. The lowest lot is about 1,342 feet above sea level, and the street will be graded and put into condition for regular travel. More clearing will soon be done, and a second addition will be placed on sale early in the spring.

Winona.—Enormous damage was caused in this section by a storm which washed out mill dams, bridge and country roads. Dams are gone at Sugar Loaf, a suburb of Winona, and at Blair, Arcadia, Whitehall, Pigeon Falls and Ettrick in Wisconsin, accross the river from here. White hall is in darkness, with the power house flooded and threatened because of the breaking of the dam behind it. At Minnesota City residents are practically marooned, with two bridges out of commission. One is entirely gone and the other is unsafe, cutting off the only means of leaving the village until the streams can be forded. The snow which came on the heels of the rain is having a tendency to prevent greater loss, for the water is finding slower progress toward the streams.

Warren.—The Red River Valley conference of the Swedish Lutheran denomination met in Warren for a five-day session. This conference, which was organized one year ago, was formerly a part of the Minnesota state conference and this is its first annual meeting.

Bemidji, Minn., March 12.—In the shortest murder trial in the history of Beltrami county and one of the shortest in the state, August Johnson was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree for killing Sam J. Marin, a Bemidji saloonkeeper, on the night of February 1.

Mass. State Senator Suspended.

Boston, March 14.—The state senate suspended Senator John J. McDevitt because of charges which he recently made that a member of the legislature had attempted to bribe him. A committee decided that his charges were without foundation.

Steamer Lugano Abandoned.

Key West, Fla., March 14.—All hope of saving the British steamer Lugano, which ran ashore on Ajax reef while en route from Liverpool to Havana, has been abandoned.

Plea for Liberty.

Mrs. B. was entertaining a few friends and Elsie was allowed to remain in the room, provided she made no disturbance. But she was interested and talkative and asked so many questions that at last her mother became exasperated.

"Elsie, if you open your mouth another time, you'll have to go back upstairs. Now, remember!"

Elsie was accustomed to obey, so, for a long time, Elsie's lips were kept tightly closed. At last, however, she touched her mother and said softly:

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

In this age of research and experiment, all nature is ransacked by the scientific for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides in the past century, and among the—by no means least important—discoveries in medicine is that of Therapion, which has been used with great success in French Hospitals and that it is worthy the attention of those who suffer from kidney, bladder, nervous diseases, chronic weaknesses, ulcers, skin eruptions, piles, &c., there is no doubt. In fact it seems evident from the big stir created amongst specialists, that THERAPION is destined to cast into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. It is of course impossible to tell sufferers all we should like to tell them in this short article, but those who would like to know more about this remedy that has effected so many—we might almost say, miraculous cures, should send addressed envelope for FREE book to Dr. Le Clerc Med. Co., Haverstock Road, Hampstead, London, Eng. and decide for themselves whether the New French Remedy "THERAPION" No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 is what they require and have been seeking in vain during a life of misery, suffering, ill health and unhappiness. Therapion is sold by druggists or mail $1.00. Fougera Co., 90 Beekman St., New York.

Too Late for Answer.

Henry Watterson, the well-known American journalist, told this story at a recent dinner party:

"One day when I was the city editor of a small newspaper, a fine turkey was left at the office. We all hankered after the bird, but the editor finally claimed it, took it home, and had it cooked for dinner. The next day a letter was handed in to him, which he opened and read:

"'Mr. Editor—I sent you a turkey yesterday which had been the cause of much dispute among us. To settle a bet, will you please state in tomorrow's issue what the turkey died of?'"

Perils of the Aviator.

During one of the aviation meets a young woman went through the hangars under the guidance of a mechanic. After asking all the usual foolish questions that aviators and their assistants have to answer during a tour of inspection, she wanted to know: "But what if your engine stops in the air—what happens? Can't you come down?" "That's exactly the trouble," responded the willing guide. "There are now three men up in the air in France with their engines stopped. They can't get down and are starving to death."

IN A SHADOW.

Inveterate Tea Drinker Feared Paralysis.

Steady use of either tea or coffee often produces alarming symptoms as the poison (caffeine) contained in these beverages acts with more potency in some persons than in others.

"I was never a coffee drinker," writes an Ill. woman, "but a tea drinker. I was very nervous, had frequent spells of sick headache and heart trouble, and was subject at times to severe attacks of bilious colic.

"No end of sleepless nights—would have spells at night when my right side would get numb and tingle like a thousand needles were pricking my flesh. At times I could hardly put my tongue out of my mouth and my right eye and ear were affected.

"The doctors told me I was liable to become paralyzed at any time, so I was in constant dread. I took no end of medicine—all to no good.

"The doctors told me to quit using tea, but I thought I could not live without it—that it was my only stay. I had been a tea drinker for twenty-five years; was under the doctor's care for fifteen.

"About six months ago, I finally quit tea and commenced to drink Postum.

"I have never had one spell of sick headache since and only one light attack of bilious colic. Have quit having those numb spells at night, sleep well and my heart is getting stronger all the time." Name given upon request.

Postum now comes in concentrated, powder form, called Instant Postum. It is prepared by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, adding sugar to taste, and enough cream to bring the color to golden brown.

Instant Postum is convenient; there's no waste; and the flavor is always uniform. Sold by grocers everywhere.

Proceedings at the Minnesota State Capitol for the Past Week.

St. Paul, March 17.—Bills putting Minnesota in line with other states as to a uniform divorce law and a uniform wife desertion act will be introduced this week by the house judiciary committee, according to a statement by Representative C. E. Southwick of Wells to the Political Equality club of Minneapolis at the West hotel. The two bills are in the form recommended by committees of the American Bar assosiation, and are being considered by a subcommittee of the judiciary committee, consisting of S. R. Child, C. E. Southwick and Miles Porter. The changes from the present Minnesota laws would not be important, it is said.

Would Limit Land Sales.

As a means of barring land speculators from purchasing large tracts of state lands, Representative Frank Hopkins Saturday offered a bill prohibiting the sale of more than 320 acres to one person and requiring the purchasers to comply with certain rules for improvement. The contract of sale will require that the purchaser within seven years shall fence in twenty-five acres for pasture, shall cultivate at least 5 per cent of the tract, shall build a house and reside upon the land for a period of twelve months.

May Give Apportionment.

That the reapportionment bill will be accepted by the house just as it passed the senate, is the opinion of house leaders, though a definite decision has not been reached. The senate made a number of minor changes in the house bill, besides increasing the membership of both houses, but the changes were made in order to get the bill through the senate, and the friends of reapportionment are fearful of tinkering with the bill in conference and sending it back to the senate for another vote in different form.

Speaker Henry Rines' district was changed by the senate, and Mr. Rines was one of the men consulted yesterday about the program. As the bill passed the house, the speaker's county, Kanabec, was joined with Isanti and Mille Lacs in a district, while Anoka and Sherburne counties were made a district. The senate changed the districts to suit Senator C. L. Swanson of Fridley, coupling Anoka county with Isanti and putting Sherburne with Mille Lacs and Kanabec. This is not pleasing to the house members, but it is likely that they will stand for it rather than take a chance on the senate again.

If the house decides to accept the senate bill, it will only be necessary to accept the senate amendments and repass the bill in the house. If the house refuses to accept the senate amendments, there would have to be a conference and a compromise of some kind, sending the bill back for another vote in each house. Speaker Rines said yesterday that he did not care to take the responsibility for sending the bill back to the senate, and thus jeopardizing it after the victory has been won.

The Minnette telephone bill is coming up for action in the senate. This measure, which places telephones under the control of the railroad and warehouse commission, is being fought on the grounds that telephones should be placed under the supervision of a public utilities commission.

St. Paul, March 15.—Minnesota seems at last to be in a fair way of having a legislative reference bureau, the agitation for which began some years ago. The bureau, according to the Norton bill, which has passed the house, will be under the supervision of a commission to be composed of the president of the state university, the lieutenant governor and one other member to be appointed by the speaker of the house. Its active head will be the director, so-called, whose salary the commission will fix. He is to be assisted by such draftsmen, librarians, etc., as may be necessary.

The bureau is expected to collect and keep up-to-date "such information and material as will furnish the fullest possible information practicable upon all matters pertaining to current or proposed legislation. Its director is required to be capable of drafting bills and must assist in doing so when called upon by members.

Both houses have now approved Senator Clague's bill, which authorizes voters to pass upon the liquor license question in cities of the fourth class. Only towns and villages have local option under state laws, although some are authorized to refer the matter to voters by special charters.

Two more fish hatcheries will be established as a result of bills passed by the house. One will be located at Granite Falls, the other in St. Louis or Lake county, at a site to be designated later.

The house voted to appropriate $1,000 to the Cottonwood Agricultural Society. The money is to rebuild the fair building which was blown down.

Fifty thousand dollars is appropriated in Mr. Spooner's bill, which passed the house to investigate the feasibility of constructing a canal from Vermilion Lake and Lake of the Woods through the Red River valley and southward to Big Stone Lake; thence east to the Mississippi river, according to what is known as the Mershon plan. A survey of waterpowers in the district traversed is also proposed.

The project was attacked as visionary by Representative Nolan and as impracticable by Representative Harrison, of Washington county, himself a skilled engineer. The proposed canal, he said, would have to cross four divides. It would also cross a number of rivers at right angles, a thing unknown, Mr. Harrison said, in Europe. Mr. Hopkins, of Renville county, spoke at length in behalf of the bill, referring particularly to the advantage which would result to the state from the development of its waterpowers.

R. C. Dunn's automobile bill repeals the present law. It provides for a registration fee of $5 annually instead of $1.50 for three years, as at present, the new fee to be collected commencing January 1, 1915. The proceeds, which it is estimated by that time will amount to $250,000, are to go to the state road and bridge fund. The bill passed the house by a vote of 67 to 36.

St. Paul, March 14.—The senate by a vote of 40 to 17 has declared itself in favor of retaining the present system of assessment by county assessors. The tax commission believes this system results in inside discrepancies in valuation and recommended a system of assessment by county assessors to take its place. The recommendation was embodied in a bill introduced by R. C. Dunn which passed the house. It was defeated in the senate by the above vote.

The consideration of the initiative and referendum bill which was a special order yesterday was postponed until Tuesday next at 11 a. m.

A bill to make uniform the law of negotiable instruments was passed by the house. There is no law concerning this entire subject in force in this state. The matter is regulated largely by precedent. The decisions are now codified and reduced to the form of a statute. The bill is lengthy and makes a number of minor changes in the practice of treating paper of this character.

Oleomargarine Bill Passes.

The house passed the Peterson Oleomargarine bill designed to take the place of the statute last year declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. The bill requires the labeling of packages containing oleomargarine and pasting notices in restaurants, etc., where it is used.

An important section provides that it shall be unlawful to select animal or vegetable fats for the purpose of manufacturing oleomargarine to imitate butter of any shade of yellow. For the purposes of the act oleomargarine shall be deemed to be in imitation of butter when it has less than 55 per cent of white as determined by the color analyses and measurements of the national bureau of standards.

Mr. Preston's bill prescribing maximum hours of labor for women received the approval of the house. Under the bill these hours are nine in manufacturing establishments, ten in stores, restaurants, etc., and eight in telephone and telegraph offices.

It is provided in Mr. Campbell's bill to regulate the treatment of dependent, neglected and delinquent children, that where the mother is a widow or has no means of support, she may, on application to the probate or juvenile court, be paid a pension by the county not to exceed $10 a month.

To Prodvide For Vice Commission.

Mr. Kneeland and others have introduced in the house a joint resolution providing for the appointment of what is known as a "vice commission" similar to that now conducting an investigation in Illinois. The duty of this commission is stated in the following terms:

"To investigate the social and industrial conditons in the state pertaining to poverty, vice and crime, and their relation to each other, including the wage of women and children in industry as related thereto, and otherwise, and the conditions of defectives, dependents and delinquents in the state; to consider and suggest means and measures tending toward the prevention thereof and remedial legislation therefor."

New Way to Smuggle Diamonds.

New York, March 17. — Nathan Green, inventor of a new way to smuggle diamonds, pleaded guilty in the federal court and was fined $3,000. Green, a large diamond importer, had his agent in Amsterdam, Holland, send him loose diamonds worth $20,000 hidden in a specially constructed metal frame, inclosing the picture of an elderly woman. The scheme might have been successful had not the frame broken and the diamonds come rattling out.

Burke for U. S. Treasurer.

Washington, March 15. — Former Governor John Burke of North Dakota is among the foremost in President Wilson's consideration for appointment to the position of treasurer of the United States. Some of the governor's friends expect his nomination will be sent to the senate tomorrow.

Guilty of Two Murders.

Taft Chair Too Large.

Washington, March 17.—Changes the being made in the furniture of the executive offices at the White House, due to the enlargement of the cabinet and the fact that the desk and chair in President Wilson's private office do not quite meet his requirements. The chair, especially (for President Taft was not of meager girth) is said to be so large as to be uncomfortable. It will be replaced, as will the desk.

Danish Site Dedicated.

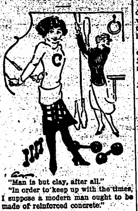
Castro Off For Hamburg.

New York, March 17.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, sailed from Hoboken for Hamburg.

A SUGGESTION.



"Man is but clay, after all."

"In order to keep up with the times, I suppose a modern man ought to be made of reinforced concrete."

The world likes a good loser, especially if it gets some of his money.

Equally as Good.

A Sunday school teacher in the middle west asked all of her pupils who wished to go to heaven to hold up their right hands. All did but one little girl.

"Why, Mary," said the teacher, "why don't you hold up your hand today, just as you did last Sunday when I asked the same question?"

"I know," said Mary, "but papa has just got tickets for Los Angeles."

Anyhow, Boy Had the Right Idea.

An overgrown schoolboy who found English grammar entirely beyond him was given the sentence "The girl purchased a hat" to diagram.

"Now, of what word is 'hat' the object?" asked the teacher, encouragingly.

"Hat is the object of girl," stammered the youth.

"Perhaps you're right," replied the teacher.

Its Nature.

"What's the weather report?"

"Blowing great guns."

"Great report!"

Woman Is As Old As She Looks

No woman wants to look old. Many in their effort to look youthful resort to the "beauty doctor's" prescriptions. Their mistake is that they visit the wrong department in the drug store.

Beauty depends upon health.

Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders, irregularities and weaknesses of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.

To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

This famous medicine strikes at the very root of these enemies of your youthful appearance. It makes you not only look young, but feel young.

Your druggist can supply you in liquid or tablet form; or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y. and a trial box will be mailed you.

The ground hog's reputation as a weather prophet has been sadly shattered.

The pie hungry are somewhat disappointed in the manner Woodrow is slicing up the pie.

There is no use denying that Secretary of War Garrison has a very appropriate name for his particular job.

North Dakota evidentally has fewer evils to remedy than this state as the legislalture there has already adjourned

Pres. Wilson has postponed the extra session of the legislalture until April 7th when the tariff bills will be in readiness. Nothing as yet has been mentioned about "courrency reform."

The anti-Distance Tariff-ites seem to have gained but little prestige by there recent propaganda to create sentiment against the passage of this bill. The people in spite of it, believe that it is a mighty important piece of legislation and one that will greatly benefit every community.

A lady subscriber asks us for a recipe on how to make a carrot pie. It is some time ago, lady, since we made a carrot pie, but if we were to do it now we'd just take the carrots out of an eight carat diamond, sandpaper them and cook the carrots until you have to wade into the pot to find them. Pour in whitewash to suit the taste, mix with a little garlic to flavor, grate a tomato can into the pot ad vinigar or turpentine as preferred and feed to the dog. Then shoot the dog.

Postmaster General Burleson received his first set-back since taking the reins of office when the supreme court upheld his stringent order to enforce the newspaper publicity law, pending an investigation as to its constitutionality. Enough restrictions have been placed on the newspapers of late without making it necessary for them to confide their personal affairs to every Tom, Dick and Harry, and if our incoming postmaster general wants to increase the efficiency of his department he will find more important lines to work along than to enforce an obnoxious ruling that can absolutely be of no benefit to anybody.

Summarizing in a paragraph some of the advantages of good roads, a set of resoultions adopted by an Illinois Good Roads Association says: Improved roads mean better school and larger attendance, better health and quicker transportation, better farms and more cultivated land better crops and cheaper transportion, economic conditions and, more proudcers, better social conditions and less isolation, better church attendance and better citizens, better postal service and closer friends, better bussiness and more consumers, better industries and more employment, a better state and better nation." These are all things quite worth while. Good roads cost money but the returns compensate for the expenditure.

Don't throw away your old safety razor blades, but send them to-day well wrapped, and do not delay it until tomorrow.

Price 30c per dozen for all safety razor blades, which include Gillettes, Ever-Ready Gem, Auto-Strop, Enders, Keen-Kutter, and all other makes. Your blades will be returned to you in a few days, charges prepaid. Send coin or money order. No orders accepted under 30c.

LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY FROM TORNADO

HALF OF OMAHA SWEPT—OTHER TOWNS RAZED, AND DEATHS REPORTED FROM NUMBER OF MIDDLE WEST TOWNS.

LARGE DEATH LIST NOT CERTAINLY KNOWN YET

Lightning Fires Ruins—Wires Down and Details Hard to Get—Rescuers Struggling to Stricken Towns Over Washed Out Roads.

Chicago, March 25.—A terrific windstorm, causing widespread destruction and loss of life and practically wrecking the already demoralized telegraph service, raged over the central west and middle states. Reports from Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Indiana indicate heavy damage but owing to the wrecking of the telegraph lines, the reports are fragmentary and lacking in detail.

News of Destruction.

Omaha, Berlin, Ashland and Lutsn, Neb.—The latter towns near Omaha; Marshalltown, Ackley, Woodbine and Carroll, Iowa; Terre Haute, Ind., and Abiline, Kansas, are places from which scattering messages carrying the news of grave destruction have been received. For more than four hours no word was received from the stricken city of Omaha.

Late bulletins report that half the city was swept by a tornado. All wires are down and Berlin, a neighboring town, was said to be in flames. The message was received over a single long distance telephone wire which worked at intervals.

Terre Haute, Ind., suffered severely. Scores of persons were injured, an unknown number were overwhelmed in the ruin of houses blown down by the wind and many fires were started in different parts of the city.

First reports from Nebraska were that the towns visited by the storm had been wiped out and that the wreckage was on fire. Trains loaded with rescuers, nurses and physicians, were struggling toward the scene, being compelled to feel their way without running orders, owing to the paralysis of the telegraph service.

The loss of life and property in Iowa was less severe, according to messages from the storm district. Dust storms, rain, hail and tremendous electrical disturbances prevailed over Kansas and Nebraska the greater part of the day.

Where railroad service was impossible, motor cars were pressed into service and surgeons and supplies were rushed to the wrecked towns at the best possible speed, o washed out roads. Railroad

Lightning set fire to many houses. Men, women and children were crushed to death in bed. Some escaped to the cellars. Whole structures were blown away by the force of the wind. The maimed were rushed to hospitals as fast as they were extricated.

Trainmen Tell of Storm.

Des Moines, Iowa.—Members of the crew of a Rock Island passenger train brought news of high winds throughout western Iowa.

Six Perish in Iowa Town.

Sioux City, Iowa.—Six persons were killed, houses were unroofed and many thousands of dollars of damage was done at Woodbine, Iowa, last night, according to an unconfirmed report. Several persons are reported killed at Craig, Neb. There is only one wire out of Sioux City.

Oklahoma Hit By Storm.

Kansas City, Mo.—A terrific wind storm that raged over Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, was made more violent last night by the accompaniment of heavy rain and hail and much electrical disturbance.

Details of the severity of the storm are meager here, as telegraph and telephone lines are all out to the west, north and south.

Asks for Troops.

Lincoln, Neb.—Mayor Dahlman of Omaha, has asked the governor to call out the militia to prevent looting. Yutan, 16 miles north of Ashland, suffered the most of any city and 10 people are missing at the place, while 50 more are injured. With the water works out of commission at that place a fire broke out and the entire place was threatened with destruction.

A tornado forming near Greenwood yesterday, swept the eastern part of the state, resulting in the death of at least 20 persons, while 10 more are missing and over 100 are injured.

Wilson Unable to Fill Many Posts.

Washington, March 25. — President Wilson has reluctantly assented to the expressed determination of Chairman McCombs of the national Democratic committee to decline the proffered French ambassadorship. In a statement expressing his high regard for Mr. McCombs, the president declared that the diplomatic service of the United States is unnecessarily hampered by the fact that only men who have time and means to leave their business find themselves able to serve the government abroad.

OF CANNED FOODS

grocers, jobbers and manufac over the country are joining ing the week of March 31st to in an effort to acquaint house the economy and quality of canned foods.

It is now a well known fact that heat is the only preservative used in preparing these economical foods. The cans are sealed and sterilized at a temperature of 250 degrees, which prevents any contamination and keeps the contents fresh and wholesome as the day the tins were filled in the canneries.

National Canned Foods Week, during which dealers and grocers will make canned foods their sales-features, is for the purpose of demonstrating to housewives that the cost of living can be cut with such foods, and that they may be served in hundreds of delightful ways, and thus served daily without monotony.

The farmer's wife especially finds it advantageous to relieve herself of all the cooking possible and Canned Foods enable her to do this and at the same time improve the quality of her meals.

Women in every community should observe National Canned Foods Week by going to the dealers and putting in a supply. The saving and general satisfaction in the use of Canned Foods is entirely worth while.—Adv.

PISO'S REMEDY

Proceedings at the Minnesota State Capitol for the Past Week.

St. Paul, March 21.—The Cashman distance tariff bill is now a law. It is Chapter 90 of the General Laws of 1913. The governor signed it almost immediately upon receiving it from the legislature. His promptness in disposing of it is attributed to the fact that, while pressure was brought to bear to induce him to veto the bill, the friends of the measure were not less active. No sooner had the measure passed the house than messages began pouring into the executive office from commercial and other bodies in all parts of the state urging him to sign it.

Much Feeling Exhibited.

A great deal of feeling was manifested during the debate on the bill providing for a public domain department, and came out in a pronounced form in an atack made by Mr. Sawyer of Minneapolis on R. C. Dunn who opposed the bill. Mr. Sawyer recalled the attacks which had, towards the close of his term, been made on Mr. Dunn's administration of the auditor's office and charged C. H. Warner, the member from Aitkin county with complicity in shady transactions in dealings in public land. "Your skirts are not clear," he said.

Called D—est Liar.

Mr. Dunn, when Mr. Sawyer read from the report of the public examiner of the time reflecting on him, reported by saying that "the public examiner was the d—est liar in Minnesota." "A versatile cuss" was his characterization of Frank Stacy an employee of the public examiner's department. "Anyone," shouted Mr. Dunn, "who accuses me of having obtained a stick of timber or a part of land or a cent from mining property by questionable means is an unmitigated liar."

Prior to referring the bill the house adopted an amendment to it leaving the land department in charge of the auditor. The divorce of the two was the essence of the bill. If this could not be accomplished the reorganization features are generally thought not to be worth while. Other amendments reduced the salaries proposed materially, which turned some who hoped to profit by the passage of the bill from friends to opponents.

As To Number of Bills.

One hundred and eight bills were introduced in the house on the last day for introducing bills. This brings the total number of house bills up to 1,158. Eight hundred and thirty-seven bills have been introduced in the senate and the number will be increased daily for some time.

Among the more important house bills introduced were Mr. Bjornson's providing for submission to the people whether a constitutional amendment should be called; Mr. Ofsthun's for a gross earnings tax of 5 per cent on trust companies; Mr. Rhines' for a commission form of state government; Mr. Warner's and Mr. Wefald's for a commission to investigate all state departments; Mr. Orr's appropriating $500,000 for a state historical library building and Mr. Klemer's which is directed against brewery owned saloons.

St. Paul, March 20.—Yesterday was the last for introducing bills and they fairly poured into the hopper.

A bill of interest to sportsmen was offered by the committee on game and fish. It makes June 5 the opening day for the taking of black bass, gray and Oswego bass. May 29 is the present date.

Another change is the limiting of the catch for game fish to 15 a day. The present limit is 25.

Would Abolish Oil Department.

The abolishment of the state oil department and placing of oil inspection under the supervision of the state dairy and food department is urged in a report to the house by the committee on public accounts and expenditures, which has been investigating state departments. Accompanying the report is a bill to carry out the recommendations. The committee in its report says that the present system of inspection by an oil inspector and sixty-three deputies is inefficient and extravagant.

In 39 years Representative Lindberg estimates that insurance companies operating in the state have collected $139,000,000 in fire premiums and paid to policyholders $77,000,000. This, he believes, calls for investigation, and in a joint resolution he proposed a commission for an investigation of fire prevention and insurance rating in Minnesota. The committee is to be composed of two members from each legislative body and the state insurance commissioner and they are authorized to incur the necessary expense to secure information. The resolution, with a bill authorizing the investigation, carries an appropriation of $5,000.

For New Courthouse.

A building in which shall be housed the supreme court, the state historical society and the state law library at a cost of $500,000 was proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Orr of St. Paul. One of the conditions was that the historical society should contribute $50,000 of the amount.

Another effort to foist a tonnage tax on the state made its appearance in a constitutional amendment bearing the names of Representatives Frankson, H. H. Dunn and Bjorge. They want the people to vote on the question.

Representative Wafald wants the investigation of the various state departments continued. A bill introduced by him proposed a permanent committee to be known as the state reorganization commission, to be composed of three members, two of which shall be appointed by the speaker of the house and the lieutenant governor and the third by the two selected by the presiding officers. A fund of $3,000 for expenses was provided.

Commission Plan in State.

A commission plan of government for the state is proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Representatives Nolan and Pless and Speaker Rines. The bill provides for an amendment to the constitution changing the whole order of the state government.

Under such an amendment there would be only seven elective offices in the administrative branch of the state government. These would be governor, lieutenant governor, state auditor and four commissioners. The other branches of state government would be divided into four general departments, each department to be presided over by one of the commissioners.

St. Paul, March 19.—The legislative districts of the state are now reapportioned and the next legislature will consist of 67 senators and 130 representatives, an increase of 4 members in the lower house and 10 in the upper.

House Adopts Bill.

This result was brought about when the house adopted the senate amendment to the reapportionment bill by a vote of 94 to 16. Any extended debate was avoided when Rep. C. H. Warner moved the previous question on Rep. Frankson's motion that the bill be laid over for one day and that the senate amendments be printed in the Journal. This motion being put, it was declared lost by a vote of 23 to 77.

The reapportionment bill was at once brought to a final vote with the result as stated above. Those who voted in the negative on final roll call were Reps. Finke, Frankson, Johnson, A. C., Kimpel, Klenmer, Minnette, Olien, Papke, Peterson, P. A., Prince, Saggau, Stone, Swenson, Thorson, Wescott and Williams.

Of the three important bills passed yesterday it is understood the governor will sign all. Reapportionment has received a large share of the governor's attention at both this session and last and he has appeared as a leader in the fight for an equitable measure. The one passed meets with his approval in every respect excepting that he would like to see the senate cut down rather than increased.

Governor Will Sign.

The reapportionment bill passed is all that could be hoped for. The governor is certain to sign this bill.

Distance tariff also is a measure he is expected to sign. Many of the legislators are not at all certain whether the law will be a benefit or a hindrance. Some communities contend it will create a distinct benefit in their particular cases, while others, under different circumstances, take the opposite view. So it is not believed the governor will refuse to give the measure fair trial.

The initiative and referendum the governor urged in his last message and always has had a strong leaning toward placing considerable of the power of legislation in the hands of the people. It is thought certain that he will sign this measure.

Under a new rule adopted by the senate morning sessions will not be held for the present. The early hours will be given up to committee meetings. Regular sessions will be held only in the afternoons and evenings.

Temperance Reform Theories.

Representative Hopkins of Renville county aired his theories with regard to temperance reform when the temperance committee reported back the bill involving his views for indefinite postponement. In brief his plan is to issue saloon licenses without charging any but a nominal fee of $10 to cover expenses of publication, etc.

Secretary Bryan Reaches Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., March 20.—Secretary of State Bryan arrived here yesterday and was met at the station by reception committees from the state legislature and the local Bryan club, under whose auspices the annual Bryan birthday dinner is to be given tonight. Mr. Bryan was accompanied by Mrs. Bryan, his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, and Governor Dunne of Illinois. They were taken in automobiles to a local hotel, where Mr. Bryan held an informal reception.

Burke for U. S. Treasurer.

Washington, March 15. — Former Governor John Burke of North Dakota is among the foremost in President Wilson's consideration for appointment to the position of treasurer of the United States. Some of the governor's friends expect his nomination will be sent to the senate tomorrow.

Columbia, Mo., March 15.—Henry Lee Moore was found guilty in the circuit court here of the murder of his mother and grandmother.

Conn, the burglar under arrest in San Francisco, has not affected a reconciliation with her husband. Rev. Mr. Clarkson did not visit her at the home of friends as was expected. The five Clarkson children were put in seclusion by their father Saturday pending negotiations for a reconciliation with his wife.

Healthy Baby is Precious Blessing

To Make It Healthy and Keep it HealthyUse a Reliable Baby Laxative

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life. To start with a good digestive apparatus is to start life without handicap.

But as we cannot all have perfect working bowels we must do the next best thing and acquire them, or train them to become healthy. This can be done by the use of a laxative-tonic very highly recommended by a great many mothers. The remedy is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and has been on the market for two generations. It can be bought conveniently at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, and those who are already convinced of its merits buy the dollar size.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect and genuinely harmless. Very little of it is required and its frequent use does not cause it to lose its effect, as is the case with so many other remedies.

Thousands can testify to its merits in constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headaches, etc., among them reliable people like Mrs. M. Johnson, 752 Dayton St., Kenosha, Wis. She is the mother of little Dorothy Johnson who was always in delicate health until her mother gave her Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Johnson says:

Dorothy Johnson.

"I never saw such rapid improvement in the health of anyone. Syrup Pepsin is a wonderful remedy and I shall never be without it again." Thousands keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it from infancy to old age. The users of Syrup Pepsin have learned to avoid cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and other harsh remedies for they do but temporary good and are a shock to any delicate system.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin, and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington Street, Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

THE KNOW HOW

To Feed Children and Get Good Results.

There are more nervous persons made so by undigested food lying in the stomach than the average individual would suppose.

If food remains undigested in the stomach, it begins to ferment, set up gas and a large portion is thus converted into poison.

That's why imperfectly digested food may, and often does, cause irritation of the nerves and stupor of the mind—brain and nerves are really poisoned.

"My daughter had complained for some time of a distressed feeling in the stomach, after eating, which set me thinking that her diet was not right," writes an anxious and intelligent mother.

"She had been fond of cereals, but had never tried Grape-Nuts. From reading the account of this predigested food, it seemed reasonable to try Grape-Nuts for her case.

"The results were really wonderful. The little brain that seemed at times unable to do its work, took on new life and vigor. Every morning, now, before going to school, she eats the crisp little morsels and is now completely and entirely well, she seems to have a new lease on life—no more distress in the stomach, nor headache, but sound and well everyway." INHERITANCE CASES

ONE TAX JUST PAID DIVULGES ROMANCE OF NORTH WOODS.

$20,000 PAYMENT TO STATE

Two States, Minnesota and New Hampshire, Contend Over Fee in the Other Instance Which Involves Gilson Estate.

St. Paul.—A romance of the north woods and the range country which fairly rivals fiction is contained in the story of the life of Elisha H. Flinn of Detroit, Mich., multimillionaire, whose estate has just paid a $20,000 inheritance tax to State Treasurer Smith.

Was Poor Forty Years Ago.

Forty years ago Flinn, with two companions, Door and Murphy, comparatively poor, came from Michigan into the North country and bought what is now the townsite of Eveleth, Minn. They obtained the land for the timber there was on it, and subsequently disposed of the trees, although they were unable to sell the land itself.

It was not until 1894 that they began to realize their property contained some of the richest deposits of iron ore in the world. It made them all immensely wealthy, but Door and Murphy died before an inheritance tax law was passed and the state obtained nothing from their heirs. Flinn died a year ago, and his holdings were appraised at more than $500,000 at that time.

The estate still owns part of the original Eveleth townsite, but the town was moved some years after its founding to its present site, because its location was over one of the richest of the mines.

Two States Contending.

Minnesota and New Hampshire are contending for the inheritance tax on the estate of Edna M. Gilson, who died near Charlestown, N. H., September 14, 1912.

Miss Gilson left bonds, mortgages and stock in Minnesota property and corporations amounting to $390,969, real estate in this state appraised at $10,000, and $4,000 in North Dakota farm mortgages. They were in a safety deposit vault in Minneapolis at the time of her death and have been appraised by the Hennepin county probate court.

Made Will in Minneapolis.

According to Assistant Attorney General Stevenson Miss Gilson made a will in Minneapolis in which she said she was a resident of New Hampshire. She lived in Minnesota, however, part of each year and it probably will be put up to the courts to determine her legal residence at the time of her death. As New Hampshire has no reciprocal provision in its inheritance tax law, Mr. Stevenson is of the opinion the whole tax can be collected by Minnesota.

Owned Hotel Interest.

Miss Gilson formerly owned a part interest in the Nicollet hotel, Minneapolis, and was well known in that city, where some members of her family have lived for more than half a century.

PLENTY OF MOISTURE NOW

Farmers in Redwood County Begin Field Work—Some Wheat Already Planted.

Redwood Falls.—Dragging, seeding and field work generally, have been started in this section. Many farmers have sown some wheat, while others are preparing to plant. According to well-substantiated reports, there is an ample supply of moisture. The snow and a light rain have placed the soil in ideal condition.

The cool weather stopped many from planting seed, but it is expected that with the first warm day, the prairies will be alive with men and teams.

The seed problem is of little consequence this year. Nearly all of the farmers in Redwood county and vicinity have an ample supply. Some ground was broken last fall for alfalfa, and more will be prepared this spring. A. C. Schmahl, a Redwood county farmer, and Sears & Gold, who own one of the largest Holstein farms in the state, have experimented with the plant and succeeded in establishing large fields of it that yielded beautifully. It is believed that Redwood county has a future in alfalfa growing. All ruffage and feed have been unusually plentiful here the last year and stock raising farmers have cleared excellent profits from fattened cattle. There is practically no market for wild hay, as there was such an unprecedented yield last year. Farmers are remodeling their stacks with the intention to hold them over until next winter.

Stewartville to Have League.

Rochester.—With the "dry" element winning the recent election at Stewartville, blindpiggers will find a law enforcement organization hot on the trail should any effort be made to dispose of the beveridges on the side. An organization is being formed to be known as the Law and Order league, the primary object of which will be the enforcement of the liquor laws and keeping Stewartville "dry." A fund has been raised to be used in defraying expenses of any prosecutions that may arise

A School Savings Bank.

Rochester.—To inculcate the habit of saving and also to train students in banking principles, the board of education of Rochester proposes to start a school savings bank system at the beginning of the next school year and its members will investigate the project in order to put the system on a high basis at the proper time.

Mankato.—The enrollment for the spring term of the state normal school, which opened Tuesday, has reached 415.

THIRTY BATTLE WITH KNIVES

Railroad Work Crew Attacked By Town Folk in Carver County—Ten Bruised and Slashed.

Minneapolis.—Battling with knives and bludgeons, more than thirty men divided into antagonistic forces clashed in a bloody fight early Tuesday on the outskirts of Cologne, Carver county, on the Milwaukee road, a short distance west of Minneapolis. No less than ten of them were left on the battleground cut and bleeding, and three of them were in such condition that it was necessary for the Milwaukee road to make up a special train and rush them, wounded or dying to St. Barnabas hospital in Minneapolis. These three are: Joseph King, residence unknown, stabbed in the lung, will probably die. James Harvey, Boston, Mass., seriously stabbed in back. Arthur Christopherson, Summit, S. D., seriously stabbed in back.

All the injured men are laborers employed on track work by the Milwaukee and were established in a camp near Carver, and the attacking party is said to have been made up of boys and men living at Cologne. There were ten men in the railroad party, while the opponents' force was twice that strong, according to the story told at the hospital by James Harvey, one of the injured men, to Sergeant John Stavlo and Patrolman Joseph Berry.

Harvey's account of the battle and the facts leading up to it are that the railroad workers received their pay and went to Cologne for a respite from toil on the tracks. They had spent most of the day there, some of them paying out their money freely and having a good time. He says that sometime during the day there were slight brushes between members of his party and the townsfolk, and that it appeared to him that the Cologne forces gathered and decided upon a night attack upon the railroaders while they were on their way to camp.

WASHOUTS TIE UP SERVICE

Towns Near Winona Without Trains or Mails for Four Days—Trempealeau County Almost Isolated.

Winona.—Towns on the Eastern end of the Green Bay line were without train service and mail for four days because of washouts, following the extreme high water in the Trempealeau river. There were at least four serious washouts on the line, and trains did not operate out of Winona from last Thursday. Arrangements were made to run a train between here and Arcadia, Wis., when word came that 100 feet of track had had been undermined between Dodge and Arcadia.

Reports from the affected district are that water has receded and the crews, which were making slow progress were able to work with greater effect.

At Whithall where the regular session of the circuit court, Judge Higbee presiding, was scheduled to open, the lack of train service caused the session to be postponed for a week.

Farmers Will Help Demonstrate.

Minneapolis. — One hundred and fifty Minnesota farmers have agreed with the extension division of the University of Minnesota to conduct private demonstration farms beginning this year under the direction of experts of the institution to show that any farmer may obtain as good results on his own farm as have been attained at the university farm by following instruction closely for at least a year. Every cent paid out and taken in will be carefully noted by university men, who will visit the separate farms every two weeks for the purpose of gathering data. Agricultural instructors in high schools of more than twenty towns of the state will co-operate in the work. Each will have direct charge of seven farmers, living within a radius of a few miles from the town, visit the farms at least every two weeks and help carry out the instructions of the university experts.

WHITE WOULD WED A NEGRO

Farmer Is Able to Halt Marriage of Daughter After License Is Issued.

Marshall.—George Mercer, a negro from Pipestone, secured a licenes here to marry Hilda Sorenson, a white girl, giving her address as Florence, in this county. The couple came to town and tried to get married, but were turned away by the Methodist minister, and also by Justice Pike.

They then decided to take the train to Sioux City. County officials telephoned the girl's parents, residing on a farm two miles from the village of Florence, and instructed the father to take the girl home. Mr. Sorenson directed the officers to arrest the girl and hold her until he could come, which was done.

Miss Sorenson is 22 years old, and declares she will marry Mercer, because she loves him. Both have been working in a hotel here.

Veteran of Two Wars.

Rochester.—Calvin Hitt, known as Uncle Calvin Hitt, one of the few survivors of the Mexican war and a veteran of the civil war, celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday at his home near Dover. Friends and neighbors united in carrying greetings to the aged soldier. Mr. Hitt was born March 14, 1826, in Stueben county, N. Y., and enlisted Aug. 3, 1846, in the Seventh New York volunteers, being mustered out Sept. 25, 1848.

$40,000 Estate In Courts.

Albert Lea.—Miss Inga Svenson, formerly of this city, but now of Sioux Falls, S. D., has won a victory in her fight to obtain possession of the $40,000 estate of her father, Nels F. Svenson, a farmer who was killed in an automobile accident a month ago. Upon Svenson's death Miss Alma Martinson, his housekeeper, asked to be named as administratrix, contending she was Svenson's common law wife. Miss Svenson made her fight in the Turner county court.

WOULD IMPROVE MISSISSIPPI

Object of Meeting of Members of Commercial Clubs in Northern Towns at Cass Lake.

Cass Lake.—"Bemidji to the Gulf!"

The above slogan was on a huge banner which greeted the convention of commercial club members of the cities and villages of this section, which met here. Delegates were present from nearly every town along the Mississippi river from Aitkin to Bemidji. Walker, to the south, also sent a delegation, but the banner bunch came from Bemidji via a special train, more than a hundred strong, with a band of twenty pieces.

The purpose of the meeting was to inaugurate united action of all the towns in the territory above mentioned, with a view of improving the headwaters of the Mississippi to make them navigable. Speakers from nearly every town sending a delegation expressed views on the question, and every one held that, with comparatively small appropriations, the meadows and creeks in rivers connecting the lakes forming one of the largest watersheds in the world could be made navigable for quite large boats.

Co-operation of all the towns interested was expressed freely by every one, and before the meeting closed a motion was adopted that the president and secretary of each commercial club in the district act as an executive committee to formulate resolutions to forward to the legislature now in session, and later to have the matter brought before congress.

Another meeting will be held soon at a place to be designated by the committee.

FAMILY ILL; TAKES POISON

Ernest Johnson, Living Near Mankato, First Imbibes Alcohol Used for Disinfecting.

Mankato.—With one of his children dead and his wife and other four children and one of the attending nurses ill with scarlet fever, Ernest Johnson, living on the north side of Eagle Lake, eight miles east of Mankato, nearly succeeded in killing himself by taking strychnine while suffering from insanity brought on by indulgence in alcohol the nurses had in the house for disinfecting purposes.

His wife found him lying in the barn, suffering from convulsions, but a doctor was called in time to save his life. Neighbors found where he had a concealed revolver in the barn. Today he was examined as to his sanity and ordered committed to the asylum. He admitted drinking the alcohol.

Two or three weeks ago Johnson's five children were taken sick with what he and his wife supposed to be measles, and they were given some simple home remedies. When the doctor was summoned from Mankato an 8-year-old boy was dead and two others desperately sick, and the disease was diagnosed as scarlet fever. Later Mrs. Johnson and one of two trained nurses who were engaged were taken with the disease.

Three Prove An Alibi.

Pipestone.—Proving to the complete satisfaction of the court that they were far from the vicinity where James Scott was held up and robbed on a country road between Pipestone and Sherman, last December, Ed. and Charles De Bates and Emil Peters, who were arrested for the crime, were ordered discharged from custody in the justice court of Minnehaha county, South Dakota, where they were given a preliminary hearing.

To Have Farm Bureau.

Elbow Lake. — Grant county is awakening to the advantages of having a county farm bureau and a county agricultural superintendent who can look after each acre of its 576 square miles. The West Central Minnesota Development association, with the cooperation of the county bureau, has furnished a powerful stereopticon lantern to each of its seven county agriculturists for the purpose of illustrating the effects of farm and stock improvements by better and more economical methods, by means of slides furnished by the Minnesota agricultural extension department showing development work in corn, silos and other up-to-date methods of farming

Third Time in Six Weeks.

Minneapolis. — Soo Line passenger train Number 4, eastbound, was wrecked for the third time within six weeks at North St. Paul Wednesday night. It ran into an open switch shortly after 10 o'clock. The locomotive left the rails and partly buried itself in the mud, the mail car was derailed, and passengers shaken up. The engine crew jumped. No one was injured. The train was travelling at about 20 miles an hour when the crash came. Passengers were piled up in the cars, windows were broken, and one trainman was thrown several feet.

Urges Practical Training.

Morris.—"Adopt the school work to the life of the community," was the message of President Vincent to the school officers of Stevens county, assembled at the agricultural school Thursday. "Make the school the social center of community life," he said, "and through it so build up the social life that the home in the country will be the ideal home." President Vincent would not only make the school the center of social life, but he would make it the center of community life.

Locked in a Box Car Two Days.

Red Wing, Minn., March 19.—To be locked in a box car for two days, during which time he suffered great from cold and hunger, was the experience of Claude Raymond, a [illegible]-year-old boy who was released from a box car in the Milwaukee yards Monday. The boy, who claims Chicago as his home, was riding in a box car in some little town in [illegible] The car inspector sealed the door at night and he was made a prisoner. Thousands of Women

Have Been Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

There is no doubt about this fact. Why! during the last 30 years we have published in the newspapers of this country volumes of letters from women who have been relieved of all their suffering by the timely aid of this grand old medicine. Letters like the following, true, genuine and honest expressions of gratitude coming from grateful hearts. Surely you can believe these women.

Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Mich., says:—

"Sometime ago I was taken with a terrible pain in my right side, such sharp pains just like a knife sticking me. I tried hot applications but that did no good. I went to our family doctor (we were living in Fayette, Ohio, at that time) and he said it was organic inflammation. I doctored with him a while but kept getting worse. The pain was so terrible I could hardly stand on my feet. I would have that sharp pain in my right side, and a dull heavy pain the whole length of my limb. I realized that something had to be done quickly, so I looked up all of your advertisements I could find, and saw several that described my case. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first dose, and when I had taken two bottles my trouble was gone. Your medicine has done so much for me that I am willing you should publish this letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Michigan.

Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, Girard, Pa., says:—

"I take pleasure in informing you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had a sick spell last February, and for some months after that I was not regular and had many bad feelings. I was tired all the time, had dull headaches, not much appetite, and also what the doctor called organic inflammation. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise as I am now able to do my own work. You are perfectly welcome to use my testimonial for the benefit of others."—Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, R.F.D. No. 1, Girard, Pa.

Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, Buffalo, N.Y., says:—

"I feel that I must write to you about your wonderful remedies. About ten years ago I was troubled with female weakness and was all run down. I was tired all the time and could hardly walk without feeling dizzy. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it, and also used the Sanative Wash. I got stronger, and have not had those dizzy spells since. I feel that I owe my health to you, and hope your remedies will help others as they have me. I tried most everything I heard of, and yours are the best medicines for women's ailments."—Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, 26 Glor Street, Buffalo, New York.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

LIFE SAVERS FROM CHICAGO RESCUE INMATES OF FORT WAYNE ASYLUM.

CARLAND RELATES INCIDENTS

Children at First Afraid to Trust Themselves in Boats—Crews Struggle Desperately Across Mile of Raging Flood.

Chicago.—Half-frozen and without food, fifty-eight children and their attendants were rescued from the Fort Wayne Orphan Asylum by Captain Charles Carland and his crew from the Chicago life saving station. Captain Carland and six life savers returned to Chicago from Fort Wayne with their surf boat, but immediately departed for Terre Haute to continue their rescue work.

Captain Carland's story was graphic. He told how he and his men arrived at the asylum just after four children had met death when an attempt was made to rescue them. Five trips to the asylum were made by Captain Carland and each time a boatload was taken safely across half a mile of swiftly flowing water. Besides the children four matrons and six men were rescued from the building.

Carland Tells Story.

"We arrived at Fort Wayne when the water was highest," said Captain Carland. "No sooner had we arrived when a report reached us that the children were marooned in the Orphan Asylum. One attempt had been made to rescue them which ended disastrously for four of the children and two brave men. The small rowboat in which the would-be rescuers had reached the building overturned after four of the children had been taken from a second-story window. All were drowned.

"Conditions in the asylum were awful when six men and myself finally reached the building. In one small room, huddled together half frozen and hungry, were the little girls and boys with their attendants.

"Many were crying, a few were asleep from exhaustion. One of the women had fainted.

Afraid to Trust Boats.

"At first they refused to trust their lives to our boats. They had witnessed the fate of the first boat and were afraid. We finally carried twelve of the little ones out of the second-story window and then our fight back started. It needed the combined strength of every man on the boat to fight the current and prevent the boat from overturning. Then we were hampered by the cries of the children and at times the one matron we took with us would become panic stricken. After getting to shore the children were placed in the care of merchants of the town, and we went back for another load.

"We received a different reception on our second arrival at the asylum. A shout of joy went up when they heard that the first load had been landed safely. A little confusion resulted from the natural anxiety of the tots to get into the boat. No one was hurt, however, and after five trips we succeeded in removing all the children and their attendants to safety.

"The merchants thanked us for what we had done. One of the matrons told us the children had not had a full meal for 48 hours. They had run out of coal and were breaking up the furniture in the place for fire wood. The fire they kindled in the middle of the room, braving the danger of the entire building burning up."

Brings 200 Peru Children.

Charles H. Thacher and his wife, who live at 3260 Groveland avenue, arrived here from Peru, Ind., with 200 Peru children, many of them now orphans.

A man in Peru, having a boat, demanded $50 from Thacher to take the two away. There was another woman in the marooned house, and the boatman refused to take her.

"A shot was fired and the man fell out of the boat, dead," said Mr. Thacher. Mr. Thacher escaped with his wife and the other woman in the boat. A second man, Dr. Hupp, offered a boatman $100 to take his wife to a hospital, there being imminent a visit from the stork. The man refused and the doctor knocked him out of the boat with a brick. A Winona college student rowed the doctor's wife to the hospital, where a baby was born, mother and child being saved.

Trio in Stolen Boat Drowned.

Three unknown men were drowned at Peru when a leaky boat, which they had stolen, sank. The boat was owned by Oliver Wilson, a farmer who lives near the water line of the interurban tracks. Wilson discovered the theft when the three men were 100 yards from shore. When they had gone a half mile, they appeared in distress. The Wilson family watched the men struggle in the water and disappear. No effort has been made to recover the bodies.

At Logansport heroic work was done by the crew sent from Lake Bluff and by the cadets from Culver Military academy in saving lives.

No Little Girl for Him.

The six-year-old son of a well-known Indianapolis family attends a dancing school. He is a chubby little fellow who has not begun to stretch out yet, and he keenly feels his "shortage." He demands that he be recognized as a little "grownup." Several days ago the teacher planned to instruct her pupils in dancing "the Butterfly." A five-year-old girl who is small for her age, and just a trifle stouter than our hero, but an adept at dancing, was assigned as his partner. He gazed at her in silence. Then he took hold of her hand and, with his mouth set firmly, walked straight over to the teacher.

"Don't you think you'd better give me a bigger girl?" he asked.—Indianapolis News.

Despondent Women Made Cheerful

When a woman who is subject to sick headaches improves her general health the sick headaches become less frequent or disappear altogether. Anything which tends to lower the "tone" of the body operates to bring on an attack and when the system is "toned up" the attacks lose their severity.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure sick and nervous headache by toning up the blood and nerves. When the thin woman gains in weight, gets color in her cheeks and lips, and her appetite improves, she need not fear sick headaches.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, or by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

New Ulm.—The attorneys for M. E. Mathews, of Marshall, in the contest election case against District Judge I. M. Olsen, of Sleepy Eye, have served a copy of a proposed case on Judge Olsen's attorneys, preparatory to taking an appeal to the supreme court.

Mankato.—This city will extend an invitation to the grand council of United Commercial Travelers of Minnesota and North and South Dakota to hold its 1914 meeting in Mankato. Action looking to this end was taken by Mankato council, No. 101, U. C. T., at its meeting.

The government has established a postoffice on Crane Lake Portage to be known as Breyck, with Carmel De Caigney as postmaster.

She was a native of Ireland and came to America in 1863. She had been a resident of Pipestone county since 1887, and was the oldest persons in the county.

Good for Small Towns.

A few big shoe manufacturers are fighting us because we have always refused to give them better terms than we give to the small manufacturer.

The little fellows stand with us because we treat all manufacturers alike, no matter how many machines they use. Hence, competition in the shoe business and prosperous factories in small towns!

Boundless Love.

Robert, seven years old, snugly tucked in bed, called to his mother in the next room. "I can't tell how much I love you, mother," he announced.

"Yes, dear, go to sleep now," admonished his mother. There was silence for thirty seconds. Then:

"Mother, God couldn't tell how I love you."

"All right, Bob. A appreciate that. But let's talk about it tomorrow." Silence. Robert's thoughts turned to father's automobile troubles, and of the expert called to disentangle matters.

"Mother," he remarked suddenly, "even an expert couldn't tell!"

Bright Brass.

A great time and labor saver, in keeping brass, copper and other metals bright and shining, either indoors or outdoors, in any kind of weather, is to clean and scour in the usual way, and give them a coat of negative varnish, to be obtained at a store. OH! MY BACK!

A stubborn backache that hangs on, week after week, is cause to suspect kidney trouble, for when the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, bending the back brings a sharp twinge that almost takes the breath away.

AN IDAHO CASE

L. C. Warner 1205 No. Garfield Ave., Pocatello, Idaho, says: "For years I suffered from kidney trouble and was often confined to bed. More than once I passed kidney stones and the pain was awful. Morphine was the only thing that gave me relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy dissolved the stones and from then on I gradually improved until entirely cured."

Explaining the Needle.

A typesetter in a printing house became very adroit in explaining the large number of misprints for which he was responsible. Even when he changed his work and became a waiter in a restaurant, says Das Echo, his skill did not forsake him.

One day he had served a guest with a plate of soup, and was turning away, when he was called back sharply.

"This is an outrage!" cried the indignant diner. "I find a needle in my soup! What does this mean?"

BABY IN MISERY WITH RASH

Monroe, Wis.—"When my baby was six weeks old there came a rash on his face which finally spread until it got nearly all over his body. It formed a crust on his head, hair fell out and the itch was terrible. When he would scratch the crust, the water would ooze out in big drops. On face and body it was in a dry form and would scale off. He was in great misery and at nights I would lie awake holding his hands so that he could not scratch and disfigure himself. I tried simple remedies at first, then got medicine, but it did no good.

"Finally a friend suggested Cuticura Remedies, so I sent for a sample to see what they would do, when to my surprise after a few applications I could see an improvement, and he would rest better. I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap and before I had them half used my baby was cured. His head is now covered with a luxuriant growth of hair and his complexion is admired by everybody and has no disfigurements." (Signed) Mrs. Annie Saunders, Sept. 29, 1911.

Proceedings at the Minnesota State Capitol for the Past Week.

St. Paul, March 29.—The entire morning session of the house was spent in an effort to force reconsideration of the primary elections bill which had been previously passed by a vote of 93 to 17. The motion to reconsider was defeated by a vote of 63 to 44.

The Bill Is Passed.

As passed by the house the bill provides for the nomination of county officers, and members of the state legislature on a non-partisan ballot. The date of the primaries was changed from June until the first Tuesday in October.

Eleven bills have been advanced in the house. The most important of these are Representative Orr's bill for a state historical library building; Representative Brown's bill to authorize the sterilization of defectives and certain criminals, and R. C. Dunn's bill for a constitutional amendment allowing the state to guarantee county bonds to build highways. The purpose of the latter measure is to insure the counties a lower rate of interest on money borrowed.

To Reimburse Judges.

The senate has passed a bill to reimburse district court judges for railroad fare, and hotel bills while traveling on circuit. It also passed under a suspension of the rules a bill presented by Senator Clague, leaving it to the discretion of the board of control to insure fire proof buildings of recent construction. The idea is to have the state carry its own risk on buildings of this character.

The Mothers' Pension bill, which has been signed by the governor, provides that whenever a child is dependent or neglected, and the mother is a widow, or that her husband is an inmate of a penal institution or an insane asylum, or for physical reasons unable to support his family, and that the dependent or neglected condition of the child is due to the inability of the mother to properly care for it, the court may, in its discretion, allow her a pension not exceeding $10 a month. This pension is to be paid by the county in which the mother resides.

St. Paul, March 28.—Although he fought hard to do so, Dr. Shane failed to secure the adoption of any amendments that materially modified the Froshaug-Boyle bill, providing for the establishment of county tuberculosis sanitariums. The bill was advanced to the calendar by a practically unanimous vote and yesterday passed the house.

Gift Prizes Defined.

The house also passed, among others, the Wescott-Bjornson bill defining gift enterprises. The bill makes it unlawful for any person, for the purpose of inducing the public to subscribe for a newspaper or periodical, to give a premium, gift or prize, unless such gift is absolute and does not depend upon any chance or lot whatever. The violation of the law is made a misdemeanor.

The Westlake cigarette bill is now before the house for consideration with the approval of the committee. As amended, the bill makes it unlawful for minors to smoke cigarettes or dealers to sell to them. It legalizes the sale of cigarettes, however, to other persons and licenses it. The license fee, in the original bill $50, is reduced to $10.

The committee on taxes and tax laws brought in a bill providing for increasing the gross tax on telephone companies from 3 to 5 per cent. The tax is made payable March 1.

Committee Drops Road Bill.

The senate committee quite unexpectedly brought the consideration of the Dunn good roads bill to an abrupt conclusion. Senator Elwell withdrew his amendments to the measure, his design being to offer them for consideration in open senate. The bill was reported to the senate at yesterday's session for passage. The only amendments suggested are designed to meet conditions in Ramsey county. Otherwise the bill is, in all essential particulars, unchanged.

Mortgage Bill to Governor.

The mortgage registry has passed both houses and has been sent to the governor for his signature. Instead of a 50 cent tax the law provides for a 15 cent tax upon each $100, where the mortgage runs for 5 years, and a 25 cent tax where the mortgage runs for more than 5 years.

After a bitter fight over the matter in the grain investigating committee, in which the lie was frequently passed, future traders in grain in Minneapolis will be compelled to produce their books for examination. The principal objection made by the commission was that they did not want Mr. Manahan, counsel for the committee, who is also counsel for the Equity society, and a member of the Loftus Hubbard Co., to see the books.

Mr. Manahan's Explanation.

Mr. Manahan intimated in a speech that the real reason for objecting to his seeing the books is that he is a member of congress and that he might make use of the information the commission men's books would reveal to induce congress to undertake an inquiry into option dealing on all boards of trade.

The order to produce the books now made, comes in the form of a process issued by the speaker.

St. Paul, March 27.—After a long struggle Representative Lennon has secured the adoption by the house of his bill relating to the equipment and regulation of hotels and restaurants by a bare majority.

Licensing of Hotels.

The bill provides for licensing hotels and restaurants. The annual license fee is $2. It requires that hotels shall be properly protected against fire and have necessary fire escapes. They must also be kept in a sanitary condition, have individual towels, etc.

Hotels and restaurants are made subject to state inspection. The inspectoral force consists of an inspector at a salary of $2,400, a deputy at $1,800, two traveling inspectors at $100 a month and a stenographer at $900 a year. The bill carries an appropriation of $16,000.

For Constitutional Amendment.

The committee on dairy products and livestock has introduced a bill providing for a constitutional amendment to the effect that "laws may be enacted providing for the taxation of dogs on a basis other than the value of the dog, and authorizing the payment from the fund derived from such tax of damages sustained by the owners of other domestic animals by reason of injuries caused by dogs."

A bill for a minimum wage commission has passed the house. It provides for a commission to investigate the wages paid women in the various occupations and to designate a sum as the minimum wage that should be paid them. The commission consists of the labor commissioner and two members to be appointed by the governor.

The Dunn good roads bill faces, in the senate committee, bitter opposition and an extended fight is in prospect. Objection is made to the proposed distribution of funds, some senators being of the opinion that some counties should not get as much as the minimum sum of one per cent of the fund allotted them. Other objections are made to the maximum tax levy proposed and to the dragging fund feature. It is probable that the bill will not be reported to the senate for some time.

Mr. Porter's bill for the rehabilitation of the Creamery Package company which is similar to a bill introduced by Senator Works for the same purpose has, after a fight, been approved by the house.

This company was some years ago declared by the courts to be a combination in restraint of trade and enjoined from doing business in this state.

The bill provides that upon the payment of a fine of $10,000 the company may purge itself of its offense and be permitted to re-engage in business. An amendment by Mr. Virtue providing that before doing so the corporation pay all verdicts entered against it was defeated.

The company has a tub factory at Mankato and a plea was made for the passage of the bill on the ground that the operation of the factory would be of great local benefit.

St. Paul, March 26.—Two committee bills were introduced in the house yesterday and passed under suspension of the rules, amending the reapportionment law which, a few days ago, received the signature of the governor.

Kill Warner Bill.

The house killed, after an animated debate, Representative C. H. Warner's bill which provided for the publication of the statement of treasurers of school districts. The argument in favor of the bill made by Mr. Warner, Mr. Bjornson, Mr. Finke, Mr. Larson, and others, was that the publicity was desirable in the interest of the honest administration of school district affairs. It was pointed out that while the treasurers of municipalities were required to make detailed statements annually, treasurers of school districts which expended five times as much, need publish no report at all. "I believe," said Mr. Bjornson, "that the people have a right to know fully what every public official does with their money. "After the defeat of the bill, a motion to reconsider failed of passage by one vote.

Train Picks Up Homeless.

Chicago, March 28.—Experiences of and sights observed by passengers on Pennsylvania railroad trains were told when they arrived on a combination train made up of three of the fastest on that system. The train, which was composed of parts of the 20-hour New York-Chicago special, the eastern flyer and the fast mail trains, came into the Union station, hours behind schedule. Perry Hollister and Roy Taylor of Ravenna, O., knew concerning the flood.

Illinois Also Flooded.

Vandalia, Ill., March 28.—The Okaw river levee, sixteen miles long has broken in four places. Sixty thousand acres are from one to eight feet under water. Water is pouring over the national road east of Vandalia for a distance of a mile.

Hamilton Hotel Collapses.

Hamilton, Ohio, March 28. — The Lakeview hotel in the residence part of the town has just collapsed. It is said that fifty people took refuge there earlier.

Ice Dealers Meet in Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., March 24.—About 150 ice dealers from all parts of Illinois met today in the Jefferson hotel for the annual convention of their state association. President Sam N. Watson of Dixon was in the chair. For two days the members will devote themselves to a combination of business and pleasure, and tomorrow evening the convention closes with a banquet. New officers will be elected tomorrow.

B. & O. Road Heavy Loser.

Baltimore, Md., March 28.—That the financial loss to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad by the floods will run into the millions is indicated by President Willard of that company. When asked how much the damage would amount to Mr. Willard said: "I cannot tell. I have no idea. I wish I could say that it would be $2,000,000, but I cannot. I know that half a dozen bridges on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton have been destroyed and bridges on the B. & O. have been washed away."

J.Pierpont Morgan, the great American financier, died at Rome, Italy Monday.

The road house bill has been amended so that the county board may issued license if the town board so resolves.

Think about cleaning up the premises before it is necessary for the health department to remind you of it. It is rather early yet to commence cleaning up, but think about it.

When the women take over the county offices the cuspidors will go out of the courthouses. With a woman judge on the bench the lawyers would have to quit smoking. And with a woman councilman we may expect ordinances making it a misdemeanor to wear a dirty shirt or come down town unshaven. There is considerable to this women suffrage question beyond what appear on the surface.

No man is so big or important that he can dictate or meddle in everybody's affairs. "Butt in" licenses are not obtainable in this land of the free and home of the brave, and everyone has a perfect right to kick an important snipe off his premises. That's American.

Learn Composition From Love Letters.

Dr. Arthur Holmes, who advocates the exchange of love letters between students as a means of acquiring the art of composition, might point to Samuel Richardson as a proof of the efficacy of his method. Richardson began by acting as scribe for a number of young women, for whose correspondence with their sweethearts he frequently supplied not only the words, but the sentiments. His reputation for this kind of composition led a firm of printers to propose that he should prepare a "complete letter writer" for the use of "those country readers who cannot indite for themselves." Two or three of the epistles written for this purpose suggested a separate story, "and thence," in Richardson's own phrase, "sprang 'Pamela.'"

Friendship in Business.

The salesman who was formerly intent on getting orders by means of the "happy days" system of cigars and drinks now courts the friendship of his customer on utilitarian lines. He tries to make suggestions that will be of use. He essays an idea or drops a piece of news, intended to do the customer some good. Not infrequently an expert salesman will study the methods of a customer, and even the methods in use in his establishment, before approaching him, so as to be in a position to talk intelligently on his needs, and perhaps spring a new idea that will attract attention. Then the customer is liable to be indebted to him in a friendly way, which is the better way of securing a man's business and holding it.

Cases of Four Heroic Surgeons Who Established Records for Acts of "Autotomy."

The recent report from San Francisco that a surgeon there had attempted to operate upon himself for appendicitis recalls to Dr. Paul Reclus four instances where surgeons actually did succeed in performing operations upon themselves. He recounts them in the Lancet, and the following appears in the Medical Record:

"Paul Reclus has commented on the courage and stoicism necessary for the act of what he calls 'autotomy,' or surgical operation upon one's own body. He has described at some length four examples of this heroic procedure. The first story is that of a French surgeon who, having asquired a small outgrowing tuberculoma of the right index finger following an operation wound, determined to excise it under cocaine anesthesia. This he did, surrounded by his class, in a curiously unsurgical way, by fixing the instrument—first a scalpel, then a sharp spoon—in the left hand and performing all the necessary movements with the diseased right hand. In spite of this novel technique, the result was quite satisfactory. His only discomfort was a little nausea at the unpleasant sensation of scraping his own periosteum; this was, however, corrected by a sip of hot coffee.

"In the second case the surgeon operated on himself for bilateral ingrowing toe-nail, apparently without pain and with absolutely satisfactory result. The hero of the third story was a Turkish military surgeon attached to Professor Reclus' own clinic, who was operated on for double inguinal hernia under local anesthesia with such complete success that he determined to remove for himself a troublesome affection. The procedure was painless and the result perfect.

"The fourth 'autotomy' was performed by M. Regnault, a naval medical officer, who was led to undertake a radical cure of his own hernia. He anesthetized the area of operation by injecting cocaine into the several layers of tissue concerned, after a preliminary injection of morphine into the subcutaneous tissues of the thorax. He guarded himself from disaster by enlisting the help of two colleagues, who stood by prepared for action in case they were needed. However, all went well, and there was neither pain nor mishap."

Truth and Error.

Verily, there is nothing so true that the damps of error have not warped it. Verily, there is nothing so false that a sparkle of truth is not in it. For the enemy, the father of lies, the giant Upas of creation, can but pervert the good, but may not create the evil. He destroyeth, but cannot build; he is not an antagonistic deity, mighty in his stolen power, yet is he a creature and a subject; not a maker of abstract wrong, but a spoiler of concrete right. The fiend hath not a royal crown; he is but a prowling robber, suffered for some mysterious end to haunt the king's highway. And the keen sword he beareth once was a simple plowshare. His panoply of error is but a distortion of the truth. The sickle that once reaped righteousness, beaten from its useful curve, with ax, and spike, and bar, headeth the marauder's halbert. Seek not further, O man, to solve the dark riddle of sin; suffice it that thine own bad heart is to thee thine origin of evil.—Martin Farquhar Tupper.

New Idea for Stereoscope.

The old-time stereoscope, the friend of our childhood days, is promised a return to popularity in a somewhat new guise. The old-time device has been hitched to the latest phase of the photographic art and it may be but a short time before the modernized stereoscope will be seen in the parlors and sitting rooms of every home as it was once before. The moving picture machine has been made available for domestic purposes. It is no longer limited to the auditorium and the hall, but a new camera, small, compact, and easily operated and not expensive, places the facility for making these pictures within the reach of the amateur. With the knowledge acquired with a little practice one may make pictures which will catch the merry twinkle of the eye, the fleeting light of baby's dimple and the little individualities which are lost in the fussiness of the studio pose.

While on the trip they visited with a number of old Plummerites who have taken up their abode there and who are apparently progressing and are contented. Leonard Brekke has filed on a claim near Berry Creek, but the Steens did not avail themselves of any land there.

CONGRESS GETS WILSON MESSAGE

Lawmakers Asked to Square the Schedules With the Actual Facts of Industrial and Commercial Life.

Washington, April 8. — President Wilson's message, read today to the senate and house at the beginning of the extra session, was a brief, pointed document setting forth in general terms what congress is expected to do in the matter of tariff revision. The message was as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I have called the congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves. It is clear to the whole country that the tariff duties must be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alteration in the conditions of our ecnomic life which the country has witnessed within the last generation.

While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is today. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

Business Not Normal.

We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of "protecting" the industries of the country and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government. For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world. Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combination to organize monopoly; until at last nothing is normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement. Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably cannot, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

Development, Not Revolution.

It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste, or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it. We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion. We must build up trade, especially foreign trade. We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down. In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item.

To some not accustomed to the excitements and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibility should be met and our methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff. I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain. For the present, I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—of the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

WOODROW WILSON.

The White House, April 8, 1913.

Each Article of Adornment Is Observed and Carefully Catalogued by Society.

A woman frequently changes her face and always her gown, while to change her jewels is an event calling for chronicle, Richard Barry writes in the New York Times.

"Is that Mrs. So-and-So in box —?" I heard one woman ask another the other night.

"Let me see," replied her companion, seizing the glasses. "No. Mrs. So-and-So has sapphires surrounding a pearl in her pendant. That has emeralds. It is Mrs. If-and-But."

"Who is that next to her?"

"With the cross of diamonds and the jade stomacher?"

"No. With the oval brooch set with opals."

"Oh! That is Mrs. Or-to-Be's brooch, but it doesn't look like her daughter, only she never will let any one wear her opals; 'lucky for her, unlucky for another' is her idea. What has she done to her face?"

These women, their dependents and their intimates hold their jewels in the affectionate regard that another group of women might hold their children. The entrance to the circle of each new piece of jewelry is noted and commented on carefully. It undergoes jealous observation at first. Then, if deserving it, it achieves a place and is duly catalogued.

"Look! There is that little Miss Pretty. It's her first night. She's barely eighteen, and see that string of diamonds. I do think that is rushing it a bit, don't you? They might wait till the second year, at least, for a necklace like that. However, give me your glasses; they are better than mine."

After a moment she releases the glasses with a satisfied smile. "At any rate," she observes, "they are perfectly matched and just the right size."

So it goes. Jewels the center of attention; jewels which mark the distinctive elements of personality. From the tiny necklace, which is the joy of the newest debutante, to the sturdy stomacher which is the consclation of the oldest dowager, jewels proclaim, define, limit, differentiate, vitalize and devitalize society.

Sunshine, Plants—and Girls.

Sunlight is so important to life that it is little wonder that sun worshipers prevailed in primitive days. Plant a potato in your cellar, and if there is a little light the potato will sprout and try to grow. Surround it with the best fertilizer, water it, and do the best you can for it except that you keep it in the dark, and it cannot digest and grow. See how slender and pale it is! The process of digestion, the great function of assimilation, cannot go on without sunshine. Nature's laws are the same in the animal world. It is just as true that the only girls with red cheeks and sweet breaths, the only girls who become fully ripe and sweet, are those who baptize themselves fully in glorious sunshine. The many pale girls who are to be seen with a bloodless, half-baked sort of face, whose walk, whose voice and whose whole expression is devoid of spirit, are not half ripe.

The Queen and Gambling.

Though the queen is to accompany the king to the grand national next month, she retainns her dislike for gambling. But some years ago when the royal party was traveling down by rail for the derby, the late King Edward proposed a half crown sweepstake on the race, and Princess Mary drew a horse that had a fine chance. Prince Arthur of Connaught having drawn his usual blank, suggested he should buy it from her present majesty for five shillings. She declined, and held to her chance, which romped home an easy winner. "For any one who does not like gambling," remarks H. R. H., when retailing this yarn, "I never saw any one collect her winning more quickly."—London Opinion.

Need Care of Home.

A Philadelphia physician who enjoys a handsome practice and excellent hospital connections told me an interesting although terrible thing. About 90 per cent. out of every 100 babies that are sent to hospitals for bringing up die. The death rate among such unfortunates is seven times as great as with infants who have the immediate care of mothers. Truly there is something needed in a child's life besides food, shelter and clothing.—Philadelphia Record.

Valuable Find Came Too Late.

The irony of fate was exemplified at Manhattan, Cal., recently. After working incessantly and alone for two years in a mine in which none but he had faith, a man named Hubley was killed by a cave of rocks and debris, estimated as weighing forty tons. The same fall of earth that crushed out his life uncovered the very ore body he had been seeking with such dogged persistence. The ore is some of the richest ever discovered in the district.

GIRL SUFFERED TERRIBLY

At Regular Intervals—Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured her.

Adrian, Texas.—"I take pleasure in adding my testimonial to the great list and hope that it will be of interest to suffering women. For four years I suffered untold agonies at regular intervals. Such pains and cramps, severe chills and sickness at stomach, then finally hemorrhages until I would be nearly blind. I had five doctors and none of them could do more than relieve me for a time.

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took seven boxes of it and used two bottles of the Sanative Wash, and I am completely cured of my trouble. When I began taking the Compound I only weighed ninety-six pounds and now I weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds. If anyone wishes to address me in person I will cheerfully answer all letters, as I cannot speak too highly of the Pinkham remedies."—Miss JESSIE MARSH, Adrian, Texas.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Going Half Way.

Rutgers Jewett, the literary adviser, was urging a young novelist to take up his residence in New York.

"Come to New York," he said, "and then, in every emergency, the publishers and magazine editors can turn to you.

FLOODS RUIN TOWNS

ONE KENTUCKY VILLAGE WIPED OFF THE MAP—PEOPLE FLEE TO HILLS.

SEVERAL ILLINOIS TOWNS HIT

Provision Short at Shawneetown, Ill., and Situation Becomes Grave—Cairo Takes New Hope.

Shawneetown, Ill., April 5.—Scattering reports of great destruction and suffering caused by high waters in neighboring towns are received here. At Uniontown, Ky., ten miles up the river, Captain Naylor ordered five days' rations, amounting to 13,000 pounds.

Fifteen Hundred Quartered.

Fifteen hundred persons are quartered at the Uniontown fair grounds, many of them glad to obtain accommodations in the horse sheds.

Caseyville, Ky., three miles south, was wiped out. The town hall, all the churches and all frame buildings were carried down the Ohio. Two hundred persons fled to the hills where they are being cared for by friends.

Dekovan, Ky., ten miles south, and normally two miles and a half from the river, is marooned, except for boat communication. Railroad traffic is impossible, excepting, for a few miles each way and the wagon roads are impassible. The coal mines were shut down and all supplies being received came in by small boats. No suffering, however, has occurred.

Turn to Relief.

With the work of preventing further flood damage practically abandoned, Shawneetown turned itself toward seeking relief for the thousand refugees camped in canvas colonies behind the town, or scattered among country friends in the hills. Provisions have been running short since the town has been cut off from the outside world, and yesterday the situation became grave.

Expected relief from state and other sources did not arrive despite repeated appeals. The river continued to rise and by nightfall was near the 59.5 mark, three feet and one inch over the high mark of the 1884 flood.

Water Highest Known at Cairo.

Cairo, Ill.—Rain falling in a steady downpour and the rough flood waters washing against the sacks of sand, piled on the concrete levee wall, changed conditions materially here. Although the weather change would naturally carry with it a negative outlook for the welfare of the city, a confidence seems to have sprung up among the citizens who have worked hardest to prevent Cairo's destruction, that appeared to offset it.

Day after day residents have watched the flood water climb on the gauge, measured by tenths of a foot until now it stands slightly above 54.6. The old record of 54.05 has been so far passed that there is all sorts of speculation as to what new one will be established.

In spite of the climbing water there are many persons who now believe the levee will stand any strain and if trouble does come it will be an overflow and not a break.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT A BRIDE.

Daughter of the Colonel Is Married to Dr. Richard Derby in Oyster Bay Church.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., April 4.—Miss Ethel Roosevelt, younger daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt, was married today in the Episcopal church here to Dr. Richard Derby of New York. Following the ceremony there was a large breakfast party at Sagamore Hill. Tomorrow the bridal couple will sail for Europe.

Mrs. Derby made her debut in society at Washington in December, 1908, while her father was president of the United States. As one of the debutantes of the season she was exceedingly popular.

Dr. Derby is a graduate of Harvard, class of '03, and is a young and successful physician. He is a son of the late Dr. Richard H. Derby and a brother of James Lloyd Derby, Roger Derby and Mrs. Samuel A. Tucker. Today's union, therefore, brings together two old New York families.

Tornado Does Damage.

Sturgeon, Mo., April 5. — William Mathis, 87 years old, a retired farmer, was killed, his wife, Mary, and his daughter, Ruth, 24 years old, were probably fatally injured, 25 persons were less seriously hurt, and a score of residences were demolished when a tornado passed within a half mile of Sturgeon. The tornado formed southwest of Sturgeon and traveled northeast. As the clouds became threatening during the afternoon, the Sturgeon school was dismissed, and practically all the townspeople sought refuge in cyclone cellars.

Relief for Shawneetown Refugees.

Shawneetown, Ill., April 7.—(Via DeKoven, Ky.)—The people of Shawneetown are facing the future with a more cheerful mind than for more than a week. With the Ohio river at a standstill, enough provisions on hand for the present—and more in sight—and the business buildings which were feared would be undermined by water, still standing, the exiled residents of the river town believe the worst is over. The threatened famine among the refugees in the hills behind the town was prevented.

Floods at Cedar Falls, Wis.

Menomonie, Wis., April 7.—Water is pouring over the gigantic dam of the Chippewa Valley Railway, Light and Power company at Cedar Falls, five miles above here, to a depth of five feet and nine inches—and the Red Cedar river and its tributaries are still rising. The dam at Cedar Falls furnishes normally a head of 55 feet, but the gates are said to be frozen, and it has been impossible to open them since the recent rains, and the water is backing up and flooding the low lands.

BREAKING OUT ON LEG

Hilltop, Kan.—"About two years ago I began to notice a breaking out on my leg. At first it was very small but soon it began to spread until it formed large blotches. The itching was terrible and almost constant. Many nights I could not sleep at all. After scratching it to relieve the itching it would burn so dreadfully that I thought I could not stand it. For nearly a year I tried all kinds of salves and ointment, but found no relief. Some salves seemed to make it worse until there were ugly sores, which would break open and run.

"One day I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Remedies. I got a sample of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and began by washing the sores with the Cuticura Soap, then applying the Cuticura Ointment twice a day. I noticed a change and got more Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few weeks I was cured. It has healed so nicely that no scar remains." (Signed) Mrs. Anna A. Lew, Dec. 17, 1911.

A HIDDEN DANGER

It is a duty of the kidneys to rid the blood of uric acid, an irritating poison that is constantly forming inside.

When the kidneys fail, uric acid causes rheumatic attacks, headaches, dizziness, gravel, urinary troubles, weak eyes, dropsy or heart disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys fight off uric acid—bringing new strength to weak kidneys and relief from backache and urinary ills.

A Montana Case

Mrs. R. S. Andrews, 121 Eighth Avenue, Great Falls, Mont., says: "My limbs, hands and feet became so swollen I couldn't stand. I was in agony with the pain. I was so reduced in weight my garments just hung on me, and I had given up in despair. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me completely, and over a year has elapsed without the slightest return of the trouble."

Disproving the Charge.

It is a sharp emergency that can catch Pat, even when he is ignorant and ragged. An Irishman whose garments were in tatters was brought before a magistrate on the charge that he was a vagrant, with no visible means of support. Pat drew from the pocket of his torn coat a loaf of bread, the half of a dry codfish and several cold potatoes. These he spread upon the stand before him and coolly asked: "What do you think of thim, yer honor? Shure, an isn't thim visible manes of support?"

Sphinxes.

An American archaeologist is said to have solved the riddle of the sphinx by boring into its head and removing the sand. Many a sphinx would be one no longer after the head was subjected to a similar process. Not until after its head was bored into was it suspected that the sphinx-head in Egypt was hollow. It is so with many other sphinxes.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Why so?"

CANADA WINS AGAIN

THE COLORADO SILVER TROPHY FOR OATS WON A SECOND TIME BY CANADA.

The most recent achievement of Canada's West is winning for the second time the magnificent $1,500 silver trophy awarded by the State of Colorado for the best peck of oats. At Columbus, Ohio, in 1911, J. C. Hill & Sons of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, placed a peck of oats grown on their farm in competition, with oats from every part of the world. The judges had no difficulty in deciding, and the award was given to the Saskatchewan grown oats. In 1912, the Corn Exposition had no exhibition, and our Canadian friends, although ready for a second contest had no opportunity. In 1913, the exhibition of the Society was held at Columbus, S. C., and it is said of it that it was one of the best yet held. At this exhibition, which comprised corn and all the smaller grains, Hill & Sons of Lloydminster had on exhibition for the contest another peck of oats grown on their Saskatchewan farm, in 1912. There was no trouble for the judges, no time necessarily lost in reaching a decision, Hill & Sons won, and for the second time their name will appear on the crest of the cup. The third space will doubtless be occupied by their name, and then this splendid trophy will be theirs.

During the past few years Western Canada grains—wheat, oats, barley and flax—have been in competition with grains from all other countries, and in every case their superiority has been shown. It is not only in oats, but it is in wheat, in barley and in flax, that Canada more than holds its own, when placed side by side with grains from other parts.

Mixed farming is taking a strong hold not only in those parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which up to the present have been devoted solely to grain growing, but also in the districts contiguous, where the conditions of climate, shelter, water, grass and hay make farming of this kind, easy to prosecute and large in profits. It was in the Province of Manitoba that the steer was raised that carried off the Championship of the steer class, at Chicago last December. This beast had been fattened on the grass and hay of the Province and the only finishing grain it had was barley; not an ounce of corn.

Western Canada presents innumerable opportunities for the big farmer who wants to cultivate his thousands of acres, the medium man satisfied with a few hundred acres, the man who is content to farm his free homestead of one hundred and sixty acres; it has opportunities for the investor, the capitalist, the business man, the manufacturer and the laborer.

Agents of the Canadian Government located at different points in the United States will be pleased on application, to give any desired information, free of cost.—Advertisement.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wigton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that it was difficult to move. After using 5 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

Proceedings at the Minnesota State Capitol for the Past Week.

St. Paul, April 5.—"I am sick and tired of hearing this slander against the farmers and the work they have been doing on the roads of the state," said Senator Ole Sageng of Dalton, yesterday in the debate on an amendment he offered to the R. C. Dunn good roads bill, striking out the section requiring all road taxes to be paid in cash. "The farmers have laid the foundations for the roads and now these silk-stockinged experts who sit in fine offices are going to put on the finishing touches and get the credit for the whole thing."

Only Three Vote No.

The Senate, however, turned down the Sageng amendment and passed the bill in substantially the form agreed to when it was debated Wednesday. The vote on the bill was 52 to 3, Senators Sageng, Hanson and Elwell voting "no." The Sageng amendment was defeated by a vote of 34 to 14.

Clague Amendment Goes Out.

Senator Frank Clague moved for a reconsideration of the amendment he had attached Wednesday, providing that the $150,000 annually for the expenses of the highway commission should come from the road and bridge fund, instead of the revenue fund. He said that he had consulted with a number of attorneys, and they held that unless the bill was changed in several other particulars, this amendment would be unconstitutional. The bill provides that the governor may call on the highway engineers to do any other state work, while the constitution provides that the road and bridge fund must be used entirely for road work.

Seven Senator Passes.

Just a few hours after the legislature had finally approved the initiative and referendum bill, establishing the principle that every voter in Minnesota has an equal right to vote on legislation, the state senate passed the "seven senator" amendment, destined to cut down the representation of the cities. The "seven senator" bill is the same one that the people had a chance to adopt at the last general election. The people expressed their choice by refusing to adopt it.

Despite the fact that the people voted on the amendment at the last election, the senate voted yesterday afternoon to resubmit the measure to the people. There were 33 votes for the bill, one more than enough to pass it.

Senate Limit 63.

The bill provides that the senate be limited to 63 members with not more than seven senators from any one county. The bill was amended so that it will not apply until another reapportionment is made. There cannot be a reapportionment until after the next state census in 1915. That will mean, in case the bill should be passed by the people, that there will be a legislative reapportionment in 1917, unless a special session of the legislature is called.

Changes Name of Office.

The house education committee's bill increasing the term of the superintendent of public instruction to four years passed the house yesterday, amended so it will not affect the present incumbent, C. G. Schulz, whose term will expire in 1915. The bill also changes the name of the office to "superintendent of education," and gives the office two more assistants.

St. Paul, April 4.—The O'Neill roadhouse bill which prohibits saloons except in incorporated towns and villages, has been so amended by the senate that the county board, when by resolution it declares that an unincorporated place needs a saloon, may issue a license on the advice of the county attorney and the sheriff. It is believed that this amendment will operate to prevent the opening of saloons at cross roads and in lumber camps.

Schools for County Jails.

The house has passed the A. L. Warner bill which provides that schools may be maintained in county jails. The money comes from the county treasury to pay the expense incurred. Two hours of instruction daily are provided for in the bill.

Senators and representatives left the capital in a body yesterday shortly after 11 o'clock to visit the state university.

Brewery Bill Passed.

The senate passed the bill introduced by the committee appointed at the last session to investigate the relations between breweries and saloons designed to prevent the control of the retail liquor business by breweries.

It was believed that this unexpected result was due to the disinclination of the liquor interests to oppose a measure which has a strong public sentiment behind it.

The Hidden Part.

The legislators now learn that the measure passed by the senate will not prevent brewery ownership of saloons, that it will still permit brewers or wholesale liquor dealers to lease property for saloon purposes. They learn that the popular impression concerning the bill, which was introduced by the senate committee which has been investigating brewery control of saloons, has been wrong.

To Be Opposed in House.

Chairman H. A. Putnam of the house temperance committee declares he will oppose the adoption of the bill in the house; that he had supposed that the bill would prohibit the leasing of brewery-owned property for saloon purposes, but that a careful reading of the bill had shown him his error.

Contest on Public Domain.

Another fight on the public domain bill in the house is promised by C. H. Warner, who moved to reject the report of the committee on public domain recommending the Kneeland bill for passage. Mr. Warner moved indefinite postponement of the bill, but held up the motion on account of the absence of Thomas Kneeland and the report was not acted upon. The committee also reported out Mr. Warner's bill for a constitutional amendment creating an elective state land commissioner, redrafted so as merely to leave the disposition of internal improvement and swamp lands to be provided for by the legislature.

St. Paul, April 3.—The senate congressional re-apportionment bill provides for 10 districts as follows:

First district—Wabasha, Waseca, Steele, Dodge, Olmstead, Winona, Freeborn, Mower, Fillmore and Houston counties. Population, 201,054.

Second district—Lincoln, Redwood, Brown, Pipstone, Murray, Cottonwood, Watauwan, Blue Earth, Rock, Nobles, Jackson, Martin and Faribault counties. Population 200,501.

Third district — Wright, McLeod, Carver, Sibley, Scott, Dakota, Nicollet, Le Sueur, Rice and Goodhue counties. Population, 210,109.

Fourth district—Ramsey county. Population, 223,675.

Sixth district—Beltrami, Hubbard, Cass, Wadena, Crow Wing, Aitkin, Todd, Morrison, Mille Lacs, Kanabec, Stearns and Benton counties. Population 200,646.

Seventh district—Traverse, Grant, Douglas, Stevens, Pope, Big Stone, Swift, Lac qui Parle, Chippewa, Kandiyohi, Meeker, Yellow Medicine, Renville and Lyon counties. Population, 197,322.

Eighth district—Koochoching, Itasca, St. Louis, Carlton, Lake and Cook counties. Population, 213,319.

Ninth district — Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, Wilkin and Ottertail counties, Population, 206,430.

Tenth district — Pine, Sherburne, Isanti, Chisago, Anoka, part of Hennepin and Washington counties. Population, 209,675.

Utilities Bills Reported Out.

Three public utilities bills have been reported out by the senate committee on corporations and will receive early consideration. The first is the Wallace bill, patterned after the Wisconsin law; the second is the Murray bill from a New Jersey model, and the third is the Minette bill which affects telephone companies only, putting them under the supervision of the railroad and warehouse commission. It has already passed the house.

The house, in an angry mood, killed the Moeller bill, which authorizes hotels having 75 rooms or more, in cities of the first class, to serve liquors in their dining rooms and, Mr. Campbell's resolution calling for an investigation of the Associated Charities of Minneapolis. It accepted a report of the temperance committee recommending the daylight saloon bill for passage and made it a special order for Friday afternoon.

Fight Over Orr Bill.

The house spent much time in fighting over the Orr bill, providing for the construction of a state historical society building and appropriating $500,000 therefore. Certificates of indebtedness will be issued to raise the money as needed. The board of control, which will have charge of the construction, is authorized to purchase a suitable site for the building if none is available.

It is understood that the design is to purchase a plat of ground lying to the east of the state capitol and between it and the heating plant. The Historical society will contribute $75,000 towards the construction of the building.

Attempts Made to Burn Houses.

London, April 5.—Three attempts were made to burn houses in the Hempstead district of London. One of the residences was occupied and another suffragettes tried to blow up last week. The damage done was not extensive. Nothing was found to connect the suffragettes with the outrages, but the alarmed tenants of the suburb are convinced that militants are responsible. "This place is a regular hotbed of suffragettes," declared a police official.

Wealthy Comedian Is Dead.

Chicago, April 5.—Thomas Q. Seabrooke, a comic opera comedian for 20 years is dead of pneumonia, at a hotel. He was 53 years old and his home was in New York city. Recently he has been in vaudeville and was in Chicago filling a number of engagements. An inheritance of $150,000 came to the comedian last month and two weeks ago he was married to Miss Mattie Quin, a vaudeville actress. Mrs. Seabrooke left Chicago shortly after the wedding to fill engagements at Sault Ste Marie, Mich.

Morgan's Body Embalmed.

Rome, April 3.—The body of the late J. Pierpont Morgan after it had been embalmed and dressed, was enclosed in a walnut coffin, lined with white brocade. This was placed in a leaden casket and finally in a third case of heavy walnut with gold and silver fittings. No definite arrangements have yet been made for the transportation of the body to America, but it is understood that accommodation has been offered on board the Koenig Albert, leaving Naples April 4.

Passengers See Destruction.

St. Louis, April 5.—Forty passengers and crew of the Alton railroad's Red Flyer tell graphic stories of the tornado they saw from the car windows, as it cut a swath one-eighth of a mile wide from Sturgeon to Larrabee, Mo., and go bounding in a northeasterly direction. Houses, barns and outbuildings were seen lifted into the air, whirled round and round in the funnel shaped cloud and smashed to the ground. Trees were uprooted and telephone and telegraph poles laid flat on the ground.

St. Paul, April 3.—Ralph E. Cobb, head of one of the largest butter manufacturing concerns in the Northwest, is dead at his home, 485 Dayton avenue.

Caledonia.—The Caledonia Dramatic club presented its play, "In Old Kentucky," which drew a house with every seat filled. It was an unqualified success. The proceeds will be used to buy scenery and costumes for the new opera house.

Anoka.—T. F. McCauley, who was charged with arson in the second degree, had his hearing before Judge Chase and was held over to the grand jury, that a complete investigation might be made. The defense attempted to prove an alibi.

Jackson.—The Presbyterian Home and Foreign Missionary societies met here with thirty-five delegates in attendance. Miss Elizabeth Cameron of New York gave an address on Mormonism and Mrs. C. E. Engstrom of Chicago, spoke for the foreign board, Mrs. H. B. Lee and Mrs. C. W. Williams, state officers, were also present.

Winona.—The Mississippi river at this point is coming up rapidly and has passed the seven-foot mark. When the floods from the Chippewa river reach here the rise is expected to be still more rapid, but it is not believed the water will get up to the danger point, although it might get up to ten to twelve feet above low water mark.

Winona.—Winona is to have a clean-up day. In every block in the city a woman resident will be named to have charge of the block and she will be authorized to choose her assistants. Front and back yards and alleys will receive attention. A committee of the Association of Commerce, appointed Tuesday night, is supervising the arrangements. The date of the clean-up day has not yet been fixed.

Minneapolis.—A loan said to have been made by the bank of which he is president, to a company in which he is interested, led to the indictment, on a charge of grand larceny, of Fred Hortsman the president of the State bank at Rogers, Minn. He is now being sought by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Schutta. The indictment followed an examination of the bank's books by Oliver Brandwold, deputy state bank examiner.

Kiester.—A posted notice, headed, "White List,' and naming sixteen citizens, is the basis of suits for alleged defamation of character that have been started. Each of the sixteen is bringing a suit for $2,000 damages. There has been much feeling in the village over the result of the recent election, when the "wets" won by a majority of two. The "drys" are contesting, contending that six illegal votes were cast for license.

Duluth, Minn., April 2.—Standing inside the front door of the Superior, Wis., North American Telegraph office, Mrs. Andrews, said to be the wife of a Superior car conductor, drew a revolver and, aiming at her own heart, pulling the trigger. Operator W. F. Hawkins, in charge of the office, was conversing with Mrs. Andrews, according to an eye witness of the shooting. Mrs. Andrews' husband is said to have entered the office, and Mrs. Andrews, seeing him, drew the revolver and fired one bullet into her left side.

Graceville.—Graceville council No. 1391, Knights of Columbus, initiated a class of over fifty members. The work was done by the degree team of the Duluth council. Solemn high mass was held at 10 a. m., when Rev. Father O'Brien of St. Mary's church of Minneapolis delivered a sermon. After the initiation, which was held in the afternoon, a banquet was served, the following being among the speakers: J. F. McDonnell of Waverly, C. S. Burke of Morris, state deputy; Neil Cronin and Rev. M. O'Brien, Minneapolis; J. M. Freeman, Olivia; Leo A. Ball, Duluth; Daniel Grady of Portage, Wis., and Rev. Kennedy, Professor Sherlock and Frank Valesh of this place. Grand Knight M. J. O'Brien of Graceville council acted as toastmaster.

Rochester. — Five-year-old Robert Hetzel, living on a farm near Douglas, a village near here, telephoned the sheriff at Rochester that his mother had been shot to death by Henry Smith, Mrs. Hetzel's 15-year-old nephew. According to the boy's story, Smith had been scolded by his aunt, at whose home he was living. Henry seized a gun and dragged little Robert into the hayloft of a barn, bound and gaged him and struck him over the head with the butt end of the gun. Robert was unconscious for some time, but when he regained consciousness struggled free of his bonds and notified the sheriff's office by telephone. The sheriff and coroner went to the farm. Henry Smith, the nephew, has disappeared, but it is believed that he will be caught shortly.

Minneapolis, April 3.—Mrs. Irene Smith, 21, was shot through the heart and instantly killed at Los Angeles Tuesday night by James L. Murphy, formerly a policeman here, and, up to two months ago, an employe of the Co-operative Barrel company. Murphy is in jail. Morris Bohannon, a nephew of the slayer, asserts that the bullet that killed Miss Smith was intended for him. Bohannon was playing cards with the young woman when his uncle entered and began firing. The third shot killed Mrs. Smith.

Le Sueur.—The 1913 class play, which drew a house with every seat filled at Le Sueur, on last Thursday evening, was repeated by the class last Tuesday night for the benefit of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers and again drew a capacity house, netting $92, which was sent at once to the Red Cross officers for distribution.

Ortonville.—T. L. Buckholtz, who was formerly in charge of the Columbian hotel here, will locate at Montevideo, Minn., where he will become landlord of the Riverside hotel, and Roy Kaiser of Granite Falls, Minn., will take his place at Ortonville.

The 28th of April is Arbor Day, Our trees need guardians and tree planting in this country needs special attention. Arbor Day helps this not so much directly, since the actual tree planting is significant compared with the annual destruction, but in awakening an interest in the care, the worth and beauty of trees and the actual tree culture. The children of today cannot be enlisted to a better cause.

One of the dirtiest, lowest, smallest, meanest, sneaking tricks a man can pull off is to take a paper for three or four yeras, let the bill run up to three or four dollars, and then "refuse" it in the postoffice. It is a person of pretty small caliber who has not enough manhood to tell the editor he doesn't want the paper and if he can't pay at the time, to arrange to pay in one manner or another later. —Itaska County Independent.

The children of today cannot be enlisted to a better cause.

One of the dirtiest, lowest, smallest, meanest, sneaking tricks a man can pull off is to take a paper for three or four yeras, let the bill run up to three or four dollars, and then "refuse" it in the postoffice. Minnesota Legislature

Proceedings at the Minnesota State Capitol for the Past Week.

St. Paul, April 12.—The creation of a general public utilities commission is a dead issue before the legislature at this session. The only public utilities bill which had any chance of passage, the one presented by the committee on general legislation, was defeated yesterday in the house by the decisive vote of 78 to 30.

Helps Minette Bill.

This is believed to mean the passage of the Minette bill, putting telephone companies under the authority of the railroad and warehouse commission, which has been made a special order in the senate for next Tuesday.

The state will hereafter carry its own insurance, at least on all fireproof buildings. The legislature has given the board of control authority to use its discretion with regard to insurance. The board has suggested that this be done so that the state may assume its own risk, at least on buildings of modern construction. The bill to affect this purpose, adopted by the senate some time ago, has now passed the house.

Given Anti-Cigarette Authority.

The house has adopted Mr. Sullivan's bill which gives to the dairy and food department authority to enforce the provisions of the present state anti-cigarette law. It is believed that the house may later pass the Westlake bill which authorizes the sale of cigarettes to adults and provides for licensing of dealers in cigarettes, the fee to be paid being $10 annually.

To Pay Veterans' Expenses.

The senate also passed the Dunn bill making an appropriation to pay the expenses of veterans who wish to attend the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg next July. The bill provides for the attendance of the governor and his staff.

The game laws have been so amended in the senate that a hunter may take two deer instead of one, as at present. One buck and one doe may be shot.

Woodman Bill Carries.

The Woodman insurgents won the fight they have waged against the national organization since the beginning of the session when the senate yesterday passed the bill permitting their secession and the formation of a state Woodman organization.

Under the provisions of the bill secession can take place any time after two years. In case a new organization is formed, the rates first levied must be the same as in 1912, but after 90 days they must be increased 50 per cent.

Practically all of the important measures passed so far by the present legislature were recommended in the inaugural message of Governor Eberhart.

St. Paul, April 11.—The house considered as a special order the so-called "efficiency" bill as amended by the committee of public accounts and expenditures which provides for the appointment of a joint committee of three from the senate and four from the house to investigate the various departments of the state government and recommend a system of reorganization with a view to a reduction of expenses.

Appointment Differences.

Difference arose as to who should appoint this commission, the minority wishing to vest the authority in the governor, the chief justice and the attorney general. The bill passed however, as introduced, except that the appropriation it contained of $30,000 was reduced on motion of Representative R. C. Dunn to $15,000.

The house defeated Dr. Stone's bill abolishing the advisory commission of the state sanitorium for consumptives, providing for state tuberculosis commission and making a large appropriation for its use. There were 45 votes for the measure.

Senate Recall Bill Passes.

The house has passed the senate recall bill after amending it so as to permit of the circulation of petitions and placing a maximum of 20 per cent as the number of signers necessary to bring about a recall election.

A bill by Representative Reed appropriating $7,500 for a statute to Henry M. Rice in the National Statuary hall at Washington, D. C., was passed unanimously.

Saloon Reduction Is Favored.

The house temperance committee reported out for passage yesterday afternoon, a committee bill designed to bring about a gradual reduction of saloons on a basis of one to every 500 of population. The maximum becomes operative in 1915.

Pass Joint Rate Measure.

The Cashman joint rate bill has passed both house and senate. It provides that a shipper may route his shipment over two roads to the point of destination where the distance is less over two roads than over a single road or where the first road does not reach the point of destination. In such cases the railroad and warehouse commission is authorized to order a joint rate lower than the sum of the two local rates.

Money for Investigation.

The senate voted $800 to cover the cost of the investigation of the conditions surrounding brewery owned saloons. This committee reported a bill abolishing brewery ownership which is now under consideration in the senate and another providing for the licensing of places where liquors are sold in unbroken packages or by the gallon.

All of the sterilization bills introduced in the senate and the one that passed the house, were killed in the senate committee on penal institutions and crimes yesterday. All of the bills will be reported out for indefinite postponement.

The Modern Woodman emancipation bill, giving to a certain percentage of the camps the privilege of seceding and forming a new organization, was passed by the senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 40 to 17.

St. Paul, April 10.—The senate yesterday passed the congressional apportionment bill whose provisions have been previously reported, with an amendment taking Steele and Waseca counties out of the First district and putting them into the Third, and taking Goodhue county out of the Third district and putting it into the First.

Ready for Signature.

The senate has also passed the Nolan public utilities bill with amendments. It was repassed by the house and has gone to the governor for his signature.

The bill as distinguished from other public utilities measures, gives to all cities and villages in this state the right to supervise public service corporations and to regulate rates. Other public utilities bills seek to vest this authority in a state commission.

Two so-called "efficiency" bills came before the house for consideration. They are rival measures. One, which has the support of the Rines-Burnquist organization, was reported favorably upon by the committee on public accounts and expenditures. It seeks to vest in a commission appointed by the speaker and the lieutenant governor, authority to investigate all the state departments with a view to their reorganization, in such a way that effort will be co-ordinated and duplication of expense avoided.

Full Investigation Authorized.

The committee is authorized to make a full investigation of the departments during the legislative recess; report all irregularities to the governor and attorney general and also all matters requiring civil or criminal prosecution. The bill carries an appropriation of $30,000.

The rival bill by Mr. Sawyer contains similar provisions with regard to investigation and the formulation of a plan of reorganization. It provides, however, for the appointment of a commission to do this by the governor, the chief justice and the attorney general.

One Bill Favored.

The former was favored by the house and was made a special order. The Sawyer bill was only advanced to general orders which means that it is unlikely to be reached until after the other measure is disposed of.

The only bill of importance passed by the house at the morning's session yesterday, was Senator Sullivan's bill permitting a voter to cast his vote at the general election for presidential electors, state officers and constitutional amendments by depositing his ballot in a precinct other than that of his residence.

Sensation in Senate.

Quite a sensation followed the discovery in the senate that Senator Works' desk had been broken into during the night. It transpired that nothing was disturbed.

The senator is inclined to attribute the curiosity as to the contents of his desk to persons who did not want revelations contained in testimony taken before the grain investigation, made public. Anticipating an attempt to tamper with exhibits introduced in evidence, he had taken the precaution to remove them from his desk and deposited them elsewhere. They are now in the vaults of the state treasurer.

Direction of Insinuation.

This insinuation is directed against the Equity Co-operative exchange. The officers of the exchange believe the whole thing to be a job put up by the senator's friends to make it appear that they had something they wished to conceal.

17 Hurt in Train Wreck.

Rockford, Ill., April 9.—Seventeen men were injured in a rear-end collision of stock trains near Fairdale on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. The injured men were brought to a hospital in this city. J. D. Peck of Mitchell, S. D., and Frank Walter, Hartley, Iowa, received serious injuries, but will recover. Twenty-four men were asleep in the stockmen's coach when the crash occurred. The coach and three cars loaded with stock burned.

Wreath on Jefferson's Tomb.

Washington, April 10.—President Wilson has directed that a wreath in his name be laid on the grave of Thomas Jefferson at Monticello next Sunday, the birthday of the original Democrat.

Suffrage Amendment Proposed.

Washington, April 10.—Suffrage for women, by an amendment to the federal constitution was proposed in a joint resolution introduced by Representative Radker of California.

Promoting Model Stores.

New York, April 10.—The first of a chain of model stores where the minimum wage paid to girl employes is to be $12 a week has just been opened. Light lunches, sodas, ice cream and candies will be sold, and the stores will be conducted by a stock company composed of persons interested in the social welfare of young women. William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, is one of the original promoters of the scheme. The company has a capital of $72,500.

River at Cairo Rising.

Cairo, Ill., April 8.—The flood conditions at Cairo remain practically dormant although the river shows a slight rising tendency. The weather forecaster predicts that the river will make a little over 55 feet before the crest is reached and that for a week or more the rise in the Mississippi will help hold the river at above the dangerously high stage of over 54 feet. No relaxation of efforts in protecting Cairo levees has taken place as those in charge of the work realize the dangerous situation.

EXPLANATION OF DUNN ROAD BILL

CAPITAL CORRESPONDENT TOUCHES ON ALL THE IMPORTANT PHASES.

NEW CHANGES ARE NUMEROUS

New Legislation Amends, Codifies and Reenacts all the Road Measures now in Existence in Minnesota.

The Dunn good roads law codifies, amends and reenacts all the road laws of the state. The changes made are numerous and important. It is proposed here to touch briefly upon their more important features.

The First Division.

The first division of the law relates to the powers and duties of counties, towns and municipalities. It provides that all the state roads shall be constructed, improved and maintained by the counties under rules and regulations made by the state highway commission.

All county roads are to be established, constructed and maintained by the county boards, which may appropriate from the county road and bridge fund such sums as it deems advisable to spend on town roads.

As to Town Roads.

Town roads are to be established, constructed and maintained from the town road and bridge fund, with such aid as the county may extend. The town board may spend money on any road within its limits that has been designated as a state road.

Cities of the fourth class and villages are authorized to assist in the improvement and maintenance of roads beyond their corporate limits in their own or in all adjacent county.

The policy of the bill is that all road and bridge work involving the expenditure of any considerable sum of money shall be done by contract. When such sum is over $500, this is compulsory. Before a contract for a bridge or a road can be let plans and specifications must be filed with the county auditor in the case of a county, or with the town, village or city clerk as the case may require, three weeks prior to the time when the bids are to be opened. In the case of such contracts bids must be advertised for in the local paper for three weeks.

The Second Division.

The second division of the law relates to the apportionment and the organization of the highway commision. The law in this respect is not materially changed. The commission is to investigate and determine the location of road material in the state, investigate laws, hold meetings, report to the governor, and so on. The highway commission may be consulted at any time, and it is made its duty to give adivce, assistance and supervision as may be required, and to render such engineering services as may be necessary.

The state road and bridge fund is to consist of the proceeds of the one mill tax authorized by the adoption of the constitutional amendment at the last election. It is assumed that this will amount to between $1,400,000 and $1,500,000. The expenses of the commission, $150,000 annually, do not come out of this fund, but are a charge upon the general resources of the state. The entire road and bridge fund is to be spent on roads and bridges.

Of this fund not less than one per cent nor more than three per cent can be apportioned to any county, as there are 86 counties in the state. This will leave 14 per cent of the fund to be apportioned among the larger counties, or to be expended in counties where the need of help is greatest. Assuming the fund to be next year $1,500,000, the least any county would receive would be $15,000, the most, $45,000. Of the fund $210,000 would remain to be expended at the discretion of the highway commission.

Much Criticism Here.

This division is criticised more than anything else in the bill. It is defended on the ground that all counties share in the state aid liberally, and on the further ground that it would be unwise to leave, say half the fund or more to be expended at the discretion of the highway commission. It would leave the door wide open for administrative extravagance. It would put in the hands of a governor who might want to use the fund to serve political ends a lever which might be used to the public detriment in case he brought influence to bear on the commission to apportion the money to serve political ends. As it is now the counties will have the handling of the bulk of the road money themselves, and the commission will have to husband the resources at its command to meet the demands made upon it.

Assuming then that the allotment of state has been made as above indicated, the law proceeds to direct how the money shall be spent. One fifth, or 20 per cent, of the allotment to each county is to be used for the maintenance of state roads and bridges therein. Not more than one-quarter, or 25 per cent, of the remainder may be expended on county roads. The rest is to be spent in state road construction.

Must Raise Equal Amount.

In the larger and more populous counties to secure any given sum as state aid, the county must itself raise an equal amount. In case its taxable property is less than $5,000,000, the state will pay 80 per cent if the county raises 20 per cent of the sum to be expended. From $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 the state's proportion is 70 per cent; from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, 60 per cent.

The law, with regard to the designation of state roads, is changed to give the people more voice in the matter. Such roads may be disignated by the county board, provided the consent of the highway commission is secured. Under the old law the matter was in the hands of the highway commission.

An Important Change.

An important change is the law governing state roads provides that any village or city of the fourth class may, with the consent of the highway commission, designate a street as a state road, providing such street will constitute a connecting link with parts of a state road leading into and out of such city or village. State aid may be given for work on such street not to exceed $1,500 a mile, the state paying half the cost, and the municipality half.

Assistant engineers are to be appointed under civil service rules to supervise road work in each county. Their services will be available for all road work, but it is not made compulsory to consult them, except where state roads are concerned. They supervise all state construction.

Some Special Provisions.

Provision is made in the law for the construction of roads established by judicial proceedings, regulating the appointment of commissioners, hearings, trials, and so on; also with respect to mony which may be spent on roads in an adjoining county, which, however, must not exceed $20,000.

Authority is given to issue bonds for road purposes. Such bonds cannot be issued by the county board of its own motion, however. First, they must be voted by the people at a general or special election to be held on the petition of fifty freeholders. Bonds so issued may run 20 years, and bear not to exceed 6 per cent. They must not be sold for less than par.

Road and Bridge Tax.

Besides the one mill state tax referred to above the county is authorized to levy a road and bridge tax not to exceed 3 mills. The township supervisors may also vote a road tax, in their case not to exceed 15 mills. After the annual town meeting, in case of emergency, as where roads or bridges are washed out by flood, the town may levy another tax not to exceed five mills to make necessary repairs.

There still remains to be mentioned another tax levy—this time a compulsory one, namely: the dragging tax. This is a tax of one mill on all taxable property, to be levied by the county auditor. The proceeds of this tax levy are to be kept in a separate fund, to be known as the "Dragging Fund," and to be expended by the town board "only for the expense of procuring a suitable number of drags, and dragging the roads of the town.

In connection with the provisions for this fund the town board is directed to enter into contracts for dragging the town roads, giving preference to the main traveled road, and roads constituting mail routes, the contract price not to exceed $1.00 for each mile of road dragged.

Road taxes hereafter of whatever kind are to be paid in cash. The old system of commutation by labor is abolished.

Overseer Discontinued.

The office of the district road overseer is done away with. Each town is to constitute a road district. "The town board shall appoint a competent road builder as overseer for the entire town, who shall have charge, under the supervision of the town board of the construction of all town roads and the maintenance and repair of all town and county roads in the town. The overseer is authorized to appoint such assistants as are necessary. His compensation is not to be more than $3.00 a day.

The old road law authorized the acquisition of gravel beds by condemnation. The Dunn law extends this to include deposits of any kind of material suitable to be used in the construction or repair of roads.

It is made unlawful to obstruct any public highway, or dig holes in them or secure earth, gravel or rock from them, or to obstruct or damage any ditch by the side of the road. These offenses are punishable as misdemeanors.

To Keep Roads Presentable.

Town boards are required to keep all highways in a passable condition in winter time. Men and teams may be employed by the road overseer to remove the snow. The town board may provide for the erection of snow fences when desirable.

It is expressly provided in the Dunn law that it shall not be interpreted to repeal any of the provisions of the Elwell law, which authorizes the assessment of adjacent lands to raise funds to improve the public highways.

A "Good Roads" Day.

The third Tuesday in June in each year is designated as "Good Roads Day," and the governor shall annually, on or before the first day of June, by public proclamation, request the people of the state to contribute labor, material or money toward the improvement of public highways in their respective communities upon that day.

Winona.—The directors of the Tri-County Fair association of this city have started a movement which it is expected will result in the erection of a fine exhibition building, to be used in the fair to be held here next September.

Protecting Young Trees.

Mulching in spring and summer is valuable for transplanted trees, but is dangerous in winter, as the straw furnishes a hiding-place for the ground mice, which would ruin the trees by cutting the bark. The winter protection of the young trees should be the mound of earth, a foot or so high and eighteen inches in diameter. In the fall, the mulching is to be drawn back from the tree a foot or more and the trunk with soil brought from eight feet or so distant. This is a complete protection from the mice.

Work for Horses.

If horses could talk they would advocate all kinds of improved machinery and would only ask that their collars fit and that the days be not too long and the loads too heavy. No good horse will object to doing his duty. He will not object when doing more than he should, but his owner should have the good judgment to do so for him.

WOMAN'S ILLS DISAPPEARED

Like Magic after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

North Bangor, N. Y.—"As I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with great benefit I feel it my duty to write and tell you about it. I was ailing from female weakness and had headache and backache nearly all the time. I was later every month than I should have been and so sick that I had to go to bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and these troubles have disappeared like magic. I have recommended the Compound to many women who have used it successfully."—Mrs. JAMES J. STACY, R.F.D. No. 3, North Bangor, N. Y.

Another Made Well.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me. For years I suffered terribly with hemorrhages and had pains so intense that sometimes I would faint away. I had female weakness so bad that I had to doctor all the time and never found relief until I took your remedies to please my husband. I recommend your wonderful medicine to all sufferers as I think it is a blessing for all women."—Mrs. L. E. [illegible], 112 S. Ashley St., Ann Arbor, Mich.

There need be no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to remedy woman's diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical. Why don't you try it?

True Love.

"And would you die for me?"

"Certainly not. I would rather live forever than to give you such a cause for grief."

Women Who Can Do Things.

Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell believes in the women who can do things, and the other day he held up Lady Baden-Powell as an exponent of this much-desired art. The chief and founder of the Boy Scout movement was describing a tour that his wife and he recently made in Algeria. "I saw Lady Baden-Powell," he said, "not so long ago in—what is the feminine for shirt sleeves?—scrubbing out a saucepan. We were living the simple life in the desert. We had only one pan, and that was a saucepan. It had to do for frying our fish in the morning and also for boiling our coffee in. After the lady had done the fried fish she had to get some grass roots and sand and scrub the pot out so that we could make our coffee in it. The lady was quite able to do it, and she did it well. She also did the washing. But," General Baden-Powell added, "I must stand up for the Scouts and the mere man—she had to fall back upon me to do the ironing."

Its Weight.

"Cholly complained of having something on his mind."

"I know what it is. I saw him strike his head against a lot of cobwebs in the corner."

"I'm about to give an opera party. What boxes should I take?"

"Any, except chatterboxes."—Judge.

FRIENDS HELP.

St. Paul Park Incident.

"After drinking coffee for breakfast I always felt languid and dull, having no ambition to get to my morning duties. Then [illegible] about an hour or so a weak, nervous derangement of the heart and stomach would come over me with such force I would frequently have to lie down."

Tea is just as harmful, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.

"At other times I had severe headaches; stomach finally became affected and digestion so impaired that I had serious chronic dyspepsia and constipation. A lady, for many years State President of the W. C. T. U., told me she had been greatly benefited by quitting coffee and using Postum; she was troubled for years with asthma. She was [illegible] cross to quit coffee when she found she could have as delicious an article as Postum.

"Another lady who had been troubled with chronic dyspepsia for years, found immediate relief on ceasing coffee and using Postum. Still another friend told me that Postum was a Godsend, her heart trouble having been relieved after leaving off coffee and taking on Postum.

"So many such cases came to my notice that I concluded coffee was the cause of my trouble and I quit and took up Postum. I am more than pleased to say that my days of trouble have disappeared. I am well and happy."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

THE PRICE OF BEEF

IS HIGH AND SO IS THE PRICE OF CATTLE.

For years the Province of Alberta (Western Canada) was the Big Ranching Country. Many of these ranches today are immense grain fields and the cattle have given place to the cultivation of wheat, oats, barley and flax; the change has made many thousands of Americans, settled on these plains, wealthy, but it has increased the price of live stock.

There is splendid opportunity now to get a of 160 acres (and another as a pre-emption) in the newer districts and produce either cattle or grain. The crops are always good, the climate is excellent, schools and churches are convenient, markets splendid, in either Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

Hairpins and Other Pins.

Hairpins have been elaborated as a means of decoration since the earliest times. Particularly beautiful is the variety and delicacy of their workmanship, two of the finest specimens being the gold pins which were found at Salamis in Cyprus, and are now in the British museum. Even more handsome were the Saxon pins of a later date, with their shank of brass, head of gold, and embellishment of garnets and pearls. There were, too, the larger sort of pins so conspicuously and frequently mentioned in the Bible. The instrument driven by Jael through the temple of Sisera was probably a tent-pin, while Delilah fastened the web of Samson's hair with a pin or batten. In the middle ages pins were a great fashion—indeed, a great necessity—in France, and we have it on record that in 1347 12,000 pins were removed from the royal wardrobe for one of the French princesses. The convenience was probably a little later in reaching England, but in 1540 we hear of Queen Catherine (Howard) importing pins from France. In 1560 the trade underwent considerable change, brass superseding iron, while at the same time the price was lowered.

TRY TO KILL ALFONSO

THREE SHOTS FIRED BEFORE WOULD-BE ASSASSIN IS OVERPOWERED.

SHOWED PRESENCE OF MIND

Spurs Horse Which Rears and Receives Ball Aimed at Rider—Third Time Attempted.

Madrid, April 15.—For the third time in his reign, King Alfonso narrowly escaped being the victim of an anarchist attempt against his life. Three shots were fired at the king yesterday afternoon in the streets of the capital by a native of Barcelona, Rafael Sanchez Allegro, who was immeditaely overpowered.

His Escape.

King Alfonso owes his escape to his own courage, quickness, and skilled horsemanship. Accompanied by his staff he was riding along the Calle do Alcala, returning from the ceremony of swearing in recruits, when a man sprang from the sidewalk and seized the bridle of the king's horse with one hand, presenting a revolver point blank with the other.

The king, realizing the situation, with lightning rapidity dug his spurs into his horse, which reared violently. His quickness saved his life. The bulletin, stead of burying itself in the king's breast, struck the horse on the neck, and so close was it that the king's left hand glove was blackened by the powder discharge.

Is Overpowered.

Before his assailant was able to pull the trigger again, a secret service man sprang upon him. The two men fell to the ground, locked in each other's arms, struggling furiously. The assassin managed to free his revolver arm and fired two more shots in rapid succession, but the officer knocked his arm aside and the bullets flew harmlessly through the air.

At the sound of the first shot, the king's staff forced their horses off the sidewalk and made a ring around the assassin, who fought fiercely in the grip of four policemen before he was overpowered and handcuffed.

King Addresses Crowd.

King Alfonso, as soon as he saw that the man had been secured, raised himself in his stirrups, turned to the crowd, gave a military salute, and shouted in a ringing voice: "Long Live Spain!"

He then dismounted and reassured his staff, saying: "It is nothing, gentlemen."

Then uprose a mighty roar from the wildly enthusiastic masses, which rolled along in great waves of sound, all the way, as the king rode to the palace, cool, collected and smiling.

A spectator, a pensioner royal halberdier, pushed forward so impetuously to offer his congratulations to the monarch that he was mistaken for another assassin and was arrested. He was released as soon as the mistake was discovered.

The crowds made a determined attempt to lynch Allegro, who was rushed into a house and kept there until an automobile ambulance, escorted by mounted police, transferred him to police headquarters.

People Cheer Ruler.

He had hardly been back in the palace ten minutes when an immense clamor arose. The two squares on which the palace looks were black with people of all classes, desirous of showing their joy at the king's safety, and their admiration for his bravery. The king went to the balcony and acknowledged the cheers and then sought the queen, and the two stood bowing to the throngs for several minutes.

The police investigations have established that Allegro was recently expelled from France as an anarchist, after which he went to Barcelona.

A woman, said to be associated with Allegro, was arrested last night.

A curious coincidence is found in the fact that the Spanish premier, Count Romanones, Saturday night declared to be absolutely without foundation, alarming rumors, circulated regarding the possibility of an attempt against the king on the occasion of the swearing in of the recruits, and relative to the presence in Madrid of several dangerous anarchists.

Former Attempt.

A dramatic attempt on the life of King Alfonso was made with a bomb May 31, 1906, as the king and his bride were returning to the palace in Madrid from the church where the nuptial ceremony had been celebrated. The missile was concealed in a bouquet of flowers which was thrown at the carriage of the royal couple. The explosion killed an equerry and ten spectators, and also one of the horses which was drawing the royal carriage.

The king and queen were unharmed. The assassin, an anarchist named Morales, committed suicide several days later when apprehended.

Just a year previous to the day, an anarchist in Paris, threw a bomb at Alfonso and President Loubet as they were leaving the opera. Both escaped injury.

Alden.—The spring meeting of the Winona Presbytery convened here Tuesday. Churchmen and ministers from all over the district were in attendance.

Montevideo.—Sheehan's cafe was gutted by fire caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove. The loss on the building is about $600, with insurance of $2,000, and the stock and fixtures $1,000, with insurance of $1,200.

Stillwater.—On recommendation of the mayor the salaries of the chief and captain of police were increased $5 a month, and of the patrolmen $10 a month. The mayor named William N. McNaughton chief of police in place of R. F. Barner, and Thomas F. Maher was promoted to captain in place of McNaughton advanced.

St. Paul.—"Not guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the trial of Prof. Oscar M. Olson, for the murder of Clyde N. Darling, formerly a laundry driver, at the Olson home on March 5. The verdict was returned after two hours of deliberation, and half an hour spent in impatient waiting on the part of the jurors for the arrival of Judge Grier M. Orr.

Winona—The Mississippi river here has now passed the nine and a half foot stage. However, as the crest of the flood has been reached in the Chippewa river, rivermen here do not look for a stage to exceed twelve feet in Winona, and it may not go that high. This will do no more than to flood some very low land in the outskirts of the city.

Owatonna, Minn., April 10.—A fly campaign is to be carried on in Southern Minnesota towns this spring. State Entomologist Washburn gave an illustrated lecture here Sunday night on the prevention of the house fly nuisance. St. Peter will have the same lecture today, and on April 29. the Southern Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs, convening in Rochester, will be addressed by Mr. Washburn.

Winona.—Word has been received here of the blowing of the large safe at the store of G. M. Roherer, at Cochrane, Wis. Mr. Roherer is postmaster there and in addition to about $225 of his own money there were $22 in postoffice cash, $40 in stamps and $23 in money orders taken. The door of the safe was blown off. A large amount of wearing apparel was ruined by being placed around the safe to muffle the noise of the blast.

Minneapolis. — The next annual national tour of the American Automobile association, the route of which will be from Minneapolis to Glacier Park, Mont., will start from this city July 11. The date has just been selected at a meeting of Minneapolis automobile dealers and owners. The route will take the autoists through Alexandria, Crookston, Fargo, Grand Forks, Devils Lake, Berthold, Minot and Havre. Nine days will be required to make the run. Most of the machines will be shipped back to Minneapolis.

Pipeston.—P. P. Cady of this city, who has been engaged in interesting the farmers here in the culture of sugar beets, has received a report from the government officials at Washington on the samples of Pipestone county beets that have been sent there for examination. The report shows that out of three lots of samples the sugar ran from 12.8 per cent to 17.2 per cent. The average for good beats is from 12 to 18 per cent sugar. During the coming season the acreage of sugar beets in Pipestone county will be increased.

Detroit.—The following is the roster of teachers for the Detroit school for next year: Freeman E. Lurton, superintendent; Ruth, Eddy, principal; Edith McKinney, history; Evelyn Foster; mathematics; Lucille Patterson, Latin; Carl Cassel, sciences; Frank C. Riess, manual training; Albertina Enberg, normal supervisor, and Bessie Hews, domestic science. Grade teachers are Inga Rogstad, Wilhemina Guethling, Jessie K. Stuart, Helen L. Nash, Catherine Gallagher, Viola Porter, Ella Crummett, Bertha Norby, Edith Tilseth, Caroline Larson, Eugenia MacPherson, Mabel Norby, Inga Rogstad, Lillian Sloan, Pearl Hendry and Ethel Nicholson.

Winona.—Winona grocers have completed arrangements for a pure food show and demonstrations to be held here May 5 to 10. A large, centrally located building has been leased and will be fitted up into twenty-seven booths, and it is expected to arouse a wide interest in the subject of pure food. Most of the articles to be displayed will be of the package variety.

Stephen.—At a special school meeting to vote on the question of the purchase of a tract of land for the use of the agricultural department of the school, the proposition was carried by a vote of 145 to 33.

Albert Lea.—The contract for the three-story addition to the Freeborn County Creamery company has been let to N. C. Sorenson, a local contractor, for $8,000. Operations started today, as the contract calls for a completion of the building in sixty days. The building will be a cold-storage plant.

Brainerd.—Fire and water damaged the City hotel on Front street, to the amount of $2,500, and the contents about $1,500. The building is owned by Judge J. T. Sanborn and the lesee is C. J. Evensta. It is not known how the fire started.

A BOY INTERPRETER

A Young Massachusetts Swede in Canada Twenty Years Ago Wants to Return.

Twenty years ago, a blond-haired young Swede, a boy of about 10 years of age, accompanied a party of his fellow-countrymen on the then long trip to Western Canada as an interpreter. The party he accompanied located at Wetaskiwin, Alberta, now one of the most thriving and best settled districts in Western Canada. For three years he remained in the district. Homesickness took him back to his home at Fitchburg, Mass., and he has remained there for 17 years. He has heard frequently from his friends in the West. He has followed their movements and watched their progress. He has heard how the town he helped to establish has risen from a shack to a growing, thriving, brisk business center, with the surrounding country peopled now by thousands who are occupying the territory in which he was one of the first to help plant the colony of twenty or twenty-five. In his letter to an official of the Department of the Interior, he says:

"When I was up in Canada, Calgary was a small town and so was Edmonton, but I understand they have grown wonderfully since."

The young man when he went last learned a machine trade, he has patents and inventions but he wants to go to Canada again. And he likely will, but when he does he will find a greater change than he may expect. Calgary and Edmonton are large cities, showing marvelous and wonderful growth. Where but one line of railway made a somewhat tortuous and indefinite way across the plains to its mountain pass, there are three lines of railway dividing the trade of hundreds of thousands of farmers, carrying freight to the hundreds of towns and cities crossing and criss-crossing the prairies in all directions, reaching out into new settlements, and preceding districts to be newly opened for incoming settlers. He will not be able to secure a homestead unless at a considerable distance from the town, the three dollar an acre land is selling at from $15 to $35 an acre. He will find now what was but a theory then, that this land that was then $3 an acre is worth the $30 or $35 that may be asked for it, and a good deal more. But he will find that he can secure a homestead just as good as any that were taken in his day, and today worth $35 an acre, but at some distance from a line of railway, yet with a certainty of railway in the near future, and he will find too that he can still get land at $15 to $18 an acre that will in a year or two be worth $30 or $35 an acre. Mr. Moseson is talking to his countrymen about Canada.—Advertisement.

Willow Switches Given Away.

The small boy whose father has time to apply the switch should beware with a little more than his usual caution. The United States government is giving away willow switches.

The department of agriculture has an experiment farm at Arlington, Va., and some parts of it were found to be too wet for raising ordinary crops. Therefore the experts set willows out in the wet places, and there has been so smart a growth that the government wants to get rid of the willow switches. It offers to give them away under the guise of willow cuttings to make baskets or bottom chairs, but no smart boy will ever be deceived by that kind of talk. He may be safe only in the assurance of the government that only one hundred of the cuttings will be given to one person.—Worcester Telegram.

PIMPLES COVERED FACE

1613 Dayton St., Chicago, Ill.—"My face was very red and irritated and was covered with pimples. The pimples festered and came to a head. They itched and burned and when I scratched them became sore. I tried soaps and they would not stop the itching and burning of the skin. This lasted for a month or more. At last I tried Cuticura Ointment and Soap. They took out the burning and itching of the skin, soothing it very much and giving the relief that the others failed to give me. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment about three weeks and was completely cured." (Signed) Miss Clara Mueller, Mar. 16, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Woman's Beauty is Based on Health

To Have Health, Bowel Movement is Absolutely Necessary—How Best to Obtain it

Mrs. Jennie Snedeker.

If woman's beauty depended upon cosmetics every woman would be a picture of loveliness. But beauty lies deeper than that. It lies in health. In the majority of cases the basis of health and the cause of sickness, can be traced to the action of the bowels.

The headaches, the lassitude, the sallow skin and the lusterless eyes are usually due to constipation. So many things that women do habitually conduce to this trouble. They do not eat carefully, they eat indigestible foods because the foods are served daintily and they do not exercise enough. But whatever the particular cause may be it is important that the condition should be corrected.

An ideal remedy for women, and one especially suited to their delicate requirements, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of women endorse highly. Mrs. Jennie Snedeker, 1041 West Monroe St., Chicago, testifies that she is "cured of grave stomach and bowel troubles by using Syrup Pepsin and without the aid of a doctor or any other medicine." All the family can use Syrup Pepsin, for thousands of mothers give it to babies and children. It is also admirably suited to the requirements of elderly people, in fact to all who by reason of age or infirmity cannot stand harsh salts, cathartics, pills or purgatives. These should always be avoided for at best their effect is only for that day, while a genuine remedy like Syrup Pepsin acts mildly but permanently.

It can be conveniently obtained at any drug store at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. You will find it gentle in action, pleasant in taste, and free from griping, and its tonic properties have a distinct value to women. It is the most widely used laxative-tonic in America today and thousands of families are now never without it.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Some of the Greatest Have Literally Died "in the Harness"—Nathaniel Hawthorne's Pathetic Forebodings of the End.

Robert Louis Stevenson's story, "Weir of Hermiston," was left a mere fragment. Another romance, "St. Ives," by the same pen, was running in a monthly magazine at the time of Stevenson's death. Here, however, readers were not deprived of a satisfactory ending, for the story was brought to a conclusion by Quiller-Couch.

"I hardly know what to say to the public about this abortive romance, though I pretty well know what the case will be. I shall never finish it," wrote Nathaniel Hawthorne, with reference to "The Dolliver Romance," which he had undertaken to write for a magazine.

This foreboding was soon verified, for Hawthorne had scarcely time to do more than lay down the groundwork of the story and write the initial chapters before he died. At his funeral in Concord the manuscript lay on his coffin. Soon afterward the first chapter appeared in the Atlantic, and subsequently the second chapter, which he had been unable to revise, was published in the same magazine. Several years elapsed and then a third fragment, revised and copied by the novelist's wife, was placed in the publisher's hands. The original manuscript is now preserved in the Concord public library.

Another serial that was being written when its author laid down his pen forever was "Denis Duval." Thackeray, indeed, was already in his grave when its publication commenced. Three parts, and a portion of a fourth were all that appeared, and "the story," wrote the editor, "breaks off as his life ended—full of vigor and blooming with new promise like the apple trees in this month of May." With the fourth part was given a set of notes, taken from Thackeray's own papers, elucidatory of the subsequent development of the plot.

Thackeray's great contemporary, Charles Dickens, also died in harness. For a long time his health had been indifferent, but he stuck unflinchingly to the work he had in hand. On June 8, 1870, he died. The morning and part of the afternoon of that day were devoted to completing the sixth number of "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," but scarcely had he finished work and sat down to dinner than he was seized with convulsions. After lingering some hours without regaining consciousness he died at six the same day.

"I shall publish late in this year," wrote Laurence Sterne, "and the next I shall begin a new work in four volumes, which, when finished, I shall continue 'Tristram' with fresh spirit." This new work here referred to is "The Sentimental Journey," one volume alone of which was ever given to the world, nor, by reason of the author's death, was "Tristram Shandy" ever continued.

The Cure for Degeneration.

Attention is just now rather too much concentrated—with the most humanitarian motives, to be sure—on that kind of social perfection which consists in bringing everybody up to an average. It is time to emphasize also the importance of producing and making the most of the few really great, men through whom the world mainly progresses, the pioneers and the prophets of civilization and the arts. Of degeneration we have a morbid and needless fear; the best cure for it is not medical science, but social justice. Break up the slums, take the boys out of gangs and find them clean sport and congenial work. Pull down the rookeries, let in the sun and air, keep human life from festering in rotten places and nature will do the rest. Breeds and races may die out, but there are always new ones being created, and nature is herself the greatest of regenerating forces, destroying the decadent even as she checks the superman before he becomes as the gods.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The "Workin' Stiff."

"He is one of the army of unskilled laborers easily mobilized on any of a variety of industrial frontiers," write Charles Phelps Cushing and Arthur Killick in the issue of Harper's Weekly—"an army estimated now at half a million, content to do the hardest sorts of toil at wages so low that not more than one man in a thousand saves anything." When he gets into trouble the "stiff's" hands are his best credentials. "Look at his hands, sergeant," the magistrate says. "The police court bailiff feels their palms and makes one of two permissible answers, 'Soft as a baby's, yer Honor!' or 'Hard as nails, sir.'"

Get ready to swat the first fly! If you can't get at his solar plexus, hit him between the eyes.

Arm Broken Unloading Ties.

Tom Moran, section foreman on the Great Northern Railway in this city, met with an accident Monday while unloading railroad ties from a car, which left him with a broken arm. The accident occurred near St. Hilaire. The car was standing on the track and an engine while coupling with it sturck it so hard that Moran was thrown from his feet causing him to fall with his arm under his body. He was brought home and the broken limb attended to but it will be about six weeks before the unfortunate man will be able to go back to work again.—T. R. F. Times.

Mr. Moran was a resident here up to a few years ago.

"THE CLIMATE OF WESTERN CANADA."

AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN CANADA'S IMMIGRATION.

A letter dated February 2, 1913, published in a "People's Voice" column in a Swedish paper, while dealing with other conditions in Canada, such as grain yield, social conditions, etc., says: "We have had fine weather until New Year's, when some snow fell and it was cold for a few days, but during the past few days we have lovely weather again." The writer, who lives near Davidson, Sask., says they got from 30 to 35 bushels of wheat per acre, 60 bushels of oats and about 20 bushels of flax. All homesteads are taken in the vicinity, but wild land can be bought at reasonable figures. Word from Alberta gives the information that up to the 22nd of February there were eighty-four and a quarter hours of bright sunshine, but that did not come up to the corresponding month of 1912, when the meteorological department registered 120 hours for the 29 days.

February was exceptionally fine all through, but 1912 went one better, and was a glorious month. However, taking the weather generally throughout the northern hemisphere, February has been marked by serious and severe disturbances resulting in heavy storms, bad weather and low temperatures in many other parts.

The coldest temperature this week occurred on Tuesday morning, when the thermometer registered 23.5 below, and the coldest Wednesday was 11 below. During the last fortnight of February 9 and 8.7 hours of bright sunshine spread its glorious rays over Edmonton, and this out of a possible total of about ten hours is something to talk about.—Advertisement.

Keeper of Secrets of Kings.

Lord Knollys, who is retiring, after having been private secretary to King George and the late King Edward, has received many tempting offers to write his autobiography, but, needless to say, has steadfastly resisted them all. An enterprising publisher, from the United States, once ran him down during his vacation, and placed a blank check before him, inviting him to fill it in for any sum he liked to name in return for a book of no fewer than 50,000 words.

"My terms would be five million dollars," Lord Knollys remarked, quietly. The publisher gasped. "Good gracious, sir, are you serious?" he asked.

"Quite," Lord Knollys rejoined, and then, with one of his merry twinkles of his eyes, he said:

"Would it not be worth a good deal more to you if I had to say frankly all I know?"

The publisher realized the force of the argument, and was bound to admit that it would be a hopeless task to induce an indiscretion on the part of the veteran courtier.

HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

Abbotsford, Wis.—"My son had eczema on his hands for about one year. The eczema started with a rash. His hands were sore so he could not close them, and when he wet his hands they hurt him so he could hardly wash. His hands itched and burned just terrible and if he would scratch them, they would break out into sores. He could not get any rest or sleep, and his hands looked quite bad.

"We had medicine and salve and it kept getting worse all the time. I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after washing his hands with the Cuticura Soap and putting some of the Cuticura Ointment on two times a day and tying cloths on them for about six months they got well and have not broken out since. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him entirely." (Signed) Mrs. Lawrence Kiehl, Feb. 13, 1912.

"Confound it," said the uptown druggist, "that woman took all the change I had in the drawer."

"Why didn't you tell her you couldn't break her $10 bill?"

"No, no; she's one of our most regular patrons. Why, I've known that woman to buy as high as eleven 1-cent postage stamps in a week."

Does Backache Worry You?

Many who suffer with backache and weak kidneys are unnaturally irritable and fretful. Bad kidneys fail to eliminate all the uric acid from the system, keeping you "on edge" and causing rheumatic, neuralgia pains.

When your back aches, and you notice signs of bladder irregularities, suspect your kidneys and begin using Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended special kidney remedy.

I became so dizzy I had to grasp something to keep from falling and my ankles were swollen to nearly twice their natural size. EXTRA SESSION IS ONLY ALTERNATIVE

GOVERNOR TRANSMITS SPECIAL MESSAGE TO HOUSE THREATENING THIS.

MUST PASS UTILITIES BILL

Nolan Bill Is Vetoed and Legislators Are Told That Comprehensive Measure Must Be Given to State At This Time—Reasons Given.

St. Paul.—In a message transmitted to the house, the governor threatens to call an extra session of the legislature unless a comprehensive public utilities act is passed. At the same time he vetoes the Nolan bill providing for local control of public utilities, declaring that such control must necessarily be both inefficient and expensive.

Regulation Is Essential.

"Statewide regulation, he says, is essential in order to secure uniformity in determining valuation, issuing securities, and in securing a proper method of accounting without which intelligent rate making is impossible.

The text of the governor's veto message is as follows:

Hon. Henry Rines,
Speaker of the House of Representatives,
Capitol.

Sir:

I have the honor herewith to return to you, without my approval, House File No. 207:

"A Bill for an Act to amend Section 2842 of the Revised Laws of 1905 relating to state and local control of public service corporations," passed by House February 1, 1913, and received by me April 11th, 1913.

This bill purports to give every city or village in the state the right and power to prescribe and limit the charges which any public service corporation other than telephone companies, may demand or receive for the commodities or services furnished by it to the municipality and to the inhabitants thereof by amending Section 2842 Revised Laws of 1905, which provides that:

"The state shall at all times have the right to supervise and regulate the business methods and management of any such corporation, and from time to time to fix the compensation which it may charge for its services; and every such corporation obtaining a franchise from a city or village, shall be subject to such conditions and restrictions as from time to time may be imposed upon it by such municipality."

The words just quoted are taken from the existing law, and if the amendment thereto contained in House File 207 has any effect whatever, it is to confer power on municipalities over public service corporations which is now vested in the state, and is diametrically opposed to the principle of state control of such corporations.

Governor Gives Reasons.

I therefore return H. F. 207 without my approval for the following reasons:

1. Effective regulation of public utilities is essential in order to supply the public with modern necessities at a reasonable cost, the only other alternative being public ownership.

2. The experience of the past has demonstrated that the local municipalities have signally failed in such regulation and the trend of all modern advanced and progressive thought and legislation has been toward state regulation.

3. The average municipality cannot afford intelligent regulation because of the expense in securing information, equipment and expert service, while the state can furnish the same for the benefit of all without duplication at a much smaller per capita cost.

4. Many of the utilities, such as street and interurban railways, water powers and telephones are inter-municipal and cannot come completely under any one municipality. They, can, therefore, be regulated only by a statewide authority.

Regulation Is Essential.

5. Statewide regulation is essential in order to secure uniformity in determining valuation, issuing securities and in securing a proper method of accounting, without which intelligent regulation is impossible.

6. The regulation of public utilities by hundreds of municipalities is not only too expensive by reason of duplication, but ineffective because it diffuses regulative power and responsibility.

7. During the last primary and election campaigns the question of state control of public utilities was a leading issue and the people throughout the state endorsed the same in most emphatic terms.

8. There is today a genuine demand on the part of the people for such regulation and progressive leaders who have notably championed the cause of good government have endorsed the same. The most signal service performed by Senator LaFollette, while governor of Wisconsin, and President Wilson while governor of New Jersey, for their respective states was the establishment of an appointive public utilities commission.

States Generally Have Acted.

9. More than one-half of the states have enacted such legislation and in many of the remaining states similar legislation is now pending.

10. State regulation is right in principle, sound in policy and most successful in application.

11. Minnesota has been a leader in the forward movement and must now take a step backward by destroying or even delaying state regulation of public utilities.

12. Telephone companies are excepted from House File 207. Assuming that cities and villages should be given power to fix the charges of public service corporations, there is no reason why telephone companies should be exempt from the exercise of the same power.

13. March 5, 1913, the House passed House File 573—"A Bill for an Act to regulate telephone companies and to place them under the control and jurisdiction of the Railroad and Warehouse commission."

This bill expressly provides for state control of telephone companies, thereby recognizing the principle and approving the policy of state control of public utilities. It is, therefore, inconsistent with the principle of local control as expressed in House File 207.

Cannot Be Reconciled.

The two bills cannot be reconciled in principle or policy. The House having recognized the principle of state control as to telephone companies, cannot consistently oppose the same policy as to other public utilities.

14. Whatever value there may be in local municipal regulation is already secured to our municipalities under the provisions for Home Rule charters, and if the people of any municipality do not wish to secure local regulation by the adoption of an effective Home Rule charter, they should not be forced to do so by this proposed method.

As most of the important legislation brought before you has been disposed of, there is still ample time for the enactment of a strong effective public utilities law at this session.

If you are unable to enact such a law before the session expires, I will at a convenient time during the present year, call an extra session for that purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
ADOLPH O. EBERHART,
Governor.

No Inquiry On Women's Wage.

St. Paul, April 16.—The Minnette bill, placing all telephone companies under the control of state railroad and warehouse commission, was passed by the senate yesterday afternoon with only six dissenting votes. The house had already passed it.

The house appropriations committee yesterday agreed that the investigation into the working conditions of girls by the Illinois legislature was unwholesome, and voted to indefinitely postpone the resolution offered by Representative Kneeland, Pfaender and Orr for a similar investigation in Minnesota. The vote was unanimous. Members declared that conditions in Minnesota were such as not to warrant an investigation.

WEALTHY FARMER IS MISSING

Police Seek Richard Molter, Who Had $1,500 When Last Heard Of Or Seen.

Fergus Falls.—The police of Breckenridge and Wahpeton have been asked to investigate the disappearance of Richard Molter, a farmer who recently purchased a large farm in the eastern part of this county, but who has failed to arrive to take possession of it. Mr. Molter has lived for some years near Herman, Grant county, and a few weeks ago he bought the Furnier farm at Deer Creek, this county. He paid cash for it, and also bought $700 worth of livestock belonging to Mr. Furnier.

Molter left his home at Herman on the night of April 3 to take possession, coming by way of Breckenridge and Wahpeton. His wife and mother were to follow a week later. They arrived at the farm yesterday and were astonished to find that he was not there. He had about $1,500 in cash and notes on his person and it is feared he has met with foul play at Wahpeton or Breckenridge, where he had to stop over between trains.

Duluth Plans Reforms.

Duluth.—Duluth is now under its commission government. Mayor W. I. Prince is the executive officer and commissioner of public affairs; Fred D. Voss became commissioner of finance; Leonidas Merritt was named commissioner of public utilities; W. A. Hicken was elected commissioner of public safety, and Roderick Murchison was chosen commissioner of public works. The commission is a unit on the question of law enforcement. The lid went on at noon; saloons must close at 11 p. m., and the Sunday side doors must be closed. The segregated district and hotels and rooming houses of questionable repute also must be wiped out, according to Commissioner Hicken. Lodges have been notified that the slashing prize fights, so common in Duluth in the past, must cease.

Glove Makers Protest Tariff.

Gloversville, N. Y., April 16.—Business was suspended in Gloversville and Johnstown—the center of American fine glove manufacturing, for six hours while the populace of the two cities united in a demonstration of protest against the Underwood tariff bill as it affects the glove and glove leather industries. The demonstration was planned by Gloversville merchants. Gloversville was the scene of the demonstration. Glove factories and leather mills ceased working.

Armistice to Hear Wilson.

Washington, April 16.—Delegates to the Continental congress of the D. A. R. which is holding its 22nd annual session were welcomed to Washington by President Wilson in his first public address here since his inauguration. Addresses of welcome were also made by Secretary of State Bryan and the French ambassador, Mr. Jusserand. Both the president and Secretary Bryan told the daughters that it was their duty to apply the principles of their revolutionary ancestors to modern problems.

Burke Speaks at Banquet.

Washington, April 16.—Many Democrats, prominent in official life, attended the annual Jefferson day dinner of the District of Columbia Young Men's Democratic club. Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi was toastmaster. The speakers included Senator Chilton, of West Virginia, and Hollis of New Hampshire; Representative Ferguson of New Mexico; United States Treasurer Burke, and former Governor Benton McMilan of Tennessee.

Officials Watch Dr. Friedmann.

Washington, April 16.—Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann of Berlin, who declares he has discovered a cure for tuberculosis, brought his visit to the capital to a close with a clinic at George Washington university at which he inoculated 12 volunteer patients with his vaccine. The clinic was witnessed by Secretary Bryan, Assistant Secretary Auburn, the German ambassador, the Swiss minister and several United States army and navy surgeons. More than 100 patients appeared.

Admiring Solicitude.

"What do you think of our new battleship?" asked the naval expert.

"Wonderful," replied the plain business man; "only it does seem a shame to risk anything so handsome and expensive in a fight."

No day is long enough to waste any of it nursing a grouch.

SCORE PROPOSED SCHEDULES

Radical Revision Is Causing Alarm in Business Circles, It Is Declared—Cuts Not Asked for They Now Assert.

Washington, April 22.—That ad valorem duties, such as are proposed in the Democratic tariff bill, are "a delusion and a snare;" that the radical tariff revision submitted by the Democrats is inexcusable and uncalled for and that an accounting will come for its enactment into a law, are the contentions of the Republican members of the ways and means committee in a minority report presented to the house.

"No Excuse," Says Report.

"There is no excuse for the radical change in our revenue system proposed by this Democratic bill," says the report, which is signed by Representatives Payne, Forney, Gardner, Moore, Green and Anderson.

"The people have not asked it. The party proposing it is in power, not by the grace of a majority of the American people, but by a division in the ranks of the majority on other questions than that of protection. The administration has the power to enact this legislation. The accounting for the abuse of that power will come later."

Business Is Alarmed, They Say.

The report contends that the bill has caused "intense and widespread alarm in business circles" and quotes the message of Democratic Governor Foss to the Massachusetts legislature describing the proposed act as "a nonprotective tariff for revenue only, unreciprocal, destructive downward revenue."

Asserting that the Democratic bill "seems to meet with universal approval on the other side of the Atlantic," the report declares that the protective feature has been entirely eliminated in the framing of the bill.

"No one will accuse the Democratic committee," it adds, "of seeking to make up the difference in cost here and abroad or of even trying to put the industries here on a competitive basis with the industries abroad.

"It is easily apparent that many of the duties have been placed on articles used by our manufacturers and imported wholly from abroad, as a 'tax on manufactures;' that many duties have been lowered so that they are much less than the difference in the cost of labor at home and abroad; that many articles now paying very low rates of duty have been put on the free list, while the comparative cost of production here and abroad is such that it will be impossible for business to continue without bringing down our scale of wages to the level of the rates paid abroad. In many cases, articles are put on the free list, while a protective duty is laid upon the material used in their manufacture."

Ad Valorem Criticised.

Attacking the ad valorem system, the report says it imposes a greater tax when prices are high and competition not so keen and a lesser tax when prices are low and competition is keener and much more injurious to the American producer, and, that it bears more heavily on the honest importer and favors the man who, by perjury and fraud, undervalues his goods and escapes his fair share of taxation."

The elimination from the Democratic bill of the maximum and minimum feature of the present law is deplored by the Republicans, who claim that through this provision great tariff concessions and regulations were procured and much added to the export trade of the country.

Trouble With Moros Averted.

Washington, April 22.—Trouble with the Moros, the warlike Philippine tribesmen which threatened the peace of mind of the war department for several weeks, has been averted. Reports to the department says the army of belligerent tribesmen, numbering 3,000, which practically laid siege to Jolo and dared the American garrison to venture forth and do battle, has dispersed and that only a few Moros have refused to be reconciled. The Moros threatened to revolt because of reports of agitators.

Two Oblate fathers will take it through the Southwest for the next year. A huge tent, carried on its top, surrounds the car when it is used as a church, and seats 200 persons.

REALLY A SOUND INVESTMENT

Sanatorium Where Tuberculosis May Be Cured Is Worth Much to Any State or City.

Dr. H. L. Barnes, superintendent of the Rhode Island State sanatorium, has recently demonstrated by some interesting studies of patients discharged as "apparently cured" from that institution, that a sanatorium is a sound investment for any state or city. The gross earnings of 170 ex-patients obtained in 1911 amounted to $102,752, and those of 211 cases in 1912 to $112,021. By applying the same average earning to all ex-patients of the sanatorium living in 1911 and 1912, Dr. Barnes concludes that their income in these two years was $551,000. This sum is more than three times the cost of maintenance of the sanatorium including interest at 4 per cent. on the original investment and depreciation charges. Dr. Barnes concludes, however, "While institutions for the cure of tuberculosis are good investments, there is good reason for thinking that institutions for the isolation of far advanced cases would be still better investments."

All He Wanted.

A Boston man tells of a certain irrepressible bore who always made use of a formula when anyone sought to put him off and thus spare the objects of his attention the annoyance of an interview with him. This formula was: "But I assure you I want but one word with him—only one word!"

On one occasion he sought out a noted lawyer. The latter's clerk met him very solemnly with: "Why, haven't you heard? Mr. Blank died last night."

The words were scarcely out of the clerk's mouth when the applicant was saying, conciliatingly: "But I assure you I want but one word with him—only one word!"

Ways of Aunts.

A southern bishop of the Episcopal church and his five-year-old son were talking earnestly about a maiden aunt. The boy disliked the aunt. The bishop urged that the son should love her, for all that.

"Your aunt is different, my son," said the bishop, "but she is all right in her way."

"Yes, father," was the reply, "but —— her way."—New York Post.

Jackson.—A golden wedding celebration was held here by members of John A. Meyers post, G. A. R.; and the Woman's Relief Corps for Mr. and Mrs. Michael Miller, who were united in marriage in 1863, York, Wis. They came to Jackson in 1868 and have been residents ever since. Their many friends here tendered them a banquet and many gifts were presented to them.

Pipestone.—Through traffic was tied up on the Rock Island road when a freight wreck occurred five miles south of Pipestone. Ten cars and the caboose of a twenty-car train left the rails and two of the cars went down a steep embankment. No one was injured. While the tracks were blocked Rock Island passenger trains were run from Trosky to Jasper and to Pipestone over the Great Northern.

International Falls.—A good sale of state land was held Monday. This is the first held this year. State Auditor S. G. Iverson, Theodore Nelson sales manager, and J. H. Beagle, state appraiser, were present. About 150 persons were present, including buyers from Wisconsin, Illinois and the twin cities. Five thousand, two hundred acres were sold from $5 to $20 an acre, besides timber appraisment on most of the land sold. The bidding was active.

Winona.—Winonans are disappointed because Captain Fugina will keep the steamer Ideal in the government towing employ this season and will not run any excursions out of here. For nearly a third of a century this little steamer and its predecessor, the Robert Harris, have regularly run excursions on Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons between Winona and Fountain City, the trip being one on which visitors to the city were nearly always taken.

Albert Lea.—After suffering untold agonies, Mrs. Daniel McAllister, who was burned in her apartments at the Clark street fire, Sunday evening, died at the Naeve hospital. When the building caught fire from her clothing, which had become ignited from a gas stove, she trapped herself in the upper stairway hall. From there she ran into a closet and made frantic efforts to extinguish the flames at a water tap. When found by her son who rushed into the fire, her clothes were entirely burned from her body.

Deerwood.—A brush fire menaced Deerwood from the east and the two chemicals and the entire population were impressed into the service to save the town from destruction. Fires are raging in Bay Lake to the south of Deerwood, where timber has been destroyed.

Brainerd.—Brush and grass fires are raging at Ossipee, in the north end of Crow Wing county. Other fires are sweeping about Long Lake township to the south of Brainerd. Grass fires keep the Brainerd fire department on a constant run. A good soaking rain would be of great benefit.

Pipestone.—An epidemic of scarlet fever is raging at Mountain Lake, according to reports received here. A representative of the State Board of Health has gone to assist the local physicians. More than fifty cases are under quarantine.

Minneapolis.—That Mrs. Marie Phillips killed herself by firing a bullet into her head and that Samuel R. Phillips, her husband, on trial for the alleged murder, was sick in bed in the Congress hotel when the shooting was done, the morning of March 1 is the defense outlined by the counsel.

HAS A PETRIFIED WATERFALL

One of the Natural Wonders of the World That Is Located in Country of Algeria.

With all the beauty of a cataract of living water, there is in Algeria a remarkable petrified waterfall which recently has been engaging the attention of scientists. This is the Hammam-Meskhutin, which means "The bath of the damned," and is located 62 miles from Constantine. This solidified cascade is the production of calcareous deposits from sulphurous and ferruginous mineral springs, issuing from the depths of the earth at a temperature of 95 degrees centigrade.

"The bath of the damned," even from a near viewpoint, looks for all the world like a great wall of water dashing into a swirling pool at its foot, yet its gleaming, graceful curves and the apparently swirling eddies at its base are as fixed and immovable as if carved from the face of a granite cliff.

Many centuries have, of course, gone to the making of the deposits, and the springs were well known to the ancient Romans. The name Hammam-Meskhutin was given to the stone cataract in an allusion to a legend that the waterfall was petrified by Allah, punishing the impiety of unbelievers by turning all the members of the tribe into stone. At night, so the story runs, its stone dwellers of the remote ages are freed from their strange fetters, come to life and resume their normal shapes.

Do you desire to get a Free Homestead of 160 ACRES of that well known Wheat Land? The area is becoming more limited but no less valuable.

NEW DISTRICTS have recently been opened up for settlement, and into these railroads are now being built. The day will soon come when there will be no Free Homesteading land left.

A Swift Current, Saskatchewan, farmer writes: "I came on my homestead, March 1906, with about $1,000 worth of horses and machinery, and just $35 in cash. Today I have 500 acres of wheat, 300 acres of oats, and 50 acres of flax." Not bad for six years, but only an instance of what may be done in Western Canada in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

Peterson—Brekke.

Wednesday afternoon at Red Lake Falls occurred the marriage of Miss Alma Peterson and Leonard Brekke, both popular young people of the vicinity. Miss Lamay Morrisette acted as bridesmaid while Albert Brekke acted as best man. The young couple will remain at the Peterson home until the latter part of the week, when they leave for Tenstrike, this state, on a visit. The Pioneer, with a host of friends, extends congratulations.

John Ojanpera, who owns a farm northwest of town, arrived here Monday morning from Kokato, Minn., to look after spring work on his farm. His son will follow him here the latter part of this week.

At the state capitol in St. Paul the other day Sam Fullerton, former executive agent of the game and fish commission, called Mr. Rider, the present executive agent, a liar. The result was a fight. It usually makes a man fighting mad to be called a liar when he knows he is one, while he will overlook such all manners if he knows he is telling the truth.—Holt Northern Light.

L. E. Slyter Does Excellent Work With Split Log Drag.

If all of the farmers of Red Lake county, or even a comparatively small number of them, would follow the example of L. E. Slyter, Red Lake county would have some excellent public highways. Mr. Slyter has constructed a split-log drag and has dragged the road that passes his farm for a distance of a mile. The split-log drag does wonderful work when used at the right time after a rain. There is no machine made, no matter how expensive, with which so much can be accomplished with a limited amount of labor.—Gazette.

Why Thunder Sours Milk.

It is universally known that milk turns sour after a thunder storm. This has been attributed to the large quantity of ozone which is liberated by the electricity in the air. The Cure for Degeneration.

Attention is just now rather too much concentrated—with the most humanitarian motives, to be sure—on that kind of social perfection which consists in bringing everybody up to the average. It is time to emphasize also the importance of producing and making the most of the few really great men through whom the world mainly progresses, the pioneers and the prophets of civilization and the arts. Of degeneration we have a morbid and needless fear; the best cure for it is not medical science, but social justice. Break up the slums, take the boys out of [illegible] [illegible] them clean sport and [illegible]. Pull down the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] do the rest. The "Worker's" Hands.

[illegible] the "worker's" hands are his best credentials. "Look at his hands, sergeant," the magistrate says. "The police court bailiff feels their palms and makes one of two permissible answers, 'Soft as a baby's, yer Honor!' or 'Hard as nails, sir.'"

The 25th of April is Arbor Day. Our trees need guardians and tree planting in this country needs special attention. Arbor Day helps this not so much directly, since the actual tree planting is significant compared with the annual destruction, but in awakening an interest in the care, the worth and beauty of trees and the actual tree culture. The children of today cannot be enlisted in a better cause.

L. E. Slyter Does Excellent Work With Split Log Drag.

If all of the farmers of Red Lake county, or even a comparatively small number of them, would follow the example of L. E. Slyter, Red Lake county would have some excellent public highways. Mr. Slyter has constructed a split-log drag and has dragged the road that passes his farm for a distance of a mile. The split-log drag does wonderful work when used at the right time after a rain. There is no machine made, no matter how expensive, with which so much can be accomplished with a limited amount of labor.—Gazette.

Why Thunder Sours Milk.

It is universally known that milk turns sour after a thunder storm. This has been attributed to the large quantity of ozone which is liberated by the electricity in the air. The experiments of Professor Trillat in Paris do not confirm that theory. He has established that atmospheric depressions cause putrefying gases—normal gutter gases—to rise to the surface of certain substances, and in support of his theory points out that odors of all kinds are more penetrating after [illegible]. These atmospheric depressions [illegible] the decomposition of [illegible] and tend to liberate them. [illegible] ferment is produced. Professor Trillat has made many experiments with diverse substances under varying pressures and has observed that when the barometer is lowest (during storms, etc.) the decomposition of gases is most rapid.

The Cure for Degeneration.

Attention is just now rather too much concentrated—with the most humanitarian motives, to be sure—on that kind of social perfection which consists in bringing everybody up to the average. It is time to emphasize also the importance of producing and fostering the most of the few really great men through whom the world makes progress, the pioneers and the prophets of civilization and the arts. Of degeneration we have a morbid and needless fear; the best cure for it is not medical science, but social justice. Break up the slums, take the boys out of [illegible] and [illegible] them clean sport and [illegible]. Pull down the rookeries, [illegible] the sun and air, keep human [illegible] festering in rotten places and nature will do the rest. Breeds and races may die out, but there are always new ones being created, and nature is herself the greatest of regenerating forces, destroying the decadent even as she [illegible] the organism before he becomes so the [illegible].—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The "Worth" Test.

[illegible] one of the army of unskilled laborers easily mobilized at any of a [illegible] of industrial [illegible]," write [illegible] Cushing and Arthur [illegible] in the issue of Harper's Weekly—"an army estimated now at half a million, content to do the hardest sorts of toil at wages [illegible] that not [illegible]. [illegible] forgets into [illegible] the "stiff's" hands are his best credentials. "Look at his hands, sergeant," the magistrate says. "The police court bailiff feels their palms and makes one of two permissible answers, 'Soft as a baby's, yer Honor!' or 'Hard as nails, sir.'"

The 25th of April is Arbor Day. Our trees need guardians and tree planting in this country needs special attention. Arbor Day helps this not so much directly, since the actual tree planting is insignificant compared with the annual destruction, but in awakening an interest in the care, the worth and beauty of trees and the actual tree culture. The children of today cannot be enlisted in a better cause.

The men of Chicago have suddenly acquired an attractive complexion. The reason for this is, that they are now shaving their faces with the new process, called "the Velvet-Edge Safety Razor Blade Sharpener," which gives that velvety smooth skin to the constant shaver.

You men who use Safety razors and want a velvety skin, shaved with the delicate softness so much desired, with a keen cutting edge, send your dull safety razor blades at once to Chicago and have them sharpened by the newest electrical process, which makes the dull blade cut better than the new, and your old blades are returned to you a perfect new blade.

Don't throw away your old safety razor blades, but send them to-day well wrapped, and do not delay it until tomorrow.

Price 30c per dozen for all safety razor blades, which include Gillettes, Ever-Ready Gem, Auto-Strop, Enders, Keen-Kutter, and all other makes. Your blades will be returned to you in a few days, charges prepaid. Send coin or money order. No orders accepted under 30c.

Wrap blades securely in a card board box. Do not send them in an ordinary envelope, the blades may cut through and be lost. Include your name and P. O. address on the package.

Get ready to swat the first fly! If you can't get at his solar plexus, hit him between the eyes.

While no more fish are being caught at one time than one man can carry home alone, some fair catches are being made. Quite a number of fans went over to Red Lake Falls Sunday to attend the ball game between St. Hilaire and the former place. The game is reported as not being of the fastest kind, and the score keeper is said to have lost tract of the score before the end of the game so the result is rather indefinite but at any rate Red Lake Falls came out ahead. While relieving one of the men on the St. Hilaire team, Tudy Brink got struck with the ball below one of his eyes, causing rather a painful injury.

DEATH'S HEAVY HAND.

Grim Reaper Removes Youthful Life From Its Earthly Labors.

The dreaded disease, consumption, has added another victim to its death roll.

A few minutes before ten o'clock Wednesday morning, Miss Ida Hagen, who has been afflicted with the disease for about a year, closed her eyes in death and glided slowly down the deep, dark river whose waters flow forever onward and onward but never return.

While it was generally known that her condition was a hopeless one and that medical aid and the tender care of loved ones could never restore to the young girl her former good health, the news of her death came as a sad shock and has cast a veil of gloom over the whole community.

The calling away from her earthly life of Miss Hagen in the prime of youth is sad to contemplate, she being only twenty-one years of age at the time of her death.

The deceased leaves to mourn her untimely death her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hagen, seven sisters and two brothers.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon and the remains laid to its last rest in the cemetery south of town.

The Pioneer in company with the vast number of friends of the deceased and the family, desire to extend its sincere and heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their hour of sorrow.

To Whom It May Concern.

All parties who have been hauling coal away from ditch No. 48 in the town of Hickory, are cordially invited to call at the Northern Minnesota Drainage Company's office at Plummer on or before May first and settle for same as the coal was all brought up for our own use, and not to heat school-houses and other buildings of which we shall mention no names. We have looked into this matter and found out who the guilty parties are. We have no intentions of causing hard feeling, nor had we the intention of giving it away, nor did we expect that the people in that section of the county would take anything not belonging to them, without consulting the proper owners.

When you have so far lost control of your nerves that you "fly to pieces" over the least little noise or excitement, it is high time to give your nerves a rest and to build up your blood. The drawn look, the sunken eyes, the deepening lines about the mouth and forehead, the loss in weight, are plain signs that the nerves and body are being poorly nourished.

Short Hatpin Law.

We have observed a disposition in the newspapers outside of Massachusetts to belittle the law against long hatpins that will become effective early in April. There is one exception, however. The New York Sun, which used to boast that it "shines for all," takes a sane view of the matter. "The protection of life and limb," declares the Sun, "cannot be deemed sumptuary legislation. Is it not reasonable to approve the Massachusetts statute just passed providing that the deadly end of hatpins worn in public shall be sheathed? The rapier is not less beautiful with a foil. The hatpin scabbard can be made esthetic; the fears of man can be allayed, his miserable life spared. Sovereign woman can still slay with her eyes; she needn't put out the other fellow's." No, she need not, and it is within her power to make the penalties of the new law harmless by setting the fashion of wearing a protector. Let her heed the advice of the Sun and make the scabbard of the hatpin esthetic. As already suggested, let the federated clubs address themselves to this troublesome problem and the affair can be settled to everybody's satisfaction within a very short time.—From the Lynn Item.

Neighborly Hint.

"People as keep 'ens," observed the lady at No. 17 Acacia terrace, "should keep 'em at 'ome. One o' these odd days, when your fowls come scrappin' in our garden, you'll be missin' some."

The lady of No. 19 sniffed the air in defiance. "If you was to feed your cat prop'ly, p'raps it wouldn't go 'untin' round for bulbs," she observed. "Then you wouldn't lay the blame on 'ens what belongs to your neighbors."

A week later the lady of No. 17 again addressed her next-door neighbor.

"Thanks for your 'int about treatin' our cat better," she said.

"Pleased you found it pay," returned No. 19.

"We should never a-found out what a wonderful cat it was if it 'adn't been for you," smiled No. 17. "Since you spoke about it I made it up a couple of straw beds in the tool 'ouse and sprinkled a little barley about, and blest if that cat ain't laid two nice eggs every mornin' since."

And next day there was a wire fence round the hen house at No. 19 that an elephant couldn't break through.

Much of World Unexplored.

Despite the discovery of both poles, a large portion of the earth still remains unexplored. Roughly, it is estimated that about 7,000,000 square miles, or approximately one-eighth of the total land surface of the world, is still a mystery to civilization. Included in this area are vast tracts of polar region, portions of Arabia, jungles and mountains in South America, spreading wastes in Australia, regions in the Himalayas, dark haunts in Borneo, and the Congo basin, and stretches of the Sahara.

IT'S PEACE OR RUIN

TAWNEY SAYS NATIONS MUST REDUCE ARMIES AND NAVIES AT ONCE.

FINANCIAL RUIN, OTHERWISE

Income Tax to Aid Movement and Direct Revenue Systems Is Likely to Awaken People to Need of Military Economy.

Winona.—James A. Tawney, former congressman of Winona, whom Andrew Carnegie recently said was one of the world's foremost advocates of world peace, is deeply interested in the plan of Secretary of State William J. Bryan for international peace just discussed before an ambassadorial conference.

Spells Financial Disaster.

Mr. Tawney believes the mad race of the nations in the matter of armament spells financial disaster.

"I do not know any of the details of Secretary Bryan's plan for international peace or international disarmament," Mr. Tawney said last night. "The fact is the plan is not so important, except from the standpoint of its practicability. The great thing to be accomplished is the result that in the negotiation and promulgation of treaties between nations that will reasonably insure the peaceable settlement of international controversies and end the mad international armament race in which the principal nations of Europe and the United States are now engaged.

Expense Enters Bryan's Motive.

"No doubt the fact that our annual expenditure on account of the army and navy or in preparation for war equals about 40 per cent. of our aggregate annual revenue, and that our expenditures on account of wars that we have had is more than 31 per cent. of our annual revenues, has influenced Secretary of State Bryan in the matter of proposing and trying to bring about the adoption of some plan that will relieve the American people from the enormous burden caused today by our war expenditures.

"One reason why there has been no complaint on the part of the people in this country on account of these enormous war expenditures, is the fact that our federal revenue has been derived from sources other than direct taxation, but when it becomes necessary, as it seems to be now, to raise a large part of our necessary revenue from direct taxation, like the proposed income tax, the people will perhaps take more interest in the matter of our national expenditures than they have heretofore, and will give their hearty support to any plan that promises to reduce the burden of taxation made necessary by the present enormous war expenditures."

STOCK VERY MUCH IN DEMAND

Waterville Breeders of Shorthorns Buy from Glotfelter and Timpane Herds.

Waterville.—Waterville's reputation for fine shorthorn cattle is becoming widely known and the fine herds on the stock farms of C. W. Glotfelter, John A. Timpane and other local breeders are an attraction to breeders of the northwest. Representatives of the Community Shorthorn Breeders' association of Pope county were here this week from Glenwood and bought several head of animals from the Glotfelter and Timpane herds. Many have been shipped recently to other Minnesota points and to Iowa.

Waterville is to have a Chautauqua from June 14 to 18, inclusive. The local guarantors have selected the following, who will have charge of the arrangements: C. W. Glotfelter, president; C. A. Backman, vice president; R. R. Riley, secretary; F. E. Armitage, treasurer; Dr. C. L. Afundson and S. H. Farrington.

H. W. Knight and G. E. Doyle were in Waterville this week looking into the matter of building the proposed electric railroad from Sioux Falls, S. D., to the twin cities through here.

Freed Slayer Faces Suit.

St. Paul, April 24.—Prof. Oscar M. Olson, acquitted April 8 of the self-confessed murder of Clyde N. Darling, laundry driver, at the Olson home, is to be sued by Mrs. Viola E. Darling, widow of the dead man. Attorneys have been instructed by Mrs. Darling to bring suit against Prof. Olson for $7,500 on the ground that he caused the death of Darling by wrongful act, March 5, and thus deprived her of her support, according to their statement. The first step was taken in probate court when application was made for the appointment of Mrs. Darling as administratrix of her husband's estate.

Pierce Not to Run Again.

Red Wing.—Arthur P. Pierce, mayor of Red Wing for eighteen years, is firm in his determination not to be an independent candidate in a three-cornered fight. If there had been no other candidate in the field but the republican nominee, John J. Ferrin, then Mr. Pierce would have run in order to give the people a choice between two men for the office, but since E. C. Erb has been nominated on petition as the citizens' candidate, he has decided not to enter the race.

"Customers" Rob Store.

Minneapolis, April 23.—Under the guise of customers who wanted to buy a box of snuff, for which they paid five cents, two men entered the store of Johnson & Son, Forty-fourth and Girard avenues north, and held up and robbed Peter Johnson, the senior member of the firm, while more than a score of people were looking on. One of them bought the snuff and handed over a nickel, evidently with the object of having the proprietor open the cash register.

MOORHEAD ENTERTAINS BOTH

Board of Missions of Interior and Home Union to Meet This Week.

Moorhead.—The thirty-sixth annual meeting of the Minnesota branch of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior and the forty-first annual meeting of the Minnesota Woman's Home Missionary Union opened in this city on Tuesday evening, the 22nd, to adjourn Friday forenoon, the 25th.

The opening session consisted of an address of welcome and responses by Miss Margaret J. Evans, Mrs. E. A. Tupper and Mrs. Roy B. Guild, the exercises culminating in a pageant presented by young people of Moorhead.

The first session on Wednesday was devoted largely to business. The story of the year's work was told in the various reports. Mrs. L. O. Lee of Marash, Turkey, spoke on modern movements in that country. Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Lee, reinforced by Miss Annie L. Howe of Kobe, Japan, discussed modern movements in the Flowery Kingdom. In the evening Miss Howe spoke again.

Thursday forenoon the Board of Missions elected officers and listened to the reports of secretaries. A closing message was delivered by Miss Margaret J. Evans.

The Home Missionary Union was called to order on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. T. W. Howard brought "A Message from the Northern Woods;" Miss Lettie M. Crafts told of "Our Missionaries," and Rev. Everett Lesher discussed "Congregationalism and Its Task in Minnesota." In the evening there were addresses by Miss Grace Josselyn and Mrs. Roy B. Guild.

VON KLEIN STRATEGY WINS

Diamond Broker Gets Case Into Chicago Courts, Delaying Removal.

Chicago.—A writ of habeas corpus, returnable immediately, has been issued by Judge George Kersten in the case of E. E. C. von Klein, Minneapolis diamond broker, charged with swindling, through marriage, several women in various states. The writ was obtained by Attorney Charles Erbstein while the latter's partner was defending von Klein in another court at the South Clark street police station, where his hearing on a fugitive warrant was taking place.

Erbstein's move was intended to defeat the removal of his client to Portland, Ore., for trial on a charge of defrauding Ethel Newcomb of several thousand dollars in jewels after pretending to marry her. The effect of the writ was to bring the entire case into Judge Kersten's court.

The Newcomb girl saw von Klein at the interrupted police station hearing for the first time since she filed charges against him. At times she gazed at von Klein with a slightly puzzled expression, as if she were trying to determine whether it was possible for her to marry a man and then mistake a stranger for her recreant spouse.

Erbstein set up that von Klein is not a fugitive from justice and that he was not in the various states at the times the crimes charged against him were committed. The attorney explained that he wished to thresh out the entire case in Chicago.

PIONEERS WILL CELEBRATE

Anniversary Date This Year Falls on Sunday, So Saturday Is Chosen.

St. Paul.—The Minnesota Territorial Pioneer association will conduct its celebration of the fifty-fifth anniversary of the state's admission to the union in the old capitol on Saturday, May 10, because the anniversary date falls on Sunday this year. The Woman's Pioneer club will meet at the same time and the organizations plan to make the occasion more interesting than usual. A large number of relics have been added to the museum, which is said now to have the largest collection of framed portraits of any western state. The biographical records and library are reported as extensive and are frequently drawn on. Any family living in Minnesota prior to May 11, 1858, no matter where they now live, are entitled to membership. Sons and daughters of pioneers are assisting in perpetuating the association. A badge, button and certificate of membership are given each member. The committee on program for May 10 includes E. F. Berrisford, John A. Stees, Charles F. Staples, George A. Brackett and George H. Hazzard. South Dakota and other state pioneers have recently organized along the same line as the Minnesota association.

Class Play Receipts $377.

Thief River Falls.—The senior class play, entitled "A Modern Ananias," was presented to a large audience in the city auditorium. The students cleared $377.50.

Cattle and Hogs Worth $200,000.

Winnebago.—In the past five months almost $200,000 has been paid out by local buyers to farmers tributary to Winnebago for cattle and hogs. All of this livestock was fed from the products of the farms. Diversified farming has been found by the farmers to be much more profitable than grain raising alone. The agricultural community ascribes its prosperous condition to the fact that products of the soil have been marketed as beef and pork rather than directly to the warehouses.

To Oversee Rate Case.

St. Paul, April 23.—Attorney General Smith, accompanied by T. D. O'Brien, has left for Washington, and if the situation warrants it he will file a rebuttal brief in the Minnesota rate cases now before the United States supreme court. His departure was hastened by the brief just filed by the government in the case of the Texas rate schedule now in controversy before the commerce court. For over a year the Minnesota rate cases have been pending.

REPORT ON HEETER'S PAST

SEVEN PROMINENT CITIZENS HAVE BEEN INVESTIGATING.

Pittsburg Children Must Return to Studies or Parents May Be Prosecuted.

Pittsburg, April 25.—Although a majority of the school children of the city remained away from their studies Wednesday, there were few demonstrations in the strike inaugurated on Monday against the retention of S. L. Heeter as superintendent of public schools. Attempts of the children to gather in front of the various school buildings were discouraged by the police reserves.

An answer is expected from each of the seven prominent citizens who have been asked by the board of education to investigate alleged charges of immorality against Superintendent Heeter.

The superintendent, who was acquitted last Friday in criminal court of two charges made by a maid employed at his home, continues his duties as head of the school system. Wednesday he conferred with Director Charles Reisfar, Jr., of the department of compulsory education, and beginning today all children remaining away from school will be handled not as strikers, but as truants.

Several score of truant officers began serving notices at the homes of the children, and parents may be prosecuted in the event the strikers are not in attendance at once.

PROMINENT MINISTER DIES

Rev. M. Falk Gjertsen Passes Away Suddenly in California—Formerly in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis. — Reverend Melichor Falk Gjertsen, prominent for thirty years in Minneapolis as a minister, school board official and public-spirited citizen, died suddenly at San Diego, Cal. He had been ill for five weeks from dropsy. When he rallied from this, an attack of pleurisy a week ago caused the decline that led to his death. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Gjertsen had been prominently identified with religious, civic and political activities in Minneapolis for the last three decades.

The declining days of Mr. Gjertsen were spent ceaselessly in the writing of a historical novel based on the life of Norwegians in America, particularly in the Northwest.

Mr. Gjertsen came to Minneapolis in 1881, when he assumed charge of the Holy Trinity church. He was born in Amble, Sogn, Norway, in Feb. 19, 1847.

Caving Sand Buries Man.

Minneapolis, April 24.—"Well, Oscar, I guess I'll take out one more plank and then come up for supper." These were the last words spoken by Andrew G. Nordstrom, 55 years old, 3421 Cedar avenue, before he was buried under 20 feet of sand. A heroic fight for his life followed, led by Oscar Day, with whom he was working, and later by the firemen of two companies and ten policemen from three stations, directed by Chief Martinson. At midnight the rescuers were still far from the bottom of the shaft and hope was gone. Nordstrom was filling a cesspool in the side yard of his home. He had let himself down on a ladder, with a rope about his waist, while Day took the planking from the top.

Winona Stores Robbed.

Winona.—Burglars have been unusually active in Winona, having entered several establishments, the largest haul having been made at the store of McNie & Co., where fountain pens to the value of more than $600 were taken. The latest attempt was to break into the store of the O. P. Sontag company, but the glass in the door was unusually thick and efforts to cut through it proved unavailing, the patrolman on his rounds possibly having frightened away the men before they had finished their attempt. The police have several clues upon which they are working.

Novel Sentence Meted to Girl.

Winona. — Sophie Zakowski, 17 years old, has arrived in Winona to begin a novel sentence, "life in Winona." It was meted to her by Judge John Brindlay of the county court in La Crosse. The Zakowski girl, it is alleged, was arrested Tuesday at La Crosse, charged with frequenting road houses. The court said she must stay here permanently.

Steamers Leave Duluth.

Duluth.—Already three steamers have left the Duluth-Superior harbor since the departure of the steamers Wolf and Dunham which opened navigation here. They were the Ontario, carrying 290,000 bushel of wheat; Jacob F. Kopp, 304,000 bushels of wheat, and the W. P. Snyder, Jr., carrying 415,000 bushels of wheat.

Free Delivery on July 1.

Marshall.—Collection boxes and posts have been ordered for the city delivery of mail, which will be established July 1. An examination for carriers has been announced for May 10. The Great Northern will start at once on its new $30,000 station here. Further evidence of thrift and enterprise was shown at an enthusiastic meeting held by citizens to induce the Electric Short Line railroad to make this a terminal. The line will run through Redwood Falls to the twin cities.

Dairy Industry Reviving.

Fairmont.—The dairy industry of this section of the state is to be revived by a dairy and breeders' association which has just been formed in Martin county with D. C. Montgomery of Welcome as president, and J. H. Wohlford of Welcome, secretary. It is the plan to get all dairymen and breeders in the southern section of the state interested in the new association. About a hundred and fifty dairy farmers were present at the organization meeting. One object will be to improve dairy herds.

Auburn, N. CHANGED POINT OF REFORM

Uncle Rastus at Least Was Honest in His Acknowledgement of Previous Lapses from Grace.

The colonel had remonstrated vigorously with Uncle Rastus about the old darky's persistent excursions into the state of inebriation.

Uncle Rastus, though he promised faithfully to refrain from frequent dips into the flowing bowl, failed to live up to the colonel's expectations.

On numerous occasions the colonel saw Rastus under the influence of liquor, but the darky when taken to task stoutly denied the accusation, affirming emphatically that he did not drink. One evening the colonel met Uncle Rastus in a condition which made it plainly evident that the darky was "caught with the goods on."

"Rastus," began the colonel, seriously, "I though you told me that you had given up drink?"

"Ah sho' did, Massa Ke'nol; ah sho' did," replied Rastus. "But lately ah dun took up drinkin' an' gib up lyin'."

FACE ALMOST COVERED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Atchison, Kan.—"For a number of years I suffered very greatly from skin eruption. My face was very red and irritated, being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. They were a fine rash with the exception of a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked red as if exposed to either heat or cold. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

"I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with Cuticura Soap and hot water. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and hot water also several times during the day. After about four months of this application, my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap." (Signed) Miss Elsie Nielson, Dec. 29, 1911.

DOINGS OF THE SOLONS

Minnesota Legislative Affairs of the Past Week—Law Makers Hard at Work.

St. Paul, April 24.—The Minnesota house of representatives, passed its last bill of this session of the legislature some little time after midnight this morning amid fitting scenes of disorder. At about the same hour, the very sedate and gentlemanly senate, quietly answered to the last roll call on passage of a bill and as quietly dispersed.

Pass Resolutions Today.

Today, both these houses gathered to pass a few resolutions and appropriate a little money. With that, this session of the legislature will be history.

Important Bills Pass.

Most of the senators and representatives were bending their efforts yesterday and last night to obtain passage of bills of interest to particular communities. But the statement that all important bills were out of the way is not absolute for there were left several bills which reform elements were much interested in.

For example, there was the senate bill prohibiting brewery ownership of saloons, a bill prohibiting curtains or screens in saloons, the Voxlund state wide prohibition bill, the full crew bill and all the public accounts and expenditures committee measures.

Only a few of the house members were anxious to reach these bills and those few were made the butt of the sharpshooters for so many hours during which these serious-minded persons suffered untold agonies at the hands of the pea shooters.

One Worth Mentioning.

Probably the only bill which possibly could be placed in the important class and which the house acted on last night, was the McGarry measure, authorizing the state board of investments to sell the Virginia bonds by a majority vote instead of requiring the unanimous vote.

There were some 200 bills on the house calendar when proceedings opened and only about 20 of them passed.

Senate Passes Many Bills.

In the senate, things were in contrast. More than 100 bills were passed by that body. Most important of these was the congressional reapportionment measure which a conference committee had doctored up, and which went through as an eleventh-hour proposition. The road house bill, passed by the house, was lost in the shuffle in the senate.

Another of the important bills which went through the senate was that carrying a half million dollar appropriation for a state historical society building. The house passed this some time ago, so the money will be available.

Congressional District Bill.

Minnesota will have ten separate congressional districts instead of nine districts and one at large as is now the case. Both house and senate, in the closing hours last night, passed a congressional reapportionment bill. Up to within two hours of the time to quit business it looked as though the two houses would not be able to agree on a bill, but when the conference committee finally reported an agreement both houses placed the bill on final passage.

The bill differs from the original bill passed in the senate in that it places Goodhue county back into the Third district where it has always been. It puts Waseca and Steele counties into their old places.

Governor Eberhart signed the Westlake cigaret bill last night and he did it with a zest. This bill provides that those who would sell cigarets must obtain a license from the city council. The fee is $25. This in itself forestalls the little stores from the trade as there is not much profit in cigarets.

On first conviction of selling tobacco of any kind to a minor there is provided a heavy fine with the alternative of a workhouse term. For the second offense the license is automatically revoked and the dealer must go to the workhouse.

St. Paul, April 23.—The Nolan bill is dead as is also the Minnette bill.

Governor is Sustained.

The senate sustained the governor in his vetoes of both measures. At the same time it rebuked the house organization. The way is now cleared for passage at a special session of a public utilities bill calling for intelligent state supervision of public utilities. The ward politician has suffered a sharp setback.

Democrats played an important role in the defeat of the two measures. They took advantage of the split in the Republican ranks and at the same time showed their desire to be on record for such a piece of progressive legislation as the utilities bill. A large share of the support which was responsible for the vetoes being sustained in the senate came from the Democrats, led by Harry F. Weis.

No Debate Here.

Without a word of debate, the Minnette bill, placing telephone companies under the regulation of the state railroad and warehouse commission and calling for physical connection between companies outside the big cities, went to a vote. The final vote showed 30 standing with the governor and 32 against him and for the bill. As 42 votes would have been necessary to carry over the veto this measure went into the discard.

Senator Dwinnell of Minneapolis made a vigorous plea for the Nolan bill, which would give Minneapolis the doubtful right to regulate the rates of the Minneapolis General Electric company. But it did not avail. The final roll call found 34 members voting to sustain the governor's veto and 28 in favor of the bill.

Special Session Date.

Immediately after hearing the result of the votes on the bills Governor Eberhart issued a short statement and announced that he would write to members of the legislature to ascertain the most convenient time for a special session.

Last Call; End of Session.

This was the ninetieth legislative day, the last, the final call. When the clock reaches the midnight hour, this night, hopes will have been realized or blasted.

The big bills are out of the way. There is left for the final day only those measures of vital importance to particular localities and the 120 members of the house of representatives and the 63 senators will make their individual fights these last closing hours to push through in the final scramble these bills, which mean so much to the folks at home.

There are 200 bills in each house which yet await action. Today there was a scramble by members to advance their bills ahead of the other fellows. At that it is estimated that at least 200 measures will die.

The people of Minnesota will be given a second opportunity to vote on the question of limiting the representation of Hennepin and Ramsey counties in the state senate to seven senators. The senate seven-senator bill passed the house yesterday by a vote of 64 to 41.

Disorderly House Measure.

The house yesterday passed the Wallace-Fosseen bill, known as the disorderly house abatement law, by a vote of 88 to 11. Not a single amendment was adopted to the senate measure, and it now awaits the governor's signature to become a law. Friends of the bill declare that it is an effective means, by which every disorderly house in the state will be wiped out.

The house yesterday passed Senator Pauly's bill authorizing the state labor bureau to review actions of mayors in granting permits to children to appear in theatrical performances. The bill also extends the authority over transient children carried by theatrical companies.

Workmen's Bill Repasses.

Both houses have concurred in the conference committee's report on the workmen's compensation bill. The bill was repassed in both houses and it now awaits the signature of the governor. With the governor's signature attached to the bill, Minnesota will have joined the ranks of many other progressive states that have put workmen's compensation laws on their statute books.

As the bill now reads no compensation is to be paid for the first two weeks after injury, except medical and hospital fees, etc. The limit for hospital fees, etc., is to be $100, except that the court may allow an addition $100 if necessary.

The people of Minnesota will have an opportunity at the next general election to decide whether they want the right to recall public officials. Both houses of the legislature have agreed to the conference report on the recall bill and have repassed the measure.

There will be rejoicing within the ranks of the county officers throughout the state over the action taken by the state senate yesterday when it passed the Dunn bill extending their terms of office to four years instead of two. The bill has already passed the house.

Omnibus Bill Passes.

The senate passed what is known as the "little omnibus" bill yesterday. It carries an appropriation of nearly $1,500,000. The bill includes an appropriation of $500,000 for tuberculosis sanatoria, $250,000 a year. It also includes $100,000 for county fairs, and $50,000 for the counties' share in inheritance taxes. The house was expected to pass the measure today.

English Suffragette Loses Estate.

London, April 24.—Personal property belonging to Beatrice Harraden, the author, was sold at auction here for non-payment of the income tax. Miss Harraden stated that she had refused to pay the tax as a protest against the deceptions practiced by the government on the suffragettes which led the suffragettes to militancy, and as a protest against forcible feeding and the "cat and mouse" bill, a measure particularly obnoxious to women's rights advocates.

Two Appropriation Bills Pass.

Washington, April 24.—By an overwhelming vote the house passed the sundry civil appropriation bill with provision to carry out the anti-trust law for the prosecution of labor unions and farmers' co-operative organizations. An attempt to strike out the two provisions, which caused former President Taft to veto the measure in the last days of the Sixty-second congress, was defeated by a vote of 47 to 198. The Indian appropriation bill, which failed at the last congress, also was passed.

"Baseball Trust" Probe.

Washington, April 24.—Characterizing organized baseball as "the most audacious and autocratic trust in the country," Representative Gallagher of Illinois introduced a resolution for an inquiry into the operations of the national commission by a special committee of congress. The resolution would also direct the attorney general to investigate the baseball contract system with a view to instituting prosecutions for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

No Public Hearings.

Washington, April 24.—By a strict party vote the senate finance committee decided finally that no public hearings will be given upon the tariff bill when it reaches the senate. Interested persons will be given full opportunity, however, to file briefs or statements with the commission, bearing on any of the tariff schedules. The decision is expected to shorten materially the time consumed in getting the tariff bill before the senate for consideration.

AWAIT OUTCOME OF MR. BRYAN'S VISIT

SECRETARY BRYAN WILL ATTEMPT DIPLOMATIC SETTLEMENT OF CALIFORNIA CASE.

NO IDEA AS TO THE RESULT

New Measure Is Being Presented to Head of the State Department—What the Coming Conference May Mean.

Sacramento, Cal., April 29.—In deference to Secretary of State Bryan who has come to Sacramento to confer with Governor Johnson and the legislature on the proposed anti-alien land laws, it has been decided to make no plans for the conferences until Mr. Bryan has signified the purpose of his visit.

No Course of Action.

Governor Johnson met Sunday with Attorney General Webb and a dozen of the administration leaders in the legislature for a general discussion of the situation with regard to Mr. Bryan's visit, but no course of action was proposed.

Governor Johnson said afterwards that everything hinged upon the desires of the state's visitor.

"I cannot tell when our conferences will be held with Secretary Bryan, or what their nature will be, whether public or private," said the governor.

"In the matter of arrangements of that kind, we are agreed that Mr. Bryan's wishes will be scrupulously and cheerfully observed, whatever they may be."

Outcome Speculative.

There is much speculation as to the form the official visit will take and the manner in which Secretary Bryan will choose to impart his message from President Wilson. It is generally agreed that if the secretary of state is possessed of information of a private or diplomatic character he will disclose it only to the governor or to an executive meeting of the two houses of the legislature, sitting together. That such a joint meeting would be called at his request is indicated by the statements of Governor Johnson and others.

There are many, however, who believe the secretary comes only to protest openly, in the name of the federal government, against a violation of any treaties of the United States and that he will be content with the formal presentation of such protest. In either case, he could address the houses separately or in joint session.

Attitude Is Unchanged.

It was stated by a number of administration leaders that the disposition to pass an anti-alien law restricting aliens who are not "eligible to citizenship," remains unchanged.

"It will be necessary for Mr. Bryan to change the present views of the majority if the bill is to be killed.

Senator Thompson has completed his final draft of his new bill, which is to be presented to Secretary Bryan as the concrete expression of the sentiment of the majority. It is brief and makes no attempt to dodge the point at issue—the ineligibility of the Japanese. Under its terms, no alien who is ineligible to become a citizen may hold land for a period longer than one year, under penalty of having the property escheat to the state. Leases are limited to three years.

General Significance of Visit.

Another cause of much speculation aside from the probable contents of Secretary Bryan's message, was the ultimate effect his visit might have upon the relationship of the individual states with the national government.

Attorneys in the legislature who make a study of international law, declare the occasion is fraught with deep significance and that it may give rise to an entirely new interpretation of the ancient theory of state's rights.

In the present situation it is argued that the federal government has no power to deny the state of California the right to exclude Japanese from land ownership, and then refuse to relieve the conditions in California through its own power.

Chicago Live Stock.

Chicago, April 28.—Lightness of demand was coupled with lightness of receipts today and the hog market became weak, easing off mostly 10c from Saturday's average. New British Ambassador Arrives.

New York, April 29.—Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, K. C. M. G., the new British ambasador to the United States, arrived in New York aboard the steamer Carmania. The new ambassador was met at the pier by Courtenay Walter Bennett, British consul general in New York; L. M. Robinson, vice counsel, and L. David Campbell and Clerk Kerr, attaches of the British embassy at Washington. Through the courtesy of the customs officials, Sir Cecil's baggage was passed.

Peace Congress Opens May 1.

St. Louis, Mo., April 29.—Four matters of world-wide importance will be considered at the fourth American Peace conference which will begin in St. Louis, Thursday, May 1. They are: A world court of arbitration; limitations of armaments; Anglo-American peace centenary and the Panama canal treaty dispute. William J. Bryan, secretary of state, will make two addresses if he returns from California in time. He is expected to make important announcements in regard to the canal dispute.

"THE GRANARY OF NORTH AMERICA."

GOVERNOR SULZER SAYS THAT OF WESTERN CANADA.

The close ties of friendship existing between the United States and Canada were dwelt upon in addresses by Premier Robert L. Borden, of Canada, and Governor Sulzer, at the annual dinner of the University Club of Albany.

"Canada and the United States," said Premier Borden, "have a common heritage in the language, the literature, the laws, the institutions and the traditions which have come down to them from the men of bygone days.

"Perhaps no more instructive object lesson ever has been given to the world than the four thousand miles of undefended boundary line from the Atlantic to the Pacific, which bears silent but eloquent testimony to the mutual confidence and respect of the two nations. Time will shortly place upon the brow of each nation the laurel of one hundred years of peace. It matters not so much as to the form of the outward celebration, but let us hope that its full significance may sink deep into the hearts of both nations, and that, whether north or south of the boundary, we may stand with bowed and reverent heads, offering grateful thanks for the Divine blessing of peace, and earnest prayers that in the century to come, mutual confidence, good-will and respect may truly animate the ideals and aspirations of both nations."

Referring to the natural resources possessed by the United States and Canada, particularly along the St. Lawrence River, the premier urged that they be "preserved and developed for the people."

Governor Sulzer predicted that the "Great Canadian Northwest is designed to become, before long, the granary of North America."

"Many of our best citizens, I regret to say," said the governor, "are leaving the States of the west and going into the Canadian northwest, because of the fertility of its soil, the liberality of the Canadian government and the ability of those people to better their conditions here.

"We should extend to them a helping hand in their onward march of progress. Instead of closing our doors by tariff barriers against these countries and their products, in my opinion, we should open them wider and do everything in our power to facilitate closer commercial relations. We want their products and they want our products, and all restrictions to prevent a fairer and freer exchange of goods, wares and merchandise should, in so far as possible, be eliminated."—Advertisement.

Old Doctor Explains.

"Why did you decide not to locate in that suburb?"

"Everybody said it was healthy."

"My boy, you don't understand the first principles of the practice of medicine. Now I have a large and fashionable following, but it includes very few people who are really sick."

Litchfield Review: Congressman Steenerson of this state has introduced a bill providing for the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity treaty, which was passed by congress in 1911, but which has never been accepted by Canada. There is no doubt the situation demands the repeal of the bill.

Stillwater Gazette: The world do move and is growing better. In New York City four lawyers were disbarred in one day, just for crooked practices indulged in. Striking out four lawyers in one day is good work, but we should imagine from what we read that there is a fine opportunity in that city for some one to break that record almost any day.

The Craze of Spending.

The whole American public is wild with spending says James J. Hill, the Great Northern Railway Magnate. Public economp is a lost art. A bill that carries or requires an appropriation needs little else to commend it to any legislative body. All bonds of municipalities are now refunded, instead of being paid when due. The excuse for a bond issue is always that "posterity" ought to bear part of the cost of public improvements. But when we, as posterity, come along we not only do not repudiate the contract, but add new burdens to the old and shove both of them on to the future in the shape of new and refunding bond issues. It is, perhaps, the meanest form of stealing ever invented, because it adds to the criminality of breach of trust the baseness of embezzling the future resources of our own children, who, since there must come an end of borrowing some time, will have these debts to pay.

Less Legislative Expense.

The report from the chairman of the house expense committee that the expense of this session will be over $25,000 less than that of two years ago is welcome news. The chairman of senate committee says that the senate bill will be less although he is not prepared to give the exact figures. Legislative expense is one of the over head costs of the state government and any lessening of the item means a lighter burden for the tax payers.

An eastern city meat expert has figured out, that what makes the cost of meat so high is that the people eat too much veal. That instead of eating up a calf that only weighs 90 pounds they should let it grow until it will dress 750 pounds. Now all that high cost of living expert has got to do is to hunt up a farmer that will care for that calf for nothing and raise his weight from 90 to 750 pounds and he has got the high cost of meat problem solved.

"The Nose" In Minnesota.

How did the United States get that small corner of land which juts out from the extreme northern boundary of Minnesota? History of that little "nose" which sticks out into Canada from Minnesota and which constitutes the northernmost point of the United States is very interesting. Under the treaty of 1783 the boundary between the United States and British possessions was fixed. A certain point on the Lake of the Woods was mutually agreed upon as one starting point; this being considered the headwaters of the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes system. At that time it was not known whether this point was north or south of the forty-ninth parallel, but it was considered close to it. Understanding was that from that point the boundary should go north or south to the forty-ninth parallel, as the case might be. Later and more accurate surveys showed that the projection was about twenty-five miles just north of the forty-ninth parallel. so at this place the boundary makes a jog above that line. Uncle Sam thus has a little piece of territory of about one hundred square miles in extent north of the general boundary.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

IMMIGRATION HEAD QUITS STATE POST

H. J. MAXFIELD RESIGNS IN A HUFF BECAUSE OF A DISAGREEMENT.

NOTIFIES GOVERNOR BY MAIL.

Criticised Because He Gave Lists of Those Inquiring for State Bonds to Real Estate Agents.

St. Paul.—H. J. Maxfield, state immigration commissioner, has tendered his resignation to Governor Eberhart effective August 1.

This sudden action on the part of the commissioner followed a stormy meeting of the state immigration board in the Governor's private office. At that time Mr. Maxfield threatened to resign because of a disagreement with the board members as to policy, but little heed was paid to his assertion. The resignation was received by mail. Mr. Maxfield having departed previously for North Dakota on business after writing the letter.

The trouble arose over the failure of the commissioner to obey the rule made by the board a year ago, that lists of those inquiring for state land should not be turned over to real estate agents.

Disregarded Order.

Mr. Maxfield has disregarded this regulation, it is said, and at the meeting was taken to task for his attitude. A stormy scene followed, J. A. Nichols of Frazee, heretofore a Maxfield supporter, is reported to have said:

"It is about time to find out whether the board is running the commissioner or the commissioner the board."

This precipitated the squabble, which lasted some time. Mr. Maxfield, it is said, told the board members what he thought of their policy and the rule, and bolted out of the office in a rage. He went to his Marshall avenue home, and soon after left for the West.

That he had resigned was not known to the board until a statement was issued by that body in which it was asserted that Mr. Maxfield has been sending lists of inquirers about state land to various real estate men, in violation of the board's order.

The Board.

The board is composed of Governor Eberhart, State Auditor Iverson, Secretary of State Schmahl, E. A. Nelson of Minneapolis and J. A. Nichols of Frazee.

Governor Eberhart said that the affair is unfortunate. He does not like that part of the statement issued by the board that Mr. Maxfield had been sending the lists of "various real estate agents."

"That creates a wrong impression," said the Governor. "As a matter of fact, he has sent these lists out to all who applied for them. In view of the fact that the board had a rule prohibiting sending them to real estate men it is unfortunate that Mr. Maxfield did not see fit to comply with it and thought his way the best."

Mr. Maxfield, when appointed in December, 1911, was president of the Northern Minnesota Development league.

Most of them will receive each $1,000. Only the bequest of the city is greater. The smallest is $200. Those remembered in the Twin Cities are George P. Commission Calls Hearing.

Winona.—James A. Tawney, chairman of the international joint commission in the United States, is at International Falls and Rainy River, conducting a hearing on the application of the Watrous Island Boom company of Minnesota for approval by the commission of the construction of a boom nine miles long in the Rainy river between International Falls and the Manitou Rapids. The construction of the boom as proposed is opposed by navigation interests on the Lake of the Woods and Rainy river.

Fire Marshals Reappointed.

St. Paul.—Because the legislature passed a law reorganizing the state fire marshal's department, it became necessary for Governor Eberhart to reappoint Charles E. Keller and Asa M. Wallace as his assistant.

Babe's Cries Save Family.

St. Paul.—The crying of the 10-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowen, 171 Thirteenth street, probably saved it and its parents from gas poisoning shortly after 3 a. m. Tuesday.

PRINTERS IN COST CONGRESS

NORTHWESTERN TYPOTHETAE WOULD CUT COSTS.

Cincinnati Expert Gives Advice at Opening Session in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis. — Northwestern printers have just held a cost congress in the Hotel Radisson which, they believe, is destined to enable them to deal with business on the same economic plan that nature uses in producing her fruits. The principal address of Thursday was made by Roy T. Porte, secretary of the Ben Franklin club of Cincinnati. Mr. Porte accompanied his talk with stereopticon views and described the elements of cost that are to be met with in the printing business.

He said that the printer must allow for depreciation in materials just as nature must allow it—that the tendency of materials is to become dust, no matter whether the material is a log or a highly polished piece of steel.

The man who does not watch out for this, expect it and offset it by the law of balance, the speaker said, is not progressing, and should not be surprised that he does not make the returns on his investments. He showed the picture of a kernel of corn and a corn stalk, and said that a business plant might be likened to it, if scientifically, or rightly treated, it would produce many times more than it represented before.

"Nature's law of increase becomes man's law of interest," he said.

President Robert E. Withy of the St. Paul Typothetae gave an address on "Why We Are Called Together," outlining the benefits of co-operation. E. K. Whiting of Owatonno, chairman, called the meeting together, and Mayor Nye spoke the address of welcome. The sessions end Saturday night.

ACTION HITS MAIL ORDERS

Question as to Collection for Whiskey Shipment is at Stake.

Crookston.—Is the government going to collect all mail order whisky bills? This question may be answered by the outcome of a case before United States Commission William P. Murphy. L. Amundson, a farmer near Fertile, was arraigned charged with using the United States mails to defraud. The complaint was made by J. M. Dickey, assistant United States attorney, before Charles S. Spencer, a United States commissioner, who issued the warrant. The complaint charges Amundson with having devised a certain artifice to defraud Charles Langbridge of Duluth, a liquor dealer, who sells certain whisky for $1 a quart. The charge in effect was that Amundson wrote Langbridge a letter, posted on a railway mail car, ordering of Langbridge six quarts of whisky, which he received and converted to his own use and for which he never paid.

The case may have a far reaching effect. If Amundson is indicted and convicted, the same application can be made to any shipment of goods ordered by mail. United States Attorney Dickey requested that the hearing be set for May 6, which is but three days before the federal grand jury convenes at Fergus Falls. For this reason Amundson waived examination and was bound over to the Fergus Falls term.

The case has aroused great interest among attorneys because of its departure from all previous applications of the postal laws, and if the contention of Mr. Dickey is upheld, following an indictment, the federal laws can be invoked to punish every person who fails to pay for anything ordered by mail.

Postulants Take Vows.

Mankato.—A band of eighteen postulants has just been received into the novitiate of the congregation of the School Sisters of Notre Dame with solemn ceremonies conducted by Bishop Heffron of Winona, assisted by clergymen of the church in southern Minnesota, and by Mgr. P. M. Abelen of Milwaukee. These were Minnesota young women who have for two years been in the training school of the Notre Dame Motherhouse at Milwaukee, but owing to the establishment of the provincial motherhouse in Mankato last year they returned to their native state to be invested with the religious garb.

Pipestone Odd Fellows Celebrate.

Pipestone.—Odd Fellows of Pipestone celebrated the anniversary of the order and preented a forty-year veteran's jewel to Past Grand Charles H. Smith. Past Grand Master Castner of Minneapolis spoke on Odd Fellowship at a banquet.

Mine Boss Fatally Shot.

Buhl, Minn., May 3.—In a shooting affray here, Peter Serratore, 40 years old, a shift boss at the White Side mine, was fatally shot, and Dominick Pabatolo was wounded by Dominick Gilberti, employed as a stripper. The wounded men were taken to a hospital. Serrotore is shot through the abdomen and it is expected that he will die. Pabatolo's wound is in the breast and is of a superficial nature. Following the shooting, Gilberti made an attempt to escape. He was captured after a chase.

Kidnapping Charge Fails.

Brainerd.—The case of the state vs. George Payne, charged with the kidnapping Teodor Sjogren from Crosby to Brainerd, was heard at Crosby and the case dismissed at the preliminary hearing.

Pipestone. — Last week was an ideal one for farm work, and Saturday saw practically all of the small grain seeding in Pipestone county completed. Corn fields are about cleared of their stubble ready to receive the seed.

FOREST FIRES ARE CHECKED

STATE RANGERS DO EFFECTIVE WORK AIDED BY RAIN.

Cessation of Strong Gale Also a Helpful Agency in Confining Flames.

Bemidji.—Forest fires which were in progress for two days, causing half a million dollars' worth of damage in this vicinity, were gotten under control by Forest Ranger Thornton of Deer River, who worked night and day with his assistants.

Heavy rains which began falling at an opportune time proved a boon to residents of this region and prevented what threatened to be a repetition of the destructive Beaudette fire of 1910.

Another element which aided the fire fighters in their work, was the cessation of the strong gale which was blowing all day Wednesday and Wednesday night, carrying the flames at the rate of 50 miles an hour through the brush and timber.

Reports from other points in the northern part of the state say that the fires were not as bad as they looked, but the smoke and reflection from the burning timber slashings, fired by settlers, gave rise to exaggerated stories. Many of these fires burned out when they reached marsh and swamp lands.

The greatest damage to any one concern in this part of Minnesota was that sustained by the Duluth Logging company, which had extensive yards near Remer, as reported in these dispatches.

The rain fell over a radius of 40 miles and came just in time to effectively check the flames in the timber around Lake George and Badger. No lives have been lost, so far as known, although scenes of desolation similar to those following the Beaudette disaster are reported.

GREAT NORSE CELEBRATION

250,000 to Come For Mammoth Gathering at State Fair Grounds.

Minneapolis.—Initial steps for a national celebration by Norwegian Americans of the hundredth anniversary of the independence of Norway, to take place at the Minnesota state fair grounds for three days of the week of May 17, 1914, were taken at a meeting of fifty representative Norwegian business and professional men at the West hotel recently.

The celebration, Charles A. Dalby, chairman of the meeting, said, will be the largest of the kind ever held in Minneapolis and will bring to the city no less than 250,000 Norwegians from all parts of the country. Tentative plans were made to have the proceeds of the celebration put into a Scandinavian building to be erected jointly by Norwegians, Swedes and Danes at the University of Minnesota campus where the cultural art of the Scandinavian countries may be represented, this structure to be a lasting reminder to Minneapolis of the centennial celebration.

Couple Wedded 60 Years.

Elysian.—Mr. and Mrs. William J. Culp of this village celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage on Sunday at the Masonic hall, where a dinner was served, and about sixty relatives gathered to spend the afternoon. They were born in Niagara county, New York, and were married at Coldwater, Mich., and came to Le Sueur county in 1869, and farmed until they retired to take life easier. Mr. Culp is 85 years old and his wife 77, and the later still does all of her household work. Mr. Culp served in Company A, First Michigan light artillery during the civil war. He is a Mason and an active member of the Elysian lodge.

Republicans Win at Red Wing.

Red Wing.—At the city election the Republican ticket was elected two to one over the citizens' ticket. Mayor J. J. Ferrin; aldermen, Frank A. Johnson, Otto Remmler, C. C. Bracher, John G. Gilbertson and F. H. Kroeger. In a total of 700 votes high license was defeated by 44 and patrol limits by 118 votes. It was the most exciting election held in Red Wing in years.

Wheat Comes Up Well.

Fergus Falls.—Seeding is about completed here so far as small grain is concerned, and the wheat is coming up rapidly. Many fields in this locality are green, and show a growth of from one to two inches. There have been light rains this week, but the ground absorbed the water readily, and the work was only slightly delayed.

Fires Threaten Army Post.

Minneapolis, May 1.—Grass fires in the vicinity of Fort Snelling threatened the post magazine Tuesday, containing tons of high explosives. Members of the Fifth Field artillery, the only troops stationed at the fort, worked all afternoon to protect the magazine, and other buildings on the reservation. The total destruction of the hay sheds on Monday, which caused a loss of hundreds of tons of hay, and of the building, valued at $3,600, caused Lieutenant Colonel Smith to detail a fire brigade.

Farmer Has Lucky Year.

Madella.—H. B. Rice, a farmer living near Madella, has been having unusual luck this spring. All his lambs are twins and now his favorite cow has given birth to twin calves. He considers this his lucky year.

Ignorance Disgusted Waitress.

Assistant District Attorney Clark was conducting a case in the criminal court. A large, rough-shouldered negro was in the witness chair. "An' then," said the witness, "we all went down in the alley, an' shot a few crap." "Ah," said Mr. Clark, swinging his eyeglass impressively. "Now, sir, I want you to address the jury and tell them just how you deal craps." "Wass that?" asked the witness, rolling his eyes. "Address the jury, sir," thundered Mr. Clark, "and tell them just how you deal craps." "Lemme outen heah," said the witness, uneasily. "Firs' thing I know this gemman gwine ask me how to drink a sandwich."

Make It Meaty.

The author had just received a note from the editor saying he was in need of an article, "short, snappy and meaty."

"Great governor, man! Do you realize what you are asking?" cried the irate scribe. "It is easy enough to write something short—and snappy, too, as I feel just now; but meaty—meaty! Man alive! And meat at 25 cents the pound and soaring higher every day! You don't suppose I'll waste much of that edible radium on an article for which I'll probably receive a measly $5, do you?"

Chinese Hair Bands.

Chinese women are not only ahead of American and English women in the matter of suffrage, but there are many who say they have a more attractive manner of arranging their hair than have Europeans or Americans. At any rate, the Chinese hair band is being extensively worn. The colorings of these bands are very effective. Blondes generally choose a band with a background decorated with flowers and butterflies in natural colors, while the brunette favors a pale colored ground appropriately designed.

Food Screen.

I needed a place that could be thoroughly screened from flies to keep my left-overs. My husband with a keyhole saw made two half circles, fourteen inches by six inches, out of a pine box; then nailed these ends with three pieces of quarter round, twenty-seven inches long, bought ten cents' worth of wire screen, tacked it over this frame, and screwed a little handle on top. Three or four dishes at one time can be put under this screen.—Exchange.

God Was Too Busy.

Little Jimmy was out walking with his nurse when he passed a house where the men were carrying out a casket. He asked his nurse what was in the box, and she told him that Mr. Brown's body was in it. That night when Jimmy went to bed he did not say his prayers, and his mother asked him why. He answered, "The Lord will be too busy unpacking Mr. Brown, and he won't be able to listen to me."

Easy.

"Is your husband easy to get along with?"

"Easy? Why he doesn't even object to going to church suppers."—Detroit Free Press.

MORE THAN EVER
Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of coffee. An Ills. Woman writes:

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in new concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum, so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream to taste, produce instantly a delicious beverage.

Write for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

CONSTANTINE MAN OF ACTION

New Grecian Monarch Has Proved Himself Worthy of the Crown He Has Inherited.

Constantine, the new king of Greece, is of Danish and Russian blood, his father having been a son of Christian IX. of Denmark, and his mother being the eldest daughter of Grand Duke Constantine, a brother of Alexander II. King Constantine was born in Athens and brought up under an English governess and German and Greek tutors. Later on he went to Berlin, where he received his education as a soldier, being attached to the Second regiment of Prussian foot guards. In 1897 he took command of the Greek troops in the war with Turkey, but his army was crushed in Thessaly. In April last he was appointed inspector general of the forces, and has since shown himself a soldier of merit. At the moment of his accession he was in Epirus, conducting the military operations for sweeping the Turks out of that province.

Come Now, Own Up.

"Say, father," said little Fred, "did you ever have another wife beside mother?"

"Why, certainly not," said the father, "how do you happen to ask such a question, my boy?"

"Well, father," continued the boy, "I saw in the old family Bible that you married Anne Domini, 1882, and I know that wasn't mother, for her name was Mary Parsons when she was a girl."

Rival Punsters.

"Can February March?"

"No, but April May," was the reply.

"Look here, old man, you're out of June."

"Don't July about it."

"It is not often that one gets the better of your August personage."

"Ha! now you think that you have me Noctober."

And then there was work for the coroner.

Ragtime Made Easy.

One day my mother cut her finger and she put a rag on it. Then she went to church to practice on the pipe organ, and a little boy who was there said, "O, Mrs. H—— can play ragtime now."—Exchange.

ADDS TO THE LENGTH OF LIFE

Nothing Better Than Pedestrian Exercise, Especially to Those Who Have Passed Beyond Youth.

Some of the most noted of the old men of New York, successful in business, the professions and public affairs, have formed a walking club for the purpose of making their pursuit of still greater length of days and still better health as agreeable as it is sensible. They intend to take long walks together and, no doubt, to make their pedestrian experiences the subject of entertaining discussion and a store of memories held in common. This is an example which might well be followed in every city of the United States. In the era of motor vehicles there is danger that walking will be increasingly neglected, especially by men and women advanced in years, who often need it most. There is a constant temptation to forget that riding in the open air, fine as it is in many ways, can never do for the body what walking does.

Diplomatic Team.

Cricket was introduced into a certain district of India by a clergyman from England, who hoped that the game would foster a manly spirit. All went well, according to the author of "A Little Tour in India," the boys became keen and a match was arranged with a neighboring school. Then the clergyman gave his team 15 rupees ($4.80) to spend "on new bats, or whatever would be most useful." When the day came, the team turned out for the match full of quiet confidence, but with all their old accouterments. "Why," asked the padre, "what have you done with those 15 rupees I gave you?" "Well, sir," said the captain, "we thought it best to spend it all on the umpire." They won.

PAINFUL, TRYING TIMES

Housework is hard enough for a healthy woman. The wife who has a bad back, who is weak or tired all the time, finds her duties a heavy burden. Thousands of nervous, discouraged, sickly women have traced their troubles to sick kidneys—have found quick and thorough relief through using Doan's Kidney Pills.

The painful, trying times of woman's life are much easier to bear if the kidneys are well.

SIGNING OF BILL WILL BE DELAYED

JOHNSON TO WAIT FOR GOVERNMENT TO MAKE FINAL PROTEST.

FORMAL PROTEST FROM JAPS

Their Ambassador Has Instructions to That Effect—Reported War Plans Ridiculed.

Sacramento, Cal., May 6.—The California anti-alien land holding act, which passed both houses of the legislature within 24 hours, after bringing about one of the most unusual situations in the history of the nation, will lie on Governor Johnson's desk without his signature until Secretary of State Bryan can confer with President Wilson in Washington.

Delay of Week.

This will mean a delay of nearly a week, as Secretary Bryan left here Saturday evening and will not reach the national capital until Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

Governor Johnson will wait, as he says, "a reasonable time" for whatever protests the government may make, after which he will sign the bill. He is required, by law, to sign or veto all acts passed up to him by the legislature within 10 days of their final passage, provided the enacting body remains in session for that length of time, otherwise, he has 30 days.

It appears that the legislature will not adjourn until May 15 or later, which will require the governor to act on or before Tuesday, May 13.

Speculation as to Action.

There is much speculation here as to the next probable step to be taken by the government against the measure. It is generally thought, however, that President Wilson will state his objections once more to Governor Johnson and then seek, through diplomacy, to answer the possible protests from Tokio.

Opinion as to the effectiveness of the act in accomplishing its purpose, the elimination of the Japanese farmer, is divided. Until the final amendment was adopted, permitting aliens ineligible to citizenship to lease agricultural lands for three years, the measure was the most drastic of any that had been proposed.

Now, however, it is asserted by many that it will acomplish little, inasmuch as it does not stipulate that the leases may not be renewed again and again.

Governor Johnson and the Progressives regard the measure as a necessary first step in accomplishing what they believe to be the desire of the people of the state.

Japs to Make Formal Protest.

Washington.—News that the Japanese government had instructed Ambassador Chinda to make formal protest against the California anti-alien land bill, now awaiting Governor Johnson's signature, was received in Washington official circle with interest, although it was not unexpected. The protest probably will be presented to Acting Secretary John Bassett Moore at the state department today.

Referendum Suggested.

Pending the return of Secretary Bryan from Sacramento, no statement from the administration is expected here. It is known that president has had suggested to him the referendum as a posible means of delaying, for nearly two years, the effect of the California law in the event it is signed by the governor, but no intimation of how the idea was received has been forthcoming.

Appreciate Efforts of U. S.

Tokio.—The Japanese press expresses a general appreciation of the efforts of President Wilson in behalf of a land bill in California that would be unobjectionable to the Japanese.

Special dispatches received from Washington telling of reported plans for the mobilization of the Japanese navy are read here with ridicule by those best informed on naval plans.

Japs to Build More Warships.

Contracts have been placed for the construction in Japanese shipyards of three dreadnaughts. They will be sister ships to Fuso, the displacement of which is 30,000 tons.

$30,000 for Scenic Highway.

Shakopee, Minn., May 5.—At a meeting of the Scenic Highway association held here at which all the towns along the line were represented by their aldermen and members of the commercial bodies and county commissioners of the respective counties, Hennepin county appropriated $30,000 towards the road. The government is expected to give $25,000 and the balance will make up $30,000. This will insure a model post road from Minneapolis to Mankato.

$102,000 for Campaign of 1904.

Boston, May 5.—President Mellen, explaining the apparent profit made by him of $102,000 by the sale of the New Haven stock in 1904, told the interstate commerce commission that the money had been paid back to him to reimburse him for contributions to the Republican fund that year. Fifty thousand dollars went to the national fund, he said, other amounts to aid Republican state campaigns in New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island, and the balance for pier leases, etc.

Helping the Little Fellow.

The United Shoe Machinery Company is the only real obstacle to the formation of a shoe trust. We help the small manufacturer to start in business and keep going. He could not afford to buy and care for his machines, but he can afford to lease them on the terms we give him based on the number of shoes he makes—an average of less than 2 2-3 cents a pair—and let us keep them up to date. That is a fair arrangement. Some of the big fellows don't like our system, because they think we ought to give them special rates. But the little fellows stand with us because they know we treat all manufacturers alike no matter how many machines they use. If it were not for our methods of doing business there would be no small factories anywhere and no prosperous factories in small towns.

The United Shoe Machinery Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv.

Exquisite Agony.

"It was, to say the least of it," a London letter remarks, "just a little bit awkward that the electric light went out the other evening at the town house of a presumably wealthy widow who had been doing a good deal of political entertaining. The guests, to the number of a dozen, had just finished their soup when the unfortunate incident occurred. The scramble to find a sufficient number of candles so that the dinner might proceed was attended with a great deal of difficulty and no little amusement. The butler, who is described as being a bit new to his job, was immediately told to telephone to the electric company, report the catastrophe and demand attention to the matter. It was a trying moment for the guests when he returned to the dining room and announced in real Cockney accent: 'Please, my lady, the gentleman what's on the telephone says they sent several warning letters unless the account was paid active steps would have to be taken.'"

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wigton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that it was difficult to move. After using 5 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

Autocratic Englishmen.

One of the reasons why English is expected to become a world wide language is that English people refuse to learn another. For instance, at Muscat, at the entrance to the Persian gulf, there lived for many years an Englishman, supposed to be the only, or almost the only, British resident on the 1,500 miles of Arabian coast line from Aden to Koweit. It would seem that he could hardly have escaped knowing Arabic. Yet he confessed that he could not speak a dozen words of that language. "But how do you carry on your trade?" some one asked. "Oh," he replied, "the beggars have got to learn English."

As to Modesty.

Modesty didn't make dress. Dress made modesty. Only it should be borne in mind that once modesty has developed the conventions cannot be suddenly and radically violated without social degradation. Modesty isn't something that doesn't matter. It does matter.—Exchange.

Wife so Weak and Nervous Could Not Stand Least Noise—How Cured.

Munford, Ala.—"I was so weak and nervous while passing through the Change of Life that I could hardly live. My husband had to nail rubber on all the gates for I could not stand it to have a gate slam.

"I also had backache and a fullness in my stomach. I noticed that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was advertised for such cases and I sent and got a bottle. It did me so much good that I kept on taking it and found it to be all you claim. I recommend your Compound to all women afflicted as I was."—Mrs. F. P. MULLENDORE, Munford, Alabama.

An Honest Dependable Medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Root and Herb medicine originated nearly forty years ago by Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for controlling female ills.

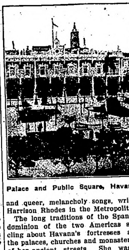
Its wonderful success in this line has made it the safest and most dependable medicine of the age for women and no woman suffering from female ills does herself justice who does not give it a trial.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

ODD CHARM OF HAVANA, CUBA

Americans Visiting This City Declare They Feel as if They Were Abroad.

Havana, Cuba.—Americans driving to their hotel through Havana's narrow, noisy streets invariably exclaim tht it seems to them "as if they were abroad." The question—to borrow a phrase from the widely traveled but unemotional Mr. Baedeker—"need not detain them long." They are abroad. Havana is not merely "like a foreign town;" it is a foreign town. It has its own odd look, its special picturesqueness, its own tumultuous life. It abounds in unknown dishes and strange fruits, and upon the hot tropic night it pours out half barbaric music and queer, melancholy songs, writes Harrison Rhodes in the Metropolitan.



Palace and Public Square, Havana.

The long traditions of the Spanish dominion of the two Americas still cling about Havana's fortresses and the palaces, churches and monasteries of her ancient streets. She was a proud, rich city, the entrepot of the west, when our northern mainland was a wilderness. And now in the Cuban twentieth century she is a crowded, thriving, gay metropolis, with her own pride, her own tropic airs and graces, her own wholly un-American individuality.

She may be crowded in the brief winter season with American tourists, may contain (as indeed she always has contained) a considerable American business colony, and may be a refuge for derelicts and vagabonds straight from the pages of O. Henry, Richard Harding Davis and other Kiplings of Spanish America. Still, she is always the old Havana, the Cuban capital of Cuba.

LINER HALTS TO HELP MAN

Signal for Doctor Brings Swift Atlantic Transport to Stop in Midocean.

New York.—A steamer of the Atlantic fleet, in recently from London and Southampton, was halted in midocean by the little British freight steamship Mora, bound for Hamburg, which signaled that she needed medical assistance.

The sea was rough, but the captain of the steamer decided not to pass up an ambulance call from a doctorless freighter flying the flag of his own country.

So the emergency boat of the liner was lowered with a surgeon aboard. He climbed up the swaying sea ladder of the Mora and found a fireman suffering from epilepsy. The patient revived under treatment by the surgeon, who left medicine and advice with the Mora's skipper, and then returned to the liner.

Among those who saw the unusual incident of the steamship line was Beatrice Harraden, novelist, known chiefly as the author of "Ships That Pass in the Night."

CHEATED OF HUMAN MEAL

Seven Stranded Sailors Rescued From Jaws of Hungry Man-Eaters.

New York.—How seven sailors, who had been without food and water for three days on a sinking barkentine, were rescued just as they were about to fall prey to a school of sharks, was told by Captain Blackadder of a steamer, which arrived recently from Havana.

On March 17, on the way to Havana, the steamer ran into the end of a hurricane. In the distance a derelict with seven men aboard was sighted. Captain Blackadder headed for the wreck. The sea was so rough that it was impossible to lower a lifeboat.

"Jump overboard, and we will save you," shouted Captain Blackadder. The men pointed to the water. For the first time those on the steamer saw a great school of man-eating sharks following the wreck.

Captain Blackadder realized that the wreck would go down in a few minutes and called for volunteers to man a lifeboat. Five men responded, and after a hard fight reached the wreck and took the seven survivors aboard. Five minutes later the wreck sank. The rescued men were off the brigantine Mary Burke, which sailed from Pensacola, loaded with mahogany.

DIMPLES NOT CONSIDERED

Contest in New York City Based Upon Health and Physical Perfection of Babies.

New York.—A show in which babies were to be judged as unemotionally as horses or crops at a country fair was held recently at a public school building here.

The novelty was introduced by the Babies' Welfare Association, and is known as a health contest. Pink cheeks, golden curls, cunning dimples did not count.

The judging was down to the hard facts of height, weight, girth, bone and muscle texture, shape of head and ears, number of teeth, quality of skin and condition of tonsils, all of which items count from 5 to 10 points toward the "perfect baby." Awards of money and useful articles were made to mothers of successful entries. The judges will be physicians.

IF HE WERE A RELATIVE

Observance of Colored Man Really Offered Some Good Ideas for Worthy Reflection.

An official of one of the departments at Washington says that while going to his luncheon one afternoon he saw a military funeral passing down Pennsylvania avenue. As the pageant passed the official was standing on the curb, hat in hand, and noting with interest the reversed arms, the flag-draped coffin, and the riderless horse behind some one touched him on the elbow and said: "I hope you'll excuse me, boss, but would you min' tellin' me whether the dead soldier was anythin' to you?"

"Why, no," answered the official, smiling in spite of himself, as he turned and beheld a solemn looking darky of perhaps sixty years of age.

"Excuse me again, boss," continued the negro, "but you kinder looked that sorry I thought mebbe he was somethin' to you."

"He was a brave soldier," answered the official.

The darky said nothing for a moment. Finally, with a sigh, he added: "Wouldn't it be gran', boss, mournin' for a man like that, s'posin' he was somethin' to you?"

DANDRUFF COVERED SCALP

3002 Cass St., St. Louis, Mo.—"For five years I suffered with itching of my body and scalp. My trouble began with a rash on my lower limbs which was very annoying, and my scalp was literally covered with dandruff. My hair used to come out by the handfuls and the itching of my body and scalp was terrible. I had used almost all the skin remedies on the market with no results, when I wrote for a little Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it gave me instant relief. Within one month's use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment parting, gently rubbing Cuticura Ointment not one strand of my hair coming out and I have not lost a minute of sleep since using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which entirely cured me of itching of my body and scalp in its worst form. I also find the Cuticura Soap a benefit in shaving." (Signed) Charles Judlin, Dec. 8, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Satisfied the Professor.

The story is told of a college professor who was noted for his concentration of mind. The professor was returning home one night from a scientific meeting, still pondering over the subject. He had reached his room in safety when he heard a noise which seemed to come from under the bed. "Is some one there?" he asked. "No, professor," answered the intruder, who knew of the professor's peculiarities. "That's strange. I was positive some one was under my bed," commented the learned man.

Knew All About It.

"Young man, you must learn that time is money," counseled the father.

"Well, dad, at least, I have noted points of similarity between them."

"In what way?" asked the encouraged parent.

"You know the expression 'time flies,'" replied the young hopeful.—Buffalo Express.

Awakening.

"You're looking mighty sour; what's the matter? Honeymoon over?" "I guess so." "How'd that happen?" "Oh, we were drifting along down life's enchanted stream, like the poet tells about, and just as I was thinking I should like to drift on and on with her forever, she up and told me that she had got to have some money."—Houston Post.

Positively Not.

The reformed burglar, upon his release from jail, was inclined to be a bit facetious. Over-Night Relief for Constipation

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mr. A. B. Danner, 326 Riley St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want, and sleep well." Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Mr. A. B. Danner.

Syrup Pepsin is mild, pleasant-tasting, and non-griping. Mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is effective in grown-ups. It is for everyone who suffers from any form of stomach, liver or bowel trouble, constipation dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. Its action will so delight you that you will forever avoid harsh cathartics, purgatives, pills and salts.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

CHAPTER 3—S. F. No. 102.

AN ACT to legalize and confirm the acts and proceedings of any city of the State of Minnesota, however organized, in reference to the purchase of any electric light and water plant, already in existence in such city, and in reference to the issuance of bonds in payment therefor, and to authorize any such city to complete any proceedings heretofore instituted for the purchase of such plant and for the issuance and sale of such bonds, and to legalize such bonds when so issued.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. In all cases where the city council of any city in the State of Minnesota, however organized, shall have heretofore submitted to the voters of such city, at a general or special election, the proposition of such city proceeding to acquire by condemnation or purchase any electric light and water plant then in existence in such city and supply such city and its inhabitants with light and water, provided such plant could be acquired at a reasonable price; and the voters of such city at such election shall have decided by more than a two-thirds majority in favor of such proposition; and such city council of any such city shall have thereafter agreed with the owner of any such plant upon the amount of the purchase price thereof, by negotiation or otherwise; and such city council of such city shall have thereafter submitted to the voters of such city at a general or special election the proposition of issuing the bonds of such city to an amount not exceeding such agreed upon purchase price, for the purpose of paying in part for such electric light and water plant, and the voters of such city at such election shall have decided by more than a two-thirds majority in favor of the issuance of such bonds; the actions taken by the city council of such city and any of the city officials thereof in reference to such elections and the determination of such purchase price, such elections and the results thereof, and any actions subsequent to such elections, which have heretofore been taken by said city council and other city officials of such city in reference to the purchase of such electric light and water plant and to the issuance of such bonds to pay part of the purchase price thereof, are in all respects legalized and confirmed as being lawful and binding acts of such city and the people thereof to the same extent and with the same force and effect as though all the acts and proceedings which have been so taken had been expressly authorized by law prior to the happening of any such acts and proceedings; provided, that this act shall not apply to any suit now pending involving the legality of such bonds, acts and proceedings.

Sec. 2. Whenever in any such case the voters of any such city at any such election shall have heretofore declared in favor of issuing the bonds of any such city as hereinabove set forth, such city and the city council thereof is hereby authorized and empowered, by an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the members of such city council, to issue the bonds of said city in an amount to be determined by said city council, not exceeding in the aggregate the amount authorized by said election, and said city council may dispose of the same as hereinafter provided, and may use the same and the proceeds thereof for the purposes authorized by such election, but not otherwise.

Sec. 3. Such bonds shall be of such denomination as the city council may determine and shall be payable at such place and at such times, not less than ten (10) nor more than thirty (30) years from date of issue, as the city council may determine; they shall be made payable to bearer, or to the order of the person or corporation to whom they may be delivered, as such city may deem best, and shall draw interest payable semi-annually, at such place as the city council may determine, at a rate not exceeding five per cent (5) per annum, to be represented by coupons attached to said bonds. Said bonds and coupons shall be signed by the mayor and attested by the clerk, or similar officer of such city, and the corporate seal of the city shall be imprinted upon said bonds.

Sec. 4. The city council of any such city shall have authority by a majority vote of all its members to dispose of such bonds in such manner as in the judgment of said city council shall best subserve the interest of the city; but it shall not negotiate the sale, dispose of, nor sell said bonds, nor any of them, at less than their par value and accrued interest, and neither said bonds nor the proceeds of the sale thereof shall be used for any other purpose than that authorized by the vote of the people, and such purpose shall be distinctly stated in said resolution of said council authorizing the issuance thereof.

Sec. 5. The principal and interest of any such bonds so issued is hereby declared to be a first lien upon said electric light and water plant; and the faith and credit of such city are hereby pledged for the payment thereof, any provision of the charter of any such city framed and adopted under Section 36 of Article 4 of the Constitution to the contrary or any part of this act notwithstanding.

Approved January 22, 1913.

CHAPTER 4—S. F. No. 82.

AN ACT entitled "An act to amend Section 23, Chapter 470, Laws 1907, relating to county bonds for state or judicial ditches, and legalizing such bonds which may be issued under proceedings heretofore begun."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. Section 23, Chapter 470, Laws 1907, is amended to read as follows:

"Section 23. The County Board in each and every county in this state wherein any such state or judicial ditch is proposed to be wholly or partly located and established, shall issue the bonds of their respective counties in an amount not greater than the assessments against lands in such county as evidenced by the statement provided for by Sections 14 and 15 of this act, to defray the expenses incurred or to be incurred in locating, constructing and establishing as much of any ditch as may be located within such county, or in such relation to such county as to affect lands therein within the terms of this act.

The word "expense" shall be construed to mean and to cover every item of the cost of said ditch from its inception to its completion, and all fees and expenses incurred in pursuance thereof.

Such bonds shall pledge the full faith, credit and resources of the county issuing the same for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof, and shall be payable at such time or times not to exceed twenty years from their date and shall bear such rate of interest not to exceed six per centum per annum, payable annually or semi-annually as the county board shall by resolution determine.

Each bond shall contain a recital that it is issued by authority of and in strict accordance with the provisions of this act, and shall be signed by the Chairman of said board and countersigned by the county auditor, who shall keep a record thereof.

Said county board shall have power to negotiate said bonds as they shall deem for the best interest of said county but not for less than their par value. The proceeds from the sale of such bonds when received by the county treasurer shall be paid to the state treasurer, and by him credited to the state drainage fund, which is hereby created. Said county board shall provide moneys for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds as they severally mature, which moneys shall be placed in the general county ditch fund, into which fund it may transfer any surplus moneys remaining in the general revenue fund or other funds of the county, which can properly be used for the purpose of this act, into which fund shall also be paid all moneys received from the payment of any liens created under the provisions of this act, and such board is hereby authorized to pay said drainage bonds out of any available funds in the county treasury when the moneys on hand in the general ditch fund of the county are insufficient to meet the payment of bonds issued in ditch proceedings when the same mature, but the fund from which such moneys shall be taken or used for the payment of bonds as they mature shall be replenished with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from collections of unpaid assessments for ditches, drains or water courses constructed under any proceedings had hereunder.

Whenever heretofore there shall have been filed with and recorded by the Register of Deeds of any county in this state a statement in connection with the construction of a state or judicial ditch, as provided by Section 15 of this act, the county board of such county is authorized to issue, negotiate and sell the bonds of such county to the amount, for the purposes and in the manner hereinbefore specified, and any bonds so issued shall be subject to all the provisions hereof, and are in all respects legalized and made binding and valid obligations of the county issuing the same and according to their terms."

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

CHAPTER 90—S. F. No. 11.

AN ACT relating to railroad rates in this state and to increase the powers and further define the duties of the board of railroad and warehouse commission in relation to the same and to define, prevent, and punish unjust discrimination in the rates charged for the transportation of freight on railroads in this state, and prohibiting any railway company doing business in this state from charging or receiving any greater compensation for the transportation of a like kind or class and quantity of property or freight of any description for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line and empowering and directing the board of railroad and warehouse commission to make and promulgate a schedule of reasonable maximum rate of charges for the transportation of freight and cars and vesting said board of railroad and warehouse commission with power of classification of freight and of rates and railroads and prescribing a mode of procedure and rules of evidence in relation thereto and providing penalties and punishments for violations of the provisions thereof.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. If any Railway corporation shall charge, collect or receive for the transportation of freight of any description upon its Railroad for any distance within this State a greater amount of freight, toll or compensation than is at the same time charged, collected or received for the transportation of like quantity of freight of the same class over a greater distance of the same Railway; or if it shall charge, collect or receive at any point upon its road a higher rate of freight, toll or compensation for receiving, handling or delivering freight of the same class and quantity than it shall at the same time charge, collect or receive from any other person or persons for the transportation of the like quantity of freight of the same class being transported from the same point over a like distance of the same railway; or if it shall charge, collect or receive from any person for the use and transportation of any Railway car or cars upon its Railroad for any distance, a greater amount of freight, toll or compensation than is at the same time charged, collected or received from any other person for the use and transportation of any Railway car of the same class or number, for a like purpose, being transported over a greater distance of the same Railway; or if it shall charge, collect or receive from any person for the use and transportation of any Railway car or cars upon its Railway, a higher or greater compensation in the aggregate than it shall, at the same time, charge, collect or receive from any other person for the use and transportation of any Railway car or cars of the same class for a like purpose, being transported from the same original point over an equal distance of the same Railway; such Railway corporation shall be deemed guilty of unjust discrimination, which is hereby prohibited and declared to be unlawful, and all such are hereby declared to be discriminating, unjust and unreasonable rates, charges, collections and receipts, and all such discriminating rates, charges, collections or receipts, whether made directly or by means of any rebate, draw-back or other shift or evasion, shall be received as prima facie evidence of the violation of the provisions of this act, and that it shall not be sufficient excuse or justification thereof on the part of said Railway corporation that the station or point at which it shall charge, collect or receive less compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of such freight or for the use and transportation of such Railway car the greater distance than for the shorter distance, is a station or point at which there exists competition with another Railway or other transportation lines provided, however, where two or more Railroads run into a city or village, one having a shorter mileage than the other from a given point the Railroad and Warehouse Commission may permit the Railroad or Railroads having the longer mileage to meet the rate made by the shortest line at such city or village.

Sec. 2. The provisions of this act shall not be construed so as to exclude other evidence than as herein provided, tending to show any unjust discrimination in freight rates, and the provisions thereof shall apply to any Railway, the branches thereof, and any road or roads which any Railway corporation has a right, license or permission to use, operate or control within this State.

Sec. 3. No such Railway Company shall charge, collect, demand or receive more for transporting a car of freight than it at the same time charges, collects, demands or receives per car for several cars of a like class of freight over the same Railway, for the same distance; nor charge, collect, demand or receive more for transporting a ton of freight than it charges, collects, demands or receives per ton for several tons of freight under a carload of a like class over the same Railway for the same distance; nor charge, collect, demand or receive more for transporting a hundred pounds of freight than it charges, collects, demands or receives per hundred for several hundred pounds of freight, under a ton, of a like class over the same Railway, for the same distance; and all such discriminating rates, charges, collections or receipts, whether made directly or by means of any rebate, draw-back, or other shift or evasion, shall be received as prima facie evidence of the violation of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 4. The provisions of this act shall apply to the transportation of property wholly within this State and shall apply to all Railroad corporations and common carriers engaged in this State in the transportation of property by Railroad therein, and to the shipment of property made from any point within the state to any other point within the State over or upon any Railroad therein. Provided, that nothing in this act shall apply to the carriage, storage or handling of property free or at reduced rates for the United States, for this State, for Municipal governments therein, or for charitable purposes or to and from fairs and expositions held under the authority of County or State or Municipality therein for exhibition thereat.

Sec. 5. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed as limiting or abridging the powers now vested by law in the Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners of the State of Minnesota, except that the said Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners shall not have power to promulgate any rule or establish any rate in conflict with or in violation of the provisions of this act; and nothing in this act shall in any way abridge or alter the remedies now existing at common law or by statute, but the provisions thereof are in addition to such remedies.

Sec. 7. The Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commission shall have and are hereby given and vested with power and it shall be their duty to classify all Railroads, in this State according to the gross amount of their annual earnings, within this State, per mile for the preceding year as follows:

Sec. 9. Any person or corporation guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) for the first offense and for each subsequent offense not less than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) nor more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) and shall pay in addition to said fine so imposed the costs of prosecution.

AN ACT to improve the public service, to create a civil service commission and define its powers and duties, in each city of the first class not organized under Section 36, Article 4, of the State Constitution.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. In every city of the first class not organized under Section 36, Article 4, of the State Constitution there shall be a civil service commission (hereinafter called the commission) of three commissioners, who shall be citizens of the State and residents of the city and serve without compensation. No commissioner shall at the time of his appointment or while serving hold any other office or employment under the city, the United States, the State of Minnesota, or any public corporation or political division thereof, other than the office of notary public. The mayor shall appoint as commissioners persons known to favor the principle of merit and efficiency in the public service. The terms of those first appointed, to be designated in orders of appointment, shall expire, one on the first day of February in the odd numbered year next following the year of the appointment, one on the first day of February next following the first and one on the first day of February next following the second, and thereafter the mayor shall appoint for three years to fill expired terms, and in case of vacancy occurring otherwise, shall appoint for the unexpired term. In case of cities existing at the time of the passage of this act, the first appointment shall be made on or before the first day of July, 1913.

Each commissioner, before entering upon his duties, shall subscribe and file with the city clerk an oath for the faithful discharge of his duties.

Sec. 2. The city council shall set apart on the first Monday in January of each year, in the city treasury, a sum not less than twenty-five (25) dollars for each thousand of the population of the city, according to the next preceding state or national census, to be known as the civil service fund and to be used only for the purposes of this act. Unexpended balances at the end of the year shall revert to the current expense fund of the city. To provide such fund, the city council shall levy a sufficient annual tax upon all the taxable property of the city, real and personal, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law. Warrants on the fund shall be drawn by order of the commission and signed by its president or vice-president and secretary and counter-signed by the city comptroller. The commission shall audit its own bills and pay-rolls. The city council of any existing city shall provide like funds for the year 1913 by temporary interest-bearing loans, if necessary, and add the amount thereof to the next annual tax levy.

Sec. 3. The commission shall first meet immediately after its appointment, at a time to be fixed by the mayor and on the first Monday after the first day of February each year thereafter, and at each said meeting elect a president and vice-president to serve until their successors are elected. The commission also at such first meeting, or as soon thereafter as practicable, shall select a secretary who shall keep the records and files of the commission and who shall be ex officio the chief examiner, and appoint other necessary [illegible]

Sec. 4. The powers of the commission [illegible] which shall be known as the unclassified service, namely:

Officers who are elected by the people; members of boards and commissions; the city clerk; secretaries of the several boards and commissions serving without pay; the city engineer; the chief health officer; the superintendent of police; the city assessor; superintendents, principals, supervisors of teachers and teachers in the public schools; the city attorney and attorney of the park board; the librarian and assistants of the public library; the superintendent of parks; a landscape architect; a chief of park police; the mayor's private secretary. None of the unclassified service shall be subject to examination or affected as to their selection, appointment, discharge or removal by the provisions of this act.

Sec. 5. The term "employe," as used in this act, shall include every officer, agent, employe and other person in the classified service of the city.

Sec. 6. Immediately after the appointment and organization of the commission, all employes of the city of every nature excepting those in the unclassified service, shall be listed, graded and classified, and a service register shall be made up in books prepared for the purpose, in which shall be entered, in their proper classes, the names, ages, compensation, period of past employment, and such other facts and data as to each employe as the commission may deem useful. To enable the commission to make such service register, the mayor, the city council, each board and commission, and each appointing or employing officer shall prepare and furnish to the commission complete lists of all employes in the classified service, containing the names and data aforesaid and such other information as the commission may call for. The commission shall furnish a complete duplicate of the service register to the city comptroller, and correct and complete the same from day to day thereafter.

Sec. 7. The commission shall, immediately after its appointment and from time to time thereafter, make, amend, alter and change rules, to promote efficiency in the city service and to carry out the purposes of this chapter. The rules shall provide, among other things, for:

a. The classification of all offices, positions and employments in the classified service.

b. Public competitive examinations to test the relative fitness of applicants.

c. Public advertisement of all examinations at least ten days in advance in two newspapers of the city of general circulation, one of which shall be the official newspaper, and posting such advertisement a like time in a conspicuous place in the city hall.

d. The creation of lists of eligible candidates after successful examination, in the order of their standing in the examination, and without reference to time of examination. Such lists shall be embraced in an eligible register. The commission may by rule provide for striking any name from the eligible register after it has been two years thereon.

e. The rejection of candidates or eligibles who, after the entry of their names, shall fail to comply with the reasonable rules and requirements of the commission in respect to age, residence, physical condition or otherwise, or who have been guilty of criminal infamous or disgraceful conduct, or of any wilful misrepresentation, deception or fraud in connection with the examination or in connection with their applications for place.

f. The certification of the name standing highest on the appropriate list to fill any vacancy.

g. Temporary employment without examination, but with the consent in each case of the commission, in cases of emergency and pending appointment from the eligible list; but no such temporary employment shall continue longer than sixty days, nor shall successive temporary employments be permitted for the same position.

h. Transfer from one position to a similar position in the same class or grade and for reinstatement of persons who, without fault or delinquency, are separated from the service or reduced.

i. Promotion based on competive examination and upon records of efficiency, character, conduct and seniority. Promotion shall be deemed, among other things, to include increase in salary, and the rules shall be framed to encourage the filling of vacancies by promotion rather than otherwise.

j. Suspension, with or without pay, for not longer than thirty days, and for leave of absence, with or without pay.

k. Appointment of unskilled laborers in the order of priority of application after such tests of fitness as the commission may prescribe.

l. Removing names from the service register upon termination of service.

The commission shall adopt such other rules, not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, as may from time to time be found necessary to secure the purposes of the act.

Sec. 8. Before the adoption, amendment or repeal of any rule, the commission shall give notice of consideration thereof by publishing and posting a brief notice, as required in Section 7, stating the subject of the rule or rules to be acted on.

Sec. 9. The commission shall keep a third register, to be known as an application register, in which shall be entered the names and addresses and order and date of application of all applicants for examination, and the offices or employments they seek. All applications shall be upon forms prescribed by the commission.

Sec. 10. As soon as the commission has organized and made up the service register and adopted rules, as herein provided, it shall notify the mayor, the city council, the several boards and commissions, and each appointing officers of the city, and thereafter no office, position or employment shall be filled in the classified service except from names certified by the commission and in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 11. The mayor, the city council, and each board, commission and appointing or employing officer of the city, shall have power to remove and discharge at will any subordinate employe, unless restricted by law other than this act, but such removal or discharge shall be forthwith reported in writing, together with the cause thereof, to the commission and the city comptroller. Such report shall be made when the reason is lack of work, as well as in other cases.

Sec. 12. The commission shall ascertain the duties of each office, position and employment in the classified service, and designate by rule as well as may be practicable, the grade of each office, employment or position. Each grade shall comprise those offices, employments and positions having substantially similar duties. The commission shall by rule indicate the lines of promotion from each lower to higher grade wherever the experience derived in the lower tends to qualify for the higher. The commission shall prescribe standards of efficiency for each office, position and employment and for each grade, and adapt its examinations thereto. For the purpose of establishing uniformity of pay and title for similar offices and employments, the commission may by rule recommend the maximum and minimum pay for each office and employment and for each grade and the title thereof, and report the same to the mayor, city council, the several boards and commissions and to each appointing officer, annually or more frequently if deemed necessary. The commission shall in like manner report the name and position of each employe paid more or less than the pay recommended by the commission, or designated by any title other than that prescribed by the commission. The commission shall make and keep a record of relative efficiency of each employe in the classified service other than unskilled laborers, and shall provide by rule methods for ascertaining and verifying the facts from which such records of relative efficiency shall be made.

Sec. 13. All examinations shall be impartial, fair and practical and designed only to test the relative qualifications and fitness of applicants to discharge the duties of the particular employment which they seek to fill. No question in any examination shall relate to the political or religious convictions or affiliations of the applicant. All applicants for positions of trust shall be specially examined as to moral character, sobriety and integrity, and all applicants for positions requiring special experience, skill or faithfulness shall be specially examined in respect to those qualities. Where written answers are required from applicants for positions calling for expert knowledge, the rules may provide for examination of the answers and the comparative ranking of the various applicants, without a disclosure of the names of the applicants to the examiners. The commission may furnish to the chief examiner such assistance as may be necessary. It shall be the duty of every employe of the city to act as an examiner or assistant examiner, at the request of the commission, without special compensation therefor. The members of the commission, collectively or individually, may act as examiners or assistant examiners.

Sec. 14. Notice of the time, place and scope of each examination shall be given by publication and posting, as specified in Section 7, and by mailing to each applicant upon the appropriate list of the application register ten days in advance. The names of those found eligible, after giving credit for character and previous successful experience, shall be entered, with their addresses and percentages, in appropriate lists of the eligible register. No name shall remain upon the eligible register more than two years without a new application, and, if the rules of the commission so require, a new examination.

Sec. 15. When a vacancy is to be filled in the classified service, the mayor, city council, board, commission or employing officer, shall notify the commission, and the commission shall certify the highest name from the appropriate list of the eligible register, except in the case of unskilled labor, and then shall certify the name first in time on the list. All vacancies shall be filled from the names so certified, and the commission shall be immediately notified of the employment and of the compensation to be paid. The names so selected shall be stricken from the eligible register and transferred to the service register. All changes in grade, title or compensation shall be likewise reported.

Sec. 16. In case of a vacancy in a position requiring peculiar and exceptional qualifications of a scientific, professional or expert character, the commission upon satisfactory evidence that competition is impracticable and that the position can best be filled by the selection of some person of recognized attainments, without examination and after hearing in an open regular meeting of the commission and by the affirmative vote of all three members, may suspend competition; but no such suspension shall be general in its application to such position, and all such cases of suspension shall be reported, together with the reasons therefor, in the annual reports of the commission.

Sec. 17. After the [illegible] the duplicate service register, the city comptroller shall not approve the payment of any salary, wages or compensation for any office or employment in the classified service, nor countersign any warrant therefor, unless the name of the person claiming the same appears upon the service register for the time for which such salary, wages or compensation is claimed, nor at any higher rate than shown on such register; and if the city comptroller shall wilfully or negligently approve any payment or countersign any warrant in violation of this section, he and the sureties on his bond shall be liable to the city for the amount thereof and action may be brought therefor by any tax payer for the use of the city without making previous request to the city to sue.

Sec. 18. The commission shall in each year, on or before the 15th day of January, make to the mayor and city council a report, showing as fully as may be the acts and disbursements of the commission for the preceding calendar year; the rules in force at the beginning of such year and changes made during the year; the practical effect and working of the rules and of this act; the results of the efforts to standardize services and compensation and the departures therefrom; together with such recommendations as the commission may see fit to make, to promote the efficiency and integrity of the public service. The commission shall furnish a suitable number of copies of such report to the mayor, the city council and each board and commission and each employing officer of the city.

Sec. 19. The commission shall from time to time investigate the enforcement of this act and of the rules made under it; the action of all examiners; the duties of all departments and of all employes of the city; the efficiency of the service, and such other matters as come within the scope of this act. In the course of such investigations each commissioner shall have power to issue subpoenas and to administer oaths and to compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books and papers relevant to the investigation. Any person who shall wilfully testify falsely shall be guilty of perjury and any person who shall refuse to obey the lawful subpoenas or directions of the commission or any commissioner in any such investigation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any member of the commission shall have power of his own motion to file written charges against any employe in the classified service, and thereupon the commission shall try the charges, after not less than ten days' written notice to the person accused, in the manner and with the powers prescribed in this section; but in such case the complaining commissioner shall not sit. If found guilty of breach of duty, such employe may be removed by the commission and his name be stricken from the service register. The commission may make complaint to the district court of disobedience of its subpoenas or orders under this section, and the court shall prescribe notice to the person accused and require him to obey the commission's subpoena and order, if found within the lawful powers of the commission, and punish disobedience as a contempt of the court. Witnesses shall be entitled to the same fees and mileage as for attendance upon the district court, except that any officer, agent or employe of the city who receives compensation for his services, shall not be entitled to fees or mileage.

Sec. 20. Any applicant for an office or employment in the classified service, who shall knowingly make any false answer or statement upon any examination in regard to any material matter upon which he is examined, shall thereby forfeit his right to be entered upon the eligible register; and, in case he has been appointed to any office or employment, shall forfeit the same and shall not within three years thereafter be eligible to any office or employment in the unclassified service of the city, nor shall he during such time be entitled to any of the examinations of the commission.

Sec. 21. Any applicant for examination or for appointment to the classified service, who shall, either directly or indirectly, give, render or pay or promise to give, render or pay any money, service or other thing to any person for or on account of or in connection with his examination, appointment or proposed appointment, or who shall ask for or receive any recommendation or assistance from any person in the classified or unclassified service of the city, except a statement of his previous service and the character thereof, if any, to the city, as a subordinate under such officer or employe, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 22. Any officer or employe in the classified service of the city, who shall in any manner directly or indirectly solicit or receive or pay or be in any manner concerned in soliciting, receiving or paying any assessment, subscription or contribution for any party or political purpose, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 23. Any person who shall solicit or receive, directly or indirectly, or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, contribution or payment for any political purpose whatever, from any officer or employe in the classified service of the city, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 24. Any officer or employe in the classified or unclassified service of the city who shall discharge, promote or reduce, in rank or in any manner change the official rank or compensation of any other officer or employe, or promise or threaten so to do, for giving or withholding or neglecting to make any service or contribution of money or other valuable thing for any party or political purpose, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Subscribers who, during the preceding calendar year, have paid into the treasury of the Association, premiums amounting to more than one-half of the total premiums received by it during that year, shall constitute a quorum. At such annual meeting the subscribers shall elect, by ballot, from their own number, not less than five directors, a majority of whom shall be residents of this state, to serve for at least one year and until their sucecssors are duly chosen; provided, however, that such Association may provide in its by-laws for two, three or four classes, and for the election thereof, at its annual meetings, in such manner that the members of one class only shall retire and their successors be chosen each year. Vacancies may be filled by election by the Board until the next annual meeting. In the choice of directors and in all meetings of the Association, each subscriber shall be entitled to one vote for every one hundred dollars or any fraction thereof paid by him in premiums into the Treasury of the Association during the preceding calendar year. Subscribers may vote by proxy, and the record of all votes shall be made by the Secretary, and shall show whether the same were cast in person or by proxy and shall be evidence of all such elections. Not less than three directors shall constitute a quorum. The directors shall annually choose, by ballot, a President, who shall be a member of the Board; a Secretary; a Treasurer, who may also be either the President or Secretary; and such other officers as the by-laws may provide; and they shall fix the salaries of the President and Secretary, as well as the salaries or compensation of such other officers and agents as the by-laws prescribe. Vacancies in any office may be filled by the directors or by the subscribers, as the by-laws shall prescribe.

Sec. 9. Policies of insurance issued by any such Association may be made either with or without the seal thereof, and they shall be signed by the President, or such other officers as may be designated by the directors for that purpose, and attested by the Secretary.

Sec. 10. If at any time the number of subscribers falls below twenty, or the number of the subscribers' employees within the State falls below five thousand, no further policies shall be issued until the total number of subscribers amounts to not less than twenty, whose employees within the state are not less than five thousand.

Sec. 11. The Board of Directors shall be entitled to inspect the plant, workroom, shop, farm or premises of any subscriber, and for such purpose to appoint inspectors, who shall have free access to all such premises during the regular working hours, and the Board of Directors shall likewise from time to time be entitled to examine by their auditor or other agent, the books, records and pay rolls of any subscribers, for the purpose of determining the amount of premium chargeable to such subscriber.

The Board of Directors shall make reasonable rules and regulations for the prevention of injuries upon the premises of subscribers; and they may refuse to insure or may terminate the insurance of any subscriber who refuses to permit such examinations or disregards such rules or regulations, and forfeit all premiums previously paid by him, but such termination of the insurance of any subscriber shall not release him from liability for the payment of assessments then or thereafter made by the Board of Directors to make up deficiencies existing at the termination of his insurance.

Sec. 12. Every such company shall charge and collect on each policy a premium, in cash, equal to one year's premium on the policy issued and shall also provide in its by-laws and specify in its policies the maximum contingent mutual liability of its members for the payment of losses and expenses not provided for by its cash fund. The contingent liability of a member shall not be less than a sum equal to and in addition to one annual premium nor more than a sum equal to and in addition to one annual premium nor more than a sum equal to five times the amount of such annual premium, or, in case of a policy written for less than one year, the contingent liability shall not exceed the amount of premium written in the policy. "The maximum contingent liability of the policyholder under this policy is $——."

Sec. 13. The Board of Directors shall determine the amount of premiums which the subscribers of the Association shall pay for their insurance, in accordance with the nature of the business in which such subscribers are engaged, and the probable risk of injury to their employes under existing conditions, and they shall fix premiums at such amounts as in their judgment shall be sufficient to enable the association to pay to its subscribers all sums which may become due and payable to their employes under the provisions of law, and also the expenses of conducting the business of the Association. In fixing the premium payable by any subscriber, the Board of Directors may take into account the condition of the plant, work room, shop, farm or premises of such subscriber in respect to the safety of those employed therein, as shown by the report of any inspector appointed by such Board, and they may from time to time change the amount of premiums payable by any of the subscribers as circumstances may require, and the condition of the plant, workroom, shop, farm or premises of such subscriber in respect to the safety of their employes may justify, and they may increase the premiums of any subscriber neglecting to provide safety devices required by law, or disobeying the rules or regulations made by the Board of Directors in accordance with the provisions of Section 11 of this act. No policy of insurance issued by any subscriber shall be effective until he shall have paid in cash the premium so fixed and determined.

Sec. 14. The Board of Directors may divide the subscribers into groups in accordance with the nature of their business and the probable risk of injury therein. In such case they shall fix all premiums, make all assessments, and determine and pay all dividends by and for each group in accordance with the experience thereof, but all the subscribers shall be available for the payment of any claim against the Association; provided, however, that (as between the Association and its subscribers), until the whole of the contingent liability of the members of other groups shall be exhausted, the general funds of the Association and the contingent liability of the members of other groups shall not be available for the payment of losses and expenses incurred by such group in excess of the earned premiums paid by the members thereof.

Whenever the liabilities, including unearned premiums and such other reserves as are or may be required by law and the Insurance Commissioner, are in excess of the admitted assets computed on the basis allowed for its annual statement, it shall make an assessment upon its policyholders, said assessment to be based upon the amount of one annual premium as written in the policy and not to exceed the amount of five annual premiums.

If it becomes necessary to levy the assessment as provided by this section, no policies shall be issued until the admitted assets of the association are in excess of its liabilities.

Sec. 15. A statement of any proposed premium, assessment, dividend or distribution of subscribers into groups shall be filed with the Insurance Department.

Sec. 16. If any officer of the Association shall falsely make oath to any certificate required to be filed with the Commissioner of Insurance, he shall be guilty of perjury.

Sec. 17. Any subscriber of the Association who has complied with all its rules and regulations, may withdraw therefrom by written notice to that effect, sent by such subscriber by registered mail to the Association, and such withdrawal shall become effective on the first day of the month immediately following the tenth day after the receipt of such notice, but such withdrawal shall not release such subscriber from liability for the payment of assessments thereafter made by the Board of Directors to make up deficiencies existing at the date of his withdrawal, and such subscriber shall be entitled to his share of any dividends earned at the date of his withdrawal.

Sec. 18. Such Association shall invest and keep invested all its funds of every description, excepting such cash as may be required in the transaction of its business, in accordance with the laws of this state relating to the investment of funds of domestic insurance companies.

Sec. 19. No such association shall purchase, hold or convey real estate except as provided by Section 1615, Revised Laws 1905.

Provided, that all proceedings for the registration of title to real estate shall be tried at the county seat of said County.

Provided, further, that no officer having in his custody any of the public records of Beltrami County shall be required to produce any of such records at the trial of any action herein provided for, except at the county seat, save on an order of said court providing for the immediate return of any such records to the proper office.

Sec. 2. Special terms of said district court may be held at said village of Baudette at any time when the judges of said court shall so provide by order.

Sec. 3. The clerk of said court shall give notice of all orders for the holding of any general or special term by publishing the same for two successive weeks in a newspaper published in said village of Baudette and also in the official newspaper of said County, the last of which publications shall be not less than ten nor more than twenty days before the opening of any such term.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of one or more judges of the district court, the court reporters, the sheriff or his deputy or deputies, the clerk of the district court or his deputy or deputies, to be present at all terms of court so ordered to be held, to properly attend to the trial and disposition of all cases on the calendar for trial.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the clerk to keep a calendar of actions for trial at such terms, and it shall be the duty of parties litigant entitled to have their action tried in said village of Baudette as aforesaid to designate the same upon the note of issue to be filed with the clerk of court.

Sec. 6. The village of Baudette shall, previous to the holding of any term of court in said village, and for each of such terms, without expense to the County of Beltrami, provide suitable rooms for the holding of such terms and a proper place for the confinement of prisoners during the session of any such terms; and no adjournment of said court shall be made to the village of Spooner, as hereinafter provided, unless the said village of Spooner shall have previously, without expense to the said County of Beltrami, provided suitable rooms for the holding of such term and a proper place for the confinement of prisoners during such term. And the County of Beltrami shall reimburse the clerk of said court and the sheriff and county attorney of said County and their respective deputies and the district judges of said district and the court reporters for their traveling expenses actually and necessarily incurred in the performance of their respective official duties.

Sec. 7. Sec. 8. All appeals from municipal courts and from justices of the peace in either civil or criminal actions shall be heard and tried at such terms in said village of Baudette in all cases where the court appealed from is situated north of the fourteenth standard parallel, being the township line between townships numbers 156 and 157 in said County; provided, that by consent of the parties thereto such appeal may be tried at the county seat of said County.

Sec. 9. All civil actions brought in the district court of said County against any party whose place of residence, by the usual route of travel, is situated nearer to the said village of Baudette than to the county seat of said County shall be tried at the term of court to be held in said village of Baudette, unless the place of trial shall be waived by the defendant.

If none of the parties against whom such action is brought shall reside in the County of Beltrami, or if the defendant be a foreign corporation, the action may be tried at the village of Baudette if the plaintiff therein shall so designate as hereinafter provided, subject to the right of a defendant to remove said action as provided by law.

Sec. 10. Any party wishing to have any civil cause commenced by him in said court tried at said village of Baudette shall, in the summons issued therein, in addition to the usual provisions, print, stamp or write thereon the words "To be tried at Baudette," and in all such cases where any summons contains such specification the cases shall be tried at said village of Baudette, unless the defendant shall have the place of trial fixed at the county seat of said County, as hereinafter provided.

If the place of trial designated in any summons is not the proper place of trial as specified in this act, the cause shall nevertheless be tried at such place unless the defendant in his answer, in addition to the other allegations of defense, shall plead the location of his residence and demand that such action be tried at the place of holding said court nearest his residence, as herein provided; and in any case where the answer of the defendant pleads such place of residence and makes such demand of place of trial, the plaintiff, in his reply, may admit or deny such allegations of residence; and if such allegations of residence be not expressly denied such cause shall be tried at the place so demanded by the defendant, and if they be so denied, then the place of trial shall be determined by the court on motion.

An action for injuries to real estate or for the recovery of real estate or for the partition thereof or involving the title thereto, shall be tried at the terms of court held at said village of Baudette where the real estate involved in said action is nearer by the usual route of travel to said village of Baudette than to the county seat of said County.

Nothing in this act contained shall, however, be construed to abridge the power of the court, for cause shown, to change the place of trial of any such action or proceeding and the court may, upon motion, for the convenience of witnesses remove the trial of any case from said village of Baudette to said county seat or from said county seat to said village of Baudette.

All cases pending in said County at the time this act goes into effect which, if brought after such time, could properly be tried at the terms of court to be held at said village of Baudette, may be tried there upon motion of either party thereto.

Sec. 11. The judges of the district court shall have full power and authority to make all such rules, orders and regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this act.

The judge or judges holding any of said terms at said village of Baudette may also, in his, or their, discretion, adjourn the same to some suitable place in the village of Spooner, in said County, to be designated in the order of adjournment, for the trial of any cause or causes pending for trial at said term.

Sec. 12. This act shall not apply to or in any manner affect the place of trial of any action based upon a cause of action arising or accruing prior to January [illegible] 1911, whether such action be now pending or hereafter commenced.

Sec. 13. All laws and parts of laws inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. That Section 13, Chapter 352, General Laws, 1903, as amended by Chapter 115, General Laws, 1905, as amended by Chapter 401, General Laws, 1909, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 1. Whenever the state live stock sanitary board shall decide upon the killing of an animal affected with the disease tuberculosis or glanders, it shall notify the owner or keeper of such decision, when the judgment of the state live stock sanitary board, such animal may be ordered transported for immediate slaughter by the said board, through its executive officer to any abattoir within the state where the United States Bureau of animal industry maintains inspection, and said live stock sanitary board shall pay the expense, said transportation and yardage.

Before being removed from the premises of owner, there shall be appointed three (3) competent disinterested men, one appointed by the state, one by the owner, and a third by the first two, to appraise such animal at its cash value.

Such appraisal shall in no case exceed sixty (60) dollars for a cow and one hundred and twenty-five dollars ($125) for a horse, except in the case of pure bred cattle and horses, where the pedigree shall be proved by certificates of register from the herd books where registered, and in that case the maximum appraisal shall not exceed one hundred and fifty dollars ($150).

If upon slaughter such animal is found by the inspector in charge of such abattoir, or veterinarian of the state live stock sanitary board, to be free from any contagious or infectious disease, then the full amount of such appraisal, less the value of the carcass, shall be paid to the owner of such animal from the funds hereby appropriated for the purpose of carrying out this act.

But if upon post-mortem examination such animal shall be found to be afflicted with tuberculosis or glanders, then and in that case the value of the carcass shall be deducted from the appraised value of the living animal; three-fourths (¾) of the remainder shall be paid to the owner by the state, provided the animal has been kept for one year, or since its birth in good faith in the state prior to the killing thereof.

The owner or keeper may file with the board which has ordered the killing, within forty-eight (48) hours after being notified, a protest stating therein under oath that to the best of his knowledge and belief the animal is not infected with tuberculosis or glanders; blank protest shall be furnished by the board which has ordered such killing.

Thereupon, if the animal be killed, an autopsy shall be held by three (3) experts, who shall be graduate veterinarians of a recognized college, one appointed by the state board, one by the owner, to be paid by the owner, and the third by the first two, to be paid by the state, who shall appraise such animal before it is killed at its cash value, and the autopsy shall then be held upon such animal by the above mentioned veterinarians.

If the autopsy shows that the animal is entirely free from any such disease, the full cash value thereof immediately before the killing shall be paid to the owner by the state, less the value of the carcass, but if found to be diseased, the owner shall be paid three-fourths value, as hereinbefore provided.

The appraisements made under this act shall be in writing and signed by the appraisers and certified by the local board of health and the state live stock sanitary board, respectively, to the auditor of the state, who shall draw a warrant on the state treasurer for the amount thereof.

When cattle have been bought in good faith for slaughtering purposes by butchers who are retail dealers, and the carcasses thereafter found to be infected with tuberculosis, it shall be the duty of the local board of health to appoint three (3) disinterested persons to appraise the value of said carcass, and the owner of said carcass shall be entitled to receive from the state two-thirds (2-3) of the amount of such appraisement, and the hide shall also be returned to him; provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to a slaughtering or packing house that has a state or United States government inspection system.

CHAPTER 156—H. F. No. 93.

AN ACT regulating the conditions and provisions to be contained in policies of health or accident insurance issued in this state and for the repeal of laws inconsistent herewith.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. On and after the first day of January, 1914, no policy of insurance against loss or damage from the sickness, or the bodily injury or death of the insured by accident shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state until a copy of the form thereof and of the classification of risks, if more than one class of risks is written, and the premium rates pertaining thereto have been filed with the commissioner of insurance; nor shall it be so issued or delivered until the expiration of thirty days after it has been so filed unless the said commissioner shall sooner give his written approval thereto. If the said commissioner shall notify, in writing, the company, corporation, association, society or other insurer which has filed such form that it does not comply with the requirements of law, specifying the reasons for his opinion, it shall be unlawful thereafter for any such insurer to issue any policy in such form. The action of the said commissioner in this regard shall be subject to review by any court of competent jurisdiction, provided, however, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to give jurisdiction to any court not already having jurisdiction.

Sec. 2. No such policy shall be so issued or delivered (1) unless the entire money and other considerations therefor are expressed in the policy; nor (2) unless the time at which the insurance thereunder takes effect and terminates is stated in a portion of the policy preceding its execution by the insurer; nor (3) if the policy purports to insure more than one person; nor (4) unless every printed portion thereof and of any endorsement or attached papers shall be plainly printed in type of which the face shall be not smaller than ten point; nor (5) unless a brief description thereof be printed on its first page and on its filing back in type of which the face shall be not smaller than fourteen point; nor (6) unless the exceptions of the policy be printed with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply, provided, however, that any portion of such policy which purports, by reason of the circumstances under which a loss is incurred, to reduce any indemnity promised therein to an amount less than that provided for the same loss occurring under ordinary circumstances, shall be printed in bold face type and with greater prominence than any other portion of the text of the policy.

Sec. 3. Every such policy so issued shall contain certain standard provisions, which shall be in the words and in the order hereinafter set forth and be preceded in every policy by the caption, "Standard Provision." In each such standard provision wherever the word "insurer" is used; there shall be substituted therefor "company" or "corporation" or "association" or "society" or such other word as will properly designate the insurer. Said standard provisions shall be:

(1) A standard provision relative to the contract which may be in either of the following two forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide for reduction of indemnity on account of change of occupation, and Form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide. If Form (B) is used and the policy provides indemnity against loss from sickness, the words "or contracts sickness" may be inserted therein immediately after the words "in the event that the insured is injured:"

(A):—1. This policy includes the endorsement and attached papers if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance. No reduction shall be made in any indemnity herein provided by reason of change in the occupation of the insured or by reason of his doing any act or thing pertaining to any other occupation.

(B):—1. This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance except as it may be modified by the insurer's classification of risks and premium rates in the event that the insured is injured after having changed his occupation to one classified by the insurer as more hazardous than that stated in the policy, or while he is doing any act or thing pertaining to any occupation so classified, except ordinary duties about his residence or while engaged in recreation, in which event the insurer will pay only such portion of the indemnities provided in the policy as the premium paid would have purchased at the rate but within the limits so fixed by the insurer for such more hazardous occupation.

If the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued requires that prior to its issue a statement of the premium rates and classification of risks pertaining to it shall be filed with the state official having supervision of insurance in such state then the premium rates and classification of risks mentioned in this policy shall mean only such as have been last filed by the insurer in accordance with such law, but if such filing is not required by such law then they shall mean the insurer's premium rates and classification of risks last made effective by it in such state prior to the occurrence of the loss for which the insurer is liable.

(2) A standard provision relative to changes in the contract, which shall be in the following form:

2. No statement made by the applicant for insurance not included herein shall void the policy or be used in any legal proceeding hereunder. No agent has authority to change this policy or to waive any of its provisions. No change in this policy shall be valid unless approved by an executive officer of the insurer and such approval be endorsed hereon.

(3) A standard provision relative to reinstatement of policy after lapse which may be in either of the three following forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident; Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness; and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness.

(A):—3. If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover loss resulting from accidental injury thereafter sustained.

(B):—3. If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

(C):—3. If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover accidental injury thereafter sustained and such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

(4) A standard provision relative to time of notice of claim which may be in either of the three following forms: Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident; Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness, and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness. If Form (A) or Form (C) is used the insurer may at its option add thereto the following sentence, "In event of accidental death immediate notice thereof must be given to the insurer."

(A):—4. Written notice of injury on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury.

(B):—4. Written notice of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within ten days after the commencement of the disability from such sickness.

(C):—4. Written notice of injury or of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury or within ten days after the commencement of disability from such sickness.

(5) A standard provision relative to sufficiency of notice of claim which shall be in the following form and in which the insurer shall insert in the blank space such office and its location as it may desire to designate for such purpose of notice:

5. Such notice given by or in behalf of the insured or beneficiary, as the case may be, to the insurer at . . . or to any authorized agent of the insurer, with particulars sufficient to identify the insured, shall be deemed to be notice to the insurer. Failure to give notice within the time provided in this policy shall not invalidate any claim if it shall be shown not to have been reasonably possible to give such notice and that notice was given as soon as was reasonably possible.

(6) A standard provision relative to furnishing forms for the convenience of the insured in submitting proof of loss as follows:

6. The insurer upon receipt of such notice, will furnish to the claimant such forms as are usually furnished by it for filing proofs of loss. If such forms are not so furnished within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss upon submitting within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss, written proof covering the occurrence, character and extent of the loss for which claim is made.

(7) A standard provision relative to filing proof of loss which shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided;

(A):—7. Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the loss for which claim is made.

Such optional standard provisions if inserted in the policy shall immediately succeed the standard provisions, named in section three of this act.

(1) An optional standard provision relative to cancellation of the policy at the instance of the insurer as follows:

16. The insurer may cancel this policy at any time by written notice delivered to the insured or mailed to his last address as shown by the records of the insurer together with cash or the insurer's check for the unearned portion of the premiums actually paid by the insured, and such cancellation shall be without prejudice to any claim originating prior thereto.

(B):—19. If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $ . . . . weekly (or substitute the word "monthly") the excess insurance shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(C):—19. If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss other than that of time on account of disability in excess of $....., or the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $............ weekly (or substitute the word "monthly") the excess insurance of either kind shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

Sec. 5. No such policy shall be so issued or delivered if it contains any provision contradictory, in whole or part, of any of the provisions hereinbefore in this act designated as "Standard Provisions" or as "Optional Standard Provisions;" nor shall any indorsements or attached papers vary, alter, extend, be used as a substitute for, or in any way conflict with any of the said "Standard Provisions" or the said "Optional Standard Provisions;" nor shall such policy be so issued or delivered if it contains any provision purporting to make any portion of the charter, constitution or by-laws of the insurer a part of the policy unless such portion of the charter, constitution or by-laws shall be set forth in full in the policy, but this prohibition shall not be deemed to apply to any statement of rates or classification of risks filed with the commissioner of insurance in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 6. The falsity of any statement in the application for any policy covered by this act shall not bar the right to recovery thereunder unless such false statement was made with actual intent to deceive or unless it materially affected either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the insurer.

Sec. 7. The acknowledgment by any insurer of the receipt of notice given under any policy covered by this act, or the furnishing of forms for filing proofs of loss, or the acceptance of such proofs, or the investigation of any claim thereunder shall not operate as a waiver of any of the rights of the insurer in defense of any claim arising under such policy.

Sec. 8. No alteration of any written application for insurance by erasure, insertion or otherwise, shall be made by any person other than the applicant without his written consent, and the making of any such alteration without the consent of the applicant shall be a misdemeanor. If such alteration shall be made by any officer of the insurer, or by any employe of the insurer with the insurer's knowledge or consent, then such act shall be deemed to have been performed by the insurer thereafter issuing the policy upon such altered application.

Sec. 9. A policy issued in violation of this act shall be held valid, but shall be construed as provided in this act, and when any provision in such a policy is in conflict with any provision of this act the rights, duties and obligations of the insurer, the policy holder and the beneficiary shall be governed by the provisions of this act.

Sec. 10. The policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer not organized under the laws of this state may contain, when issued in this state, any provision which the law of the state, territory or district of the United States under which the insurer is organized, prescribed for insertion in such policies, and the policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer organized under the laws of this state may contain, when issued or delivered in any other state, territory, district or country, any provision required by the laws of the state, territory, district or country in which the same are issued, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sec. 11. Discrimination between individuals of the same class in the amount of premiums or rates charged for any policy of insurance covered by this act, or in the benefits payable thereon, or in any of the terms or conditions of such policy, or in any other manner whatsoever is prohibited.

(2) Nothing in this act shall apply to or in any way affect contracts supplemental to contracts of life or endowment insurance where such supplemental contracts contain no provisions except such as operate to safeguard such insurance against lapse or to provide a special surrender value therefor in the event that the insured shall be totally and permanently disabled by reason of accidental bodily injury or by sickness; provided that no such supplemental contract shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state unless and until a copy of the form thereof has been submitted to and approved by the Commissioner of Insurance, under such reasonable rules and regulations as he shall make concerning the provisions in such contracts and their submission to and approval by him.

(3) Nothing in this act shall apply to or in any way affect fraternal benefit societies.

Sec. 14. Chapter 167 of the Laws of 1909, and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 15. This act shall take effect on the first day of October, 1913. Any policy covered by this act, the form of which has received the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance, may be issued or delivered in this state on and after the said date.

AN ACT to amend Sections 1, 13, 14, 15, 16, 23 and 25, Chapter 125, General Laws of 1911, entitled "An act to provide for the preservation of forests in this state and for reforestation and for the prevention and suppression of forest and prairie fires; also repealing Chapter 22, Revised Laws 1905, and Sections 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2510 and 2515, Revised Laws 1905; Chapters 82 and 310 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905; Chapter 182 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1909; and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, prescribing penalties for violations of this act and appropriating money for the carrying out of its provisions."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. That Section One (1) of Chapter 125, General Laws 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 1. There shall be a State Forestry Board, of nine members, composed of the Director of the Forestry School and the Dean of the Agricultural College of the University of Minnesota, and seven others appointed by the Governor, for a term of four years and until their successors qualify. Two of said members shall be appointed upon the recommendation of the Regents of the University and one shall be appointed upon the recommendation of each of the following bodies: The State Agricultural Society, the State Horticultural Society, and the State Game and Fish Commission—provided suitable persons be recommended by them to the Governor not later than January 31st, of the year in which such terms expire. All vacancies shall be filled the same as the original appointments. The members now in office shall hold through the terms for which they were respectively appointed. So far as practicable, all such appointees shall be appointed with reference to their knowledge of and interest in the planting and cultivation of trees in prairie regions, the preservation of natural forests, the reforesting of denuded lands, and the protection of the sources of streams."

Sec. 2. That Section 13 of Chapter 125, General Laws 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 13. When in the judgment of the State Forester there is danger of the setting and spreading of fires from locomotive engines, he shall order any Railroad Company to provide patrolmen to follow each train throughout such fire patrol district or districts as he deems necessary to prevent fires. When the State Forester has given a Railroad Company notice to provide such patrol after trains, the said Railroad Company shall immediately comply with such instructions throughout the territory designated; and upon its failure so to do, the State Forester may employ patrolmen with the necessary equipment to patrol the rights-of-way of said Railroad, and the expense of the same shall be charged to the said Railroad Company, and may be recovered in a civil action in the name of the State of Minnesota, and in addition thereto, the said Company shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The State Forester may prescribe such other measures which are considered by him to be essential for the immediate control of fires.

It is also made the duty of any Railroad Company, acting independently of such State Forester, to patrol its right-of-way after the passage of each train when necessary to prevent the spread of fires and to use the highest degree of diligence to prevent the setting and spread of fire, to cause the extinguishment of fires set by locomotives or found existing upon their respective rights-of-way, and for any violation hereof such Railroad Company, its officers and patrolmen shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50.00), nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) and costs, and in addition thereto such Railroad Company shall be liable for all expenses and damages caused or permitted by it to be recovered in civil action."

Sec. 3. That Section 14 of Chapter 125, General Laws of 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 14. Every Company operating a railroad for any purpose shall equip and use upon each locomotive engine a practical and efficient ash-pan and spark arresting device, which the master mechanic shall cause to be examined, and the same shall be examined by the master mechanic or some employee each time before leaving the roundhouse, except when snow is on the ground. A record shall be kept of such examinations in a book to be furnished by the Railroad Company for the purpose, showing:

1. The place and number of each engine inspected.

2. The date and hour of day of such inspection.

3. The condition of the said fire protective appliance and arrangements; and

4. A record of repairs made to any of the fire protective appliances. The said book to be open for inspection by the State Forester or other authorized officer appointed by him.

The master mechanic or employee making such examination shall be held responsible for the good condition of the same, but without relieving the Company from its responsibility hereunder. Any locomotive inspector appointed by the State Forester is authorized to inspect any locomotive, donkey, traction or portable engine and all other engines and boilers operated in the vicinity of forest, brush or grass lands, and to enter upon any property for such purpose or where he may deem it necessary in order to see that all the provisions of this act are duly complied with.

Every such Company shall keep its right-of-way clear of combustible materials, logs, poles, lumber and wood, except ties, material for shipment, and other material necessary for the maintenance and operation of the road, from March 15th to December 1st. During particularly dry and dangerous periods the State Forester may prohibit any and all burning along part or all of Railroad right-of-way for a definite period.

Every Railroad Company shall establish and maintain such firebreaks along the route of its railway as can be constructed and maintained at not excessive expense. The intention shall be to adjust the protective measures to the local conditions, and to make the expense proportionate to the fire risk and the possible damage.

Except when snow is on the ground, no

donkey, traction or portable engine or other engines and boilers except locomotives shall be operated in the vicinity of forest, brush or grass lands, which do not burn oil as fuel, except they be provided with a practical and efficient ash-pan and spark arresting device.

No Company shall permit any of its employes to leave a deposit of fire, live coals or ashes in the immediate vicinity of wood land or lands liable to be over-run by fire, and every engineer, conductor or trainman discovering a fire adjacent to the track shall report the same promptly to the agent at the first telegraph or telephone station reached by him, whose duty it shall be as Representative of such Company to at once take necessary steps to put out such fire.

Every such Company shall give its employees particular instructions for the prevention and extinguishment of fires, and shall cause warning placards such as are approved by the State Forester, to be conspicuously posted at every station in the vicinity of forest, brush and grass lands, and when a fire occurs on the right-of-way of its road, shall immediately concentrate such help and adopt such measures as shall be available for its extinguishment.

Every Railroad Company shall make such reports to the State Forester as are deemed necessary by him of fires occurring on or adjacent to their respective rights-of-way.

Whenever any combustible material shall be left in the proximity of any Railroad, either without proper fire protection or so as to constitute a fire menace to other property, it shall be the duty of the owner of such material, upon being notified in writing by the State Forester or any forest ranger as to the nature and extent of the protection required, to forthwith comply with all the terms of such notice so as to properly protect or remove such material.

Any Company or corporation violating any provision of this Section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) and not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00) and costs of prosecution for each offense, and any Railroad employee or other individual violating the same shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) and costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the County Jail not exceeding ninety (90) days."

Sec. 4. That Section 15 of Chapter 125, General Laws, 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 15. Where and whenever in the judgment of the State Forester or District Ranger there is or may be danger of starting and spreading of fires from slashings and debris from the cutting of timber of any kind and for any purpose, the State Forester or District Ranger shall order the individual, firm or corporation, by whom the said timber has been or is being cut, to dispose of the slashings and debris as he may direct. Where conditions do not permit the burning of the slashings and debris over the entire area so covered, the State Forester may require the person, firm or corporation by whom the timber was cut, to dispose of such slashings and debris in such a way as to establish a safe fire line around the area requiring such protection, the said fire line to be of a width and of a character satisfactory to the State Forester.

When any person, firm or corporation, shall have been notified by the State Forester or District Rangers to dispose of slashings and debris, either by entirely consuming the same or establishing a fire line sufficient for the protection of adjoining property, and fails to comply with such instructions, the said person, firm or corporation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) and not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00) and costs of prosecution for each violation thereof or failure to comply therewith.

When any such (—) slashings or debris are left unattended contrary to the instructions of the State Forester or District Ranger, the State Forester, the District Ranger or Patrolman may go upon the premises with such force of men as may be necessary and burn such branches, slashings, and debris, and the expense thereof shall be a lien upon the land on which they are situated and also upon the logs and other timber products cut upon said land, and enforced as liens are enforced for the improvement of real estate or personal property. An itemized statement duly verified by the oath of the State Forester or District Ranger of the amount of the costs of burning or otherwise disposing of such branches, slashings and debris, shall be filed in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County in which said timber was cut, and also in the office of the Surveyor General of logs and lumber of the District in which said cutting was done, and the expense of burning or otherwise disposing of such branches, slashings and debris shall be a prima facie valid claim that may be collected from the person, firm or corporation who cut the wood or timber from which the said lashings and debris were made. Any moneys collected on account of such liens shall be paid into the State Treasury and credited to the Forest Service Fund."

Sec 5. That Section 16 of Chapter 125, General Laws 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 16. Any person or corporation who cuts or fells trees or bushes of any kind in clearing land for roadbed or right-of-way for any Railroad, highway or trail shall in the manner and at the time as above prescribed burn the slashings and all combustible material except fuel and merchantable timber.

Any person or corporation who cuts or fells trees or bushes of any kind in clearing land for agricultural or pasturage purposes, or who in any way clears land, is prohibited from setting fire to the slashings, brush, roots or excavated stumps or other combustible material on such land and letting the fire run; the material must be disposed of pursuant to the regulations of the State Forester.

Any contractor who enters into a contract for the construction of a public road, and which contract involves the cutting or grubbing of woods, standing timber, or brush from any part of the right-of-way of such road, shall pile all the slashings and debris cut or grubbed from the roadbed or right-of-way in the middle of such right-of-way, and shall burn and dispose of such slash and debris without damage to adjoining timber or woods, which burning shall be done in a manner and at a time satisfactory to the State Forester; provided, however, that the foregoing provision shall not prevent the leaving of such trees along roads as will be useful for ornamental and shade purposes, and which will not interfere with travel.

Every contract made by or on behalf of any Town or County Board, which involves the cutting of any timber on the right-of-way of a public highway, shall provide in terms for compliance with the foregoing provision, but that the failure to include such provision in the contract shall not relieve said contractor from the duty to burn and dispose of said slashings as aforesaid. No Town or County officer shall execute any such contract on behalf of his Town or County which does not provide in terms for compliance with the provisions of this Section.

Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this Section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00), nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00), or by imprisonment in the County Jail for not less than twenty (20) days or more than ninety (90) days."

Sec. 6. That Section 23 of Chapter 125, General Laws 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 23. No appeal shall be allowed from a judgment in Justice's Court in any prosecution under this Chapter unless the person appealing shall, within the legal time prescribed, enter into a recognizance with two sufficient sureties, surety company or cash bail, in twice the amount of the fine and costs, to be approved by the Justice, conditioned to appear before the District Court on the first day of the general term thereof to be held in and for the same County, and abide the judgment of said court therein.

The Justice may examine the proposed sureties under oath, and in such case shall make and keep a record of their answers in respect to the kinds and amount of their property that is not exempt from execution, and furnish a copy of the same to the State Forester.

Whenever an arrest shall have been made for violation of any of the provisions of this Chapter, or whenever information of such violation shall have been lodged with him, the County Attorney of the County in which the offense was committed shall prosecute the accused with all diligence and energy."

Sec. 7. That Section 25 of Chapter 125, General Laws 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 25. All moneys received as penalties for violations of the provisions of this act, less the cost of collection and not otherwise provided for, shall be paid in to the Treasury of the County in which the penalties for said violation of the provisions of this act were imposed; provided, however, that fines collected for violations of this act, where prosecutions are instituted upon the complaint of township, city or village officers, duly appointed by the State Forester as fire wardens, shall be paid into the Treasury of the township, city or village where the offense was committed, to be credited to the "fire fund" of such township, city or village."

Approved April 2, 1913.

(h) If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership, and

(i) In the case of a negotiable receipt, a statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt, unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

A Warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby, for all damage caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required.

Sec. 3.—(FORM OF RECEIPTS. WHAT TERMS MAY BE INSERTED.) A warehouseman may insert in a receipt, issued by him, any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—

(a) Be contrary to the provisions of this act.

(b) In any wise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safe-keeping of the goods entrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own.

Sec. 4.—(DEFINITION OF NON-NEGOTIABLE RECEIPT.) A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a non-negotiable receipt.

Sec. 5.—(DEFINITION OF NEGOTIABLE RECEIPT.) A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt is a negotiable receipt.

No provision shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is non-negotiable. Such provision, if inserted, shall be void.

Sec. 6.—(DUPLICATE RECEIPTS MUST BE SO MARKED.) When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to any one who purchased the subsequent receipt for value supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt.

Sec. 7.—(FAILURE TO MARK "NOT NEGOTIABLE.") A non-negotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it "non-negotiable," or "not negotiable." In case of the warehouseman's failure so to do, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value supposing it to be negotiable, may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable.

This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgments of an informal character.

OBLIGATIONS AND RIGHTS OF WAREHOUSEMEN UPON THEIR RECEIPTS.

Sec. 8. (OBLIGATION OF WAREHOUSEMAN TO DELIVER.) A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by this act, is bound to deliver the goods upon a written demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with—

(a) An offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien,

(b) An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsements as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt, and

(c) A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman.

In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a written demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal.

Sec. 9. (JUSTIFICATION OF WAREHOUSEMAN IN DELIVERING.) A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is—

(a) The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods, or his agent,

(b) A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a non-negotiable receipt issued for the goods, or who has written authority from the person so entitled either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper, or

(c) A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee.

Sec. 10. (WAREHOUSEMAN'S LIABILITY FOR MISDELIVERY.) Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (b) and (c) of the preceding section and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions he shall be so liable, if prior to such delivery he had either

(a) Been requested, by or on behalf of the person lawfully entitled to a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery, or

(b) Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods.

Sec. 11.—(NEGOTIABLE RECEIPTS MUST BE CANCELED WHEN GOODS DELIVERED.) Except as provided in Section 36, where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver the goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman.

Sec. 12.—(NEGOTIABLE RECEIPTS MUST BE CANCELED OR MARKED WHEN PART OF GOODS DELIVERED.) Except as provided in Section 36, where a warehouseman delivers part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel such receipt, or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered he shall be liable, to any one who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman.

Sec. 13.—(ALTERED RECEIPTS.) The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was

(a) Immaterial,

(b) Authorized, or

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt, as they were before alteration.

Material and fraudulent alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase.

Section 14.—(LOST OR DESTROYED RECEIPTS.) Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties to be approved by the court to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense, which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The delivery of the goods under an order of the court as provided in this section, shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods.

Sec. 15.—(EFFECT OF DUPLICATE RECEIPTS.) A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncancelled at the date of the issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability.

Sec. 16.—(WAREHOUSEMAN CAN NOT SET UP TITLE IN HIMSELF.) No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt.

Sec. 17.—(INTERPLEADER OR ADVERSE CLAIMANTS.) If more than one person claims the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for non-delivery of the goods, or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead.

Sec. 18.—(WAREHOUSEMAN HAS REASONABLE TIME TO DETERMINE VALIDITY OF CLAIMS.) If some one other than the depositor or person claiming under him has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the warehouseman has information of such claim, the warehouseman shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods, either to the depositor or person claiming under him or to the adverse claimant, until the warehouseman has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead.

Sec. 19.—(ADVERSE TITLE IS NO DEFENSE EXCEPT AS ABOVE PROVIDED.) Except as provided in the two preceding sections and in sections 9 and 36, no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt.

Sec. 20.—(LIABILITY FOR NON-EXISTENCE OR MISDESCRIPTION OF GOODS.) A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt for damages caused by the non-existence of the goods or by the failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at hte time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that the packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate, or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor.

Sec. 21.—(LIABILITY FOR CARE OF GOODS.) A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise, but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

Sec. 22.—(GOODS MUST BE KEPT SEPARATE.) Except as provided in the following section, a warehouseman shall keep the goods so far separate from goods of other depositors, and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued, as to permit at all times the identification and re-deliverdy of the goods deposited.

Sec. 23.—(FUNGIBLE GOODS MAY BE COMMINGLED IF WAREHOUSEMAN AUTHORIZED.) If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole.

Sec. 24.—(LIABILITY OF WAREHOUSEMAN TO DEPOSITORS OF COMMINGLED GOODS.) The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and re-delivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been kept separate.

Sec. 25.—(ATTACHMENT OR LEVY UPON GOODS FOR WHICH A NEGOTIABLE RECEIPT HAS BEEN ISSUED.) If goods are delivered to a warehouse by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman, or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the court.

Sec. 26.—(CREDITORS' REMEDIES TO REACH NEGOTIABLE RECIPTS.) A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from the courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipt or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity, in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

Sec. 27.—(WHAT CLAIMS ARE INCLUDED IN THE WAREHOUSEMAN'S LIEN.) Subject to the provisions of Section 30, a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on the proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, coopering and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice, and advertisements of sale, and for sale of the goods where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien.

Sec. 28.—(AGAINST WHAT PROPERTY THE LIEN MAY BE ENFORCED.) Subject to the provisions of Section 30 a warehouseman's lien may be enforced—

(a) Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, and

(b) Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted if such person had been so intrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid.

Sec. 29.—(HOW THE LIEN MAY BE LOST.) A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods—

(a) By surrendering possession thereof, or

(b) By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 30.—NEGOTIABLE RECEIPT MUST STATE CHARGES FOR WHICH LIEN IS CLAIMED.) If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerates other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms of Section 27, although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt.

Sec. 31.—(WAREHOUSEMAN NEED NOT DELIVER UNTIL LIEN IS SATISFIED.) A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied.

Sec. 32.—(WAREHOUSEMAN'S LIEN DOES NOT PRECLUDE OTHER REMEDIES.) Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor, for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay.

Sec. 33.—(SATISFACTION OF LIEN BY SALE.) A warehouseman's lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain—

(a) An itemized statement of the warehouseman's claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due.

(b) A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists.

(c) A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered, or from the time when the notice should reach its destination, according to the due course of post, if the notice is sent by mail, and

(d) A statement that unless the claim is paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed, an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held, and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein.

From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods.

At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of this Act, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit.

(e) The warehouseman, his representatives or assigns, may fairly and in good faith purchase any property sold under the provisions of this Act, provided that the sale is conducted by the sheriff or his deputy, or by any constable of, the county where such sale is made.

Sec. 34.—(PERISHABLE AND HAZARDOUS GOODS.) If goods are of a perishable nature, or by keeping will deteriorate greatly in value, or by their odor, leakage, inflammability or explosive nature, will be liable to injure other property, the warehouseman may give such notice to the owner, or to the person in whose name the goods are stored, as is reasonable and possible under the circumstances, to satisfy the lien upon such goods, and to remove them from the warehouse, and in the event of the failure of such person to satisfy the lien and to remove the goods within the time so specified, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertising. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell such goods, he may dispose of them in any lawful manner, and shall incur no liability by reason thereof.

The proceeds of any sale made under the terms of this section shall be disposed of in the same way as the proceeds of sales made under the terms of the preceding section.

Sec. 35.—(OTHER METHODS OF ENFORCING LIENS.) The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman's claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property.

Sec. 36.—(EFFECT OF SALE.) After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman's lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor, or owner of the goods, or to holder of the receipt given for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable.

PART III.

NEGOTIATION AND TRANSFER OF RECEIPTS.

Sec. 37.—(NEGOTIATION OF NEGOTIABLE RECEIPTS BY DELIVERY.) A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery:

(a) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer, or

(b) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where, by the terms of a negotiable receipt, the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee.

Sec. 38.—(NEGOTIATION OF NEGOTIABLE RECEIPTS BY INDORSEMENT.) A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are, by the terms of the receipt, deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner.

Sec. 39.—(TRANSFER OF RECEIPTS.) A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee.

A non-negotiable receipt cannot be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right.

Sec. 40.—(WHO MAY NEGOTIATE A RECEIPT.) A negotiable receipt may be negotiated:

(a) By the owner thereof, or

(b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted by the owner, if, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been entrusted, or if at the time of such entrusting the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery.

Sec. 41.—(RIGHTS OF PERSON TO WHOM A RECEIPT HAS BEEN NEGOTIATED.) A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated acquires thereby:

(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and

(b) The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him.

Sec. 42.—(RIGHTS OF PERSON TO WHOM A RECEIPT HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED.) A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated, acquires thereby, as against the transfer, the title of the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor.

If the receipt is non-negotiable such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt.

Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable receipt, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor.

Sec. 43.—(TRANSFER OF NEGOTIABLE RECEIPT WITHOUT INDORSEMENT.) Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made.

Sec. 44.—(WARRANTS ON SALE OF RECEIPT.) A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—

(a) That the receipt is genuine.

(b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it.

(c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt, and

(d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied, if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby.

Sec. 45.—(INDORSER NOT A GUARANTOR.) The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the warehouseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfil their respective obligations.

Sec. 46.—(NO WARRANTY IMPLIED FROM ACCEPTING PAYMENT OF A DEBT.) A mortgagee, pledgee or holder for security of a receipt who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party or a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described.

Sec. 47.—(WHEN NEGOTIATION NOT IMPAIRED BY FRAUD, MISTAKE, OR DURESS.) The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was induced by fraud, mistake, or duress to entrust the possession or custody of the receipt to such person, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake or duress.

Sec. 48.—(SUBSEQUENT NEGOTIATION.) Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale, or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation.

Sec. 49.—NEGOTIATION DEFEATS VENDOR'S LIEN.) Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transit shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transit. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancellation.

PART IV.

CRIMINAL OFFENSES.

Sec. 50.—(ISSUE OF RECEIPT FOR GOODS NOT RECEIVED.) A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both.

Sec. 51.—(ISSUE OF RECEIPT CONTAINING FALSE STATEMENT.) A warehouseman, or any officer, agent or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

Sec. 52.—(ISSUE OF DUPLICATE RECEIPTS NOT SO MARKED.) A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncancelled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word "Duplicate" except in the case of a lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings as provided for in Section 14, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both.

Sec. 53.—(ISSUE FOR WAREHOUSEMAN'S GOODS OF RECEIPTS WHICH DO NOT STATE THAT FACT.) Where there are deposited with or held by a warehouseman goods of which he is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, such warehouseman, or any of his officers, agents, or servants who, knowing this ownership, issues or aids in issuing a negotiable receipt for such goods which does not state such ownership, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

Sec. 54.—(DELIVERY OF GOODS WITHOUT OBTAINING NEGOTIABLE RECEIPT.) A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods is outstanding and uncancelled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, shall, except in the cases provided for in Sections 14 and 36, be found guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

Sec. 55.—(NEGOTIATION OF RECEIPT FOR MORTGAGED GOODS.) Any person who deposits goods to which he has not title, or upon which there is a lien or mortgage, and who takes for such goods a negotiable receipt which he afterwards negotiates for value with intent to deceive and without disclosing his want of title or the existence of the lien or mortgage shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both.

PART V.

CHAPTER 162—S. F. No. 863.

AN ACT entitled "an act authorizing any city now or hereafter having a population of over fifty thousand inhabitants to issue and sell bonds authorized by its charter at a rate of interest in excess of that limited by such charter."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. Any city of this state now or hereafter having a population of over fifty thousand inhabitants, is hereby authorized and empowered to issue and sell, to the amount and in the manner and for the purposes provided for in and by its charter, any city bonds authorized by the terms of such charter, bearing a net rate of interest not exceeding four and one-half (4½) per cent per annum, notwithstanding any limitation contained in any such charter in reference to the rate of interest that such bonds may bear. Provided, further, however, that in case of any such city now organized or territory hereinafter to be organized, the total indebtedness of which at the time of the passage of this act exceeds five (5) per cent of the total value of taxable property of said city, according to the last preceding assessment for the purposes of taxation, when such city shall accept the provisions of this act, the city council of such city may issue bonds sufficient to pay all the floating indebtedness then existing of such city, and any certificates of indebtedness of such city then outstanding, the proceeds of which bonds shall be used solely for the purpose of paying such indebtedness; and thereafter the city council of such city shall not be authorized to issue any bonds, except as hereinafter provided, and except for the purposes of paying maturing bonds of said city, until the total indebtedness of said city, except as hereinafter provided, shall be reduced to an amount less than five (5) per cent of the total value of the taxable property of such city, according to the last preceding assessment for the purposes of taxation; and thereafter the city council of such city may issue bonds in accordance with the provisions hereof and within the limit herein first prescribed.

Such bonds shall be authorized, issued, negotiated and sold in the same manner as other city bonds, except that an ordinance or resolution authorizing such bonds shall require an affirmative vote of four-fifths of all members of the council and shall then be ratified by an affirmative vote of a majority of the electors voting thereon at a regular city election or at a special election called for that purpose. Provided further, that the city council shall set aside annually such portion of the gross income for the water and light works, or either, of the city as they shall determine to create a sinking fund for the payment of said water and light bonds, or either as they become due.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

Section 1. That Section Twenty-six (26) of Chapter Two Hundred Thirty (230) of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905, as amended by Section Four (4) of Chapter Three Hundred Sixty-seven (367) of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1907, as amended by Section Ten (10) of Chapter Four Hundred Sixty-nine (469) of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1909, as amended by Section Eight (8) of Chapter Three Hundred Eighty-four (384) of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1911, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 26. After the construction of any public drainage ditch within the State of Minnesota under any law of this state, the county board of the county in which the said ditch or any part thereof is located shall keep the same or such part thereof in proper repair and free from obstruction so as to answer its purposes and except as herein otherwise provided pay for the same out of the general revenue fund of the county and to raise the necessary money to reimburse that fund, it is hereby authorized to apportion and assess the cost thereof upon all lands originally assessed for benefits by reason of the construction of said ditch, said apportionment and assessment to be in the same proportion as was the original assessment for benefits.

Such county board shall make a written statement of such assessments and deliver the same to the auditor of the county who shall put the same upon the next succeeding tax duplicates of said county and who shall make and file in the office of the register of deeds, the lien statement covering the costs and expenses of such repairs in the manner so far as consistent, as provided by sections 19 and 20 of chapter 230 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905, and such assessments shall be a first and paramount lien upon the lands affected, the same as state and county taxes.

In case such assessment or any part thereof is chargeable against lands in another county then the amount thereof chargeable against such other county shall by the county board of the county which has paid the same, be certified to the county auditor of such other county chargeable therewith and such last mentioned county auditor shall thereupon draw his warrant therefor in favor of and deliver the same to the county treasurer of the county which has paid the same, and such auditor drawing such warrant shall thereupon apportion and assess and file lien for the amount thereof upon all the lands in his said county originally assessed for benefits by reason of the construction of said ditch in the same proportion as was the original assessment for benefits.

The provisions of this section shall apply to all works constructed for the purpose of drainage under any law now or heretofore in force in this state including state ditches. In case of repair of state ditches by the county board the cost of the same shall be paid out of the general revenue fund of the county, and to raise the necessary money to reimburse that fund, the county board is hereby authorized and empowered and it shall be their duty to appoint viewers to assess and apportion the cost of such repairs and preliminary and other expenses in connection therewith, said assessment and apportionment to be for benefits to all lands which may have been benefited by the construction of said state ditch and of any lateral or spur ditch emptying therein in proportion to such benefits.

All laws of this state in regard to county drainage ditches designating the number and qualification and duties and compensation of viewers, prescribing rules and directions governing the making of assessments of benefits and the manner and time of giving notice of meeting, governing and making, filing and the approval, charge and adoption of the final report of the viewers, providing for a hearing thereon, and such other provisions thereof as is necessary and as is adaptable therefor shall govern proceedings for repair of state ditches, and a statement of the assessment for repairs shall be made and such assessment levied and collected in like manner as is hereinbefore in this section provided for the making of a statement of and collecting assessments for repairs of county or judicial ditches. In case the total cost and expenses of said repairs exceeds a sum equal to twenty-five (25%) per cent of the original cost of construction of such ditch, then the moneys to pay for such repairs may be obtained by the sale of the bonds of such county as provided by Section 18, Chapter 230 of the General Laws of 1905 and acts amendatory thereof. In such case the lien for the payment of assessments of benefits shall be payable one-tenth of the principal on or before one year from the filing of the lien statement in the office of the Register of Deeds, and one-tenth each year thereafter until the whole thereof is paid with interest annually; and all the laws of the state regarding the issuance of drainage bonds and the liens for benefits and the payment thereof and the filing of liens statement so far as applicable thereto shall apply to the repairs referred to in this paragraph.

Provided, that if the repair of any county or judicial ditch is made necessary or if it shall be necessary to widen or deepen the same in consequence of the construction of lateral or private ditches or in consequence of the construction of other ditch or ditches which connect with or empty into said original ditch or into a lake or lakes which are drained by such original ditch, and which lateral, private or public ditch or ditches are constructed subsequent to and not included in the assessment for such original ditch, and which increases the volume of water to be taken care of by the original ditch or which deposit sediment in the original ditch and thereby contribute to the necessity of such repair, widening or deepening, then the county board shall appoint three viewers whose qualifications shall be as herein provided and whose duty shall be to first apportion the cost of such repair, widening or deepening, and of the expense in connection therewith equitably between the lands benefited respectively by such original ditch and those benefited by such private, lateral or other ditches constructed as aforesaid, in proportion to the benefits to such respective ditch systems resulting from the construction of such original ditch and of such lateral, private and subsequent ditch or ditches, the same as if such original ditch and such lateral, private and subsequent ditch or ditches were originally one ditch system, and such viewers shall then equitably apportion and assess the portion of the cost of such repairs and expenses so determined to be borne by such private, lateral or other ditches upon the lands benefited by the original construction of such lateral, private or subsequent ditch or ditches or by branches thereto, in proportion to the benefits to such lands resulting from such construction, and shall likewise apportion and assess the portion of such cost determined to be borne by such original ditch upon the lands benefited by the establishment and construction thereof in proportion to such benefits. The fact that such portion of such cost of repair, widening or deepening, and such expenses respectively apportioned to such lateral and subsequent ditch system or systems, and to such original ditch system is respectively apportioned and assessed against the respective lands benefited thereby, in the same proportion as the respective original assessment of benefits therein, shall in all cases be prima facie evidence that such assessment and apportionment is made in compliance with the provisions and requirements of law.

Such viewers shall perform like duties and be governed by the same rules and restrictions in acting hereunder as is provided by law for viewers in judicial ditch proceedings, and such viewers shall within thirty days after their appointment file their report in writing with the county auditor of the county and such county auditor shall give such notice of the hearing on such report as is provided by law for hearing on engineer's and viewers' report in judicial ditch proceeding. At such hearing the county board shall proceed to consider such viewers' report and adopt or modify the same, and the power and authority of such county board in relation thereto shall be the same as is possessed by the judge at a final hearing on the engineer's and viewers' report in a judicial ditch proceeding under the laws of this state. The same right of appeal from or review of the assessment of benefits and damages and the same procedure in relation thereto shall exist in regard to orders herein as exist by law in the case of county ditch proceedings. After final action by the county board in relation to such assessment, the county auditor shall proceed as is in this section provided in case such assessment for repairs were made by the county board. The repairs herein provided for shall be construed to include the taking from said ditch of sediment deposited therein, the removal of obstructions therein, the widening and deepening thereof so as to answer its original purpose or so as to provide for additional flow of water caused by other ditches or any other reason, the cutting and removal of weeds or grass from the bottom, sides, banks or right of way of such ditch and such other changes or alteration therein as will enhance its usefulness for the purpose of drainage, and shall further be construed to include the extension of said ditch to a new outlet when and in case the same is found by the county board to be necessary or advisable."

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

That upon the decision of any such county by resolution duly adopted by its county board, to acquire the land for and establish and maintain such work farm, without the co-operation of any such city, the chairman of the county board of said county shall appoint a commission consisting of three (3) members.

The members of any commission appointed under the terms of this Act shall be chosen with reference to their special fitness for such office, and their appointment before becoming effective shall be approved by the majority of the judges of the District Court of the judicial district in which said county is located, if there be three or more judges of said court, otherwise by one of said judges.

This commission shall be known as the "Board of Work Farm Commissioners," when said farm shall be established and maintained; by such county alone; and shall be known as the "Joint Board of County and City Work Farm Commissioners," when said farm shall be established and maintained by such county and city jointly.

The members of said commission shall serve without compensation or financial benefit, but they shall be entitled to reimbursement for all actual expenses in connection with their official duties, an itemized and verified statement of which expenses shall be filed and approved by said Board.

Said Board shall be provided with a suitable office in the court house at the county seat.

Sec. 4. The Board of County Commissioners of any such county as shall decide to acquire the land for and establish such work farm under the provisions of this law, shall have the power to acquire by purchase or condemnation a tract of land of not more than 1,000 acres, which land said county may acquire and hold in its own name, or jointly with any such city as shall decide to cooperate with any such county in the purchase of said land and the establishment of such farm, and as such shall furnish and pay one-half of the cost thereof. That said county may singly, or in co-operation with such city, through the commission herein provided for, improve such farm by the erection of fences and suitable buildings thereon, and in such other ways as may be found necessary by it in order to accomplish the purpose for which said farm shall be established, and all such improvements when made by such county and city acting jointly through such commission shall be the joint property of such county and city.

The superintendent of said work farm shall cause all prisoners confined thereon to be employed at hard labor, as far as practicable, either upon the said farm or elsewhere in said county, in order to enable said prisoners to be engaged in productive employment and to be self-supporting.

Sec. 5. Said commissioners shall adopt such rules and regulations and enforce such discipline for the management and operation of said work farm as may be deemed necessary. Said commissioners shall have power to establish and adopt rules and regulations under which, and specify the conditions on which, any prisoner committed to such work farm may be allowed to go upon parole outside the limits of said work farm, but to remain while on parole in the legal custody and under the control of such commissioners, and subject, at all times to have said parole terminated, and to be taken back under the same condition as when originally committed. The written order of said commission, signed by its president or vice president and attested by its secretary, shall be sufficient authority and warrant for any sheriff, police officer or constable of this state to execute such order, and arrest and return to the custody of said commission or the superintendent of said work farm, any prisoner that may have been released under parole by said commission, and it is hereby made the duty of any such sheriff, constable or police officer to execute any such order of said commission in the same manner as any other criminal process of this state is executed. Said commissioners may place any such prisoner who may be released on parole, under the care and supervision of any state, county or city officer having probation or parole duties and powers under the law, and such parole officer is hereby given full power and authority, and it is hereby made his duty, to execute the orders of said commissioners with reference to carrying into effect such parole regulations the same as any sheriff or other peace officer might do.

The rules and regulations and the general plan for paroling prisoners adopted by said commissioners shall not become effective until the same shall have been approved by a majority of the judges of the district court of the judicial district in which said county may be situated.

Sec. 6. That the said commissioners in charge of any such work farm, may establish and adopt proper rules and regulations for furnishing and may furnish aid weekly, or less often if they so decide, to the wife or to the family of any prisoner confined in such work farm or to the guardian or other person or association in control of and responsible for the care and support of any dependent child or children of said prisoner, which aid shall be furnished by written order for house rent, fuel, groceries and other necessaries, but such aid to any such wife or family shall not exceed the sum of fifty cents for each day's labor performed by said prisoner on said farm or elsewhere in said county for which no order has been previously issued. Provided, however, that any person receiving such aid shall be a resident of the county in which such work is situated, at the time of commitment and the receipt of such aid.

That upon the certificate of the person designated in said order to whom said necessaries shall be delivered, that said necessaries were received by said person, and on the filing of a duly itemized and verified claim against said commission for the reasonable price and value of said necessaries, said claim shall be a charge against any fund available for the maintenance of said work farm and shall be paid by said commissioners.

Sec. 7. That when any such county shall by itself alone establish and maintain any such work farm, such county shall bear the total cost of acquiring the land for and establishing and maintaining such farm. That when any such county and city shall jointly acquire the land for and establish and maintain such work farm, said county and city shall in the first instance, bear and pay equally the cost of acquiring the land for and establishing and maintaining such farm. That when any other city, or any village or town within said county, shall send any prisoners to said farm for imprisonment, said city, village or town, shall pay to said county, to be credited to the work farm fund hereinafter provided for, such sum per prisoner per diem as it may cost said commissioners for the average maintenance per prisoner of all the prisoners therein. Such cost per diem shall be determined by the said commissioners from the records of said work farm at the annual meeting of the said commissioners in January of each year and shall be based on the actual cost records of receipts, disbursements and other data for the preceding year. Such expenses shall not include the cost of the premises or structures of any permanent improvements or repairs thereon. Until the end of the first year after the occupancy and operation of said work farm the per diem charge for such prisoners, other than those who have violated a state law, shall be forty cents, and the cities, villages and towns furnishing such prisoners shall settle monthly with said commissioners upon such basis. Such certificates shall be good for one year unless revoked by him. This inspection of nurseries shall take place between May 1st and September 30th, and at such other times as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of this act. Nurserymen or others having stock to inspect shall make application to the State Nursery Inspector for the inspection of stock as far as practicable on or before May 1st of each year. If a dangerous insect, pest or plant disease is found by the inspector on the premises above described and if in his judgment such pest or disease can be eradicated he may direct the owner or his representative in writing what means shall be employed; in case any trees, shrubs or plants are so infested that treatment would be ineffectual he may direct the owner or his representative to have them destroyed. Said order shall be issued in writing. Section 3. A copy of the state inspection certificate granted to any firm or firms in any other state, territory or the District of Columbia, shall be on file with the Minnesota Inspector before any such firm or firms shall make shipment of nursery stock to be sold or distributed in the State of Minnesota.

It shall be unlawful for any party or parties to open any package containing such stock from a foreign country unless the inspector or deputy is present. It shall be the duty of the inspector to be present in person or by deputy when notified at least forty-eight hours in advance of the opening of such package.

Sec. 7. Dealers or florists not owning nurseries and shipping by post, freight, express or otherwise may obtain from the State Entomologist a special certificate in order to comply with the Federal and State Laws. But no bonds shall be issued by any county to any amount that shall exceed five per cent of the value of the taxable property therein, the amount of such taxable property to be ascertained and determined by the last assessment of said property made, for the purpose of state and county taxation, previous to the incurring of such indebtedness; nor shall such bonds be issued to an amount in excess of five per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in such county.

If in any of such counties any election shall fail to be held on the day appointed therefor, or if the majority of votes cast at any such election shall be against the railroad proposition, such county auditor shall, at the written request of the president of such railroad company, at any time thereafter, when directed by the Board of County Commissioners, call another election or elections in the manner provided in this act, upon the same or different propositions of such railroad company; and such other election or elections shall be conducted in like manner and upon like notice as is provided in this act for the first election; provided, that not more than one election authorized by this act shall be held in any one calendar year in the same county.

4. Section 1. In any case where a decree affecting the title to real estate has heretofore been made by a Probate Court without due notice being given as required by law, any person interested in the property affected by such decree, whether as heir, devisee, grantee, or otherwise, may apply to such Probate Court, by petition, to enter a new and confirmatory decree assigning such property to the person or persons to whom the same was assigned by such former decree, according to the terms of such former decree.

Sec. 2. Upon the filing of such petition, the Court shall by order or citation appoint a time for hearing said petition; notice of which shall be given by three weeks' publication of a copy of said order in the manner provided by law for the publication of other notices of proceedings in the Probate Court. The Court in its discretion may require other or further notice of such hearing to be given to such persons as it may deem proper.

Sec. 3. If upon such hearing the Court shall be satisfied that the person or persons to whom such property was assigned by such former decree were in fact the persons entitled thereto, it shall enter a new decree assigning such property to the persons to whom the same was assigned by such former decree, in the proportions and upon the conditions specified therein; subject, however, to the rights of all persons claiming under any person named in such former decree, as owner, mortgagee, or otherwise. Such former decree shall be prima facie evidence of the truth of the recitals contained therein, and of the fact that the persons named therein were entitled to the property therein mentioned, in the proportions and upon the conditions therein specified. Provided, however, that this act shall not be construed to authorize the entry of a new and confirmatory decree in any case where it shall be made to appear that the dispositions made by such former decree were erroneous in fact or in law.

Sec. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved April 9, 1913.

Such commissioners shall serve without compensation. The Governor shall fill all vacancies and may remove a member for inefficiency, malfeasance or neglect of duty. All appointments to fill vacancies shall be for the balance of the unexpired term of the commissioner whose death, removal or resignation caused the vacancy.

The State Highway Commission to be constituted and appointed under the provisions of this act shall be deemed, a continuation of the State Highway Commission constituted and appointed under the provisions of Chapter 163, Laws 1905, and Chapter 33, Laws 1911. All questions shall be determined by a majority vote of such commissioners.

Sec. 10. CHAIRMAN,— SECRETARY,—DEPUTY AND ASSISTANT ENGINEERS.—Said Highway Commission shall elect from its members a chairman and vice chairman, it shall have a common seal, the members thereof shall have power to administer oaths, and it shall be provided with a suitable office at the capitol where it shall hold regular meetings not less than once in each month. Said commission shall appoint a secretary, who shall be a civil engineer and practical road builder, who shall be known as the State Engineer; it may also appoint deputy and assistant engineers and employ such other persons as it may from time to time require, and shall fix their compensation. Said State Engineer, his deputies and assistant engineers, shall, each before entering upon the duties of their office, subscribe to, execute and file an oath of office and a bond in the penal sum of three thousand dollars ($3000.00) with sufficient sureties, conditioned on the faithful performance of their official duties. The secretary shall keep a record of every vote and official act of said commission, shall file and safely keep all maps and papers belonging to it, shall devote all of his time to the interest of the state as prescribed by said commission, and shall be in charge of the offices of the commission at the capitol. There shall be present at all times in the office of said commission, either the State Engineer or one of his deputies. It shall also be the duty of the said State Engineer and his deputies and assistants to give advice, assistance and supervision with regard to road and bridge construction throughout the state, as may be required and as the rules and regulations of the commission may prescribe, and to render such other engineering and surveying services as may be required by the Governor for any of the State departments, and said State Engineer and his deputies and assistants may be required by the commission to attend any public meeting held by the commission or other parties in the interest of road improvement in this State; provided, that the members of said commission, such State Engineer, deputies, assistants, and other persons employed by said commission, shall be allowed necessary expenses, while performing their official duties outside of the state capitol, or outside the town or county in which they reside.

All of the files and records of said commission shall, under reasonable regulations, be kept open for public inspection and certified copies thereof shall be received in evidence in any court of the State.

The Attorney General of the State shall be ex-officio attorney for the commission and shall give the commission such legal counsel, advice and services as it may from time to time require.

Sec. 11.—LOCATION OF ROAD MATERIAL—REPORT TO GOVERNOR.—Whenever practicable said commission shall investigate and determine the location of road material in the state, ascertain the most approved methods of construction and improvement of roads, investigate the most approved laws in relation to roads in other state and hold public meetings throughout the state when deemed advisable. On or before March 1st of each year it shall make a printed report to the Governor, stating among other things deemed by it expedient and of general interest on the subject of road-building, as near as possible, the number of miles of state roads built, or improved during the preceding year and their cost; the general character and location of material suitable for road construction; the general character and needs of the roads of the state; and recommend such legislation as it deems advisable.

Sec. 12.—STATE ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND—TAX THEREFOR.—For the purpose of state aid in the construction and improvement of public highways, there shall hereafter be levied annually on all taxable property of the State a tax of one mill on each dollar of valuation, to be collected in the same manner as other state taxes, and the money so raised, together with all moneys accuring from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund, or that may hereafter accrue to said fund, and all funds accuring to the State Road and Bridge Fund, however provided, shall constitute the general State Road and Bridge Fund.

Sec. 13. Appropriation for Expenses.—There is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1914, one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars, and for the year ending July 31, 1915, the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars, to pay the expenses of said commission, including the salary and expenses of the state engineer and his deputies and assistants and all other persons employed by the commission; provided, that not more than fifteen thousand ($15,000) dollars shall be expended in any one year for the expenses of the office of said commission; provided further that all unexpended funds in any year may be carried over to the credit of the commission for subsequent years.

All accounts and expenditures shall be certified by the chairman of said commission, and paid by the State Treasurer upon warrants drawn by the State Auditor.

Sec. 14. MEMBERS AND EMPLOYES NOT TO BE INTERESTED IN CONTRACTS.—The members of the Highway Commission, the State Engineer, his deputy or assistant engineers, shall not be, either directly or indirectly, interested in any contract for constructing or improving any road under this act.

Sec. 15. APPORTIONMENT OF ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND.—On or before the first Tuesday in March of each year the Highway Commission shall estimate the probable sum of money that will accrue to the State Road fund during that year, and apportion the same among the different counties of the state, as herein provided, and shall immediately send a notice to the State Auditor and to the Board of County Commissioners of each county stating the amount that such county shall be entitled to receive for said year out of said fund. Not less than one nor more than three per cent of the State Road and Bridge Fund available in any year shall be apportioned to any county.

Any funds in excess of one-half of one per cent of the total funds available for allotment in any one year, allotted to any county in any year, which, for a period of two years after such allotment shall remain unused and unexpended by such county, or for work done in such county, shall revert to the unapportioned funds in the state road and bridge fund and be thereafter and during the next succeeding year, apportioned the same as other funds added to such state road and bridge fund, by taxation or otherwise, are apportioned.

Sec. 16. ALLOTMENT—HOW USED AND EXPENDED.—Twenty per cent of the allotment so made to any county shall be used only for maintenance of state roads and bridges thereon.

It shall be the duty of the County Commissioners of each county in which state roads have heretofore or may hereafter be constructed or improved, to provide for the proper maintenance of the same in accordance with the rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Highway Commission.

The cost of such maintenance shall be paid by the state from, the proportion of allotment to each county for maintenance purposes above specified, to an amount not exceeding the proportion so made available for maintenance purposes. Such payment shall be made upon reports to the Highway Commission by the County Auditor, to be approved by the Highway Commission, in substantially the same manner as is herein provided for the payment of the State's part of the cost of the construction and improvement of State Roads.

Not to exceed twenty-five per cent of the apportionment from the State Road and Bridge fund of any county, remaining after the amount for maintenance has been deducted, may, when deemed advisable by the County Board, be expended on county roads under such rules and regulation as may be prescribed by the State Highway Commission; to be paid in substantially the same manner as is herein provided for the payment of other state aid for the construction and improvement of State Roads; provided that only such proportion of the cost of the construction, improvement or repair of any county road shall be paid from such county's allotment as is herein provided with reference to the payment for the construction or improvement of a state road.

The amount which shall be paid by the State out of the allotment of the Road and Bridge fund, to any county as State Aid, in the construction or improvement of any road or bridge in any county in any year, shall be as follows:

In counties where the assessed value of the property for taxation purposes is less than Five Million ($5,000,000) Dollars, 80 per cent; in counties with a taxable valuation of Five Million Dollars ($5,000,000) and less than Ten Million Dollars ($10,000,000), 70 per cent; in counties with a taxable valuation of Ten Million Dollars ($10,000,000) and not exceeding Fifteen Million Dollars ($15,000,000), 60 per cent; in all other counties, 50 per cent. In determining the taxable valuation hereinbefore provided for, the assessed valuation of monies and credits provided for in Chapter 285, General Laws 1911, shall be excluded. The proportion of cost of constructing any road or bridge above specified, shall be paid by the State only in case the funds in the allotment to any given county, over and above the amount set aside for maintenance, as herein provided, shall be sufficient therefor.

Sec. 17. RULES AND REGULATIONS.—As soon as the Highway Commission shall have ascertained the location of the available road material throughout the State, and the best methods of road and bridge construction, as far as the same may be practicable, it shall prepare and adopt such rules and regulations for the construction, maintenance and improvement of State Roads as shall be most suitable to the requirements of, and bring the most practicable results to the several parts of the State.

Such rules and regulations shall be printed and copies shall be forwarded to the County Auditor of each county in the State for general distribution. Such rules and regulations may be amended from time to time, but such amendments must be printed and distributed not later than April 1st of each year.

Sec. 18. DESIGNATION OF STATE ROADS—REVOCATION OF DESIGNATION.—Any County Board may, with the consent of the Highway Commission, designate any established road, or specified portion thereof, in its county, not within the corporate limits of any borough, village or city, as a State Road, and construct or improve the same in accordance with the regulations of the State Highay Commission relative to State Roads.

When any County Board has designated any road as a State Road as herein provided, the County Auditor shall transmit a copy of the resolution to the State Highway Commission, together with a description of the road so designated. It shall be the duty of the Commission to thereupon determine whether sufficient funds will be available from the State Road and Bridge fund for the improvement of said road as a State Road and also determine the desirability of such designation with reference to the relation of such road to other State Roads, or its relation to other roads and traffic conditions, in such county, and if it determines such question in the affirmative, then and in such case, the Highway Commission may, by its order in writing, to be filed with the County Auditor, consent to the designation of such road as a State Road.

Whenever it shall be made to appear to the Highway Commission that the Board of County Commissioners of any county have refused to grant an application to it made by at least ten freeholders resident of such county, to designate any established road or part thereof as a State Road, the Highway Commission may consider such application de novo and if in its opinion sufficient funds will be available for the improvement of such road, and its designation and improvement as a State Road is desirable because of the relation of such road to other State Roads or traffic conditions in such County, the Highway Commission may by its written order designate such road or part thereof, as a State Road without a prior designation thereof by the County Board or its concurrence in such designation. A copy of such order shall be filed with the County Auditor.

The council of any village or city of the fourth class, may, with the consent of the Highway Commission, and the County Board of the County in which such village or city is situated, designate any street or road within its corporate limits, not less than sixty (60) feet in width, as a State Road when the street or road so designated will constitute a direct connecting link with the parts of a State Road leading to and out of any such village or city. The County Board of such County shall signify its consent by resolution and in and by such resolution shall designate the amount which may be paid out of the allotment made to such county, as State Aid in the construction or improvement of any such street. No greater amount than is so designated by the County Board shall be paid as State Aid for the construction or improvement of such street. The consent of the Highway Commission to the designation of any such street or road within the corporate limits of any village or city of the fourth class shall be obtained by such village or city in substantially the manner and upon consideration of the same conditions as is herein provided for the granting of its consent to the designation of highways by County Boards as State Roads. Any street or road within any village or city of the fourth class, so designated, may be improved as other State Roads and state aid paid therefor as hereinafter provided. The village or city clerk, as the case may be, shall make substantially the same report as is herein required to be made by a County Auditor with reference to State Roads designated by the County Board, any payment of the State's share of the cost of construction and improvement thereof shall be made in substantially the same manner, and upon substantially the same conditions precedent as is herein provided for the payment of state aid to counties; provided, however, that the payment to be made by the State shall be made from the allotment to the county in which such village or city is situate; and provided further, that no more than one-half of the cost of constructing or improving any state road within the corporate limits of any village or city, nor in any event, to exceed fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) per mile, shall be paid as State aid therefor from the State Road and Bridge fund.

Any roads which may have been at any time designated as State Roads may, by joint action of the County Board and the Highway Commission, be abandoned or changed as such.

Said State Engineer shall make or cause to be made all necessary surveys, establish grades and prepare plans and specifications for all State Roads, except roads in counties which now have or hereafter may have a county superintendent of highways or other officer to superintend the construction and improvement of roads within its confines, and shall cause to be superintended all work done on designated State Roads. Such work may be done under contract or by day labor, as the County Board and Highway Commission may direct, and a report thereof shall be made by the Superintendent thereof in duplicate as may be required by the Highway Commission, one copy of which shall be delivered to the County Auditor and one to the State Engineer.

Sec. 19. DESIGNATION OF ROAD ON COUNTY LINE AS STATE ROAD.—Whenever the County Boards of adjoining counties make application to the State Highway Commission for the designation of an established road running on or near the boundary line between two counties, as a State Road, said Commission shall investigate the desirability of such designation, and if it shall decide that it is desirable so to do, shall so designate such road and determine and fix the part of the cost of the improvement thereof to be paid by each county.

Sec. 20. ASSISTANT ENGINEERS—DUTIES.—The Highway Commission shall appoint as many assistant engineers throughout the State as they may deem necessary for the purpose of superintending all work done on State Roads. Such assistant engineers shall devote their entire time to their official duties; may be assigned to one or more counties as deemed advisable, and shall act under the instructions of the State Engineer and the rules and regulations of the Highway Commission. It shall be the duty of said assistant engineers to make all necessary surveys, estimates and specifications for work to be done on State Roads and for that purpose they shall have the co-operation and assistance of the State Engineer or any of his deputies or assistants. It shall also be the duty of said assistant engineers upon the request of any board of county commissioners or any board of town supervisors, within their respective towns and counties, to advise and consult with such county or town boards in the construction or improvement of county or town roads; to make plans and specifications when so required; to exercise supervision over such construction or improvement, and lend every possible assistance to the local road authorities in bettering the public highways. All persons appointed by the Highway Commission shall be appointed solely on their merits and qualifications.

Sec. 21. PROCEDURE OF COUNTY BOARD IN CONSTRUCTING OR IMPROVING STATE ROADS.—Whenever the County Board of any county shall determine to build or improve any State Road for which aid is to be claimed, they shall proceed as follows:

If the estimated cost of such work does not exceed five hundred dollars ($500.00), the said board shall cause surveys, when necessary, to be made therefor by an assistant engineer, and shall thereupon receive bids for all or part of said work and let the contract to the lowest responsible bidder, or may cause the same to be done by day labor under the supervision of said engineer.

In case the estimated cost exceeds five hundred dollars ($500.00), the said county shall cause surveys, plans and specifications therefor to be made by an assistant engineer and submit the same to the Highway Commission for approval, and when such plans and specifications are approved, the said County Board shall proceed to do said work by contract or day labor. The work shall be done under the supervision of an assistant engineer, who shall in all matters pertaining to such work act under the rules and regulations of the Highway Commission and the instructions of the State Engineer.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to any County which now has or which may hereafter have a population of One Hundred Fifty Thousand (150,000) inhabitants and over and a County Superintendent of Highways or other county officer to superintend the construction or improvement of roads within its confines.

Sec. 22. STATE AID—HOW PAID.—After any County Board shall have completed any work on a State Road for which state aid is claimed, the Auditor of such county shall make a statement to the Highway Commission, showing the location, nature and cost of such work, and shall also submit a detailed report from the assistant engineer in charge showing all such details concerning the same as may be required by the Highway Commission. On receipt thereof the said Highway Commission shall proceed to examine such reports and if it finds the same satisfactory and that the work has been done in substantial compliance with the plans and specifications therefor, and the contract therefor, if any, the secretary of the Highway Commission shall certify the same to the State Auditor who shall issue a warrant for the State's share thereof as shown by said report, payable to the Treasurer of such county, but in no case shall said warrant with all other warrants exceed the amounts allotted to such county, and it shall be the duty of the assistant engineer to report such work in duplicate to the County Auditor with details and cost within thirty days after completion thereof, one copy of which shall be sent to the Highway Commission with the Auditor's report.

The detailed report of the assistant engineer mentioned herein shall contain, among other matters, a statement showing the municipal subdivision performing the work or expending the money on such highway, and if more than one such municipal subdivision has performed work or expended money on such highway, then the names of such municipal subdivisions and the portion of the work performed or money expended by each. The county auditor, upon receipt of the money from the State Highway Commission provided for in this section, shall pay or credit the same to the municipal subdivision entitled thereto, and if more than one such municipal subdivision has performed work and expended money upon such highway as shown by the assistant engineer's report, then to each of such municipal subdivisions in the proportion shown by such assistant engineer's report.

Sec. 23. GOOD ROADS DAY.—The third Tuesday of June in each year is hereby designated as "Good Roads Day" and the Governor shall annually, on or before the first day of June, by public proclamation, request the people of the State to contribute labor, material or money toward the improvement of public highways in their respective communities, upon that day.

ROADS ESTABLISHED BY JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS.

Sec. 24. PETITION—APPOINTMENT OF COMMISSIONERS—Whenever a petition praying for the location, alteration or vacation of any highway running into or through two or more counties, or on or partly on the line dividing two or more counties, in any judicial district in this State, signed by twenty legal voters and taxpayers resident in said counties, shall be presented to a judge of the district court in said district, or whenever a petition praying for the location, alteration or vacation of any highway running into or through two or more counties, on or partly on the line dividing two or more counties in two or more judicial districts in this State, signed by twenty legal voters and taxpayers, resident in said counties, shall be presented to a judge of the district court of one of said districts, the said judge is hereby authorized to appoint three commissioners whose duty it shall be to meet at such times and places as may be necessary and to immediately proceed to lay out, alter or vacate such road as directed by the judge in accordance with the prayer of the petition; provided, that no road shall be ordered by the judge to extend more than six miles outside of the judicial district in which the application is made, and such road shall be extended beyond the district only for the purpose of commencing or ending at some village or public road.

Provided, however, that in cases where said road, if a new road, or if an old road, the part thereof to be altered or vacated runs through or into two or more counties situated in two or more judicial districts, the judge to whom the petition was presented shall appoint commissioners from each of the counties affected by said road, not exceeding five in all, and direct them to lay out, alter, or vacate said road accordingly; and it shall be the duty of said commissioners to meet at such times and places as may be necessary and to proceed to lay out, alter or vacate said road in like manner as provided herein in other cases.

Sec. 25. NOTICE OF PRESENTATION.—Three weeks published and posted notice of the presentation of such petition shall be given in each of the counties affected, at least thirty days in advance thereof. Such notice shall contain a copy of the petition, the name of the judge to whom it will be presented, and the time and place of presentation; and proof of such notice shall be filed with the clerk before the hearing. Such notice shall also be served, in the same manner as the service of the summons in a civil action, upon each county and organized town in which, or along the boundary of which, such proposed road is sought to be established, and proof of the service of such notice on such counties and towns shall be filed with the clerk of said court before the hearing.

Sec. 26. COMMISSIONERS MAY APPOINT SURVEYOR.—The Commissioners shall appoint a surveyor, an axman and two chainmen, to survey such road, if so directed by the Court. The surveyor shall receive four dollars and the axman and chainman shall each receive two dollars per day for their services, and in addition thereto eight cents for each mile of necessary travel in performance of their duties. The surveyor shall make plats of the location of such road, in which the county lines and all stakes, trees, monuments and distances shall appear, and file one of such plats for record with the Register of Deeds of each county in or through which said road is located. The surveyor shall receive two dollars for each plat so filed.

Sec. 27. DAMAGES—DETERMINATION AND PAYMENT.—Said Commissioners shall appraise and fix the damages to be paid to each landowner by reason of the establishment, alteration or vacation of such road over and across his lands, unless such right of way be voluntarily released to the county in which such land is situated; and in their report they shall set forth each appraisal made by them, and all releases of the right of way. Such damages, when finally determined, and all expenses incurred in the establishment, alteration or vacation, including compensation for right of way, shall be paid by the counties through, into or between which such road passes, each county paying its just proportion, as determined by the court. The county shall provide for and pay such damages as in the case of a County Road. Said Commissioners shall receive for their services three dollars each per day and eight cents for each mile of necessary travel.

Sec. 28. COMMISSIONERS' REPORT—HEARING—Said Commissioners shall report their proceedings at the term of the District Court, held in the county where such proceedings were begun, next after the completion of their duties; and any person aggrieved by its action may then appear and be heard upon such report; and the Court upon such hearing, may consider the propriety of establishing, altering or vacating such road, and may confirm or reject such report. The confirmation shall be final and the order of confirmation, if a road be thereby established or altered, shall direct the time and manner of opening the same for public use. The Clerk of Court shall within thirty days after filing of the same, transmit a certified copy of the order to the Auditor of each county through or into which such road passes; upon receipt of such order the County Board shall proceed in accordance with its terms to open so much of the road as lies within its county for public use.

Sec. 29. TRIAL BY JURY.—Any person aggrieved by such appraisal may demand a jury trial to determine the amount of damages to which he is entitled for the right of way for such road over his land. Such demand shall be in writing, signed by the person making it; his agent or attorney, and filed with the Clerk of the District Court with whom the report is filed, within thirty days after the entry of the order of confirmation. A failure to file such demand shall be deemed a consent to the appraisal made. A trial so demanded shall be had at the next term held in the county in which the land is situated, unless continued for cause. If the land is situated in a county other than that in which the report is filed, the Clerk with whom such report and demand are filed shall certify a copy of said demand, and of so much of the report as applies thereto, to the Clerk of the trial county who shall file the same. The County Board or County Attorney of the county in which land so taken is situate may in like manner and with like effect demand a jury trial to determine the damages to be paid in any one or all of the cases within such county, and the like proceedings shall thereupon be had.

Sec. 30. POWERS OF COUNTY BOARDS.—Subdivision (1). GENERAL SUPERVISION. County Boards shall have general supervision of county roads, including those within their respective counties established by judicial authority, with power to appropriate and expend such sums of money from the County Road and Bridge fund as they may deem advisable for opening, vacating, resurveying or improving the same in Towns and Villages of such County, or for the building or repairing of bridges upon any public road in any town or village, borough or city of the fourth class in the county, or for purchasing necessary road material, machinery, tools and supplies, PROVIDED, that, before any such sums shall be appropriated and expended by such County Board on any road or bridge within the limits of any village, borough or city of the fourth class in such county, such expenditures upon such road or bridge shall be first authorized by the council of such village, borough or city of the fourth class.

Subdivision (2). ROADS IN ADJOINING COUNTY.—The Board may appropriate and expend money for the construction and maintenance of roads in an adjoining county, when it deems it for the best interests of the public; but the amounts so appropriated shall not exceed twenty thousand dollars in any one year.

Subdivision (3). BRIDGE IN VILLAGES, BOROUGHS AND CITIES OF THE FOURTH CLASS.—Whenever the council of any village, borough or city of the fourth class shall determine that it is necessary to build or improve any bridge or bridges including approaches thereto and any dam or retaining works connected therewith, upon or forming a part of streets or highways either wholly or partly within its limits, the County Board shall appropriate such money as may be necessary therefor from the County Road and Bridge fund, not exceeding during any year the amount of taxes paid into the County Road and Bridge fund during the preceding year, on property within the corporate limits of said village or city. Such appropriation shall be made on the petition of the council. The Council shall determine the plans and specifications, shall let all necessary contracts, shall have charge of construction and upon its request warrants in payment thereof shall be issued by the chairman of the Board and County Auditor from time to time as the construction work proceeds. Any unpaid balance may be paid or advanced by the village or city. On petition of the council the appropriations of the County Board during not to exceed two successive years may be made to apply on the construction of the same items and to repay any money advanced by the village or city in the construction thereof. Provided, that this subdivision shall not limit the authority of the County Board to appropriate and expend money on such bridges under the provisions of Subdivision 1 of this Section.

Subdivision (4). COUNTY ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND. The County Board shall provide and set apart a fund for the construction and maintenance of roads and bridges in such county, to be known as the "County Road and Bridge fund," upon which shall be drawn all warrants for the construction and maintenance of State and County Roads and Bridges in such county, as determined by such boards or as required by the provisions of this act.

Subdivision (5). COUNTY MAY ISSUE BONDS—WHEN.—When authorized by the voters as hereinafter provided, the County Board of any county is authorized to issue bonds for the purpose of macadamizing any established county road or roads therein, or surfacing the same with any hard material, or in any other way making a permanent improvement thereon, when the expense of so doing exceeds the amount of any appropriation the County Board is authorized to make therefor.

Whenever fifty or more voters of the county who are also freeholders, petition for such improvement, and file such petition with the County Auditor, he shall lay the same before the County Board at its regular, special or adjourned meeting.

It shall be the duty of the County Commissioners to consider such petition and if they find it contains the requisite number of signatures, they shall request an estimate of the cost of such improvement to be made by the Engineer of the Highway Commission.

If such estimate is furnished more than six months prior to the time of holding the next general election, the County Board may, if it deems it desirable, order the holding of a special election in the county for the purpose of voting on the question of making such improvement and issuing bonds therefor. No special election shall be ordered when a general election will be held within six months after the estimate of the State Engineer is filed with the County Auditor. If a special election is ordered the County Auditor shall cause ballots to be prepared, setting forth a statement of the proposed improvement and a description of the road or roads to be improved, with the words "yes" and "no" thereafter, with appropriate spaces for voting.

Persons voting in favor of the proposition shall put a cross (X) after the word "yes" and those opposed after the word "no." If not submitted at a special election, the Auditor shall cause the same to be submitted at the next general election. In either event the votes on such question shall be returned and canvassed as is provided by law with reference to other questions submitted to the voters. If a special election shall be ordered the same shall be held substantially in the manner provided by law for the holding of general elections and the Auditor shall cause published notice thereof to be given in the official paper of the county for three successive weeks prior thereto, giving a description of the road or roads to be improved and a statement of the improvement proposed and the estimated cost thereof. If a majority of the voters voting at the election vote in favor of the improvement, then the County Board shall issue the bonds of the county as hereinafter provided and cause the improvement to be made.

The bonds so issued shall bear interest, evidenced by coupons, at a rate not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable annually; such bonds may be made payable in equal installments, the first of which shall become due and payable not less than five years after the date thereof and the last of which installments shall become due and payable not more than twenty years after the date thereof. Said bonds shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest and the proceeds thereof shall be used by the County only for making the improvements specified in the proposition as submitted to the voters; such bonds shall not be valid until registered by the County Auditor, and his certificate of registration endorsed thereon. The County Auditor shall thereafter levy a sufficient tax to pay the interest and principal of said bonds as the same shall accrue, which tax shall be collected as other taxes are collected; provided, however, that no such bonds shall be issued by any County when the issuance of the same would make the entire indebtedness of the County exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the County; provided, that in computing the indebtedness of any county, any indebtedness created by the issue of bonds of such county for the construction of drainage ditches the cost of which is assessed against the benefited property, shall not be included.

Sec. 31. ROAD TAX.—The County Board at its July meeting may include in its annual tax levy, an amount not exceeding three mills on the dollar of the taxable valuation for the County Road and Bridge fund. Such taxes may be additional to the amount permitted by law to be levied for other county purposes.

Sec. 32. ESTABLISHMENT, ALTERATION, OR VACATION BY COUNTY BOARDS.—County Roads, other than those established by judicial authority, shall be established, altered or vacated only by the County Board. Damages resulting from establishing, altering or vacating such roads shall be determined in the manner hereinafter provided, and shall be paid by the counties through which they pass. All proceedings in establishing, altering or vacating roads shall be recorded in a public record book, designated as the "Book of County Roads."

The County Commissioners of any county having two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants or over, are hereby authorized and empowered to constitute and declare any public highway or road in such county outside of the corporate limits of any incorporated city or village therein, a county road; and they are hereby given general supervision over such roads with full power to appropriate such sums of money from the county treasury of such county as they may deem advisable for improving the same provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be so construed as to relieve the Supervisors or Town Overseer of Highways of any town in such county from any of the duties imposed upon them by existing laws relating to roads, cartways and bridges, nor to repeal any existing special law relating to roads, cartways and bridges applicable to such county.

In any county of this state having two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants or over, or which may hereafter have two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants or over, the County Commissioners thereof are hereby authorized and empowered to extend any street or avenue beyond the city or village limits of any city or village in such county to connect with any road or highway in any adjoining county, which extension however, shall not exceed one mile in length; and said County Commissioners are given full power to change, alter, improve, or repair such extension of road within such county, and to appropriate such sum or sums of money from the county treasury of such county as they may deem advisable therefor; provided, that in no case shall the location of such road wherewith such extension shall be connected, be changed at the point where the same now crosses the county line between such county and such adjacent county or counties.

Sec. 33. ROADS IN MORE THAN ONE TOWN—PETITION.—Whenever twenty-four freeholders of any county petition the County Board for the establishment, alteration, or vacation of any road or of any roads which connect with each other running into more than one town, or partly in one or more towns and partly on the line between one or more towns, or on the line between two or more towns, in such county, or along the shore of any lake wholly or partly in such county, or into a town or towns and the unplatted part of any village or villages therein, such road or roads not being within a city, setting forth the beginning, course and termination or the beginnings, courses and terminations of the road or roads, and the names of the owners of the land, if known, through which the same may pass, and file the same with the Auditor, he shall forthwith lay the same before the Board, if in session, and if not, at their first session thereafter. If the petition relate to a road or roads, partly in a town or towns, and partly in the unplatted portion of a village or villages, before it shall be acted upon by the County Board it shall have attached thereto a certified copy of a resolution of the village council or of each village council, as the case may be, approving the same.

Sec. 34. HEARING ON PETITION—APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE.—If such petition appears reasonable on its face the Board shall order a hearing thereon, designating in such order the time and place for such hearing and shall also appoint from its members a committee to examine the route or routes of such road or roads and fix the time and place upon such route or upon any one of such routes, at which said committee shall meet for the purpose. At least twenty days before the time fixed for such committee meeting, and not less than thirty (30) days before the time of said hearing, the Board shall cause posted notice of the time and place of such meeting and hearing to be given in each town affected, setting forth a copy of the petition. Proof of such notice shall be made by affidavit of the person posting the same. Such affidavit shall be filed with the County Auditor and be by him kept with the other papers relating to such proceedings.

Sec. 35. COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE AND REPORT ON PETITION.—At the time and place designated, said Committee shall meet and examine the road or roads proposed to be established, altered or vacated, and in such examination they may employ a surveyor. After such examination, they shall report to the Board at its next session, setting forth, if a new road or roads or any alteration or alterations of any existing road or roads be proposed, the courses and distances thereof, and recommending the granting or rejection of the petition.

Sec. 36. HEARING—AWARD OF DAMAGES — ESTABLISHMENT OF ROAD.—At the time and place designated, said Board shall hear all parties interested as to the necessity for, and as to the amount of damages to land owners by reason of such establishment, alteration or vacation; and may adjourn such hearing from time to time, if necessary. It shall determine the damages which will be sustained by each owner through whose land such road or roads may pass, and with whom it cannot agree as hereinafter provided, or who is unknown, specifying the amount of damages, if any, awarded to each land owner and describing each parcel of land separately. If the Board determines that the establishment of the road is desirable and of sufficient advantage to warrant the payment of damages assessed, it shall declare the road or roads established, altered or vacated in accordance with the petition. Otherwise, it shall declare the petition dismissed.

The damages sustained by reason of establishing, altering or vacating any road may be ascertained by the agreement of the owners and the County Board; and, unless such agreement is made, or the owners release in writing, all claim to damages, the same shall be assessed and awarded before such road is opened, worked, used, altered or vacated. Every such agreement and release shall be filed with the County Auditor and shall be final as to the matters therein contained.

In ascertaining the damages which will be sustained by any owner, the Board shall determine the money value of the benefits which the establishment, alteration or vacation, as the case may be, will confer, and deduct such value, if any, from the damages, if any, and award the difference, if any, as damages.

If the petition be granted, the Board shall provide for the laying out and construction of such road, in the case of the establishment of a new road or the alteration of an existing road or roads, and the carrying into effect the vacation on an existing road or roads, when such action is petitioned for.

All damages resulting from the establishment, alteration or vacation of any county road shall be paid by the county.

Sec. 37. APPEAL.—Any tax payer of the county, or any person aggrieved by any determination of a County Board, either establishing, altering or vacating or refusing to establish, alter or vacate any road, or by any award of damages made by such County Board may appeal therefrom to the District Court of such County within the time and in the manner and with effect as is hereinafter provided.

TOWN ROADS.

Sec. 38. GENERAL SUPERVISION IN TOWN BOARD.—The Town Board of each town shall have general care and supervision of all town roads therein, and such care and supervision of county roads therein as is prescribed by the provisions of this act, and shall procure machinery, implements, tools, stone, gravel, and other material required for the construction and repair thereof; provided, however, that all work done on county roads under the supervision of Town Boards shall be done in accordance with rules and regulations to be made by the Highway Commission; provided, that in counties having a population of one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) or over and which now have or hereafter may have a county superintendent of highways or other officer to superintend the construction or improvement of roads within its confines the Town Board shall not have jurisdiction over County Roads. Provided, however, that the county board of each county shall have the care, supervision and maintenance of all bridges in the county outside of the corporate limits of cities and villages which have originally cost $1,000 or more.

Sec. 39. REPORT TO TOWN MEETING—The Town Board shall render to the annual town meeting a report in writing, containing:

1. The amount of road taxes levied and the amount collected during the preceding year, and also all money paid into the Road and Bridge fund from all other sources.

2. A statement of the improvements needed on roads, cartways and bridges for the ensuing year, with an estimate of their probable expense.

3. A statement of all expenses and damages occasioned by establishing, altering, or vacating roads and of all sums expended for machinery, implements, tools, stone, gravel, and other materials, during the year, with an estimate of the amount required for the ensuing year.

Sec. 40. TAXATION FOR ROAD PURPOSES.—All real and personal property in each town liable to taxation, other than "monies and credits" taxed under Chapter 285 Laws 1911, shall be taxed for road purposes. All road taxes hereafter levied shall be paid in cash and hereafter no highway labor shall be assessed.

The electors of each town shall have power at their annual town meeting to determine the amount of money which shall be raised by taxation for road and bridge purposes, not exceeding, however, fifteen (15) mills per dollar on the taxable property of the town. The tax so voted shall be extended, collected and payment thereof enforced in the same manner and at the same time as is provided by law for the extension, collection and enforcement of other town taxes.

After the annual town meeting, in case of emergency, the Town Board may levy a tax on the property in its town for road and bridge purposes in addition to the tax, if any, voted at the annual town meeting for road and bridge purposes, in an amount not to exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed value of the property in the town, and any tax so levied by the Town Board shall forthwith be certified to the County Auditor for extension and collection.

The Town Board may thereafter pledge the credit of the town by issuing town orders not exceeding, however, the amount of the additional tax so levied by the Town Board for road and bridge purposes, in payment for work done or material used on the roads within the town.

Sec. 41. DRAGGING OF ROADS AND TAX THEREFOR.—The County Auditor of each county shall annually extend upon the tax lists of his county, in the same manner as is provided by law for extending the county school tax, a tax of one mill on the dollar of the taxable property in each town, outside the corporate limits of any borough, village or city in any such town, provided that in towns having an assessed valuation of One Million ($1,000,000) Dollars or more the amount of such tax shall not exceed One Thousand ($1,000) Dollars. The tax so levied shall be collected and the payment thereof enforced in the same manner as is provided by law for the collection and enforcement of other town taxes extended by the County Auditor. The County Treasurer shall settle with and pay over to the Town Treasurer such taxes when collected at the time and in the manner now provided by law with reference to other town taxes.

The proceeds of such tax levy shall be kept in a separate fund to be known as the "Dragging fund," and shall be expended by the Town Board only for the expense of procuring a suitable number of drags and dragging the roads of the town.

The Town Board in each town, on recommendation of the Town Road Overseer, shall enter into contracts for the dragging of the roads of the town, giving preference to the main traveled road and roads constituting mail routes within their respective towns; provided, however, that the compensation which may be agreed to be paid for each time a road is dragged shall not exceed one dollar per mile for each mile of road dragged.

The contract price shall be paid from the "Dragging Fund," in the same manner as other claims against the Town, after approval by the Road Overseer.

Sec. 42. TOWN ROAD OVERSEER.—Each town shall constitute a road district. The office of District Road overseer is hereby abolished and in place thereof, the Town Board shall appoint a competent road builder as Road Overseer for the entire town, who shall have charge, under the supervision of the Town Board of the construction of all town roads, and the maintenance of all town and county roads in the town. He may appoint one or more competent assistants, subject to the approval of the Town Board. No member of a Town Board shall be eligible for appointment as Town Road Overseer or Assistant Overseer. The compensation of the Road Overseer and assistants shall be fixed by the Town Board at a sum not to exceed three dollars ($3.00) per day for the time actually employed in the performance of their duties. Before entering upon his duties, each shall give a bond to the Town with sureties to be approved by the Town Board, in the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties and to return to the Town all the property of the Town which may come into his custody. The Town Overseer and his assistants, if any, shall hold office at the pleasure of the Town Board. Provided that such road overseer shall have no jurisdiction over county roads in any county which now has or hereafter may have a population of One Hundred Fifty Thousand (150,000) inhabitants or over, and a County Superintendent of Highways or other officer to superintend the construction and improvement of roads within its confines.

Sec. 43. PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT, ALTERATION OR VACATION.—Any Town Board may alter or vacate a Town Road or establish a new road in its town upon a petition of not less than eight voters of the town, who own real estate, or occupy real estate under the homestead or pre-emption laws or under contract with the state, within three miles of the road proposed to be established, altered or vacated. Provided, however, that in any town not having eight (8) voters, who own real estate or occupy real estate under the homestead or pre-emption laws or under contract with the state, within three (3) miles of any proposed road, the Town Board of such town may alter or vacate a town road, or establish a new road in the town upon a petition signed by a less number of voters, of such town, who own real estate or occupy real estate under the homestead or pre-emption laws or under contract with the state in such town. Such petition shall contain a description of the road, and what part thereof is to be altered or vacated, and, if a new road, the names of the owners of the land, if known, over which such road is to pass, its point of beginning, general course and termination.

Sec. 44. NOTICE OF HEARING ON PETITION.—The petition shall be filed with the Town Clerk, who shall forthwith present it to the Town Board. Said Board, within thirty days thereafter, shall make an order describing as nearly as practicable the road proposed to be established, altered or vacated, and the several tracts of land through which it passes and fixing a time and place when and where it will meet and act upon said petition. The petitioners shall cause personal service of such order to be made upon each occupant of such land at least ten days before such meeting, and also cause ten days' posted notice thereof to be given.

Sec. 45. HEARING AND DETERMINATION.—At the time and place designated, the Board shall meet, and on proof, by affidavit, of the giving of such notice, it shall examine the road proposed to be established, altered or vacated, hear all parties interested, and determine whether it will grant or refuse the petition. If it be refused, the fact shall be noted on the back thereof.

Sec. 46. SURVEY AND ORDER.—If the petition be granted, the board, if it deem it necessary, shall cause a survey to be made. When the center of such road does not follow a section line, or some subdivisional line of a section, the surveyor shall note the distance to the point on any course at which such course will intersect a section line, and the distance of such point of intersection from the most convenient section, quarter section, or meander corner, as established by government survey; and the notes of such intersections, and a description of the road so established, altered or vacated, shall be incorporated in an order to be signed by the Board.

Sec. 47. DAMAGES AND BENEFITS.—The damages sustained by reason of establishing, altering or vacating any road may be ascertained by the agreement of the owners and the Town Board; and, unless such agreement is made, or the owners release, in writing, all claims to damages, the same shall be assessed and awarded before such road is opened, worked or used. Every agreement and release shall be filed with the Town Clerk, and shall be final as to the matters therein contained. The Board shall assess the damages of each claimant with whom it cannot agree, or who is unknown, specifying the amount awarded to each and briefly describing each parcel of land. In ascertaining the damages which will be sustained by any owner the Town Board shall determine the money value of the benefits which the establishment, alteration or vacation, as the case may be, will confer, and deduct the benefits, if any, from the damages, if any, and award the difference, if any, as damages.

Sec. 48. AWARD-FILING PAPERS—Within five days after the date of the order establishing, altering or vacating a road, the Board shall make its award of damages, and file such order and award, together with all petitions, affidavits and orders relating thereto, with the town clerk; but said clerk shall not record such final order within the period of thirty days, nor, in case of an appeal, until a final decision is had thereon, and not then unless such order is confirmed. In case said board does not file such order within twenty days, it shall be doomed to have rejected the application. After the order is confirmed, the same and the award shall be by said town clerk recorded and sent to the County Auditor, who shall file and preserve the same. He shall give his receipt therefor to the clerk, who shall file the same and make an entry thereof in the record relating to such road.

Sec. 49. ORDER OR COPY AS EVIDENCE—The order establishing, altering or vacating any road, or a certified copy of the record thereof, shall be received in all courts as competent evidence of the facts therein contained, and shall be prima facie evidence of the regularity of the proceedings prior to the making thereof, except upon the hearing of an appeal.

Sec. 50. DETERMINATION FINAL FOR YEAR—The determination of a Town Board refusing to establish, alter or vacate any road shall be final, unless appealed from, for one year from the filing of its order; and no petition for establishing, altering or vacating such road shall be again acted upon within the time aforesaid. In case its determination granting a petition is appealed from and reversed, it shall not within one year from the date of such determination entertain a petition having the same or a similar object.

Sec. 51. APPEALS—Orders of a Town Board establishing, altering, vacating or refusing to establish, alter or vacate any road or cartway, or awarding damages, may be appealed from by the persons and in the manner and with the effect hereinafter provided.

Sec. 52. ROADS ON TOWN LINE—Whenever any Town Board receives a petition similar to that required for establishing a Town Road, praying for the location, alteration, or vacation of a road on the line between that and an adjoining town, it shall immediately notify the Town Board of such adjoining town, and the Town Board of each of said towns, or a majority of each, acting together as one board, shall determine said petition. They shall be governed, as to notice, survey, hearing, award of damages, filing and recording papers, and in all other matters pertaining to their duties, by the regulations in this act provided for the government of town boards in establishing, altering o vacating town roads. A copy of the proceedings shall be filed in the Town Clerk's office in each town.

Before making an order establishing a road under the provisions of this Section, the two town boards shall divide the length of the proposed road into two parts, which parts may be of unequal length. Such division shall be so made as to divide as nearly equal as possible the cost and expense of constructing and maintaining the entire road to be established, and assigning to each of said parts one-half of such cost and expense.

After such division shall have been made the Town Boards shall thereupon by agreement determine which of such parts shall thereafter be opened, constructed and maintained by each. If the Town Boards cannot so agree the matter shall be determined by lot.

It shall be the duty of the Town Boards of the respective towns, parties to the laying out of a road under the provisions of this section, to proceed forwith, to open and construct its share of such road and thereafter maintain the same.

Sec. 53. BETWEEN TOWN AND CITY, ETC.—Whenever such a petition is presented to the council of a city or village, and the Town Board of a town, praying for the location, alteration or vacation of a road on the line between such town and the city or village, such board and council, or a majority of each, acting together as one board, shall determine said petition in the same manner in all respects as provided in the preceeding section and the provisions of the preceeding section shall apply to the Town Board and City or Village council.

Sec. 54. SECTION LINE ROADS—In Towns which have not been organized, or in which no public roads have been established, the section lines shall be considered public roads, to be opened to the width of two rods on each side of such lines, upon the order of the County or Town Board, as the case may be, without any survey being had, unless it be necessary on account of variations caused by natural obstacles, subject, however, to the provisions of this act, in relation to the assessment of damages and the right to appeal.

Sec. 55. CARTWAYS.—Any Town Board may establish a cartway two rods wide on petition of not less than five voters, freeholders of such town. All their proceedings shall be the same as provided in this act for establishing town roads. The cost and expenses thereof, and the damages awarded for lands taken therefor, shall be paid by the town, as in the case of Town Roads, and a record of such cartway shall be filed with the Town Clerk; provided, that, when a road or cartway is established which will not be a continuous road from one highway to another, one half of the damage to the land through which it passes shall be paid by the persons benefited thereby.

Town Boards shall, on petition of the owner of a tract of land, of not less than five acres in area, who has no access thereto except over the lands of others, establish a cartway not more than two rods wide connecting his land with a public road. The amount of damages, if any, to be paid by the petitioner to the town before such cartway is opened.

In any county having a population of two hundred thousand inhabitants or more, any town board may expend, Road or Bridge funds upon a legally established cartway, the same as on a town road.

Sec. 56. DEDICATION OF LAND FOR ROAD.—One or more owners may dedicate land for a road or cartway by making application therefor, in writing, to the Town Board, describing the land and the purpose of its dedication, and filing such application with the clerk. The clerk shall present the same to the Town Board which, within ten days after such filing, may make an order declaring the land described to be a public road or cartway. When so declared, such land shall be deemed duly dedicated for the purpose expressed in the application, and no damages shall be assessed therefor.

Sec. 57. FIELD NOTES, PLAT, ETC.—Upon the written request of any Town Board, the Auditor of the county in which such town is situated shall furnish a copy of the description, field notes, and plat, if any, of each territorial, state, and county road running into or through such town, on file or of record in his office. On receipt of such copy the Board shall file it with the Clerk, who shall record the same in the road record book of the town. Such record shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of such road as described therein.

Sec. 58. EXTRAORDINARY IMPROVEMENT OF ROADS.—Whenever it shall seem advisable and for the general public good, to improve any established highway in any town by macadamizing the same, or by using any hard material, or in any other way making a permanent improvement thereon, at an expense greater than any amount the town or county is authorized to make appropriation for, the question of making such improvement may be submitted to a vote under the following conditions: Whenever fifteen or more voters of such town, who own real estate therein, or occupy the same under the homestead or pre-emption laws of the United States or under contract from the State, shall file with the Town Clerk a petition asking for such improvement, and for a submission of the same to vote of the people, said clerk shall immediately call a meeting of the Town Board, who shall make and file an estimate in writing of the probable expense of the improvement. Said clerk shall submit the proposition to the voters of the town at their next annual meeting, or if so requested, in said petition, he shall call a special town meeting to vote upon it, giving notice thereof as provided by Law. At such special town meeting the polls shall be open from nine o'clock a. m. until five o'clock p. m. The ballot shall contain a statement of the question and the estimated cost, and the vote shall be "yes" or "no." If sixty per cent of the vote cast favors the proposition, the Town Board shall at once contract for the improvement.

BONDS FOR SUCH IMPROVEMENT.—To Provide funds for such improvement, the Town Board shall issue the bonds of the town to an amount not exceeding the estimated cost of the proposed improvement, and in no case exceeding, together with the outstanding indebtedness of the town, five per cent of the assessed valuation thereof. The bonds so issued shall bear interest, evidenced by coupons, at a rate not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable annually, and shall become due in ten equal installments, the first of which shall become due and payable not more than eighteen months after date, and annually thereafter. Said bonds may be sold by the Town Board at not less than par, and the proceeds shall be disbursed, by the Town Board, in the same manner that other funds are disbursed, for labor and material for said improvement. Said bonds shall not be valid until registered with the County Auditor, who on receiving satisfactory evidence that the provisions of law relating to their issue have been complied with, shall register the same in his office and indorse his certificate of registration on said bond; and shall thereafter, in due manner and season, levy a sufficient tax to pay interest and principal of said bonds as the same shall accrue, to be collected as other taxes are collected.

Sec. 59. DRAINAGE OF TOWN ROADS.—Subdivision (1). Whenever the Town Overseer of roads shall file with the Town Board his affidavit stating that a road passing through or into said town runs into or through a swamp, bog, or other low land, and that it is necessary or expedient that a ditch should be opened through private lands, the probable length, width and depth of such ditch, the termini and general course of the same, a description of the land over which said ditch will pass, the names of the owners thereof, if known, and that such road through such low ground cannot, without extraordinary expense, be made passable unless such ditch or ditches are opened, the chairman of said board shall prepare a notice, therein fixing a time, not less than six nor more than sixty days from the date thereof, when said board will meet at a place to be described in the notice, and personally examine the premises. Such chairman shall cause said notice, together with the affidavit, to be filed in the office of the Town Clerk, who shall make true copies of such notice and deliver them to said Town Overseer. Said Overseer shall personally serve the same upon each of such landowners, if residents, of the county, and upon the occupants of such lands where the owners are not residents of such county. Such ditch or ditches shall be laid out upon such lines as the owners of the land desire, when it is practicable and can be done without extra cost.

Subdivision (2). NOTICE, WHEN POSTED.—The Overseer serving such notice shall make a return thereof to the Town Clerk, stating the facts and if it appears from such return that the owners of said lands, or any of them, are not residents of the county, and no occupant resides on the lands, then the clerk shall cause three weeks' published notice to be given, which shall be deemed sufficient notice.

Subdivision (3). HEARING AND ASSESSMENT.—At the time specified in the notice, the Town Board shall examine the road, and premises over which such ditch must pass, and hear any reasons for or against laying out the same, and determine upon the advisability of opening such ditch. If it determines that it is expedient and advisable to open such ditch, it shall assess the amount of damages which, in its judgment, will be just and equitable compensation to the owners for the right to open such ditch through their lands, including the right to enter upon such land whenever necessary for the purpose of cleaning out or repairing it. It shall also estimate the advantages, as well as the disadvantages, which will accrue to the owner of any land through which such ditch may run, by reason of such opening. But the damages may be determined by agreement between the owners and the Town Board, and every such agreement or release of claim shall be in writing, and filed with the Town Clerk.

Subdivision (4). ORDER ESTABLISHING DITCH—APPEAL.—If on such hearing the Board shall determine that the opening of such ditch is necessary and for the interest of the general public, it shall make an order establishing and opening the same, therein providing for the effectual drainage of such swamp, bog or other low land, so far as is necessary for the proper construction and maintenance of the road which runs through or into the swamp, bog or other low land, and file said order, together with a statement of all its doings in reference thereto, including the damages allowed, with the Town Clerk, who shall copy the same into a book to be kept by him especially for that purpose. If not appealed from within ten days from such filing, said determination and order shall be final and the Overseer shall proceed to construct such ditch under the direction of said Board. An appeal may be taken from any such determination and order, by any party aggrieved, in like manner as in the case of appeals from orders of the Town Board establishing or refusing to establish a Town Road.

Subdivision (5). DITCHES KEPT OPEN.—After such ditch has been opened, the Overseer shall keep the same in good condition and free from obstructions, and for that purpose he may enter upon the lands through which it passes whenever it becomes necessary.

Subdivision (6). OBSTRUCTING DITCHES.—Any person who shall dam up, obstruct, or in any way injure any such ditch shall be liable in a civil action for double the damages assessed for such injury by the court or jury trying the case, and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Subdivision (7). PAYMENT OF DAMAGES.—When the amount of damages to be paid to the owners of land taken for such ditch shall have been finally determined in accordance with, the provisions therefor contained in this act, the Town Board shall provide for and make payment in the manner provided by law for the payment of damages for lands taken for a public road.

Sec. 60. SPECIAL DUTIES OF OVERSEER.—Whenever any public road in a town becomes obstructed or unsafe from any cause, the Overseer shall immediately repair such road, and render his account therefor to the Town Board.

APPEALS FROM COUNTY AND TOWN BOARDS.

Sec. 61. WHO MAY APPEAL—BOND—NOTICE OF APPEAL.—Any person aggrieved by any determination of a County or Town Board, or of a town Board and Village Council, either establishing, altering or discontinuing, or refusing to establish, alter, or discontinue, any public road, or by any award of damages made by such Town or County Board, may appeal therefrom, within thirty days after the filing of such determination or award to the district court of the county, by filing with the clerk of such court a bond in the sum of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, approved by the judge or by the court commissioner or auditor of such county, conditioned to pay all costs arising from such appeal in case the determination or award is sustained, and by service of a notice of appeal as provided in the next section.

In case the Town or County Board determines to establish, alter or discontinue a road, or refuses so to do, any tax payer of the county, as to a county road, and any taxpayer of the town, as to a town road, through which such road or any part thereof, passes, shall have the same right of appeal.

Sec. 62. NOTICE OF APPEAL—WHAT TO CONTAIN.—The notice of appeal shall state briefly the grounds of appeal—whether it relates to the damages assessed, or to the establishing, altering, or discontinuing a road, or to the refusal so to do, and whether it is taken to reverse entirely the decision of the Board, or some portion thereof, and, if the latter, what portion. It shall be signed by the party appealing, or his attorney, and be served upon the chairman of the Town or County Board, as the case may be. A copy thereof, when the appeal is from the action of a County Board, shall be filed with the Auditor of the County, and, when from that of the Town Board, with the Clerk of each town in which such road may be located.

Sec. 63. PROCEEDINGS ON APPEAL.—Such appeal shall be entered upon the calendar for trial at the next general term of the court occurring more than twenty days after the appeal is perfected. Except where the parties otherwise agree, the court or jury shall reassess the damage, unless such reassessment is rendered unnecesary by the determination of other matters involved; but its proceedings shall be based upon the same principles which the board was required to follow in its determination. Upon final judgment being rendered, the Clerk shall file a certified transcript thereof, with the County Auditor, if the appeal was taken from the action of the County Board, and with the Clerk of each Town affected by such determination, if the appeal was from the action of a Town Board. If the determination appealed from be affirmed or if the damages be reduced, the appellant shall pay costs and disbursements; but if such damages be increased, or such determination be altered, modified, or reversed otherwise than as to amount of damages, such costs and disbursements shall be paid by the Town or County, as the case may be; the same to be taxed and allowed as in other cases, and judgment entered therefor in like manner.

Sec. 64. PROCEEDINGS AFTER DECISION ON APPEAL.—When on appeal the determination of any town or county board is reversed or altered, the board from whose determination such appeal was taken shall proceed to establish, alter, or vacate such road, in conformity with the decision of such appeal; and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as if they had originally so determined to establish, alter or vacate such road. The amount of damage finally determined and awarded, whether by the Town or County Board, or by the Court or Jury, together with the charges of officers and other persons necessarily employed in establishing, altering or vacating any road, shall be audited by the board making the original assessment. Such board shall, in its report of such audit, specify the amount of damages, and charges due each individual, and such amounts shall be certified to by the board so auditing the same, and, in case of Town Roads, deposited with the Town Clerk, and paid by the Town, and in case of County Roads, with the County Auditor, and paid by the County. Before any Town Road is opened or used, an amount of town orders equal to the damages assessed to each individual shall be duly issued and deposited with the Town Clerk for the use and benefit of said individual, and delivered to him on demand. The issuing and depositing of said orders shall be deemed to be sufficient security for the payment of said damages.

GENERAL PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL ROADS.

Regulations Concerning Use of Roads.

Sec. 65. MEETING AND PASSING VEHICLES.—When persons meet on any road or bridge, traveling with vehicles, each shall seasonably drive to the right of the middle of the traveled part of such road or bridge, so that the vehicles may pass without interference.

The driver of any vehicle passing another vehicle traveling in the same direction shall drive to the left of the middle of the traveled part of the road, and, if such road be of sufficient width to permit such passing, the driver of the leading vehicle shall not obstruct the same.

Sec. 66. INTEMPERATE DRIVERS.—No person owning or having control of a coach or vehicle traveling upon any road for the conveyance of passengers, shall employ any person to drive the same who is addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors.

Every person who violates any provision of this section shall forfeit for each offense such sum as the court shall fix, not exceeding fifty dollars, and shall also be liable to any party injured for all damages sustained by reason of such offense; provided, that complaint for such violation shall be made within three months, and every action for damages shall be begun within one year thereafter.

Sec. 67. LEAVING HORSES UNFASTENED.—No driver of any vehicle used for the conveyance of passengers for hire, shall leave the horses attached thereto, while any passenger remains in or upon the same, without securely fastening such horses or leaving some suitable person in charge thereof; and, if any driver shall violate the provisions of this section, he and his employer shall, in an action for damages instituted by any person injured by reason of the violation of this Section, be deemed guilty of negligence.

Sec. 68. TRACTION ENGINE—WHISTLE, ETC.—Every engineer, owner, or other person in charge of a traction engine propelled along a road, who shall blow or permit the whistle of such engine to be blown within five hundred feet of a team passing on such highway, if the team can be seen from the position of such engine, or who shall not stop the same at least one hundred feet before meeting a horse or team traveling on such road, unless on a side hill where such stoppage might expose the flues of the engine and cause an explosion, and not start the same until such horse or team shall have passed the engine, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 69. TRACTION ENGINE—BRIDGES.—Every owner, engineer, or other person in charge of a traction engine, before taking such engine across a culvert or bridge, shall place extra planking thereon for the protection of the same, and neglect to do so shall render him liable for one-half the expense of repairing any damage caused by his failure to do so; Provided, the amount so paid by him shall not exceed fifty dollars. Such sum may be recovered in a civil action against the owner.

REGULATIONS AFFECTING ABUTTING OWNERS.

Sec. 70. REMOVAL OF FENCES.—Whenever a town or county board has established a road through inclosed, cultivated or improved lands, under any of the provisions of this act, and its decision has not been appealed from, or, if appealed from, its order has been sustained, it shall give each owner or occupant of land through which such road is established twenty days' notice, in writing, to remove his fences, and, if he does not remove them within such time, it shall cause them to be removed, and the road to be opened and worked; but no inclosure shall be so opened between April 1 and October 1.

Sec. 71. SEEDING ROADS—TREES.—Any person living upon or owning land fronting on a public road, a portion of which is not in actual use or needed for public travel, may plow, level, and seed the same to grass, except within one rod of the center. But he shall not by such work interfere with the travel upon the road, or the improvements of the same, or be entitled to compensation therefor, or acquire title to any portion of said road thereby. Such land owner may plant trees on the sides of such road, within six feet of the outside line thereof, with the written approval of the Town Board as to Town Roads and the County Board as to County Roads. Any person, other than one acting under the authority of the Town or County Board, which has supervision of any road, who shall plow or dig up any part of a road, except as above specified, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 72. HEDGE—FENCE IN ROAD.—A person owning property along the line of a road or street sixty feet or more wide, who shall plant a close hedge upon such property, may erect a fence upon such road or street not more than six feet from the line thereof, for the purpose of protecting the hedge, and may maintain such fence for five years after the hedge is planted.

Sec. 73. TOWN BOARD MAY CUT DOWN HEDGES AND TREES WITHIN ROAD LIMITS.—Subdivision (1). The town boards of supervisors are hereby given, the right and power to determine upon the necessity and order the cutting down of hedges and trees within road limits. Provided, that trees, other than willow trees, shall not be so cut down unless the center of such trees is more than six (6) feet from the side of any road as established by statutory proceedings or dedicated specifically to public use; Provided, such trees or hedges, or either of them, interfere with keeping the surface of the road in good order, or cause the snow to drift on to or accumulate upon said road in quantities that materially obstruct travel.

Subdivision 2. OWNER TO BE NOTIFIED.—When the town board of any town in this state shall determine that such cutting down of hedges or trees within the limits of such roads is necessary, or that the same would aid materially in keeping such roads in repair or free from snow, they shall notify the owner or owners of the abutting lands of such decision and order the trees or hedges cut down within ninety days after such notice. If the said owner or owners fail or refuse to comply with such notice and order within the time specified, the said town board shall have the power to cause such trees or hedges to be cut down at the expense of the town. The timber and wood of such trees shall belong to the said owner or owners of the abutting land, provided they pay the expense of cutting down said trees or hedges and remove the same from the roadside within sixty (60) days. If such timber or wood is not removed within said time, the town board shall sell the same or destroy it if it cannot be sold at a profit, and if sold, pay the proceeds thereof into the road and bridge fund of said town.

Subdivision (3). EXPENSES TO BE PAID OUT OF ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND.—The Town Board of Supervisors are hereby granted the further right and power to appropriate and pay out of the Road and Bridge fund of their town, or from any other fund available, the cost of cutting down such trees and hedges and the removal or destruction of the same, if done at public expense.

Section 74. TUNNELS UNDER ROADS.—Every owner of land on both sides of a public road may tunnel under such road to permit stock to pass from one side to the other, but he shall at his own expense construct such tunnel so as not to endanger the public in the use of such road. Before constructing such tunnel, the land owner shall obtain from the Town Board of the town in which it is located, its approval of the place, the kind of tunnel, and the manner of its construction. If the tunnel be constructed without such approval, it shall be valid, unless within one year from its completion said Town Board shall cause the same to be abated. Bridges over tunnels shall be not less than sixteen feet wide, properly protected with railings, and constructed of such materials as to be safe for travel; and if, within one year after the construction of such bridge, the Town Board shall deem it or its appurtenances insecure, it may cause the same to be put in the proper condition at the expense of its owner, and, whenever said Board shall deem the tunnel out of repair, it may cause the necessary repairs to be made at the expense of such owner. In either case the reasonable cost of such repairs shall be certified by the Town Clerk to the County Auditor and by him assessed upon the land in the same manner as the road taxes. Provided, that when any such public road is not on a section or sectional subdivision line, the owner of the lands on both sides of such road shall be permitted to construct an appropriate tunnel to be approved by the town board of such town, which tunnel the owner shall maintain at his own expense for the first year and which shall be thereafter maintained by the town board at the expense of the town.

Section 75. ROADS ON MINERAL LANDS.—Whenever a public road crosses mineral or other lands outside the limits of any city, village or borough, which the owner or lessee desires to mine in such way as to remove the supports of the road or to improve said lands by building any structure or building thereon, he may, at his own expense, change such road to other land, and make a new road thereon, suitable for public travel; provided that no such change of road on lands other than mineral lands shall be made unless the same be first approved by the Town Board and the State Highway Commission, and the new road be first constructed and approved by said Town Board and said Highway Commission, and, if he cannot obtain such land upon reasonable terms, the County or Town Board, or the City or Village Council, as the case may be, upon requisite petitions, shall make such change under the provision of law for establishing roads. Provided, however, that before any such road is changed a sixty day notice of the intention of the owner or lessee thereof to change the same shall be served upon the board of the municipality in which the road is situate, by filing with the clerk thereof a declaration of such intention in the form of said notice, and provided, however, that the said owner or lessee shall be liable to the owner or occupant of any land abutting upon said road or any affected by such change to the extent of the damage sustained by reason of such change, and for the recovery of which an action may be brought after such change is made. In case such board or council desire to establish a road over mineral lands, it may agree with the owner or lessee of the land that, in case he shall consent to its establishment, its location shall be changed upon his request. Provided, however, that before such road will be changed by any such board or council, ninety days' notice thereof shall be posted in three conspicuous places along said road, which said notice shall state the time when said road shall be changed.

Sec. 76. DEDICATION BY USER.—Whenever any road or portion thereof shall have been used and kept in repair and worked for at least six years continuously as a public highway, the same shall be deemed dedicated to the public, to the width of two (2) rods on each side of the center line thereof, and be and remain, until lawfully vacated, a public road, whether the same has ever been established as a public highway or not.

Sec. 77. USE OF RAILROAD RIGHT OF WAY.—The continued use of any road by the public upon and parallel to the right of way of any railroad company shall not constitute such road a legal highway, or a charge upon the town in which the same is situated, and no right shall inure to the public or any individual by such use.

Sec. 78. ALTERATION OF ROAD—OLD ROAD OPEN TWO YEARS.—Whenever a road shall be changed by order of a County or Town Board, the road as it existed before the change shall remain open to public travel for two years from the date of the order; but the Board may vacate such road within said two years when it deems the new road to be fit for public travel at all times of the year.

Sec. 79. ROAD DECLARED ABANDONED.—A public road in any county having a population of two hundred thousand or more, outside the limits of any city or village, which has been acquired or established in any manner other than by grant, deed or condemnation, or of which there is no public record, which has not been used for public travel and on which no road tax has been expended for three years, shall be deemed vacated; and the title thereto shall at once revest in the original owner of the land, his successors or grantees, without any proceedings, except as follows: Any person having an interest in the land, and claiming such vacation, shall post at least six notices in conspicuous places in the town, including one at each end of the portion claimed to be vacated, and give thirty days' written notice to the Town Board, specifying in each such notice his claim, and a description of the road sufficient for identification, before he shall do any act to interfere with public travel; but, where such road has been inclosed for three years, no notice shall be required. If the Town Board, after notice, shall determine that such road has not been so vacated, it shall so notify the claimant in writing, within thirty days thereafter, who shall not inclose or interfere therewith until the question of its vacation has been lawfully determined. Failure to serve such notice shall be deemed a waiver of all right to question such vacation.

Sec. 80. TOWN BOARDS TO CONSTRUCT CULVERTS.—The Town Boards are hereby required to install one substantial culvert for an abutting owner in cases where by reason of grading a public highway, the same is rendered necessary for a suitable approach upon said highway over driveways from abutting lands.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

Sec. 81. CONDEMNATION OF GRAVEL BEDS, ETC.—Whenever any County or Town Board or Common Council of any village or city, shall deem it necessary for the purpose of building or repairing public roads or streets within its jurisdiction, it may procure, by purchase or condemnation, in the manner provided by law (the procedure in such condemnation proceedings shall, as near as practicable, be that provided in chapter 41 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota, for 1905 and such procedure shall apply to condemnation proceedings under this section) any plot of ground, not exceeding five acres, containing gravel or stone, or clay, or sand or one or more of such road materials, suitable for road purposes, together with the right of way to the same of sufficient width to allow teams to pass, and on the most practicable route to the nearest public road.

Sec. 82. In all other respects the same proceedings shall be had as are required by law for establishing county or town roads as the case may be.

Sec. 85. SECURING FREE USE OF TOLL BRIDGE.—Any counties, towns, cities or villages interested may secure the free public use of any toll bridge now or hereafter built across any streams in this State, and may jointly or severally, together or separately enter into any contract with the owner of such bridge, or with each other or with each other and the owner of such bridge, as they shall deem proper, to secure such free public use of such bridge, whether by purchase, lease or otherwise.

Such examination shall be made and such certificate shall be filed by the Assistant Engineer, within thirty days from the date of written notification by the contractor to the State Engineer of the completion of the work. Sec. 88. COUNTY BOARDS AUTHORIZED TO RECONSTRUCT AND REPAIR BRIDGES.—Subdivision (1). Whenever it shall become necessary to reconstruct or repair any bridge upon any county or town road in any town or towns or upon any town line in this State and the said bridge is unsafe for travel or has been condemned by the proper authorities, and the said town fails, neglects or omits to construct, reconstruct or repair the same, or provide for the expense and cost of so constructing, reconstructing or repairing the same, the County Board of any such county in which said town is located, shall have the power and authority and are hereby given power, and authority to reconstruct or repair any such bridge, upon giving notice to the Town Board of such town of their intention to do so and fixing a time and place for hearing the necessity and advisability of making such reconstruction or repair.

Mandamus may be brought by such county against such town for failure of its board to do any of the things prescribed within the time fixed for the doing of the same; provided, that if such tax would exceed one-eighth of one per cent of the assessed valuation of such town, then the county shall bear one-half of such expense so far as the same shall exceed said one-eighth of one per cent. When two or more towns are interested in said bridge, the statement hereinbefore provided for shall be made in as many copies as there are towns interested and one more, and the County Board shall apportion to each interested town the amount which each town should properly pay toward the work done by the county, and such amount shall be levied by the Town Boards of each town after the filing of the cost of the bridge and the amount belonging to each town with the town clerk thereof. Said warrant shall also include a copy of the resolution passed by the city council as provided by Section 2 of this act.

Sec. 5. All warrants issued for the collection of any special assessment, by the city shall be delivered by the city clerk to the city treasurer as soon as practicable after the said assessment has been confirmed and established. The city clerk shall in each instance take a receipt for such warrants and place the same on file.

Sec. 6. Upon the receipt of any warrant for the collection of any special assessments, the city treasurer shall forthwith give notice by one publication in the official newspaper of such city that such warrant is in his hands for collection, briefly describing its nature, the improvement for which the assessment was made and the territory embraced in such assessment. Such notice shall require all persons interested to make payments within thirty days after the publication of such notion. Said notice shall also state that the owner, or any person interested in any lot or parcel of land so assessed and described in such assessment, may, at his election and written request, pay the assessment in ten annual installments.

Sec. 7. Any person desiring to pay such assessment in installments, as a condition precedent to the exercise of such right shall, within thirty days after the publication of the notice provided for in the preceding section and before such assessment becomes delinquent, make and file with the city treasurer in duplicate, written notice of his election to pay such assessment in annual installments; recognize and assent to the regularity of said assessment, and at the same time, pay the first installment then due and payable; upon failure to file such notice and pay such first installment, the whole of such assessment shall be due and payable the same as though no extension of time for payment had been provided for.

Upon the filing of such notice by any person interested, the city treasurer shall divide the said assessment into the proper installments, and make record of the same and transmit one of such duplicate notices to the city clerk, who shall note such fact in his record book of assessments.

The city council may at any time after an assessment becomes delinquent and before the same is certified to the county auditor, upon the written application of the owner, and upon such terms as may be equitable, waive the neglect to so elect within the proper time, and permit any assessment which has become delinquent to be paid in installments as hereinbefore provided.

Sec. 8. Any person making an election to pay such assessment in installments as provided in the preceding section, his heirs or personal representatives, and the grantees of him or them named in any conveyance of any lot or parcel of land against which such assessment has been made, shall be held to have recognized and assented to the validity and regularity of said assessment, and of all proceedings had thereon prior to the granting of said application, and shall thereby forever be estopped from denying the validity of said assessment or the amount thereof.

Sec. 9. The time for the payment of installments and interest and for the enforcement of the same against the property affected by the assessment shall be extended so that the several amounts shall become payable as follows:

The first installment within thirty days after the publication of the city treasurer's notice provided in section six of this act.

The second installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the succeeding year.

The third installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The fourth installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The fifth installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The sixth installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The seventh installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The eighth installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The ninth installment, together with interest on same and on all future installments, on October first of the following year.

The tenth installment, together with interest on same, on October first of the following year.

Each installment together with interest as aforesaid, excepting the first, shall be due and payable at the office of the city treasurer on the first day of October of the year when payable.

Sec. 10. If the assessment charged in any special assessment warrant made for any improvement shall not be paid within thirty days after the publication of said notice by the city treasurer, and the owner or person interested in the lot or parcel of land so assessed has neglected to make and file the notice of election and make the first payment as provided in section seven of this act, the city treasurer shall return to the city clerk a list, duly certified of the assessments which still remain unpaid, giving in such list the description of the several lots and parcels on which the assessments have not been paid, with the names of the respective owners thereof, if known, and the several amounts assessed thereto.

Sec. 11. The city clerk shall, on or before the 15th day of October following, cause a statement of the amount of said delinquent assessments, with six per cent annual interest thereon computed from the time said assessments became delinquent to the first day of January of the year next following the making of said assessments, added thereto, with a description of the several lots and parcels of land on which the same are made, and the names of the respective owners thereof, if known, to be certified to the auditor of the county in which such city is located for collection. It shall be the duty of the county auditor to extend the several amounts of said unpaid delinquent assessments and interest in proper columns on his rolls against the property described in such statement as aforesaid for collection, and each such assessment shall be collected and the payment thereof enforced with and in the like manner as state, county and other taxes are collected and the payment thereof enforced, and shall be subject to all the penalties and charges as property delinquent for taxes delinquent for county and state purposes. Every such assessment when collected shall be paid over by the county treasurer to the treasurer of such city, together with all costs, penalties and interest collected thereon, at the time of making payment of city taxes to the treasurer of such city. At the time of making such payment said county treasurer shall transmit to the treasurer of such city a detailed statement showing the several lots or parcels of land upon which collections have been made by him, and for which payments are so made, and the amount collected on account of each such lot or parcel of land.

Sec. 12. If any installment and interest, or any part of such installment and interest, is not paid when due on the first of October of each year, together with interest to that time on all future installments of the same assessment, the treasurer of such city shall add a penalty of five per cent to the total amount thus delinquent and certify the same to the city clerk as a special tax on the property affected by such assessment. The city clerk shall thereupon certify the same to the auditor of the county in which such city is located as delinquent installments for collection in the same manner and at the same time as is provided in the preceding section respecting the case of delinquent assessments; whereupon it shall be the duty of the county auditor to extend the same in proper columns on his rolls against the property described in said statement as aforesaid for collection, and each such installment and interest shall be collected and the payment thereof enforced with and in the like manner as state, county and other taxes are collected and the payment thereof enforced, and shall be subject to all the penalties and charges as property delinquent for taxes delinquent for county and state purposes. Every such installment and interest shall be paid over by the county treasurer to the treasurer of such city, together with all costs, penalties and interest collected thereon at the time of making the payment of city taxes to the treasurer of such city. At the time of making such payment said county treasurer shall transmit to the treasurer of such city a detailed statement showing the several pieces or parcels of land upon which collections have been made by him, and for which payments are so made, and the amount collected on account of each such piece or parcel of land.

Sec. 13. Any owner or person interested in any land against which an assessment has been levied, may, after such assessment has been divided into installments, pay one or more of the installments at any time before maturity, together with the accrued interest thereon to date of such payment.

Sec. 14. Every installment the time of payment of which has been extended as provided by this act, shall constitute and continue to be a paramount and perpetual lien in favor of the city and against the lots or parcels of land as to which said extension is granted, for the amount so extended for each lot or parcel until the same is fully paid.

Sec. 15. No such assessment, whether divided into installments or not, shall be set aside or held invalid by reason of any informality in the proceedings prior to the entry thereof on the tax rolls of the auditor of the county in which such city is located as hereinbefore required, unless it shall appear that by reason of such informality or irregularity substantial injury has been done to the person or persons claimed to be aggrieved; and unless objection to such assessments was taken at the time and in the manner provided by law.

Sec. 16. The city council of any such city is hereby further authorized to cause to be issued and sold as the proceeds thereof shall be needed for the purpose of paying the cost of any such local improvements for which such assessments against lots or parcels of land have been made, or may be made, certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the collection of such assessments, whether divided into installments or not, payable at such times and in such amounts as in the judgment of the said city council the said assessments will likely provide moneys with which to pay same, which certificates shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable annually, and may have interest coupons attached thereto representing each year's interest and shall be payable at such place as said city council may determine. Such certificates shall be signed by the mayor and city clerk, and shall be in denominations of not more than one thousand dollars each.

Such certificates may be used in making payments on contracts for making the improvements for which such assessments are made or may be sold at such time and manner as said city council shall determine, but shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest, and the proceeds credited to a separate fund and used for paying the cost of such improvements. No part of the moneys arising from the sale of any such certificates shall be used for any other purpose than the payment of the cost of such improvements.

The principal and interest of such certificates so sold shall be a first charge on the moneys received by said city from the collection of the assessments, whether divided into installments or not, made for defraying the cost of such improvements, and no part of such moneys shall be used for any other purpose than the payment of such certificates until the principal and interest of such certificates shall have been fully paid.

It shall be the duty of the treasurer of such city to endorse on each certificate issued as aforesaid, on presentation to him, the post office address of the owner, and in case of assignment of any such certificate, the holder, shall present the same to the treasurer of such city for endorsement of the post office address of such assignee. The treasurer of such city shall keep a proper record of the post office addresses of the holders of all certificates issued as aforesaid.

Every certificate as aforesaid shall contain the following clause: "The city of ——— reserves the right to pay this certificate of indebtedness and accrued interest at any time upon giving the holder or owner thereof thirty days notice."

Whenever there are moneys in the separate fund hereinbefore mentioned that may be properly applied to the payment of any such outstanding certificates it shall be the duty of the treasurer of such city to notify the owner or holder of such certificate that there is money in the city treasury for the payment of the same. Said notice shall be given by mail addressed to the last known address of the owner or holder of said certificate, and if such address is unknown, such notice shall be addressed to such person at the place in Minnesota in which such city is located. Proof of such mailing shall be made by the affidavit of the person mailing the same, and shall state the time and manner of mailing, and how each notice was addressed and such affidavit shall be filed and preserved in the office of the treasurer of such city. Such certificates shall draw no interest after thirty days from the mailing of such notice.

Sec. 17. None of the certificates of indebtedness issued pursuant to the terms of this act shall be deemed or taken to be a part of the indebtedness of such city within the purview of any law limiting the amount of any bonded or other indebtedness of such city and certificates of indebtedness authorized by this act may be issued notwithstanding and without regard to any limitation of the indebtedness of such city, nevertheless the full faith and credit of every such city is irrevocably pledged to the full payment of such certificates and interest.

Sec. 18. This act shall not include or apply to cities now or hereafter governed under a charter adopted under and pursuant to section 36, article 4, of the constitution of this state, and the several acts of the legislature authorizing cities to adopt their own charters.

Sec. 19. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.
